Either Ypsilanti is down in football this year or Tecumseh's going to be tougher than expected.

Several other factors stood out in the scrimmage which attracted several hundred fans. Probably, the most important was the fine condition Coach Tom Fagan's squad displayed, especially at this early date.

Overlooking some shoddy blocking and tackling, the Indians' overall quickness and speed was too much for Ypsi. Tecumseh racked up three scores, and nearly tallied a couple of others before the third and fourth stringers took over.

Although the substitutes, many of whom undoubtedly will be playing Jayvee ball this fall, yielded three tallies to Ypsi, the youngsters scrapped and several showed potential to give the Indians some strength in the next year or two.

The first two strings, offensively and defensively, showed enough against Ypsilanti to place Tecumseh as a strong contender for the Huron League crown again.

Jayvees Open Saturday

Tecumseh High School's Junior Varsity will open its season Saturday, Sept. 14, in Milan, according to Coach Charles Gross.

The prospects for the team are still in question, Coach Gross said, because there was no freshman team last year. There is no way of predicting the team's performance, he said.

There are seven boys returning to JV action who have some experience, he noted: Ron Rentschler, quarterback; Fred Freman, halfback.

Joe Caterina, center, a transfer from Adrian Catholic Central; Gordon Gibson, end; Bill Chandler, guard; Dave Phillips, tackle; and Ron Forsyth, fullback.

Bob Titley, tackle; Randal Maynard, tackle; Doug Hall, fullback; Jeff Robinson, center; Arnie Sanchez, guard; Jeff Noe, tackle.

All games played by the Junior Varsity will begin at 7 p.m., except those against Milan and Airport, which begin at 10 a.m.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The world's largest retailer will, for 1963, increase its newspaper advertising by 2 million dollars.

Newspaper advertising of Sears retail stores will total 60 million dollars during the current year. Like other great retail stores Sears will invest more than 70 percent of its total advertising budget in newspapers.

George H. Struthers who is in charge of Sears merchandising has this to say about the investment of his company in newspaper advertising:

"This is tangible evidence of our continuing faith in newspaper advertising. From the day Sears opened its first retail store the company has made greater and greater use of newspapers."

He said that Sears' store managers regard the newspaper as their major medium because of evaluation of day to day sales results.

Similar comments concerning newspaper advertising are heard frequently from the leading grocery, drug, and variety stores in the country. All of these firms carefully check the results from different advertising media. Their choice of a local retail medium is based on cold hard facts gained from the cash register.

This may appear to mean little to the small independent retailer. However, Sears, Krogers, and other retail giants grew from small independent stores to their present size through the use of strong local advertising.

And in every community, every retailer, regardless of size operates in the local market on an equal basis with the largest of stores because the same medium is available to them with the same sales effectiveness is assured.

Sylvia Swanston, Paul Schafer Repeat Vows

Sylvia Ann Swanston and Paul William Schafer repeated the vows of the double ring service Sept. 7 in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church before the pastor, the Rev. Thomas Drobena.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Swanston, 6288 Clinton-Macon Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schafer, 10700 Tecumseh-Macon Rd.

Baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, green foliage and palms were used to form a setting for the wedding in candlelight. Charles Burr was the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Wesley Gilmore.

The bride selected a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with Sabrina neckline, long sleeves with points over the hands, and a skirt with three tiers of lace ruffles which fell into a short chapel train at the back.

☆

PEARLS highlighted the design on the bodice and sleeves. A crown of pearls and crystals held the elbow-length veil in place.

Mrs. Gerald A. Miller, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of light blue organza over blue taffeta with scalloped neckline, short sleeves and a matching rose on her head securing her nose tip veil of net.

☆

MRS. DANIEL E. Schumacher of Ypsilanti, and Ilene Schafer, sister of the groom, were the bridesmaids. They were attired the same as the matron of honor.

Theresa K. Miller, niece of the bride, was the flower girl dressed identically to the other attendants.

Melvin Schafer served as his brother's best man. Joel, Howard and Ralph Schafer, also brothers, and John W. Swanston, brother of the bride, seated the guests.

The couple were graduated in 1960 from the Tecumseh High School. She was employed for three years at A. & L. Battery and Electric Service, Inc., in Ann Arbor.

Following a trip to northern Michigan, they will make their home at 10314 Ford Rd.

Others besides the bride's attendants assisting at the reception were Myrtle Schafer, Blanche Schafer, Nancy Davis, Mrs. Howard Schafer, Mrs. Ralph Schafer, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Schultz, Gerald Aebersold, Mrs. John Swanston, Mrs. Avery Pool, Karen Brown, Carolyn Schafer, Mr. and Mrs. David Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Wise, Darrel Marsh and Gerald Miller.

GI School Benefits Near End

The last full year of schooling for veterans taking education or training courses under the Korean GI Bill begins this September, Mr. Robert M. Fitzgerald, the Regional Manager for Michigan of the Veterans Administration said today.

When this school year ends, only a half year of schooling will still be obtainable under the program. Courses starting in September 1964, must come to a close on January 31, 1965.

Congress has set this cut-off date for the Korean readjustment program of education and training for veterans without service-connected disabilities.

Football History Dates Back to 500 BC

No game demands more teamwork, strength, courage and alertness or provides a more thrilling spectacle than football — king of autumn sports in the United States.

It's a safe bet that few games have as lively a history.

Football is an ancient sport. A game called "harpaston" was played by the Spartans as early as 500 B. C. In this game a ball was kicked, passed, or carried across the opponents' goal line.

Strikingly similar to a modern football was the "follis", used in Roman games. It was made of leather and inflated with air, but evidently was propelled by foot, not by hand and arm.

A game called "calcio", a modified form of harpaston, enlivened medieval tournaments in Italy. The players, 27 on a team, used line and backfield formations similar to those of football today. Princes, soldiers, and "the noble ladies and the people" cheered for their favorites.

A BRAWL-LIKE kind of football was played in England as early as the 10th century and by the 12th it had become a national problem. The game was making London a hellam.

In addition, it was diverting yeoman from archery, the sport that fitted them to defend England. Hence football was banned by municipal laws and royal edicts beginning in 1365 when Edward III decided to prohibit the game for military reasons.

Football was not fully reinstated until the 17th century when Charles II allowed many diversions formerly prohibited.

A survey published in 1602 recorded that goals were set three or four miles apart and two or three parishes united to play others in games that sprawled over the countryside.

The sport began to take definite form at boys' schools. Some even drew up rules. These allowed the ball to be kicked, but not carried, toward the goal.

One November afternoon in 1823, something strange happened at Rugby, a famous boys' school. The score was tied in a football battle between two class teams. Dusk was settling. Suddenly, a player named William Webb Ellis took the ball in his arms and ran with it" across the goal line. The score was not allowed.

The event made history, however, and began Rugby football from which the American game is directly descended. A tablet at Rugby commemorates Ellis' exploit.

By 1863 the new game of Rugby had become very popular. Those who clung to the old idea that football should be played by kicking the ball met in London and formed the Football Association. Thereafter this game was known as "Association football" or "soccer" a jumbled abbreviation of the word association.

Soccer still holds to the pre-Rugby style of game and uses a round ball. The ball, after being put in play, must not be carried or touched by the hands or arms, except by the goalkeeper.

It is advanced chiefly by kicking and dribbling with the feet. A goal is scored when the ball is kicked underneath the crossbar of the goal posts.

RUGBY, the parents of intercollegiate football, is little played in the U. S. In the British Isles, however, it is so important that disputes over rules are taken before an international board composed of representatives from the Rugby Unions of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland.

Rugby resembles the American game in that the ball is oval and may be advanced by carrying, passing and kicking. It differs notably in having 15 men to a team and in placing a higher premium on field goals.

Football probably was brought to America by the English colonists who established Jamestown in 1607, Compton researchers point out. An inflated pig bladder usually served as the ball for these early games. Women played, too, because throwing and passing were more important than kicking.

Early in the 19th century, football games were played at Harvard and Yale to determine class supremacy between freshmen and sophomores. The "games" were hardly more than mass rushes and "slug fests". In 1860 authorities at Harvard and Yale ended these brawls and Harvard students held a mock funeral for "Football Fighting".

An important step toward making football a recognized sport was the organization of the Oneida Football Club of Boston in 1862. The founder of this "first organized football club in the U. S." was Gerrit Smith Miller.

The first American intercollegiate football game grew out of rivalry between Princeton and Rutgers. On Nov. 6, 1869, the contest took place at New Brunswick, N. J., and Rutgers won 6 goals to 4. The game was played with 25 men on a side.

A few days later Princeton won at its home field, 8 goals to 0, but rivalry between the two colleges became so bitter that school authorities forbade a third and deciding game.

In 1874 Harvard and the McGill University Football Club of Canada introduced the Rugby principle of running with the ball. The two teams played part of one contest under Harvard (soccer) rules and the remainder of the game under the Rugby rules of McGill.

Rugby impressed Harvard players so favorably that they decided to abandon what was called the "somewhat sleepy type of game" then played.

By 1876 the right to run with the ball was generally recognized.

In 1873, the University of Michigan challenged Cornell and arrangements were made to play at Cleveland, 30 men on a side. The proposed game never took place because Andrew Dickson White, then president of Cornell, ruled: "I will not permit 20 men to travel 400 miles to agitate a bag of wind."

In 1880, Walter Camp, the "father" of American football" persuaded the rule makers to reduce the number of players on a team from 15 to 11 and to replace "scrum" with scrimmage, whereby the ball was put into play either by kicking it or snapping it back. The position of quarterback was also created in 1880.

In 1882 Camp introduced a rule calling for surrender of the ball to the opponents if the ball had not been advanced at least 5 yards in three plays. This rule was the origin of the 10 yards-four downs rule.

In 1896, A. A. Stagg helped organize the Western Conference or Big Ten which pioneered in setting up and enforcing eligibility rules and amateur standards.

In 1901, Fielding H. (Hurry-up) Yost, football coach at the University of Michigan produced a famous team built around a freshman, Willie Heston, which scored nearly a point for each minute of play. It amassed 550 points in 11 games and kept its opponents scoreless.

In 1906 the rule makers revolutionized the game by barring all mass plays and introducing the forward pass which led to a more open style of play.

More spectacular than either Stagg or Yost was Glenn S. "Pop" Warner who took over the football team at the Carlisle Indian School in 1899 and subsequently introduced the unbalanced line with single and double wing backs to create what was called the "Warner system" of play.

Professional football started at Latrobe, Pa., in 1895, the National Football League was formed in 1921 and in 1960 the American Football League began play with teams in eight major cities.

TO THE EDITORS:

Being born and raised in Tecumseh, my husband and I subscribe to the Tecumseh Herald to keep abreast of the local news.

We receive the Vallejo, Calif. newspaper each morning and evening — were happy to find the name of a former Tecumseh girl, now living in Calif., under the well-known Louella Parsons' column.

I'm sending this article from the Aug. 29, 1963 Vallejo News Chronicle to you.

I'm sure she will be known to most Tecumseh folks by Joyce Wilbar, stage name, Julie Parrish.

Knowing how interested and excited I was to see her name in the Louella Parsons' column I decided to write you.

THEY'RE HERE — Ever see flying squirrels in Lenawee County. They're here; Mr. and Mrs. Harland C. Parker, 308 W. Pottawatamie, discovered this fact Saturday when their cats killed two young ones. The flying squirrel here is about nine inches the tail flat as a piece of cardboard and the body about the the thickness of an ordinary pencil. The squirrels are known to glide over 200 feet, and according to Mr. Parker, the adults sometime grow over a yard in length.

During dining hours, background organ music will be provided and door prizes are to be given away.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Congressmen are busy people. Along with all the other projects going on, they are making a study of the birds and bees.

Seems that the House Rules Committee is making an investigation of federal spending for research, including the $31,000 grant to study the biology of bumblebees, $47,500 spent to seek evidence of evolutionary developments in birds and $16,000 to help decide to revise the standard of earthworm classifications. One representative was concerned about the lovelife of the Central American toad, which nobody seemed to know about, and another doubted the necessity of $150,000 to study the habits of the South Pole moths . . .

Well, now, we have known about the birds and the bees since we were little, and when it comes to moths . . . domestic or foreign . . . we no longer have to worry. All our blankets are moth proofed, a great many of our fabrics and ready-to wear have been treated.

We also have special machines in our store and storage rooms to eliminate a moth or insect that might happen in.

It seems every day new merchandise is coming in here at Clinton Woolen. Our knit suits were running low . . . but now we have received a completely new group.

It seems each man has his own taste in jackets . . . so we have added more styles. Many of these at a casual glance appear the same but there is really quite a difference.

Our invitation to come and browse is sincere and we at Clinton Woolen are always ready to help you in finding the style and size best for you.

According to chairman Tom Young, Merkel-Young Hardware, Clinton, the meeting was open to retailers, their wives, employees and the general public in Lenawee and Monroe counties. Special guests were the legislators and their wives representing these counties.

Featured speaker was J. Ed Ulandi of Coldwater, nationally known human relations counselor. His subject was "The Key That Opens 11 Doors."

Peter M. Baudino, Calumet, president of the Association, and Harold W. Schumacher, manager-treasurer, participated on the program.

TO THE EDITOR

TO THE EDITORS:

We would like to renew our subscription to the Herald once again. We sure do enjoy getting it each week.

We have really been blessed with friends from Tecumseh. We sure did enjoy their visit with us. We have had three families at different times with us.

Glenn's parents came and spent a few days with us. (Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams, 111 S. Maumee).

The pastor from the Grace Lutheran Church came and spent about an hour with us. They were on their way to Washington, D. C., and my husband saw the Michigan plates. He stopped them and asked them what part of Michigan they were from. When she said Tecumseh, he said, "That's my home town." We enjoyed their short visit. They told us about Tecumseh, and what was going on there.

We also enjoyed having my folks with us for a few days. They are also from Tecumseh. (Mr. and Mrs. David Younglove and Barbara).

Our address is 41 Norman Ave., Aberdeen, Md. If anyone is in this area, please drop in and see us. We would love to have you.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Glenn Williams,
Aberdeen, Maryland.

Rainsberger Completes Naval School

David B. Rainsberger, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron R. Rainsberger of 320 Evans Lake Rd., Tipton, Mich., recently completed basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., in graduation ceremonies consisting of a full-dress parade involving more than 1,000 men.

During the intensive nine-weeks training recruits study naval orientation; history, and organization; military law; ordnance and gunnery; seamanship and shipboard routine; damage control; sentry duty and military drill; swimming, first aid and survival.

Prior to graduation recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the training program they are assigned to service schools for technical instruction or to ships or shore stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Mrs. Dale Tingley has returned after a two-week visit with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Tingley, in Salem, Ore. They have recently moved there from Santa Monica, Calif. Mr. Tingley is the medical representative for the A. H. Robbins Co.

State 4-H Winners

Diane Ries and Anne Moeller of Tipton were winners at the State 4-H Show at Michigan State University last week.

Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ries, 9246 Tonneberger Drive and member of the Top Notchers 4-H Club, was awarded a week's trip to New York City for her foods demonstration.

She will leave Sept. 14 with other state winners for the educational tour.

Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moeller, 7247 Wisner Hwy., received ribbons for her reserve grand champion Brown Swiss senior yearling, "Carla". The animal also took the junior championship.

Marilyn Mumaw brought honor to Lenawee County in the 4-H dress revue in which there is much competition since clothing is one of the largest of the projects.

She was selected as alternate to the national 4-H revue in Chicago in November. This is the highest that a Lenawee 4-H member has placed in this classification according to Ray Gillespie, county extension agent.

Eleven from 33 girls were selected to the honor group. Miss Mumaw is a member of the Hollaway Homemakers.

☆

BOBBIE PLATT of Tipton Jets won first in junior yearling both at the State 4-H Show and at the Michigan State Fair. He will enter the national show at Waterloo.

Blue ribbons were awarded to Tecumseh Top Notchers Rick Skinner for electronics, Shelly Barber for foods and Ruth Ann Warner for knitting. Sonja Sprague received a red ribbon for wild flowers.

Those from the Britton-Macon 4-H Club who received ribbons were Corky Hunt, red ribbon for his beef breeding heifer calf, "Jeannie"; and Bob Wilt, white ribbon, for his market Hereford steer.

FALL NITROGEN APPLICATION doesn't necessarily help decompose crop residue. Shredding corn, stalks immediately after harvest or plowing them under as soon as possible will contribute as much or more to decomposition than fall applied nitrogen. Moderately fertile soils will generally supply sufficient nitrogen for this purpose. More efficient use of nitrogen can generally be obtained by applying it at planting time or often as a side dressing.

TREAT YOUR CATTLE FOR GRUBS NOW. You'll find that treatment within the next few weeks is more important than many ranges and feedlot operators realize. Grubby cattle have been discounted from $10 to $30 per head on the Omaha market. Chemicals now available for use include Co-Ral, Ruelene and Ronnel. Co-Ral and Ruelene can be applied either as a spray or pour-on treatment. Ronnel is mixed with the feed.

REPLACING HOG BREEDING HERDS WITH SPF STOCK is a good way for a hog man with a diseased herd to get a fresh start. But keep this in mind: Repopulated herds can remain healthy only if high breeding, feeding, sanitation and management standards are maintained. Also, only a few of the many known diseases of swine can be corrected by switching to SPF standards.

CONTINUOUS CORN GROWERS have been reporting most damage from western rootworms this season. In areas where rootworms have become a persistent problem, growers may be better off to cut back corn acreage next year and buy some of their feed in view of an improved feed grain program and lower market level.

BEAUTIFYING MAIN STREET — The United Savings Bank, corner of Evans St. and Chicago Blvd., contributed to the appearance of the downtown section by planting 39 trees on the roof. The trees are set in individual boxes up above the ledges so they can be seen from the street.The taller honey locust are divided by three taxus evergreen shrubs.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Must It Go Through?

According to Postmaster Jack G. Metcalf, the variety of items that people send — or try to send — through the mails is amazing.

War Brides

So far, we have talked with two charming women, and feel the time and effort involved were well worth it.

However, we are running into two problems: getting the names of all the war brides, and getting them to consent to an interview.

We understand their reluctance, and have no wish to force unwanted publicity on them.

Just the same, we feel these people have, and are, making important contributions to the community which deserved to be pointed out. Moreover, they invariably have an interesting story to tell, both in their personal experience, and in comparing their new life to their old.

We think the townspeople would like more of these stories.

If there are any war brides willing to share their experiences, we would be happy to meet with them.

From form notices and trinkets of little consequence to social and business transactions of incalculable value, most everything makes grist for the biggest business on earth. But not all that is deposited is welcome.

Certain types of letters and packages are in violation of law. Violations can bring penalties of up to $5,000 in fines and five years of imprisonment, or both.

One of the better known non-mailable items is chain letters. Others are lottery advertising and lottery tickets, sweepstakes tickets, obscene matter, articles relating to birth prevention, liquor, firearms, explosives, matches, caustic acids, treasonable statements, poisons, and poisonous reptiles.

The postmaster says that "In general, any articles, compositions, or materials which may kill or injure another, or injure the mails or other property, are non-mailable.

Primary purpose of the law is to protect the mails against damage, to protect those who handle them against personal harm, and to protect the public against fraud.

Some items ordinarily prohibited may be sent through the mails if they conform to special regulations as to preparation and packaging and if they are not outwardly dangerous, or of their own force dangerous or injurious to life, health, or property."

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

The 60 American students who spent two months on Cuba are back in the United States.

There are a number of interesting aspects to their visit. One of them being the type of press they have received, which has been completely devoid of editorial comment.

In reading several of the newspapers printing the Associated Press article on Pat Sopiak, University of Michigan coed, most deleted Miss Sopiak's most telling justification for her trip.

"President Kennedy made a statement in Berlin about how important is the right to travel freely," she was reported to have said. "The government's position is hypocritical if they want to penalize us for taking this trip."

☆

HAVING KNOWN Miss Sopiak briefly, I'm certain her position is purposely naive. "I wanted to see what the revolution was like," she said. So she went.

This is the same attitude that the "Women's Strike for Peace" used last year when they were investigated by the House Un-American Activities Committee for having Communists in the organization. They made the Committee look a little ridiculous by pointing out that the Communists better work for peace or there won't be any.

It's the kind of attitude women can pull off when they are to be judged by men.

(The Korean War "turncoat" who recently returned from China was dealt with less kindly for giving the same justification. I wanted to see what China was like, he said, so I stayed and saw it for myself.)

☆

THIS POINTS up to the failure of the State Department Policy of limiting travel in countries opposed to our form of government. It leaves the public with only several points of view to choose from:

► The Cuban refugees, who may or may not have deserved their fate — every war leaves displaced persons.

► The newspaper reporters, who have been predicting Castro's imminent downfall since the revolution, generally from talking with refugees or by interviewing armchair economists.

► Left-wingers, who are probably in sympathy with Castro's aims, even if not his methods, and are the only ones likely to break State Department restrictions to see Cuba for themselves.

► Congressmen who are insulted by Castro's anti-American impudence and see anti-Communism as a good vote getter.

So the man on the street has no way of judging what is going on in Cuba. He has to choose between assorted ax-grinders.

(Because he has been listening to the same ax-grinders so long, he'll probably take their word for it.)

And this is probably the way the government wants it. As long as there is no real understanding of Cuban politics and Cuban economics, there won't be any groundswell of public opinion likely to oppose government policy.

With Castro's [illegible] sus, American opinion is kept just hostile enough to give President Kennedy a free hand to do anything he wants, when he wants.

☆

ANWAY, what did the students find?

Mike Brown, another University of Michigan student, relates some of his impressions.

When they arrived, they had the choice of traveling in a tour conducted by the Cubans, or to look around by themselves. They did both, sometimes taking advantage of the planned tour, sometimes not.

"The Cubans were probably sick and tired of us when we finally left," Mr. Brown said, "because we were always disrupting their plans. They had schedules all made out for us; groups waiting to hear us, and we often didn't show up."

"I would estimate about 70 per cent of the people are revolutionary." Mr. Brown said. "If you start talking politics with them they'll argue for hours. They'll try to explain all the reasons for a recent political development.

"They say when they see that you're an American, 'Castro is a communist. Bad.'

"While they criticize Castro, I didn't meet any who were actually so worked up that they intended to do anything about it."

☆

CASTRO himself is a "real man of the people," Mr. Brown explains. "He travels constantly. Takes a sleeping roll with him, and beds down wherever he gets tired."

"It's not unusual to have someone discover him sleeping on the floor in some shack in the countryside.

"He travels light, people take him in wherever he goes. He takes only a few of his friends."

"Whenever we were out in the country and stopped to talk to some peasants, they invited us to their house, and explain how much better things were for them now."

NEVERTHELESS, not all is rosy. Civil liberties are considerably less than they could be, Mr. Brown said. There is no freedom of the press.

"People can criticize the government in letters to the editor," he said, "and actually do as much criticizing as Americans do, but usually about local matters and never about the policies of the government."

Will Castro be around long?

"You should be in Havana to hear him speak," Mr. Brown said. "He asks the people what he should do to the counter-revolutionaries, and a million people chant, 'To the wall. To the wall.' "

THROUGH MY WINDOW

A PRETTY THING

Time: A bright and sunny mid-August afternoon.
Place: The feeding station which stands but three short feet from my west-facing picture window.
Subject: A new bird.
Reaction: Wow!

I felt sure I knew who our visitor was and my, but she was a pretty thing; a very, very pretty thing. Driving through the country and seeing red-winged blackbirds perched atop every other cattail is one thing, but to have a red-wing on a feeder is something quite different.

Of course, the males are handsome anyplace, but to be quite frank, we had always thought of the females as being on the dull, drab side.

Our August visitor proved us wrong; she was far from dull and drab. She wore epaulets which were a dark, rich and mottled reddish-brown; her light colored breast was heavily streaked with dark brown. The stripes on her back were not so noticeable because, of course, the back itself was quite [illegible] and they seem to slant straight back to the top of the head, giving the birds no 'forehead' at all. Aside from the structural quirk, Mrs. R-W B. B. had a rather pretty head, a very distinctive white streak was above each eye, outlining this was a narrower black one.

HER THROAT had a soft, yellowish tinge, but this could have been a reflection from the warm sunlight shining down on the scratchfeed-ladened feeding tray.

I wonder if she liked butter—remember how as youngsters we used to pick the first dandelions of spring, hold them under our playmates' chin and, with a giggle, try to spot the yellow reflections?

Fortunately, just before the red-wings' arrival, the feeder's bill-of-fare had been replenished. I say fortunately, because this gal was hungry; she gobbled so fast we could not help remarking that she was eating like there was no tomorrow.

Maybe for her there wasn't — at least, as far as our feeding station was concerned. She made three trips to it that one afternoon and we have not seen her since.

Mrs. Red-Winged Black Bird showed such interest in and liking for the feeder that we thought perhaps our red-wing luck was changing. Apparently it isn't. We just never seem to have these birds around long; in fact, we hardly have them around at all.

OCCASIONALLY, in the very early spring, when the first wave of returning males invades the countryside, we will see one or two along the creek. They never stay though.

After the bleak thaw period, how these gay handsome birds enliven the scene. Their 'courting clothes' are such a sleek shiny black, and, of course, their fiery-red shoulder patches are perfect highlights.

Actually these patches have a far more important role than just brightening up a winter-weary landscape or affording me kidding material when a friend, excited at witnessing one of the few red-wing visits, rushed in and exclaimed, "Oh, Marda, look — there is a blackbird out there who has hurt his wing — it's all red!" I have had fun with that remark!

But the bright red shoulder epaulets apparently play an important role in the courting and family raising.

Even after the nest is built and she is patiently sitting on eggs, Mrs. Red-Winged Black Bird continues to enjoy her husband's wing-fluttering and showing-off.

He has practically nothing to do with the tedious part of family raising — she works while he vainly shows off.

Now, of course, this year's children are all grown and on their own. With no need to impress, the male redwings have quietly donned their more somber winter suits.

I wish they would come around — I imagine he is still quite attractive and certainly one is a pretty, pretty thing.

Long & Short

By TOM RIORDAN

CAIRO — This is certainly one of the most absorbing places in the world.

Maybe the reception and care we have been given makes us feel this way. The Tourist Administration representative, Mohamed Bazarra, and the folks at the Nile Hilton Hotel have just knocked themselves out to make us happy.

Everywhere we go, natives will smile and say, "Welcome to Egypt." Many give a military salute, which is a Middle East greeting.

The kids are so darn cute and the young ladies really attractive. One story idea I'm working on is "Faces of Egypt", and on every occasion I'm snapping close-up facial shots.

BUT LET ME tell you about this hotel. It is 12 stories high and of gorgeous architecture, striking in every respect, blending the ancient with the modern. It's worth a story by itself.

When we checked in, the desk fellows were brimming with good humor and somebody mentioned Michigan.

"Have you ever been to Michigan?" Cherie asked one of the chaps.

"Oh, no, but I've heard of The Tecumseh Herald," he grinned back. (Our request for reservations had gone on Herald letterhead.)

When they saw Herald ballpoint pens we carried, they became real interested, although regular ones are easily obtained in Cairo. So we gave several away and the recipients seemed so pleased to have a pen with the name of an "American company" on it.

Our room is on the ninth floor, overlooking the Nile River, which courses by, looking like melted chocolate. It has a rapid current, but this doesn't stop sail boats from traveling back and forth across, from the street below us to a supper club across the water. They really can handle the crafts, angling the single sail so perfectly that the boat seems to be going by power motor.

There is so much to see in the Cairo area — museums, Moslem mosques, homes — that we have barely scratched the surface.

One morning we drove to the edge of town for a close-up of the stately sphinx and the two large pyramids. It's a thrill to imagine the history these have been through.

How many sides does a pyramid have?

When we started to think about it, was the answer three or four. To many folks, the answer comes out three, but the correct number is four.

☆

THERE are two fabulous "Sound and Light" shows, held each night, at the pyramids and also in another part of the city on a large hill, where the famed Citadel of Saladin is located.

We attended the Citadel show, which consists of various lighting on the fine old structures there as voices from a half dozen different places tell the history of Egypt.

Spectators are seated in the court yard, which is cool and refreshing after the hot afternoon. The stars and moon are the only ceiling.

In a few minutes after this column is placed in the mail, we leave by plane for Luxor, Valley of the Kings, then afterwards to Aswan and the High Dam.

From there, we will board a Sudanese mail boat and start our 250-mile journey up the Nile to the site of the temples at Abu Simbel, 3,000-year-old masterpieces, for a picture-taking session.

It's warm around there this time of year, temperatures ranging around 110 degrees. Hope the film doesn't melt.

It is planned that we will stay aboard a Department of Antiquities barge at the temple site overnight, then return the next day to Aswan. The trip back is much faster since the boat goes with the swift current.

A report on the junket comes next.

Painting To Cost City $3,265

The Huron Painting and Decorating Co. is expected to start exterior cleaning and painting of the city's 300,000 elevated tank and 238,000 standpipe this month.

The company was awarded a contract Monday night by Council. Total cost will be $3,265.

Boy Scout Organization Meeting Called

The Walter McCullarus residence, 43 Dennis St., Adrian, will be the meeting place of those interested in Boy Scout organization and extension.

The meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 25, at 7:30 p.m.

New units will be organized and assistance available for those needing it.

William J. Kukral, chairman, 9941 Nortley Hwy., Tipton, is inviting anyone interested in working in any capacity in scouting to contact him.

Mr. Kukral is the chairman. His phone number is 431-2503.

Sponsors for the units are needed also.

WELCOME WAGON HOSTESS MRS. DWIGHT HELMS — Tecumseh has a new hostess for newcomers in the person of Claire Helms, 801 Adrian St. She has recently completed a training course in Detroit preparing herself further to meet and greet new residents as they make their homes here. Mrs. Helms is well qualified for the position, having lived here for some years with her husband, Dyke, and her two-year-old son, Michael. She is a member of the Macon-Methodist Church, the Jaycee and Hospital Auxiliaries and has been assisting the Tecumseh Service Club. She also enjoys gardening and square dancing as a member of the Tecumseh Square Dance Club.

Jim Purkey Honored for Service

Jim Purkey, state policeman and former Tecumseh resident and high school graduate, received the top award for northwestern Michigan law officials last week.

The award and recognition, sponsored by WOOD-TV, Grand Rapids, honored Officer Purkey for police duties and community service at Reed City.

He helped organize the Reed City Teen Club and visited the local teen club last year for organizational reasons.

The award presentation, carried on television, was made at a special meeting of the Northwest Law Enforcement Association. He received a wrist watch and plaque.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Purkey, Occidental Hwy., are his parents.

Bus Route Change Is Refused

The Tecumseh School Board turned down a request from a 10-year-old girl's parents Monday night to alter bus routes for picking up the girl.

According to the father, it is not the quarter-mile walk to the bus stop, but the fact that the young girl has to wait on a deserted intersection by herself.

The closest house is a quarter-mile away, and in the other direction there are no homes in sight.

The parents told the board they were worried about her being there, alone, waiting for the bus.

Board members said there were other similar cases and suggested that the mother accompany her daughter to the bus stop.

Council Awards Gas, Oil Bids

Beech Bros. of Tecumseh was awarded contracts for gasoline, fuel oil and kerosene Monday night by Council.

Four other concerns also bid for the job, Jim Barton for Standard Oil, Don Purkey for Mobil, and the Camburn-McCord Oil Co. of Adrian.

Car Flips

Carol Sisty, 17, of rural Macon, received bruises Monday evening when the car she was driving on Hack Rd. hit loose gravel and flipped over.

The car from which she was thrown was estimated at nearly a total loss.

Officials Will Listen, Cooperate

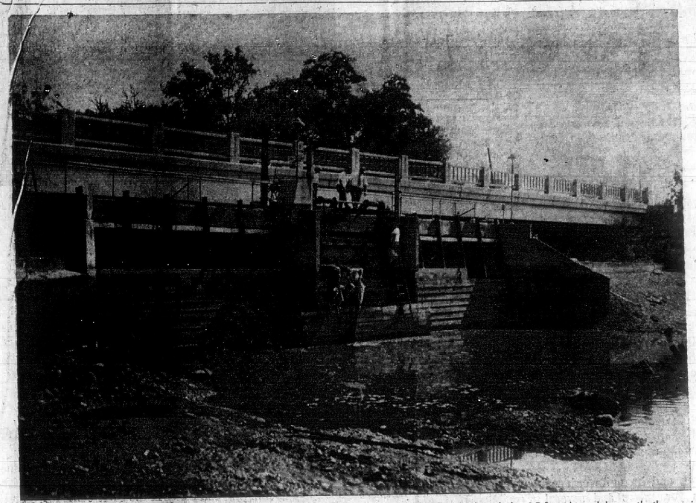
A brief discussion by the Tecumseh School Board Monday night, about combining with the Britton-Macon school district, indicated local officials were willing to listen and cooperate in a merger plan, instigated by the state, if approached.

Earlier this month, officials from both districts met with the county superintendent, a state representatives and one from the University of Michigan.

Tecumseh Acres PTA Will Meet

Tecumseh Acres PTA will hold the first meeting of the autumn Thursday, Sept. 26, with room visitation from 7:30 until 8 p.m.

A program on safety will be presented and membership registration will also be handled at this meeting.



REPAIRING THE MAIN GATE — Men are shown sealing the coffer dam with sand and cinders. First the water was drained, then diverted. After the coffer dam was in place, the men replaced the 15-foot board beneath the main gate to prevent leakage. This is the second year in a row the pond has been drained for repairs on the dam.

Mill Pond Dam Gates Repaired

Repairs were made on the main gate of the dam on Red Mill Pond, Monday and Tuesday, by the Tecumseh Products, who purchased the dam eight years ago.

The pressure on the gates, about 60 pounds per square inch, sprays water behind the dam, he explained. The ice that builds up would threaten to split the concrete dam.

This is the first time the boards have been replaced in many years, he said.

The board, 15 feet long, seven inches wide and four inches thick, supports the main gate.

Last year the pond was drained so that they could put in uprights on the other gates.

☆

THE WATER was diverted to the older gates which used to direct water into the Electric Plant. That plant hasn't been in use in 10 years, Mr. Spencer said.

Thousands of fish were stranded when the water was drained and people were collecting them by the bucket fulls.

Most of the game fish stay upstream, Mr. Spencer said, and so the draining would hurt the carp population most.

The pond, which holds an estimated 75 million gallons of water, would take about three days to refill, he said.

Auxiliary Plans Card Parties

Pedro, pinochle, canasta, euchre and bridge will be featured during Card Party Week, sponsored by the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Oct. 14-17.

Individual home parties held throughout the week will be climaxed by a prize drawing night Thursday, Oct. 17.

There will be table prizes as well as door prizes.

Sidewalk Construction Pushes Ahead

Sidewalk construction and repair moves along in the Tecumseh downtown area.

James Fielder, who was awarded the sidewalk construction in the downtown area early in August, said they would be finished in a couple of weeks, depending on the weather.

They have done approximately 3,240 square feet so far.

Mr. Fielder was contracted to do 8,000 square feet, but some of that will be done in residential areas.

Other property owners have asked that their sidewalks be done also, and so the total amount will probably exceed 10,000 square feet, Mr. Fielder said.

☆

There wasn't enough time to complete it last year, he said, and it probably won't be completed until next year.

As they finish one area, they will move to another. After the downtown district is down, they will move to the Pottawatamie and Logan St. areas.

Notices have been sent out to property owners, Mr. Zorn said. They can pay the city or pay the contractor directly. They may also hire another city approved contractor before Mr. Fielder reaches their sidewalk if they desire.

☆

SEVERAL curb and gutters have also been installed on Shawnee St., from Evans St. to Ottawa St.; and on Herrick Park Dr. from Maumee St. to Outer Dr.

The City plans to install curb and gutters on N. Union St. on both sides opposite Kerby Hts. subdivision, and on Miami Ct. in the subdivision.

The City shares 40 per cent of the cost with the property owners when putting in curb and gutters.

In other projects this summer, the City has put in 700 feet of storm sewer on Russell Rd. It stretches from Maumee St. to S. Union St. and forms the last leg in a south side sewer chain.

It has also put in five blocks of bituminous paving on Pottawatamie St. east of Adrian St.; two blocks of bituminous paving on Shawnee St., from Ottawa St. to Maumee St.; one block of paving on Pearl St., from W. Chicago Blvd. to Pottawatamie St.; and one block on N. Union St. from W. Chicago Blvd. to Pottawatamie St.

LYNN NOBLE SUPERVISES SIDEWALK CONSTRUCTION — the new city engineer, right, is really busy these days with construction going on all over the city. A graduate in civil engineering from Kansas State University, he took advanced work at the University of Michigan in sanitary engineering while in the armed forces. Previously employed by the Wayne County Road Commission, Mr. Noble came to Tecumseh in July with his wife, Virginia, and three daughters. The family attends the Methodist Church and enjoys camping. He is a photography fan. Mr. Noble said he has been impressed with the public mindedness of the community. He feels people are very cooperative and like to see their town get ahead.

Additional State Aid Expected

Although no action was taken, several factors delayed in the past due to shortage of money come up for discussion at the Tecumseh School Board meeting Monday night.

A gradually increasing enrollment has practically assurred the schools at least $15,000 more in state aid than budgeted for.

Seven more students enrolled in the high school, pushing total enrollment there to 885, just 15 short of the Class A school classification figure. Admissions in the grades also increased.

Possible uses of the $15,000 are:

High school library — $1,500.

Typing tables — $1,400.

Administrative offices in old library — $3,000.

Place several teachers on salary schedule — $3,480.

Purchase of land on Maumee St. — $700.

Roof coal bin for shop — $750.

Salary for substitute teachers — $1,000.

Office supplies — $500.

Salaries for driver education instructors — $900.

Replacement of equipment — $500.

If, at a future meeting, the board approved these expenditures, there would still be $1,270 in reserve.

The library, already short of money for operation, badly needs money since the recent .6 mills was voted down.

Administrative personnel, in a bind for room since the state required a more complete bookkeeping system, have sought previously to move to the old library where additional space would be available.

The cost of $3,000 would be in remodeling and repairing the W. Chicago Blvd. building for administrative use.

Last spring, over 10 teachers requested that they be put on the schools' regular salary schedule. All are now receiving less than the salary schedule calls for.

At the time, the board told them they did not have the money and it was not planned when the schools adopted a strict austerity program two years ago.

Wins Boiler Job

Abner's Service bid of $6,255.81 for a cyclothem boiler at the Community Center was accepted by Council Monday night.

Behind Page One

Wives of D. J. Frayer, Robert Hunt, Wayne Smith, Howard Wilson, and Larry Larson are looking forward to Saturday. This is the end of the centennial celebration being staged by the Knights Templar of Adrian Commandery which features a parade beginning at 3:30 p.m. in Adrian. Why so happy? Off comes the beards and mustaches.

Cold weather is coming again and Dorothy Grigg has renewed the search for her Pendleton jacket, a blue and grey plaid. Seems she lent it to someone last March in the office — name escapes us — and the standard question became, "Do you have Dorothy's jacket?" The hunt was abandoned this summer, but now she could use it.

Anyone interested in having their youngsters (6-12) take tap dance lessons, should contact Brenda Sprague, 216 S. Oneida. Brenda, who graduated from Tecumseh in 1961, trained at the Joyce Damon Studio in Adrian. She hopes to instruct in Britton and Tecumseh.

The downtown sidewalk repairs may be more important than you think. One elderly lady said she now felt safe in coming downtown to window shop. She hasn't wanted to risk life and limb on Chicago Blvd. sidewalks for a long time.

Several future neighbors of Dave Ousterhout on Occidental Rd. are having a chuckle.

Seems Dave had taken pains to caution them against their dogs getting his duck on the new Ousterhout pond. Dave took his canine pet along Sunday while checking on his home under construction there. Guess who's dog got the duck?

"Seems like home, all except the color" remarked Rt. Rev. Kosyita Shalita, Anglican Bishop from the African country of Uganda Monday morning at breakfast in the Frank Hawthorne home.

Bishop Shalita has 11 children and he quite enjoyed breakfast with the local rector's youngsters and several others of St. Peter's Parish.

Serve 1,375 Beef Plates

Some 1,375 dinners were served at St. Elizabeth's 10th Annual Roast Beef Dinner held Sunday.

"This was the largest and most successful dinner to date," according to Father Thomas Collins, pastor of the church. "The entire operation went smoothly."

Nearly all of the food and cost of meat was donated by the parishioners who also prepared and served the meal.

Proceeds from the dinner will go toward general operating costs of the church school.

Greiman-Walter Exchange Vows

Virginia Greiman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Greiman, 205 E. Kilbuck, and Thomas Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Walter, 1013 Red Mill Drive, were united in marriage Saturday evening at the Grace Lutheran Church.

Carol Greiman was her sister's maid of honor. Michael Walter served as his brother's best man.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father in a ballerina length dress of pale blue satin with lace bodice and matching veil. She carried white carnations and yellow rosebuds.

Jenkins-Knudson Wedding

In an early fall wedding, the vows of Darlene Sue Jenkins and Craig Knudson were solemnized Saturday afternoon in a double ring ceremony in the First United Brethren Church in Adrian.

President Hawkins — first counsellor of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints of Bloomfield Hills, Detroit Stake, performed the ceremony. The invocation was given by the Rev. Norman Russell, host pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Jenkins of Adrian. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Knudson 302 N. Wyandotte St.

Stately palms centered the chancel, and seven branch cathedral candelabra were enhanced by white gladioli arrangements with satin bows.

☆

A double crown of seed pearls and crystal caught the veil of shoulder length imported illusion in four bouffant tiers. Her only jewelry was a family heirloom crystal pendant.

☆

MRS. DANIEL McGUIRE was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a rust brocade street-length gown with bell skirt and cap sleeves and carried a cascade arrangement of cream Fuji mums accented with variegated green foliage. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow with tulle.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Devon Jenkins of Garden City, Mrs. John Crooks of Rupert, Idaho and Linda Knudson, wore similar gowns of ivory and rust with matching headpieces. They carried bouquets matching the matron of honor's.

Vonette carried a yellow and white colonial bouquet with a cascade of velvet ribbons. Janee carried a white satin pillow trimmed with lace. A tiny cluster of yellow and white flowers graced the top.

Best man was Ron Pifer of Adrian. Ushers were Devon and Darryl Jenkins.

Mrs. Roy Waldfogel played several organ selections. She and violinist Judy Wood accompanied the bride when she sang "Whither Thou Goest, I Will Go" to the groom before she came down the aisle.

RECEPTION for 350 was held in the church parlors, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. William Henry.

The wedding colors of rust and ivory were carried out. A large white bell hung over the five tier bridal cake made by the bride's mother and decorated by Marie Brown. Garlands of gladioli encircled it and lighter crystal candelabra were on each side. The cake featured yellow bells and roses with the traditional bride and groom on top.

Mrs. Virgil Bales and Linda Lou Kapnick sang, accompanied by Kathy Love.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Virgil Bales, Mrs. Orville Merillat, Tina Lonski, Gail Amo, Mrs. Charles Ingerson, Mrs. Robert Prange, Mary Ellen McCormick, Karen Knudson, Mrs. Bruce Tipton, Mrs. Virgil Schlemmer, Mrs. Floyd Gautz and Joyce Baldwin.

After a short wedding trip the couple will live in Houghton.

The bride, who is in her senior year at Adrian College, will continue her studies at Houghton where the groom is a student at Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

He has served two years in the northwestern states on a church mission and has spent two years at Michigan State University.

The groom's parents entertained 30 people at rehearsal dinner Friday evening in their home.

Sharon Nelson, James Hubbell Wed

Sharon May Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Nelson of Berrien Springs, became the bride Sept. 8 of James Terrace Hubbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hubbell, Manchester, formerly of Tecumseh.

The ceremony was performed at the Pioneer Memorial Church at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, by the pastor, Elder James Rhoads.

Mrs. Charles Davis was the organist accompanying her husband in two violin solos.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a floor-length gown of white taffeta with elbow-length bouffant veil of imported silk illusion. It was secured to a crown of lace edged with tiny pearls, sequins and crystals. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

☆

ALICE CEDZO was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Clara Lou Nelson, sister of the bride, Cora Lou Bodi and Janet Hoover.

Barbara Williams and Stevie Davis dressed in miniature bride and groom attire preceded the bride to the altar.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of gold satinette over taffeta styled with fitted bodices. Soft pleats at the waistlines fell into semi-bell skirts and maching jackets.

Friday, the 13th, started off true to form for The Tecumseh Herald shop foreman, Lonal Bishop.

Seems the alarm clock rang and Lonal started the five-minute process of waking his reluctant wife, Betty. With her up and himself dressed, he roused his eldest daughter, Karen, and then phoned a friend's house to remind him of a bowling date.

'Twas shortly after the phone call had been completed that the family finally came to the conclusion that somebody had been tampering with pop's clock, and it was only about 1:30 a.m. Friday.

Back in bed, the wakeful Bish groaned, "Oh, now I gotta go through all this again in a few hours."

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

by BARRY FLYNT

Boysville began its fourteenth year of operation September 3 with an enrollment of 176 boys. The classes range from the comparatively gigantic sophomore class of 77 to the small but impressive 11 in its Senior class.

✓

Besides the usual turnover of students, Boysville also saw six faculty changes.

Brother Jeffrey Michels, former vice-principal of Monroe Catholic Central, has been appointed principal of Boysville. He replaces Brother Pals McGory, a ten-year veteran principal of Boysville.

Brother Donald Kuchenmeister comes to us from Notre Dame, Ind., and will take over the duties of school secretary.

Brother Paul Clark has also joined the faculty this year. Biology and general science classes will be his workshop for the year.

Patrick Connor, former head coach of the Deerfield Minutemen, now assumes head coaching duties here. He will also teach U. S. history and government classes.

Cleveland Hurst will head the mathematics department.

Mr. Ruesink, former drafting teacher at Cody High in Detroit, has the same duties here.

✓

Boysville's many clubs reopened their membership this past week. The Photo Club, under the supervision of Brother Aloysius Glomboski, held its first meeting Sept. 12, at which time senior John Barta was elected President.

The "Campus Info" began the 63-64 school year Sunday with the first of its bi-weekly publications. Brother Robert Fillmore remains the moderator and Senior Barry Flynt was reappointed editor.

✓

✓

✓

Dr. O. W. Laidlaw of Tecumseh has been seen frequently at the Boysville Hobby Club, but no official date has been set for its opening thus far.

✓

Boysville Fighting Knights are in an intensified practice schedule in preparation for their first league meet against Deerfield Friday night. The Knights hope to shed some of the greenness exhibited during the Dexter game when they were defeated 39-7.

Al Padilla, hospitalized after the game, will be ready for action against the Deerfield squad.

Directing the Knight's cheering section will be a new group of seven cheerleaders. The squad is made up of the following boys: Larry Sixbey, Randy Jurczak, Bennie Thomas, Wayne Toms, Greg Gard, Phil Doyle and Tom Blackhurst.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

A little of this and that.

Two women were preparing to board an airliner. One of them turned to the pilot and said, "Please don't go faster than sound; we want to talk".

Nine chances to ten they were talking about the fall collection of fabrics and sportswear at Clinton Woolen.

A friend of ours said her little four-year-old daughter came in one day and wanted to know what "scratch" meant.

Her mother explained tactfully that when you have a skin irritation, or a wound is healing, it sometimes itches and you scratch it. When she had finished and asked if she had made it clear, her daughter said, "No, I still don't understand because Helen's mother made a cake from scratch."

Without trying to explain, we hope you start your fall wardrobe from scratch . . . we hope you begin at Clinton Woolen.

Samuel Johnson, English lexicographer and author (1709-1784), gave forth with these words: "Money and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and the unhappiest of mortals are those who have more of either than they know what to do with."

Well, now, if you are burdened with either one of these commodities, we are right here to help you take care of the situation. And, what's more, we promise you the happiest feeling you have had lately.

Come to Clinton Woolen and let one of us show you the many items for fall and winter happy wearing.

Frontier City to Show Visitors Apple Butter Art

Apple butter, made like they did it 100 years ago, will be cooked at Frontier City Sunday all day.

Ivan Hunt will have charge of the outdoor copper kettle cookery, stirring the huge recipe continuously.

Mr. Hunt, owner of Frontier City, said Tuesday that 30 gallons of cider and 15 gallons of apples, with just a little sugar and cinnamon for seasoning, go into the cooking pot to make about 10 gallons of the luscious preserve.

Next week it is expected that sorghum will be made.

The recent loss from fire at Frontier City was nearly covered by insurance, with the exception of a truck worth between $1,600 and $1,800.

About 5,000 bales of hay and straw were a total loss.

Mr. Hunt said firemen agreed that the cause of the fire was probably an electric fence, though the fence was at least eight feet from the hay and straw.

Friends Invited to Hendershots Open House

Friends are invited to attend an open house for Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hendershot honoring their 50th wedding anniversary. The event is planned by their four children and families.

The event will be held Sunday, Sept. 22, at the Macon Methodist Church from 2 until 5 p.m.

It is requested that gifts be omitted.

Hold that Line

Coach Tom Fagan was understandibly annoyed Friday night. In fact, he "was never so mad in his life." He wasn't about to take defeat philosophically, either. So the Indians were out bumping heads early Saturday morning.

Dave Lemerand was the only one that looked halfway decent, Coach Fagan groaned, and he still made twice as many mistakes as he usually does.

Other than that, there was nothing to say about Friday night's game with Willow Run, he admitted.

The Indians got one linebacker returning this week — Doug Goldsberry was sick last week — only to have another join the questionable list. Jay Osburn has an infection in his foot and may miss some action.

"We better take the next one against Dundee or I'm afraid it's going to be a long season," he said as he picked up his crying towel and went for another painful look at the game movies.

Dundee may be tougher than expected. They bowled over Ida last week 35 to 0.

If the Indians ever get their mistakes worked out, they will have to point toward another tough backfield. Dundee Captain Bob Edelbrock scored three touchdowns, and his running mate, Chuck Ellison, scored two.

Oh well, Saline Coach Mike Rotunno said Milan, coming up October 4, was a pushover during their scrimmage game. But then, so was Willow Run.

After a game like Friday's, a certain amount of shuffling is to be expected. Coach Fagan may start Ron Anderson, 181 pound junior, at tackle. Last week he didn't see any action. Tom Meyers, presently listed as an end, may fill in as middle guard on defense; and Jim Green, 150 pound sophomore guard, may help out as linebacker.

Practice Monday and Tuesday cheered Coach Fagan a little. "We look like a ball club again," he said. Last week, we had our pride hurt, but we'll be in the ball game this Friday."

Over at Britton, a knee injury to first string center Tom Cadmus has Coach Dan Viergever worried. Cadmus is one of the nine men going both ways for the Tories.

Shock and disappointment hit Tecumseh players — and fans — last Friday night when the Willow Run Flyers bombed the Indians 14-6.

With a break or two, the Indians could have won. In another sense, the WR's score and winning margin could have been considerably greater.

Tecumseh did not block and tackle. The Indians showed less than half the desire, blocking and tackling exhibited the previous Friday evening in outclassing Ypsilanti High in a scrimmage here.

The loss pointed out to everyone that Tecumseh must show lots more if they're to be league contenders this season — or even if they're to beat Dundee this Friday night.

Tecumseh coaches and players know that Dundee would like nothing better than to whip the Indians. The Vikings have been pointing to the Indians since football practice started in August.

Complacency is always a factor over the years for winning teams, and the Indians may have reached this stage — or reached it last week against WR.

The Flyers, rallying from a 6-0 deficit, dominated the game after the first period Tecumseh score, particularly outclassing the Indians in the final two quarters.

Coach Tom Fagan's team jumped off to a good start against WR, marching 61 yards for a touchdown with the opening kickoff. Even two penalties, one for 15 yards, failed to sidetrack the drive.

Two big gains in the march, a 17-yarder by halfback Tim Collins and 21 yards by Bob Baker, highlighted Tecumseh's lone scoring drive.

Baker's romp ended with a fumble on the WR two, where the ball bounced into the end zone where guard Jim Tilton grabbed it for the TD.

A late second quarter threat by Tecumseh ended abruptly when WR intercepted a pass from quarterback John Oberlin on the Flyers' 10.

WR completely dominated the second half, holding Tecumseh to just two first downs, and playing most of the time in Tecumseh's side of the 50.

Early in the final stanza, the Flyers moved 52 yards in seven plays. Big 210-pound fullback Chuck Havens, ploughed over from the one for the deciding score.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The fortunes of the American automotive industry turned in 1959 when major automobile manufacturers did something about the threat of small European cars.

One major factor in the recapture of a disappearing market was the rediscovery of local newspaper advertising at retail points.

For instance, Chevrolet and Corvair concentrated promotion of new models in newspapers where local dealers make the final sales. Chevrolet, in its promotion, made use of 7,100 weekly and daily newspapers.

Since that beginning of a new emphasis on point of sale advertising, American manufacturers have not been overly pressed by outside competition.

This should not be surprising; the fortunes of the major automobile companies are closely related to the amount of local newspaper advertising they have used during the past half-century.

Indeed, the status of Chevrolet and Ford, the most popular American automobiles, was established as early as 1930. A noted sales executive recently observed that many of these automobiles are being sold today, because some buyers formed an indelible preference while reading a hometown newspaper as children.

"During depression and war, when sales were slow or non-existant, the advertisements were there, week after week, proclaiming a quality image which could not be erased when the youngsters became prosperous adults," he said.

Thus, regardless of where they experiment with advertising budgets, the largest national companies, like the smallest retailer, find that the local newspaper is the primary consumer medium.

Rita Blake to Direct "Born Yesterday"

The Tecumseh Players' first production of the new season "Born Yesterday", will be directed by Rita Blake.

Born in Detroit, and raised in Belleville, Mrs. Blake received her B. A. in English at Eastern Michigan University, and her M. A. at the University of Michigan.

She has joined the staff of the Tecumseh school system this fall where she will teach English and Art at the Junior High School.

Most of her experience in Theatre both as a patron and participant, took place in the Boston and Cape Cod area where she lived for a number of years.

While teaching in Orleans she directed productions at the Arena Theatre as well as handling some school plays. At East Hampton, Long Island, Rita was active with the John Drew Theatre.

Eve Bowen, well known by local theatre goers for her roles in "The Man Who Came To Dinner" and "You Can't Take It With You" will act as assistant director.

Tryouts for "Born Yesterday" were held in the Glass Room of the Community Center on Friday, September 13, from 7:30 to 10 p.m., and Saturday, Sept. 14, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Leaping Larry Chene Heads Wrestling Bill

The best in professional wrestling returns to this area Saturday night, Sept. 21, at the Tecumseh High School gymnasium.

The big eight-man card will be sponsored by the Sacred Hearts of St. Elizabeth's Church.

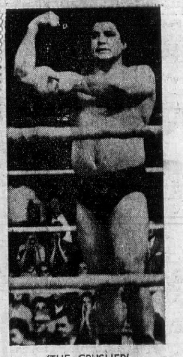
Chene, not only one of the most popular athletes in the history of Michigan sports, is a crowd-pleaser of the first magnitude from coast-to-coast.



'THE CRUSHER'

His Leapfrog Drop, Flying Head Scissors, and Flying Dropkick have sent many a fine matman to the canvas.

CHENE'S OPPONENT, Cortez is also a grappler of much fame in matdom. But whereas Chene has reached the heights of mat stardom by his wrestling skill, Cortez has defeated his opponents using nothing but sheer brutality and strictly illegal tactics.

The big, brawling Mexican bulldog is so ruthless that he has often expressed his joy of hearing his opponents scream in pain while he is inflicting punishment upon them.

The Bearded Terror will face Louie Klein, Johnny Gates will face Chief White, and Tom Londos will go against Dick Dunn in the other great bouts.

As a special feature, the participants of the first three matches will enter the ring simultaneously in a six-man Battle Royal, which is considered the most dangerous event that matdom has to offer.

16th Annual Horse Show

The 16th annual Lambertville Civic Club Horse Show will be held Sunday, Sept. 22 at 12 noon at the Parmelee Field at Lambertville, Mich.

There will be classes for western and English riders.

Honor Mrs. R. K Anderson

Following the first fall meeting of the Episcopal Church Women of St. Peter's Church Sept. 10, members and guests adjourned to the large Parish Hall, where a surprise tea was held in honor of Mrs. R. K. Anderson, who is to leave soon to make her home in Texas.

In honoring "Jewell" as her many friends know her, a resolution from the wardens and vestrymen for the congregation was read by Mrs. Laidlaw, acknowledging her many years of loyal service and devotion as a member of the Parish.

Mrs. Anderson recently presented to the parish pictures of former ministers of St. Peter's and the Bishops of the Diocese.

Mrs. Laverne Russell presented Mrs. Anderson with a corsage from the ladies of the parish and announced that a picture of the new church will be presented to her. Tea was served with Mrs. H. H. Hammel pouring.

Abi Evans Chapter Backs Watershed

The Abi-Evans Chapter DAR members decided to go on record as sponsors of the River Raisin Project at the opening meeting of the fall season Friday.

Mrs. George Wittrup, regent, conducted the meeting when members were reminded to display flags in recognition of Constitution Week, Sept. 16-21.

☆

Members voted to have a rummage sale Oct. 18 and 19 with the place to be announced later.

Mrs. Purnell Osburn and Mrs. Neal Pearson are the co-chairmen.

A bake sale will be held Saturday in connection with the rummage sale.

Mrs. Richard Carter, Mrs. Herbert Munger and Mrs. Don Hunt were the assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Charles Mensing opened the business session with greetings. This is her second year as Archie Wray led in devotions.

Standing committees were announced for the year:

During the summer the Episcopal Church Women of St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit, toured the parishes in the convocation and while at Tecumseh, presented a beautiful Prayer Book that had been inscribed by the Rt. Rev. Richard S. M. Emrich, Bishop of the Diocese of Michigan.

This Prayer Book was presented at this meeting by the President to the Devotions Chairman.

Mrs. Mensing asked Mrs. Laidlaw to be in charge of the social meeting following the meeting.

Civil Service Launches New Pay Survey

The Michigan Civil Service Commission has launched its annual pay survey by sending questionnaires to 355 private employers in Michigan and 61 public jurisdictions within the state and around the nation.

At stake are possible pay adjustments to be effective in July, 1964, for 31,500 state classified workers in 91 agencies covered by merit rules.

The Commission pay study aims at sampling pay rates of private employers for almost 30 per cent of all wage and salary workers in Michigan in 15 geographic areas of the state.

Michigan's new constitution provides the Legislature may reject or reduce any pay increases authorized by the Commission by a two-thirds vote within 60 days to the Legislature by the Governor.

Under the old constitution the Commission decision on pay rates was final, with the Legislature having the final say only on total appropriations to state agencies.

Revise Apple Grades

More Michigan apples are likely to be packed U.S. Extra Fancy grade of U.S. Fancy grade than in the past as a result of a revision of apple standards that become effective Sept. 20.

Copies of the revised U. S. grades for apples will be available from the Michigan Department of Agriculture's foods and standards division at Lansing.

Changes in Federal apple grades, the first revision in 12 years, are threefold:

- A more practical U. S. Extra Fancy grade.
- Eliminate the U. S. No. 1 Cooker grade.
- Require U. S. Extra Fancy and U. S. Fancy grades of apples, after Jan. 31 following the year they were produced, to be free from damage by invisible watercore.

Ends Field Maneuvers In Germany

Army Sgt. John T. Browne, son of Mrs. William H. Browne, 332 N. Union, and other members of the 2d Howitzer Battalion of the 4th Armored Division's 14th Artillery, completed four weeks of summer field training at Grafenwohr, Germany, early in August.

The training included the soldiers' Annual Training Test (ATT). The ATT is the toughest and most complete assessment of a combat unit's readiness under the most grueling, exacting and realistic conditions possible in peacetime.

Sergeant Browne, assigned to Battery C in Germany, entered the Army in April 1960, was last stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., and arrived overseas the following October.

The 21-year-old soldier is a graduate of Tecumseh High School. His wife, Connie, is with him in Germany.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

One of the most difficult problems in a governor's life is the bewilderingly complex relationship between the state, local and federal governments.

Local units of government have begun bypassing state capitols, seeking solutions to their problems in Washington, because they feel state officials are insensitive to their problems.

I wonder how many people are aware to what extent state and local governments are on the federal dole?

According to the report of a U. S. Senate committee, federal assistance to state and local governments under existing or proposed programs will total an estimated $10.4 billion in 1964. Total grants to Michigan were more than $244 million.

Now these statistics alone do not illustrate the growing and dangerous dependence of local and state governments on the federal government.

Equally important is the attitude which at times seems to me to approach beggary.

This came home to me during the governor's conference at Miami Beach, where speaker after speaker, panel after panel, devoted themselves to the question of existing federal programs or proposed federal programs or possible federal programs.

In a steady stream, cabinet officers, their deputies, and all species and subspecies of Washington officialdom came trooping into the conference with the same message: Here's what the federal government can do for you.

There can be no denying the fact that federal grants-in-aid are national programs, paid for out of national tax revenues, for national purposes, under national specifications. And he who pays the piper calls the tune.

Don't let anyone tell you that federal aid does not carry with it a measure of control over the way the money is spent. The measure of this control varies, but it is there.

ONE of the principles upon which our nation was founded is the separation of powers between the three branches of government.

But an equally important principle is that of limited government, which divides political power between governments at all levels and the people themselves, reserving to the people a number of specific rights and powers.

I am convinced that the governmental center of gravity should remain where it can give our republic the greatest stability, at the lowest possible level.

The only real guarantee that power will reside close to the people is the will of the people to keep it there, and the will of public officials on a local level to retain a firm grasp on the power which the people have given them.

George Bernard Shaw said that liberty means responsibility, and that is why most men dread it.

If the precious balance of power between federal, state and local governments is to be preserved as one of the bulwarks of our freedom, all public officials must willingly bear the measure of responsibility which the people expect them to carry.

Tax Cut Would Equal 22%

A worker with a wife and two children earning $7,500 a year and claiming standard deductions could expect his taxes to be reduced by $191 under the tax schedule recently approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

This would be a 22 percent reduction on the family's present tax of $877. The new tax would total $686.

This is one example drawn from tables released by the U. S. Treasury Department showing the income tax cuts individuals would receive as a result of the Committee's action.

Depending on the exact income and number of dependents, workers within the $4,000 to $10,000 income bracket claiming standard deductions would receive tax cuts ranging from $78 to $354.

"The present tax structure," Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said, "was designed to raise high revenues and prevent inflation during World War II. During the Korean War it had the same purpose, and since then it has been maintained to enable us to finance our responsibilities of world leadership.

"The economy has grown substantially in the last 10 years," he said. "Stable prices indexes in recent years demonstrate that inflation is not a current threat. But the tax structure has exercised an inhibiting influence on the economy, holding back its growth."

IT'S A SCANOGRAVER, machine for reproducing photographs for the paper, said Bruce King, right, to exchange student Anders Edin from Stenungsund, Sweden. The boys stopped in last week to tour The Herald. Anders will be spending the year with Bruce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert King Jr. and he is attending Tecumseh High School. He received a scholarship from the Youth for Understanding organization.

Michigan Week Head Named

Harold B. Coolman, Ann Arbor manufacturer and civic leader, will head the 1964 Michigan Week activities in Region 15 — Lenawee, Livingston, Monroe and Washtenaw counties, it was announced today.

The 11th annual Michigan Week celebration is set for May 17-23, 1964, but its activities carry on all year long.

Mr. Coolman, president of Coolman Industries, Ann Arbor, will immediately name a county chairman and with him set up a county Michigan Week organization in each of the four counties of the region.

Bessie Bortner is working for the U. S. government as librarian on Okinawa. She is visiting Taiwan, Manila and Hong Kong. Miss Bortner is a former teacher in the Tecumseh school system where she taught seventh and eighth grade English. Mrs. Fred Dickinson received a letter from her.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

HURRY, HURRY, HURRY

Unless they crack around and hurry up with some feather growing, I know two blue jays who are going to be mighty cold one of these days. With Fall high-balling toward us at such breakneck speed and the thermometers all poised for their toboggan ride, this is no time for bald heads. Already some of our nights are quite cold and I'll bet there has been some shivering in the birdworld.

Actually, our two jays aren't completely bald but they are, to say the very least, having a difficult time getting their heads completely feathered out. As you can imagine, they are ridiculous looking characters and have afforded us many laughs when they come to free-load at the feeding station.

The youngsters have perfectly-feathered bodies and are really, if you just look at that part of them, quite handsome birds. The plumage is soft and the colors vivid as befit all blue-jays.

How, though, can I describe the head and neck? Well, try to visualize the body covering as being fastened at the top by a drawstring and this "garment" tied tightly at the neck, showing a very scrawny neck and a big head sticking up above.

That is not a very good word picture but somehow, the birds are so hilarious looking, that they defy description — they should be seen to be believed and even then it is almost hard to believe them real.

ONE of the birds seems to be joining the ranks of the respectable much faster than the other. He went through several days of looking as if he were growing tiny corkscrews on his head but these sticking out curls finally developed into tiny feathers.

Just today, we noticed that his top-knot is going beserk — jays, of course, don't have high crests like cardinals but they do have a few longish feathers at the back of their heads.

Poor Junior — I suppose the feathers of his topknot are about normal length but, since the rest of his head has such sparse covering, they look like long, long streamers.

The second youngster is having a more terrible time. His head plumage can hardly even be called feathers; it is more like fuzz.

All jays seem to have large heads, their bills are heavy and their eyes big and bright. Imagine how grotesquely out of proportion these characters are, this one especially.

Oh, my, the sights we do see on our feeder! The birds are daily visitors and they seem to be healthy enough; at least they are healthy if their appetites are any criterion.

They gobble down the scratch feed and, in true blue-jay fashion, dutifully chase away all other birds who entertain foolish ideas of sharing the feeder. They even chase each other away. Maybe this is a good thing; I doubt if any of us could stand having two such ridiculous looking birds on the feeder at once.

THIS IS NOT our first experience with bald-headed bluejays. Several years ago we had one who had just as much trouble with his feathers as these youngsters are having. We were lucky in getting a few pictures of him, hope we are as fortunate now.

So it is that lately our laughs have been at the expense of these two blue-jays but seriously, they do need some feathers badly because with cold weather so close at hand, they are going to be cold, cold blue-jays if they don't hurry, hurry, hurry!

BOOK REVIEW

As Flies to Wanton Boys

Every so often, a book from Russia, or one of the Eastern European countries, reaches the West and reveals again that all is not unanimous behind the Iron Curtain.

Several previous books have caused far-reaching political reverberations: Boris Pasternak's Doctor Zhivago," Milovan Djilas' "The New Class," and Vladimir Dudintsev's "Not By Bread Alone."

Another Russian novel promises to hit the West — this month when Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., publishes two novellas by Valeriy Tarsis: "The Bluebottle," and "Red and Black."

Mr. Tarsis received much the sme treatment as Mr. Pasternak, who was banished from the Soviet Writers' Union in which Mr. Tarsis himself was a senior member for 20 years. Mr. Djilas was imprisoned by Tito.

When Mr. Tarsis tried to have "The Bluebottle" published in Russia and the authorities refused, he asked to emigrate. They responded by putting him in an insane asylum. He has since been released, but if his novellas create a stir in the West, he may find himself back in the asylum.

☆

It appears to be autobiographical. It is about a Party intellectual who gets tired of writing the same old party propaganda and begins a book of "original" thoughts.

He is first warned by his friends of the danger he is in, then deserted by them. He is dropped from Party favor and his book is refused publication.

He is finally given a party function, hearing complaints in a housing department, and his life rapidly draws to a close.

His heretical thinking starts off when he kills a fly — he's one of these soft philosophers who wouldn't kill a fly — and sees a message in the fly's last moments of wild freedom. He develops a denounciation of the collective system.

"This is why the idealists thought that all human attempts at collectivism were doomed to fail. Each man is the only citizen of his unique world, and everyone else, his rivals. There be no common interests — identical aims: each world has its own laws, its own purpose and its own ideas of happiness.

"The only thing equally prized by all is freedom of action, the independence of wild beasts; they are so known because they refuse to submit to man and be devoured by him."

"So far from smashing the old machinery, so far from abolishing what Engels called the 'worst evils', on the very day that the proletariat took over the power, we had, . . . created a Leviathan of bureaucracy, such as the world had never seen.

"Our perfected machine was not just the meat-mincer in which diverse populations were ground down, but a 'soul-mincer' which turned out a smooth hash of ground souls, uniform in consistency.

"The result was a faceless, furtive, cowardly horde of busy drones and ossified bureaucrats motivated by fear, not by conscience. It inevitably brought to mind Lenin's words: 'If ever we perish it will be through sheer bureaucratism'."

☆

THE RUSSIAN government betrays the Revolution's original ideas, he thinks. "Only when the human race is genuinely united will it be able to live in common in a rational way — that is what we mean by communism. Until then, while there's talk of national precedence and of national sovereignty, it will still be only a universal free-for-all."

☆

SO MR. TARSIS comes to a dilemma.

On the one hand "the human soul is made up of imperfectly constructed parts and of unstable elements; historians are deceived by the moments of perfection in human history. Ideas are flashes of lightning, revolutions are storms."

And on the other hand, "The spectrum of the soul is as eternal and unchangeable as that of the sun. The most important part of it is the invisible, the infrared and ultraviolet rays, which students of mankind have examined only rarely and with reluctance."

Mr. Tarsis ends with the dilemma. In humans he finds immutable values, yet at the same time there are too many people and they swarm like flies, each pursuing his own destiny.

"The Bluebottle" has little plot, and that is relatively unnecessary. There are personality sketches here and there, which are vivid, but again, unnecessary. And it ends without a resolution of the conflict in the hero.

It does not advocate counter-revolution. Rather it is a protest against the soullessness of Communist society, and a statement that enlightened existence is a puzzling unhappy balance of opposites.

Less Speed at Ridgeway Is Sought

A request to have the Tecumseh School Board investigate reducing the speed limit in front of the Ridgeway elementary school on M-50 was accepted Monday night.

Supt. James McDowell was asked to check with the state police about lowering the speed limit there from 50 mph to 20 mph, normal speed limit for streets and highways in school areas.

Harley Slick represented the Ridgeway PTA in making the request, and he was told that an answer would be obtained before the next Ridgeway PTA meeting, Oct. 9.

Bloodmobile Unit in Tecumseh Oct. 1

Dr. Robert Murray is the chairman of the Red Cross blood program here Tuesday, Oct. 1, at the Community Center from noon until 6 p.m.

Mrs. Marvin Nelson is the chairman of the volunteer workers, and appointments may be made by calling 423-2135 days, or 423-3357 evenings.

As long as the volunteer type of blood program is in existence, the residents of this community should feel protected against heavy expense and the trouble involved in obtaining blood, if they ever need it.

If this type of service is to continue, the recruiting of donors needs a shot in the arm. In view of the obvious importance of the blood program, a selling job seems almost superfluous. Yet the number of donors has been declining and the blood supply is threatened.

In 1962 Lenawee County distributed 2,243 pints of blood and only collected 1,968.

Dr. Murray and Mrs. Nelson urge Tecumseh area residents to help Tecumseh pay its debt to the blood program by being a donor Oct. 1.

MISS LILIAN KAISER

To Address Rotary

Back From France

Lilian Kaiser, Rotary Foundation student, of Adrian, will be the guest speaker at a special ladies meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday, Sept. 24, at the Methodist Church.

Miss Kaiser returned home Aug. 18 from Europe where she had been studying at the University of Strasbourg, France.

Among those greeting her at Metropolitan Airport were Rotary Governor Cliff Ashton and his family; Norm Walper, president of the Adrian Rotary Club and his wife, Past Governor Bill Gillett and his wife, the Paul Raniers, the Dell Hutchinsons and members of the Kaiser family, including Dr. and Mrs. Joachim Kaiser, her parents.

Miss Kaiser plans to enter Michigan State University this term as a graduate assistant in French while she works on her master's degree.

Her parents were born in Germany and so were other children in Lilian's family. She was the only one born in America and therefore had heard much about her parents' homeland.

Her experiences in Europe were most interesting and she is looking forward to telling them to Tecumsehites.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Schools Can Still Cutback

The recent Wayne County Circuit Court decision which forced the Detroit Board of Education to keep full classes this year may bear on future cases in the state.

The Board of Education does not have the right to curtail educational services for those pupils enrolled in school in favor of other pupils who may be enrolled in that same school system in a different year.

In other words, the students in school must be given full educational service as long as the schools can manage, even though next year's classes may go on half time. The schools cannot plan ahead at the expense of students already in school.

Lynn Bartlett, superintendent of Michigan Schools, said that the Detroit Board of Education had between $5 and $7 million in funds that made a full schedule possible. What may or may not happen next year is not the determining factor in the Court decision.

"There is no question," Mr. Bartlett said, "that a school district without funds in its current budget to operate the kind of educational program it offered the preceding year may find it necessary to curtail its program."

This only means the solution to Detroit's revenue problem has been delayed for at least a year. It does not mean a School Board has no authority to cut back on its educational program.

Featherbedding

The American public and labor union members and their families, take a dim view of featherbedding. That is the finding of a late Gallup Poll.

Featherbedding is the practice under which more men must be employed than are needed to do the work. It is widespread in some industries, where it inflates costs which must be ultimately borne by consumers of the products and services concerned.

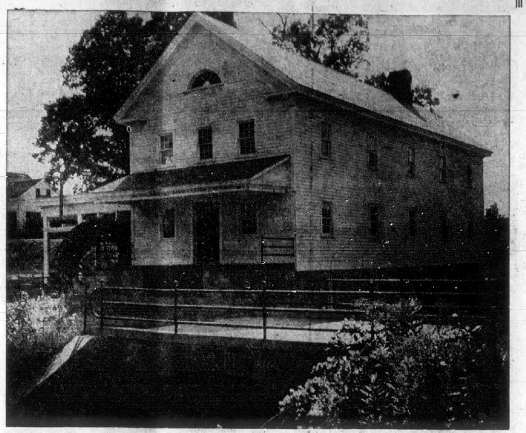
Here are the figures Dr. Gallup presents after asking people if they thought there should be a law against featherbedding.

Per Cent	Yes	No	No Opinion
Everybody	52	25	23
Union Members	48	32	20

The featherbedding practice, Dr. Gallup states, "has never appealed to the American people."

Most people still believe in an honest days work for an honest day's pay. Still, its upsetting that so many don't, or that so many aren't sure.

EDITORIAL IN PICTURE



NEVER USED — This grist mill on the Mills-Macon Highway has a historical significance — not because of its rich past, but because it attests to the eccentricity of one of America's great men, Henry Ford. Built at the end of World War II for an estimated cost of $320,000, the grist mill was used for only one batch of grain. The house in the background, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson, was taken from Macon and reconstructed on the property. This was Henry Ford's last restoration project. The records weren't completed before his death, and consequently, there is little information on this mill. Mrs. Johnson claims there is no evidence that a mill existed on this spot. The property formerly belonged to Jonathan Mills, one of the area's pioneers. On a plat map dated 1874, no mill is listed. Nor is there any listed on later surveys.

The Lingering Past

Michigan Grist Mills

If you want to see a bit of Americana that is vanishing, take a visit to the water-powered grist mills scattered around the Michigan countryside. They're easy to reach by car.

Not many of the colorful older structures are left. The dozen or so that remain are concentrated in the eastern portion of southern Michigan.

A vast array of mills once was a common sight along the state's waterways, according to Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager. Records of the Michigan Millers' Association show that in 1887 flour and grist mills in the state numbered more than seven hundred.

Today the survivors are found within a 50-mile radius, most of them along the Shiawassee River and its branches.

Most are descended from small mills, but long ago outgrew this status. All are automated. Only one clings to water as a source of power. The others use electricity, which is much faster.

Some operate on a 24-hour basis. An official said capacity of a good-sized mill is 7,500 bags of flour for a 24-hour day, five times the capacity of yesteryear's mills. Another official estimated that today's Michigan mills can equal in two minutes the six-month production of the state's oldtimes. Most flour today is handled by bulk, while oldtime production was by bags.

Besides the remains of these and portions of others elsewhere, mill ponds may be found in some 27 Michigan counties.

They also are the remnants of an early agricultural era. Mills were so necessary that the legislature passed an act permitting the flooding of adjacent lands without recourse to the procedure of obtaining flowage rights.

Mills were needed and mill ponds had to be created as a source of water power. The inconvenience of having water backed up on adjacent lands was assumed to be more than offset by the convenience to the local community.

A survey made by C. R. Humphreys, professor of resource development at Michigan State University, shows these old mill ponds by counties, all in the lower peninsula except one:

Jackson 10; Hillsdale, nine; Washtenaw, seven; Oakland, six; Kalamazoo, four; Calhoun, Cass Isabella and Livingston, three each; Barry, Genesee, Ionia, Lapeer, Macomb, Lenawee, St. Joseph and Van Buren, two each; and Branch, Clare, Dickinson, Gratiot, Ingham, Kalkaska, Kent, Keweenaw, Roscommon and Wexford, one each.

Don't Be a SQUARE

It's hard to grow up today and feel like you're becoming a man, but unless you can feel like a man, chances are you probably never will be one.

The reason for this is the shrinking opportunity to find a man's job. And what is a man's job? Traditionally, it is to produce (not provide) food and shelter and sustain a family that looks to you for protection and livelihood.

What does a young child see today? In city, suburb and town, the child sees the ineptitude of his parents. People use machines they cannot repair and often cannot see. When the machines break down, they are taken away for repair.

Cooking is prefabricated. Clothes are previously made somewhere. Fire and heat exist at the whim of a lever. Daddy rarely builds, and when he does, it is more or less incompetent do-it-yourself projects.

When he goes to work, it is to some more or less distant office or plant that is too complicated to explain to a young mind, and the work is probably too insignificant to impress a young mind anyway.

So while there is a hurry and worry about teaching young people the vast complexities of modern life, there is a disconcerting failure to teach them the basic facts of life.

Life is pretty easy; dull too, but easy. And if he will just sit through the terrific boredom of 12 to 16 years of school, he, too, can get into the rat race with his Father.

It's no wonder there is an ever-increasing number of fresh minds that turn away from society and look for kicks outside of it.

☆

RECENTLY Police Chief Murell Clark was informed by Sen. Hubert Humphrey that hundreds of Police Chiefs throughout the nation have endorsed President Kennedy's "Youth Employment Act!

Its purpose is to provide work and training for youths between the ages of 16 through 21 and to help stop delinquency.

Juvenile delinquency continues to soar. Over 77 per cent of the persons arrested for major offense in 1962 were under 22 years of age, compared to 65 per cent in 1961, and 54 per cent in 1960. Half of those arrested, were under 16.

Of 202 crimes other than traffic violations committed in the city last year, 65.3 per cent (132) were committed by youths under 24 years of age. In the most serious crime categories, youths committed 84 per cent, or 48 of the 57 crimes committed.

In only one category, assault, did the older population outdo the kids. And in only one category, did they come close — disorderly conduct. The Youngsters had the categories of burglary, larceny, possession of weapons, and offenses against family and children all to themselves.

Chief Clark thinks lack of opportunity leads youngsters astray where they eventually cost the community money, in the forms of police protection, probation costs, and even welfare.

Shop teacher for the Tecumseh High School, Charles Gross, points out that extremely few industries can afford to pay for a training program, something like 206 in the whole country have them.

Where these programs have been tried, they have been often discouraging for the instructors, Mr. Gross claims. Moreover, he says, they are expensive. Where it costs in the thousands of dollars to teach each person in a special training program, it costs only hundreds of dollars in the schools.

Yet we put very little into our vocational program, Mr. Gross complains. Despite the need or industrial skills, there are only two teachers in the High School to cover vocational training.

What is worse, he contends, is that everybody looks down on vocational education. Everything is college prep. Even by the time the students get into high school, they have learned to look down on jobs that require manual skill.

Parents should accept their children for what they are, he concluded, and not push them into a type of life they will be unsuited.

☆

Both of these points of view are valid.

Yet it's hard to escape the conclusion that the trouble lies even deeper.

Alright, a young man goes ahead with what he wants to do, or thinks he wants to do, and what happens. Paul Goodman in "Growing Up Absurd" relates a significant example of what happens.

"Consider a useful job. A youth who is alert and willing, chooses for auto mechanic. That's a good job, familiar to him, he often watched them as a kid.

"It's careful and dirty at the same time. In a small garage it's sociable. You please people in trouble by fixing their cars, and a man is proud to see, rolling out on its own the car that limped in behind a tow truck. The pay is as good as the next fellow's.

"So our young man takes his first rate job. But what he then learns is that the cars have a built-in obsolescence, that the manufacturers do not want them to be repaired or repairable. They have lobbied a law that requires them to provide spare parts for only five years.

"Repairing the new cars is often a matter of cosmetics, not mechanics; and the repairs are pointlessly expensive. Gone are the days of keeping the jalopies in good shape, the artist-work of a proud mechanic.

". . . It's hard for the young man now to maintain his feelings of justification, sociability, serviceability. It is not surprising if he quickly becomes cynical and time-serving, interested in a fast buck."

In a "Reader's Digest" poll, investigators drove into different garages with a disconnected coil wire to test the honesty of garage mechanics. They found 63 per cent charged for repairs they didn't make, weren't needed, and were lucky if they didn't lose their fuel pump for a used one.

This cynicism pervades America. The same poll found that 65 per cent of the radio repair shops, and 49 per cent of the watch repairmen "lied, overcharged, or gave false diagnoses."

A child grows up in a society that never really convinces him that survival is a hard task; where father and mother are relatively incompetent, and probably working at relatively meaningless jobs; which won't permit him time in school to study a useful job, then lavish thousands on him after he flunks out; and when he finally grows up, discovers dishonesty is the best policy, and that his job doesn't make much difference to himself, or his country, anyhow.

Where today is a job a life and death challenge and not just a status proposition? Where is the ideal of "having a real job that you risk your soul in and make good or be damned?"

Where in Tecumseh?

Football generates a tremendous amount of enthusiasm in town. Might it not be that the reason is because here is one of the few activities that demands a certain amount of masculinity from the young boys?

But the problem is of such magnitude already, and promises to get worse, that it will require revolutionary thinking to solve.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

In his column recently, Tom Brien wrote a thought-provoking article on the role of Congress today. But at the end he says:

"Since Congress most directly represents the American public, if Congress gives up its say in world politics, so has the American public."

Isn't the cart before the horse — rather the American public that has first "given up its say?"

Many of us think it takes advanced education, a lot of time, or nerve to write to our Congressmen. What it takes most is caring.

We need to be informed, yes. With an abundance of information available through the printed word, radio and television, most of us can gather facts and form opinions. A letter expressing an opinion of, or desire for, important legislation takes only a short time to write.

On a television special of the March on Washington, Sen. Hart of Michigan appeared, saying they want public opinion from all the people back home.

We have an obligation to support the men we are privileged to vote into office. The effectiveness of a democracy is being put to question today. This is our freedom, to support and keep, or to lose by our neglect.

Yours truly,
Ruth Duffin

TO THE EDITORS:

I may be a little late on the controversy about the seat belts, but feel that if through our first hand experience we can help to stress the importance of installing a seat belt, and of fastening it at all times no matter the distance you intend to travel, then it will be well worth our effort in writing this letter.

In our accident of Sept. 8, we were only a distance of three miles from home, but anticipating the long trip to Grand Rapids to take Jan to college, we had all fastened our seat belts before we left the yard. (We had installed three seat belts in the front seat as we ride often with three sitting in front.)

The car that struck us was a new car which had seat belts which were in use. After a broad side collision and with the cars demolished as both of these were, it was only the will of God and the seat belts that permitted all eight people involved to walk from the accident — only two of them with a slightly bumped head.

Believe us, the comfort with which we remained upright and sitting in the seat is unexplainable. If we had been free to bounce around in the car, or thrown from the car, I am sure we would not have been able to go on about our business within two hours with nothing except butterflies in our stomachs.

I hope that this letter will help others to heed all of the articles written on this matter and take action to protect themselves.

I would like also at this time to thank Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss Wright Mr. John Long and Gregg for their help at this time. We surely appreciated all they did for us and our thanks go also to the people we did not know or were unaware of, who helped us in any way.

Fund Raising Drive Goal Set at $60,000

The most important fund raising drive of the year will be kicked-off here Oct. 16 when over 100 volunteer workers begin solicitations to meet a goal of $60,000.

Ken Conway, manager of the General Telephone office here, is again general chairman for the second consecutive year, and has nearly completed his plans for the annual campaign for the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation.

Contributions have been generous since the Foundation's incorporation in May 1959, and hopes are high again that Tecumseh citizens will give readily to a fund which benefits them most.

Three division chairmen have already been appointed:
Commercial, Dike Helms
Municipal, Don Montague
Professional, Norval Bovee

Mr. Helms, furniture dealer, is handling the commercial division for the second straight year. Mr. Montague is the Community Center director, and Mr. Bovee, business manager for the schools.

Appointments for the industrial and residential divisions are anticipated by next week.

The budget for the charities is slightly higher than 1963, and the highest in the Foundation's history.

Last year, the goal was $50,000, with total donations reaching $72,000. Nearly $30,000 went to charities.

There is still a $26,000 debt on the new library and excess contributions this year will be channeled to help pay off the debt. Last year, $25,000 was paid to reduce the library debt.

The amount of monies budgeted for the charities and solicitors names will be published before the drive in October.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

CAIRO — To the archeologist, probably nothing tops the temple of Rameses II at Abu Simbel on the banks of the Nile.

It has everything — age, history and fine artistry.

Everyone around Cairo warned us of the unfavorable conditions, but after coming this far, nothing would halt our journey short of its goal.

Now that it's over, I can see why folks here wanted to con us off the trip.

Abu Simbel is almost 1,000 miles south of Cairo. The first 50 are easy, flying United Arab Airlines to Luxor and then Aswan. But the final leg is "sticky" to say the least.

Egypt runs no boats on the Nile during low water. Only the Sudanese steamers make the jump up the Nile, from Aswan to Wadi Halfa, Sudan. Abu Simbel is about 40 miles north of the Sudan city.

We had a carefully-prepared plan — get off the Sudan boat at the temple, stay there until the next one returned in about 36 hours. Everyone said the heat was intense at Abu Simbel. The only sensible way would be if an Antiquities Department barge was moored at the site and we stayed aboard it during the two-day stretch.

But no one seemed to know if there was one, even the director general of the department. It could be in Aswan.

WE WERE willing to gamble.

Just before boarding the Sudanese steamer, a representative of the Tourist Administration gave us a letter, signed by the Antiquities head man, saying that we had permission to reside in the barge at Abu Simbel, if it was there.

The boat trip took almost two days, as we powered against the swift Nile current. Scenery along the way was beautiful, tiny village after village, with crop and grazing land running right into the river. Maize and lettuce grew a brilliant green. Sheep, goats and cows munched on the wild grass.

In some areas there were palm trees, but never in great number. The homes of the natives sat back among the hills and the river's high-water mark could be seen just below them.

Each summer, the Aswan dam is opened and Lower Egypt's Nile valley, north of Aswan, is flooded. The water level drops in Upper Egypt, which is to the south, providing lush lands.

In another year, when the new High Dam begins to form the 350-mile-long reservoir, all these villages will be covered with water permanently and about 50,000 Nubians relocated north of Aswan.

Natives came to the river's edge as our boat slid by, the children waving happily, proving once more that kids are kids no matter where they live.

Pulling up to Abu Simbel at 11:30 p.m., one of the craziest chapters in anyone's travel began. Jumping ashore, I looked about for an Antiquities barge. A dark silhouette loomed to the south. The hurried sandy hike to it reminded me of mushing across the beach at Lake Michigan.

Stepping aboard, I inquired if anyone was there. A native crewman got up from his blanket on the upper deck. I showed him the letter, but it was dark and besides he couldn't read Arabic. As it turned out, neither could any of the six crewmen.

☆

WITH SHOUTS of "Aly!" from one to another, we returned to the Sudanese boat, which was only stopping for 30 minutes, to get someone to tell the crew what the note said. We found a fellow who read the letter aloud, as half a dozen fellows crowded about.

Option Expired?

Wednesday, Sept. 25, was the final day for Mount Clemens businessmen to exercise their option from the government for the new post office building lot, across from city hall.

As of noon Wednesday, the Mount Clemens group, which won the government's bid to construct the building, had yet to pay the $20,000 approximate price to the city for the lot.

A request Monday to extend the option for 10 days was not acted upon, since it would have necessitated a special Council meeting, cost of which would have been paid by local taxpayers.

If the option was not exercised Wednesday afternoon, Council may then have the alternative of offering the lot at the same figure the government is now asking for the off-street parking lot site behind Easton's service station.

In early negotiations, the Federal government and city officials had verbally agreed to exchange lots with little or no difference in cost to either party.

The government has now tacked a $23,000 price tag on the parking lot, even after offering it once to the local schools practically free.

Director Montague To Resign

Don Montague, director of Tecumseh's Community Center since March, has announced to city officials that he is resigning.

His resignation will be official at the Park and Recreation Board's Oct. 14 meeting.

He anticipates leaving Tecumseh by the first of November to accept a position with the Toledo Parks and Recreation Department.

Watershed Meeting

A meeting of the River Raisin Steering Committee was held Wednesday in the Monroe County Library.

Afterwards, a panel composed of Harold Easton, chairman, Clyde Cook, vice chairman, William Gardiner, of the educational committee and Ray Nash, discussed the project.

The meeting was not open to the public.

The articles of incorporation were also discussed, and a committee was appointed to study them.

The articles will come up for a vote, probably during the Oct. 8 meeting, Mr. Easton said. Incorporation would make the Steering Committee a non-profit organization.

It would also change the name of the Steering Committee to the River Raisin Watershed Association.

The meeting in Monroe marks an increase in interest in Monroe County, Mr. Easton said, which has not shown much enthusiasm for the Watershed Project up till now.

City Renews Aid Efforts for $80,000

City officials are still seeking Federal aid, amounting to $80,000, after nearly a year corresponding with the government.

Late last year, Council approved resolutions requesting such aid. Officials learned in March that it had been rejected on a technical measure, making it necessary for Council to pass certain ordinances to become eligible.

Tecumseh re-applied May 20th along with other correspondence. A communication regarding the aid was followed up in August.

Tuesday, City Manager Cal Zorn received a reply to the May correspondence, which necessitated another application for the aid.

Re-application was made Wednesday.

A 13-year-old Tecumseh boy, son of a local minister, suffered serious and extensive injuries here in a bicycle-auto accident last Friday afternoon.

A. Carlton Sheley, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Alfred C. Sheley, 603 S. Pearl St., is in Herrick Memorial Hospital with a left leg broken in two places, separated pelvis, ruptured spleen, numerous lacerations and bruises, and a cheek cut completely through.

According to Mrs. Sheley, their doctor reports it will be 10 days before the internal injuries determine their results.

The family doctor says the lad in general is in pretty good shape for all he's been through, is holding his own, and is doing as well as can be expected.

A spunky boy, he already has asked about playing football this year. However, he will be in the hospital for many weeks and then in a body cast. He's now on a liquid diet.

According to the Tecumseh police, he was in the Tecumseh Products parking lot, just east of the plant, looking for his dog, when he rode his bicycle out of an exit there directly into the path of a car driven on E. Patterson St. by Mrs. Robert Baird, 47, 114 W. Patterson.

He was semi-conscious when rushed to the hospital.

Mrs. Baird, not held after the accident, told investigating officers she was driving between 15 and 18 mph.

There are two sisters and a brother at home. The Rev. Sheley is pastor at the Church of God.

First Donation for Player's Building Fund

3 Place on Merit Tests

Three Tecumseh [illegible] School students have been named semi-finalists in the 1963-64 Merit Scholarship competition, according to Principal Neville Hart.

They became semifinalists through their outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. This test of educational development was given in more than 16,500 high schools last March.

Fawn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Choske of 707 Wenonah street, Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Johnson of 516 W. Pattawatamie and David is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard E. Dustin, 309 N. Union street.

THE SEMIFINALIST group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in United States territories. Each Semifinalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice.

Semifinalists must substantiate their qualifying test performance on a second examination, be endorsed by their schools, and fulfill certain routine requirements to become Finalists. All Merit Scholars are selected from the Finalist group.

As Finalists, the students will be eligible for scholarship awards. Awards are tailored to the need of the recipient.

They may reach a maximum of $6,000 for four years down to $400 a year for students who already possess financial resources which will enable the student to attend the college of his choice.

The names of the Merit Scholar winners will be announced about April 23, 1964.

Card Party Week Proceeds Going to Landscape Project

Card Party Week proceeds will benefit the landscaping project sponsored by the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Each member of the auxiliary will be contacted to purchase a ticket or give a party. Persons do not have to be auxiliary members to sponsor parties.

The ticket price will be $1.25; 25 cents to be used at the individual parties for table prizes.

At 9 p.m. on the Thursday, Oct. 17, ticket numbers will be drawn for the door prizes. Winners will be notified.

But humorless MSU professors have developed the unglamorous MSU 713-5 plant that produces only female blossoms. Male and female plants can be grown separately, then pollinated by the action of bees. MRS. RICHARD WRIGHT

Campbell-Wright Exchange Vows

Barbara J. Campbell became the bride of Richard W. Wright Sept. 21 at the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Laszlo Gero.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schultz of Bellville and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lamb, 513 Nokomis St.

Joyce Schultz, sister-in-law of the bride, was the matron of honor and Proctor Pace served as best man.

The bride wore a light turquoise lace sheath dress with an apron overskirt and three-quarter sleeves. A crown of turquoise lace held the illusion veil in place.

White carnations and pink rose buds made up the bridal bouquet.

Pink and white blossoms were used in the altar vases.

The couple are honeymooning in the southern states.

A shower of gifts was presented to Paul Hoag and his bride. Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hoag of Saginaw.

Revise Girl Scout Book

Girl Scouting is about to start an exciting season. A program change is being launched designed to fit the needs of this generation of girls with a whole new series of updated books and a new leader's notebook.

An effort is being made to make possible an equipment center right here in the city where the new books as well as other materials may be obtained.

Van Mers Department Store is willing to handle the merchandise if National Girl Scout Headquarters will just agree to it.

Thus far the powers-that-be have stated that there are not enough scouts in the area to warrant such a center.

Mrs. Hal Yoder, neighborhood chairman, said Friday that there were 35 troops last year and will be several more this year due to the lowering of age requirements for Brownies.

The colorful new handbooks are for four age groups: Brownies (ages 7 and 8), Junior Girl Scouts (9, 10 and 11), Cadette Girl Scouts (ages 12, 13 and 14), and Senior Girl Scouts (ages 15, 16 and 17).

Mrs. G. L. Murphy, president of the Irish Hills Council, explained that the four books represent successive stages in one continuous program for girls aged 7 thru 17.

Each book was produced by a team of specialists, including a girl scout advisor, a writer, a designer and an illustrator, experts in the age level for which the book was intended.

The new books are available at Fields Department Store in Jackson at present and Mrs. Stanley Kruse is willing to pick up copies for those who contact her with the $1 fee.

Carol Baker, Albert Taylor Wed

Carol Mae Baker and Albert G. Taylor were married in St. John's Lutheran Church, Stony Ridge, O., Sept. 21, by the Rev. George F. Haynes, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Baker of Perrysburg, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Bert M. Taylor, of Onsted, recently of Tecumseh.

Mrs. Harry Keller was the organist. Vases of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were used with lighted candelabra to enhance the sanctuary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length dress of white silk peau de soie styled with scoop neckline outlined in appliques of Chantilly lace.

The low waistline featured a large self bow at the back and scattered appliques of the lace were repeated on the skirt.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white chrysanthemums.

Carol Whitt and Dorothy Lukens, both of Ohio, were the bridesmaids. They were attired as the maid of honor.

Lowell R. Baker was best man and the guests were seated by Charles Taylor, brother of the groom, and Paul F. Baker.

Long & Short

At last they understood and everyone smiled.

"Ask them if there is food and water aboard," I implored the Sudan fellow. He did.

"There is plenty of filtered water, but no food," was his translated reply.

We hadn't prepared for this.

"Can you sell me some food?" I pleaded to the Sudanese chief steward. He was reluctant, but finally headed below to the galley with me quick at his heels.

Precious minutes ticked off. The chap with the galley key had to be found and I swear the ship was starting to take off.

Finally we got in to the pantry and I motioned at the meager supply of canned goods on the shelf. We finally settled on four cans, pears, peaches, carrots and green beans. A large loaf of hard Sudanese bread was added. Total charge: $4.

With this we headed ashore for the nearly two-day stay. At the time, almost midnight, the weather was comfortable. However, dawn brought another story.

During the following two days, we sweltered through near 110-degree temperatures. It was so hot that after 10 in the morning hardly a thing stirred. Our major occupation was trying to find a piece of shade on the deck of the barge.

BUT, there were handsome dividends.

Dawn brought perfect lighting conditions for picture taking and both cameras — for color and black and white shots — were used between about 6:15 and 8 a.m., to catch the various aspects of Rameses' most fabulous memorials.

The crew members on the barge and other natives of the area were tremendous. We got along famously and I made sure to take everyone's pictures.

A young English couple, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lucas, also stayed the two days, prepared to sleep under the stars, coming with sleeping bags, a jerry can of water and several tins of meat. We ended up eating together and sharing our foodstuffs.

It's dangerous to eat native food, except in the case of melons, which have heavy rinds and protect the fruit from flies, insects and dirty hands.

We ate several honeydews, which fairly melted in our mouths. Bargaining with the locals is part of the game and they'd ask 10 piastres, fairly sure they'll never get it. The buyer offers four and they'll drop to eight. One giant melon went for six, which pleased me.

A piastre is worth 2.3 cents.

As it turned out, food wasn't so much the problem as water. There was enough, but those parched lips and dry throats called for it constantly.

After the 36-hour stay, when the Sudanese steamer came gliding into view, it looked like the Queen Mary in all her glory.

Next week, the column will be devoted to the Abu Simbel temples.

End Church Work With Migrants

The Britton Congregational Christian Church and the First Baptist Church of Tecumseh were hosts for the last Sunday afternoon recreation for migrants.

The Rev. and Mrs. Blair Bashore were present for outdoor games including volley ball.

Luncheon was served by ladies from both churches in the Britton Methodist Church following indoor games.

Prizes were given for good grooming to the adults and school supplies, balls and hair ornaments to younger boys and girls.

An hour of singing and worship was held in the church conducted by the Rev. G. O. Hannevik and the Rev. Clarence Burkhard from the Maybee Congregational Church.

The committee is looking forward to working with the migrants next year.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Gulls on every buoy and piling, an abundance of green growth and plenty of blue sky and water greeted us as we motored out of the mouth of the Raisin River Saturday into Lake Erie.

If that extremely filthy water had only been clean, we could not have wished for pleasanter conditions.

Though there are more palatable places to launch a boat than in that murk, still Father was giving me the opportunity to see this co-called world seaport first hand.

He had warned about the smell and we weren't disappointed. Until the River project is consummated, how will the red carpet ever be possible.

Fishing was good out in the lake and we arrived back in Tecumseh with plenty of perch for the relatives.

THE MACON GRIST MILL — Here is the picture of the fateful fifth harvest. Henry Ford had built the mill and reconstructed the house in the back for the Haydens to live in while the fifth crop was being harvested and milled. It was Ford's intention to have all the work done right on the farm so spectators could see the process from beginning to end. Henry Ford became mortally ill before the harvest and did not carry through on his plans.

PLANTING THE WHEAT — Henry Ford is shown at the "token" plot near the Little Friends church. When Mr. Ford became sick and lost interest in the experiment, Mr. Hayden wasn't allowed to reap the harvest on Ford's land. Ironically, the ceremonies took place at the wheat grown on this faur by eight foot plot.

Macon Grist Mill Site Of Tithing Experiment

By TOM BRIEN

What at first looked like triumph to the late Perry Hayden turned into disaster and nearly wrecked his six year wheat experiment to prove giving one tenth of your wages to the Lord would be richly rewarded.

In an experiment that began one year before Pearl Harbor and lasted until one year after V-J Day, Perry Hayden, the late owner of the Hayden Flour Mills, Inc., faced nature's temperament fluctuating public interest, and the disapproval of an American billionaire to prove his point for God.

It began with an original one cubic inch of seed in 1940, to show that God meant what He said when He asked "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse . . . and I will open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

The idea was to plant every kernel harvested except the 10 per cent tithe, which was to be given to the church. The original cubic inch planted an area four feet by eight. The second year, an area 24 by 60 feet was planted. The third year one acre, and fourth year, 16 acres.

☆

IT NEARLY ENDED during the fifth year when Henry Ford, who had come to regard Mr. Hayden's experiment as pretty much his own, couldn't share Mr. Hayden's resolve to give away whatever profit accrued to the Lord.

Mr. Hayden intended to distribute the wheat to needy people all over the world. The war would be over when the experiment ended, he reasoned, and many starving souls would need the wheat.

"You shouldn't give away anything," Mr. Ford scolded. "My idea is to create opportunities and jobs for people, and let them learn to take care of themselves.

"I don't believe in creeds of any kind. We need chapels, schools and workshops."

☆

BY THAT TIME, the wheat growing experiment had been nearly usurped by Mr. Ford.

He gave Mr. Hayden the use of his land, situated along the Mills-Macon highway. He had built the grist mill along the Macon creek, reconstructed the house behind the mill from a house in Macon, and donated 230 acres for the planting of the fifth harvest.

"Don't go into debt," Mr. Ford himself warned Mr. Hayden, although Mr. Hayden already owed him $6,595.20 for the planting and harvesting of the fifth crop.

"When you borrow money, someone else takes over your business and runs it for you," Mr. Ford said.

The warning was ironic, for it was Mr. Hayden's indebtedness to Henry Ford that nearly defeated the experiment one year before its completion.

☆

JUST BEFORE the fifth crop was to be harvested, Henry Ford became mortally ill. The dynamic leadership that kept the Ford empire going was in abeyance, and all of Henry's many "private" interests, such as Mr. Hayden's tithing experiment, were left floundering.

What was worse, the Ford people couldn't act until Henry Ford either regained his health or passed away. His immense power couldn't be shifted to subordinates.

The wheat growing around the new Macon grist mill approached the harvest date and passed, without a word from Ford.

There couldn't be even a ceremonial cutting at the farm. When Mr. Hayden and hundreds of townspeople and celebrities went to the mill, it was tightly cordoned off by Ford guards.

☆

LUCKILY, a token plot had been planted near the Little Friends Church at the corner of Pottawatamie and Van Buren. They decided to conduct ceremonial services there and wait to see what the Ford people decided.

Then, Tuesday after the ceremonies, Ford workmen suddenly appeared in the Macon field without notice, and rushed through a spectacular harvesting job.

Forty huge Allis-Chalmers combines cut and threshed the wheat in one operation. They kept 12 trucks busy hauling the grain to the many bins on the Ford farms. It required two gasoline tankers, two water trucks, and 67 men to keep the battery of combines going.

When they were finished, they had 5,355.5 bushels of wheat delivered to Mr. Hayden. The 10 per cent tithe, 555 bushels.

☆

It did in a way. Jens Touborg figured if the 1945 crop of "biblical wheat" kernels were laid end to end, it would have formed a belt on the 42nd meridian, circling the world.

The tithe from the fifth crop was sold and a check for $861.03 was given to the Friends Church.

They voted to give the tithe to the Tecumseh Hospital. Mrs. Naomi Sallows, treasurer of the Church, presented the check the following Sunday.

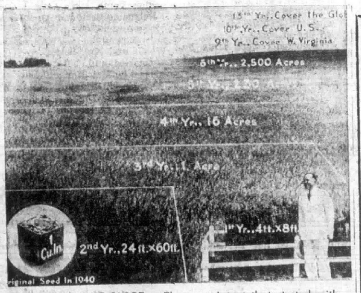
FOR THE SIXTH and final year, Mr. Hayden enlisted the help of neighboring farmers. Each farmer was to plant the seed, agreeing to keep track of the harvest, and to give one tenth of the harvest for Famine Relief.

All told, 276 farmers took part in the final crop. They grew a total of 72,150 bushels which were grown on 2,666 acres. The tithed wheat was brought to the Adrian Fair Grounds, where a celebration ended the experiment.

If the experiment had continued for nine years, it would have covered an area the size of West Virginia. If it had continued for 10 years, it would have covered the United States. By the 13th year, it would have covered the globe.

READ THE HERALD IT PAYS



WILL COVER THE GLOBE — The experiment that started with one cubic inch of wheat kernels, would cover the whole globe in 13 years if nine-tenths of the harvest were replanted.

Minister Will Speak of Trip to Holy Land

The Church of Christ will be host for a lecture Saturday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m. when Gerald E. Montgomery will speak.

Their travels took them to Egypt, the birthplace of Moses and the pyramids of the Pharoahs. They flew by airplane over the approximate route traveled by the children of Israel in Egyptian bondage to the promised land.

☆

AFTER VISITING Jerusalem and the vicinity (on both Jordan and Israelian sides of the border) the couple made an extensive motor car tour of Galilee.

They next visited Athens, where the apostle Paul preached so long ago, and then on to Rome. They returned home by way of Paris and London.

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

by BARRY FLYNT

Boysville's World History classes, taught by Brother James Kinsella, traveled to Toledo Friday, Sept. 20. Their destination was the Ancient History Museum where they viewed the Egyptian exhibition.

√

Boysville cheerleaders treked to Ypsilanti Saturday, Sept. 21, to the cheerleaders' clinic. They picked up a few pointers on what cheerleaders should and shouldn't do.

√

The first in a series of radio programs was heard Friday, Sept. 20, by the students. This is a closed-circuit station broadcast over the P.A system in the school. Michael Siedlecki was on mike-side.

√

Brother John Lavelle, former Director of Boysville, paid a visit to the campus Saturday. His present position of Vocation Director for sections of the Midwest area requires that he travel to schools taught by the Brothers in that area.

√

Boysville JV's scrimmaged Garden City's JV's last Sunday. Though not an official game, the teams came out with three touchdowns apiece.

√

The finishing touches were put on the newly refinished gym floor this past weekend. Mr. Joseph Fortunato, this year's head basketball coach, was assisted in this project by five willing students.

The Knights lost their first league game of the season to the Deerfield Minutemen by a score of 25-6. Although the Knights were able to out-distance the Minutemen in rushing by 75 yards, four long plays by Deerfield broke the game wide open.

Cannon of Deerfield was the man to stop as he played a key role in all of Deerfield's touchdowns. A 24 play drive netted the Knights six points as Norris McFarland passed six yards to Ron Klos waiting in the end zone.

√

Intramural football began last week under the direction of Brother Paul Clark. Under this program a game is scheduled for every weekday afternoon for all the non-varsity players.

Dundee Whips Tecumseh, 19-6; Ypsilanti Lincoln Here Friday

Tecumseh dropped its second straight game of the season at Dundee Friday night, 19-6, and gave every indication that the Indians are in for a long, long season.

Little defense and practically no offense have dropped the Indians into the doldrums — a situation which may become more and more common as the early season progresses.

If Tecumseh is going to win a game this season, its best chance is coming up here Friday night when the Indians open the home season against Ypsilanti Lincoln.

The Railsplitters were shellacked 28-0 by Grosse Ile last week. Since the formation of the Huron League, Ypsi has been a push-over for Tecumseh and most other teams.

The two teams, off their scores, appear to be about equal this Friday night with a slight edge to Tecumseh.

A fog-shrouded field failed to hide the inept play of Tecumseh against Dundee last week. To make it worse, the Vikings were [illegible] up, making the differences in the two teams' play decidedly in favor of the winners.

Gregg McEnroe pounced on a Viking fumble in the opening minutes of the first quarter to give Tecumseh its only scoring opportunity.

Taking over on Dundee's 24, the Indians scored in seven plays with John Oberlin flipping a short pass to end Roy Newton in the end zone.

At the 10:51 mark in the second period, Dundee climaxed a 65-yard march with Chuck Ellison driving over from the two.

Bob Edelbrock, who tallied Dundee's third TD on a 37-yard jaunt in the third quarter, plunged for the extra point — enough as it turned out, to win the game.

Only late in the third period and early in the fourth, did Tecumseh muster a drive — by passes — and then have it stopped on the Dundee 20, just inches short of a first down.

Hold that Line

The Tecumseh Indians relearned an old, old lesson Friday night at the Dundee field, "Victory goes to the team that makes the fewest mistakes." After the game, Coach Tom Fagan started to compile a list of mistakes to prove a point to the players, then got tired and discouraged, and finally stopped counting.

Those who braved the murky weather saw what Coach Fagan meant. Tecumseh was down only one point at the half when halfback Dave Lemerand, one of the more reliable ball carriers, fumbled on the kickoff. The defense rose to the occasion and stopped Dundee, only to have Lemerand fumble again on the first play from scrimmage.

Outside of being rudely awakened by a fired-up Dundee team, the biggest shocker in Friday's game was Tecumseh's refusals of Dundee penalties. Once, the difference was over 10 yards and on first down — and on Tecumseh's 15!

Tim Collins showed flashes of some fancy running in the second half against the Vikings. His 17-yard run in the final stanza was the best looking Tecumseh run of the night.

Jerry Hebb, regular defensive end, was lost to the Indians just before the game. Jerry has a calcium deposit forming on a muscle in his arm. They had put his arm in a cast. He will be out for three weeks.

Doug Goldsberry will be out of action again this week. He suffered a rib injury in the Dundee game. Kirk Lucas will probably take his place as outside linebacker.

The Indians have looked sad — what else — in dropping their first two games, but we still can't see them continuing to lose. Wouldn't be surprising to see a better team Friday against Ypsi, and then a climb towards improvement and a more respectable season.

While Ron was playing, brother Dennis was sitting. He got in one play, took a swing at one of Adrian's players, and was escorted back to the bench by the referee.

OVER 200 — Nancy Mead, one of 220 THS juniors out soliciting magazine sales to help the class finance its trip to the World Fair in New York in 1965.

THS Band Joins 188 Others in U-M Stadium

Tecumseh High School Senior Band will participate in the 15th annual Band Day at The University of Michigan Sept. 28 during the Michigan-Southern Methodist football game.

Some 188 Michigan high school bands representing over 13,000 musicians will be featured.

A pre-game demonstration by 1,500 baton twirlers will be presented and at half-time the bands will completely fill the gridiron.

A series of numbers under the direction of Dr. William D. Revelli, U-M bands director, will be played featuring "America the Beautiful", "You're a Grand Old Flag", and "The River Kwai March".

Don Johnson, local band instructor, announced that the buses carrying about 85 local band students will leave the school at 7 a.m. and probably will return about 6:30 p.m.

ROUND TRIP travel will total more than 25,000 miles with schools at Houghton and Sault Ste. Marie coming the farthest.

Students will use about 52,000 sheets of music, while the investment in uniforms and musical instruments runs well over $1,000,000.

Adrian Blasts Britton

The Britton Tories played Adrian Catholic Central on even terms for one half, then collapsed when Adrian scored their second touchdown in the third quarter. Adrian won 38-0.

Time ran out on the Tories as they penetrated deep into Adrian territory in the second quarter. The gun sounded with the Tories on the six-yard line.

Adrian scored their first touchdown on a sustained drive. In the second period, a screen pass set up their second score. After that, it was Adrian all the way.

Today...Jet-smooth Luxury '64 CHEVROLET

Chevrolet was luxurious before, but you should see it now. With smart new styling, the '64 Chevrolet looks even longer (but isn't). There's even a whole new series this year—the Impala Super Sports—with front bucket seats as standard equipment. (The new Impalas and Bel Airs are more luxurious, too. Even the lowest priced Biscaynes have new foam-cushioned seats front and rear and are fully carpeted.) Of course, you expect more than just luxury from Chevrolet. A choice of 16 power teams, for instance—a 6 and six V8's up to 425 hp (optional at extra cost). And quieter transmissions. Jet-smooth ride with Full Coil suspension. Flush-and-dry rocker panels, Delcotron generator, self-adjusting brakes and other low-upkeep features. If you've ever wondered how luxurious Chevrolet could get—with all the extra-cost options there are to choose from—that's entirely up to you.

CHEVELLE! by Chevrolet

You've never seen anything like this totally new line of cars before. Chevelle is new in everything but Chevrolet quality. Chevelle is a good foot shorter than the big cars, so it parks easily. Yet the interior of its Body by Fisher gives you a generous supply of passenger and luggage room. The ride is surprisingly smooth with a rugged coil spring at all four wheels. And not so surprisingly for Chevrolet, the new Chevelle offers a choice of engines ranging from an economical 120-hp 6 to a 220-hp V8 (optional at extra cost). Choose the Chevelle you like best from the three series—the Malibu Super Sport, the Malibu and the 300 Series, eleven models in all—at your Chevrolet dealer's. (This good-looking Malibu Super Sport, maybe?)

THERE'S 5 IN 64 CHEVROLET

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THE RETURN OF THE NUT-HATCHES

One does not have to look at a calendar to know that it is fall. Just look outside! Actually, our picture window has been Fallish all month long. I suppose that our near-draught conditions are partially, if not wholly, responsible. Already the lawns are littered with leaves, many merely wizzelled and dropped without even turning color.

But there are other signs of Fall for us to consider today. The actions of many of our birds proclaim the season. For example, the main contingent of robins has been long gone. Weeks ago the clan started gathering and for several days there were robins everywhere. One morning we awoke and they had gone — no signal, no goodbye note, just nothing.

A few stragglers are beginning to show up and I wonder if they won't be the stout-hearted, but oh, so very foolish souls, who will winter in this area. They are big, sleek looking birds, pretty to see but, if they do pass up a winter in the South, there must be something wrong with their heads!

☆

IN THE PAST, the grackle population has built up and then left en masse, much like the robins. This year, however, their departure has not been so dramatic — they have apparently just gone a few at a time.

We have nowhere near the hordes we had in mid-summer but there are still, at this writing at least, enough black thieves around to be too many.

First cousins to the yellow-eyed, evil-looking grackles are the starlings; just before dark they swarm, but, if I even begin to get started on that, we shall go no further.

Some of the nice Fall bird happenings occur at the feeding station. After practically deserting us during the hot weather, there seems to be nothing like that first snap of cold weather to bring some of the winter regulars back to the feeding tray.

☆

WE HAVE particularly enjoyed the return of the nut-hatches. Not only are they back on a more or less regular schedule, but they are back in such numbers!

As nearly as we can tell, there are five of these up-side-down birds. They do not enjoy each other's company, however, so there is action aplenty at the feeder.

Two will sometimes manage to share the tray while the others hang around on the fence or in the wren tree impatiently awaiting their turn. If the wait is too long, one will sometimes try to make it a three-some and then there is trouble.

Oh, boy — have you ever seen a nut-hatch fight? They ruffle the feathers on their backs till it almost looks as if their shoulders were hunched up; their wings are spread, sometimes held out straight, sometimes raised.

Nut-hatches have silly little voices, they always remind me of old-fashioned automobile horns, and, when the birds are squaring off at each other, they honk. It is certainly not a very belligerent sound but, from the actions, it is not hard to guess that it is meant to sound fierce and threatening.

IF THE ABOVE actions and sounds don't produce the desired effects, they start lunging at each other. This really looks dangerous — their bills are so long and pointed that we always expect to see someone get stabbed.

Fortunately, the wars always stop just short of actual combat. I suppose they decide the sunflower seeds aren't really worth that kind of fighting, and so, before the blood-letting starts, they fly away.

So it is that once again Fall is with us; some of the things that it has brought we do not especially enjoy but one, which is great fun and over which we are very pleased, is the return of the nut-hatches.

Next Week: "A Guilty Conscience".

RAIN, RAIN GO 'WAY!

Time was when a rainy day spoiled the homemaker's plans, too! But today, let it rain, let it rain . . . she dries her clothes in the modern automatic clothes dryer . . . indoors.

No more braving freezing temperatures to hang clothes outdoors or cluttering up the basement with lines of wet wash . . . just a turn of the dial on the automatic clothes dryer and her laundry is dried fluffy-soft and sunshine-fresh in a matter of minutes.

Forgotten is her weekly washday schedule — she launders when it's most convenient. Day or night, any time is perfect for clothes drying —with the automatic clothes dryer.

SOCIAL SECURITY Question and Answers

Question: I am a farmer and have a hired man during my busy season. When should I report his wages for social security purposes?

Question: Some of the older teachers in the school where I teach get social security payments every summer. They aren't retired yet and plan to continue teaching when school starts again. How can they get payments if they haven't retired?

Answer: Any teacher who has worked long enough under social security to be insured can get social security for any month in which she doesn't earn over $100 or isn't active in a business. Most older teachers can get benefits for July and August. Some school boards pay teachers their salary over 12 months. This won't keep the average teacher from getting social security in the summer, however, since their salary isn't earned in the summer months, it's just paid them.

Question: My husband is past 65 and receiving his monthly social security checks. I am 58 and have never worked under social security. May I receive wife's benefits now as I am totally disabled?

Answer: No. You would not be eligible to receive a wife's benefit while you are under age 62 unless you have a child in your care who is entitled to benefits based on your husband's social security account.

Question: I sent a letter to the Social Security Payment Center last month and asked them to change my address but my check came to the old address. Why?

Answer: For the Social Security Administration to change address on your check, the notice of change must be received early in the month before the month in which the check is due.

Apparently, the notice of your change of address arrived too late for the change to be made. Your check will arrive on time at your new address next month.

In the event your notice was mailed early enough, it is possible you did not show your social security claim number on the letter. The change of address cannot be made until your claim number is obtained.

Question: I work as a cleaning woman in a number of private homes. Some of my employers didn't report my earnings for social security because I work only half a day a week for them. Are they doing the right thing?

Answer: Any employer who pays you $50 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter is legally liable for reporting your earnings. As little as four dollars paid regularly every week should be reported. Ask the social security office for pamphlet No. 21 to give to your employer.

Ray Fischer Has Completed Naval Testing

Marine Private Raymond L. Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie H. Fischer, 1329 Carson Hwy., recently completed a week of testing and screening at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis Tenn.

During the week he received aptitude tests and was interviewed by a senior staff non-commissioned officer to determine his aptitudes for technical training in preparation for aviation duties.

'61 Student Gets Diploma

It takes ambition and maturity to do what George Forgacs has accomplished.

Monday night, the Tecumseh School Board approved a diploma for him.

Neville Hart, high school principal, says he took far more courses than required and more than any other former Tecumseh student who had entered the service and then completed his education.

Ford cars have changed. Only a test drive can tell you how much. Races and rallies, economy runs, braking and acceleration tests have bred into our 1964 models the kind of total performance you just can't create on the test track alone. They are hard-muscled, fast-moving, sure-footed. Open competition helped make them that way. They offer you substantially more car than anything at their price. You don't have to take our word for it. We're willing to rest our case on our cars.

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

HAVING A FIELD DAY — Many took advantage of the fish left high and dry after the Red Mill Pond was drained last Monday for repairs on the main gate. Thousands of fish were stranded. Below the dam, fish crowded into small pockets of water and were easy picking.

Entertains Irene Circle

Mrs. Herbert Dillon entertained the Irene Circle of the Methodist Church at her home Monday evening, Sept. 16.

Fourteen members and two guests, Mrs. Don Crosby and Mrs. Ken Spade, were present.

Devotions for the evening were given by Mrs. Vaynard Close.

Announcement was made that the rummage sale will be at the church Sept. 27 and 28. There will also be a bake sale on Sept. 28.

The program was presented by Mrs. Robert Cheers. Her topic was "What Does the Christian Woman Read and When?"

Refreshments were served by co-hostesses Mrs. Glen Rupp and Mrs. Lee Kayner.

Post Nuptial Party Held

"Daisies Will Tell" was the theme of a post nuptial party for Mrs. Terry Hendricks nee Cynthia Poley, a summer bride, who was honored in the Norman Ries home recently.

Clever verses with a daisy lift carried out the theme giving clues to the hidden gifts about the home. Diane Sprow, Gail and Janet Trowbridge assisted the bride in opening the gifts.

Appropriate games were played and prizes awarded.

The Ries home was decorated with daisy-type autumn leaves in tawny hues. They were also used on cakes featured at the luncheon served to 35 attending from Tipton, Britton, Adrian, Round Lake and Tecumseh.

DELAYED CATTLE FEEDING PROGRAMS LOOK BEST for this coming season. Chances for making profit on heavy yearlings placed this fall for a short feed appear slim. Cost of grain will be high relative to expected market price this winter. On the other hand, profit prospects on well bought calves or light yearlings put on feed this fall and headed for sale next summer or early fall appear good. If your program calls for a short feed, better hold off buying heavy yearlings until along about January.

BUY HAY NOW if you need it. While prices have already registered gains further rise into winter is expected in view of the shorter crop. Hay production this season was down 10% from last year and 8% below normal. You may be able to stretch your hay supply and hold down feed costs by feeding more grain. Before buying additional hay refigure your rations to make sure you have the most economical combination of grain and hay.

PLAN CAREFULLY BEFORE BUYING LAND to expand the productive capacity of your farm. With land values still on the rise there may be cheaper ways of accomplishing this. Take a hard look at your operation to see if a change in enterprises or additional use of fertilizer, herbicides and other production inputs will permit you to increase income on existing acres. If not, perhaps you might want to consider renting rather than owning.

A GOOD FIRE EXTINGUISHER on your picker or combine may save you many dollars during harvest. To prevent running out of chemical before the fire is completely extinguished carry a 5-pound or larger dry chemical extinguisher.

Future Farmers Will Launch War on Rats

The Britton chapter, Future Farmers of America, is joining forces with FFA chapters in other parts of the country in a "war to the death" against rats in farm communities, it was announced by Mr. Paul Marks, Britton chapter leader.

The campaign is part of a nationwide program, from Sept. 1 to Nov. 30, to curb the mounting economic losses and reduce the incidence of disease caused by rats.

It is estimated that every rat on a farm is responsible for $10 to $20 in ruined food and damaged property. Rats carry diseases that endanger the health of humans and livestock, Mr. Marks said.

Spearheading the rat control program will be a large proportion of the country's 384,000 FFA members, who range in age from 17 to 21 years.

To carry out the rat-eradication campaign, FFA chapters are being asked to alert farm communities to the seriousness of the problem. Next step is to organize the actual campaign and to enlist active community support.

"Experience has shown that the success of a rat control program depends on the fullest cooperation of the entire community," Mr. Marks said.

Help Save Lives

Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in town at the Community Center Oct. 1 from noon until 6 p.m.

Although our community on the whole is progressive and supports many deserving projects, we must hang our heads in shame when we look at the figures tabulated on blood collection which benefits everyone.

Herrick Memorial Hospital uses an average of 60 pints of blood PER MONTH. In a twelve month period this adds up to 720 pints per year — almost six times the amount collected.

Granted all the blood is not used by Tecumseh residents, but the percentage of outsiders using the hospital's facilities is nowhere near the six to one mark.

In this recently installed program where the Red Cross is the official agency for blood collection, any resident of Lenawee County may receive blood free anywhere in the world. Only administration charges [illegible] made by the participating hospital.

When a resident receives blood out of the county, he should notify the Red Cross chapter house in Adrian, so that the Lansing regional blood center can replace the blood to the hospital treating him.

Call 423-2135 for appointment to give blood next Tuesday or fill out the donor's card on this page and send it to The Herald.

Underachievers

Most young people, like most adults, rarely operate at full capacity, but parents can take steps to help the child who is classed by educators as an "underachiever," according to an article in "Changing Times," the Kiplinger Magazine.

About half of all able boys and [illegible] quarter of all able girls are in this category — bright youngsters whose marks show that they are not doing as well as they should.

Most underachieving youngsters need more confidence and understanding, less nagging and reproof. Parents who think their child falls in this category should have a conference with his teacher. The important thing is to find out whether he is producing substantially below his ability and if so, why.

Lack of interest in school, rebellion, frustration and personal psychological problems are causes of underachievement. So are unsympathetic teachers and unsympathetic parents.

Boys need approval from their fathers plus the knowledge that their fathers respect education. They need to gain independence from their mothers.

Girls need expressions of love from their fathers, and mothers who are not dominating and not dissatisfied with their role as wife and mother.

Most students in the underachiever category do learn the basic information and skills they need to move up through the grades, but the work they turn out is close to the minimum they can get by with.

In boys, the tendency toward underachievement shows up as early as the first grade and usually is pretty clear by the third or fourth.

Girls aren't generally spotted until the sixth grade.

Though many an underachiever appears to be sailing blithely along, most are deeply concerned about failure and are disappointed in themselves, their teachers and their parents. They know they could be doing better but don't know why they should or how to get themselves to make the effort.

You Told Us

Human nature is funny, and you get to see much of it at a newspaper office.

Ask for volunteers and people will simply wilt out of sight. But make a mistake and dozens will offer to straighten you out.

We were not surprised when calls came in to correct our assertion that no information existed concerning the mill. We were a little surprised, however, to discover there is a whole book of information, "God Is My Landlord," by Raymond Jeffreys.

Many of our readers will remember the Perry Hayden tithe experiment in the early 1940's, and many will not. For those who don't, and for those who would like to read about it again, The Herald decided to run a feature story.

Do-It-Yourself Athletics

Our thanks to Lyall Smith, Detroit Free Press columnist, for showing us one reason why baseball is a declining sport.

In the past 40 years of modern baseball, the New York Yankees have won 25 pennants. The Detroit Tigers have won four, the last being in 1945.

Monopoly stifles competition. It also stifles interest, and American League attendance figures attest to this. Who would call baseball the "National Pastime" these days And don't be fooled by the increase in major league teams.

Football is more of a man's game anyway, even if it is not a gentleman's pastime.

It is also better organized, in that you can follow a star from high school, college and finally into professional ranks. It's much harder to follow a baseball comer — he disappears after playing on the local American Legion team into some remote minor league. If he's lucky, we can get to see him when he breaks into the majors, but by that time we've pretty well forgotten him.

Basketball seems to be holding its own, at least in high school and college leagues. It takes sports fans through the long cold winter. Even so, it never achieved its promise in professional levels, probably because of the fantastic scores.

Generally, it's only the last few minutes of a professional basketball game that is important. Lots of action but little strategy. Two teams trade the lead until the final bell rings, and the last one on top wins.

Hockey, another rough and tumble sport, continues to draw more fans, but it has little local interest in most areas of the United States.

The waning of the older games, such as baseball and boxing, isn't necessarily a bad sign.

It is more than offset by the fantastic growth of such participation sports as golf, bowling, skiing, sailing, camping, scuba diving, and many others.

The do-it-yourself attitude toward sports is healthy. Why watch others when you can get out and be an athlete yourself.

EDITORIAL IN PICTURE

RIGHT HERE IN TECUMSEH — The odds were 999,999,999,998 against it happening, but it did—and during the same week as quintuplet boys were born in Maracaibo, Venezuela, and four girls and a boy were born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, Aberdeen, S.D. Sextuplets were born in Tecumseh. Two of the young ones died, and so did the mother, but you can't say that it wasn't an event. The chagrined parents don't want a repeat of the Dione quintuplets unhappiness — too many contributions, and all that — so we are unable to release their names.

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITORS:

The Blood Bank will be in Tecumseh again Tuesday, Oct. 1. I wish with all my heart there was some way to show everyone how important it is to them and the community that they get behind it and help make a go of it.

The sudden need for blood in small or large amounts can strike any family at any time. With the Red Cross Blood Bank these needs are filled immediately. Without it, it can prove to be a long drawn out ordeal often ending up in paying cash ($35. a pint) for it.

We have had to do this many times in the past. It is impossible to describe the heartache and worry it can cause.

Since the blood bank was started in Lenawee County, we have had to call on it several times. I have no idea how many pints of blood our boys have used as the hospital sent the request to the Red Cross and the need was filled without one word from us.

The last time the blood bank was here there was only 63 pints of blood given. In a town the size of Tecumseh we should be able to come up with three times that much without any trouble.

Tecumseh is usually considered a go-getter and a leader, I hope the people of this area will get behind this program and put it over the top. Don't let someone else carry your load. We can carry our own if the people will try.

I hope to see a real good turn out Oct. 1. I'll be there! Will you?

Mrs. Hazel Boss.

Give Blood; Save Lives

(The bloodmobile will be in Tecumseh Oct. 1. The need for blood can strike anyone. Mrs. Merton Boss, Grey Lady for the Red Cross Blood Mobile has two sons who are victims of the rare blood disease, haemophilia, a tendency to profuse bleeding. Last fall, her son, Guy, was injured and needed 28 pints of blood. In the poem below, she tries to describe the heartache involved, and the relief of being able to count on the Red Cross Blood Bank.)

SAVE LIVES

The voices were hushed in emergency room.
The day was dull and filled with gloom.
"This little child will need blood to-day.
Do you know a donor you can get right away?"

It happened to us so we should know.
My mind was a blank as I hurried away,
Who could I turn to? What could I say?

Hours had passed, no blood could we find,
Possessed with fear, half out of my mind.
A policeman came and softly said,
"If we don't get one soon, the boy will be dead."

Finally we found two soldiers who would give.
I burst into tears. My boy now would live.
Again it happened a short time ago.
Those age old words, we've come to know.

"Your son needs blood, we'll start to-day."
But this time no need to hurry away.
The blood bank to which our community gives,
Will take care of his needs, and once more he lives.

The Red Cross Blood Bank is a wonderful thing.
Now and forever its praises I'll sing!!

Mrs. Hazel Boss

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

One of the tendencies of modern society is to let the oldest and youngest generations pull away from the rest of us.

A great portion of consumer production is directed toward the teenager, for instance; not altogether with happy results, for they have practically taken control of popular music, and consequently, the radio.

As this heralded group — the war babies and those just older — gains in maturity, we see emerging in America different and sometimes distressing social behavior.

This isn't the first time a generation has gone out into the streets to make its demands on the larger society, but this generation has developed its own, peculiar, non-violent forms.

AT THE OTHER end of life's scale, we find the older folks increasingly more willing to settle during their last few years in a convalescent home. It doesn't necessarily indicate, as it used to, that families don't want or love the older members.

It is partly the result of more of the old people having money of their own through social security. They are not as dependent, and consequently, seek to live out their lives in their own fashion.

Just the way we talk about them indicates a change in attitude. The current phrase, "Senior Citizens," shows a new attitude toward them as a separate group of society.

At the same time, we still exhibit a cruel tendency to cast them out of society. Cities still put convalescent homes out of the way: on the outskirts of town, in quiet zones, or in sections of town at the opposite end of the direction in which the town is growing.

☆

THIS IS WRONG, I think. I can remember my own grandmother sitting at night in a darkened living room, watching the people and traffic go by for hours on end.

We lived close to main street then. And when we moved away from town, she turned her attention away from people to television, which I never asked, but suspect, was a poor substitute.

There is considerable agitation to keep our senior citizens away from politics. Here, again, I wonder if the impulse is right.

My grandmother voted only once in the last 20 years — for the first Catholic president in some time.

Her other political beliefs seemed to me simple, although they had probably been as sophisticated as anyone else's in her day.

She wasn't afraid of the Communists, nor the Nazis during the Second World War. She was afraid we were being played for suckers by the British — of all people. Still, I don't think I would have kept her from participating in politics.

☆

I HAVE another relative who outdid John Steinbeck. (Mr. Steinbeck recently drove around the country, wrote a book about it, and made quite a bit of money.)

My great uncle is well into his eighties — 20 years older than Mr. Steinbeck — and he decided to do the same thing. He felt his time drawing near and wanted to take one last look at the country.

So he did. He purchased an old 1950 Chevy, put in a bed and makeshift kitchen, and left for California.

Starting from Key West, he toured the Western end of the country, wound his way to Michigan, and is now visiting relatives a few miles from here.

His premonition was accurate; he now has only months to live. He still doesn't know it, for the family is keeping it a secret.

Yet I don't think they are doing him a favor. He's the type of man who would want to face the last big experience in his long and eventful life. He would be the first to agree, I'm sure, that you can't keep secrets with life; else how are you going to live and die intelligently?

☆

WE HAVE another old friend, who was employed at the same store as my wife. She was recently fired because of all things, her breath smelled. This was a terrible [illegible] she did her job better than most of the young girls.

One day, just before she was fired, she told my wife about her life.

"You know," she said, "I never really loved my first husband. I don't want my children to know that, of course. He was a good husband and father."

He died 10 years ago. She was 62 at the time. She remained a widow for nearly eight years.

☆

THEN two years ago she met the man who became her second husband. They were married and lived together for nearly 18 months, when he died of a heart attack.

"You know, Mrs. Brien," she said, "That was the only man I ever loved. I worshipped the ground he walked on."

This woman is presently looking for another job, for she supports two of her grandchildren besides herself.

☆

The centrifugal tendency to throw the old and the young to the edges of society is deplorable. We need them. The older folks can be useful to themselves as well as to us.

Look at Konrad Adenauer in Germany. Der Alte — the Old One, they call him. Would Germany be as prosperous and well off as they are today without him; and he was 73 when he took over.

Together with his erstwhile partner in France, Charles de Gaulle, who is a good 15 years younger, but still past retirement age, they have made European history wait on them. And that's probably good for all of us.

So who's to say that they belong on the outskirts of town.

Ralph Helzerman Class President

Son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Helzerman, he recently toured Europe with the U-M's glee club.

He is a member of Phi Rho Sigma, medical fraternity.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

LUXOR, Egypt — Anticipation of seeing some world-renown treasures can overshadow the actual viewings.

But this is certainly not the case in visiting the Valley of the Kings and seeing this city's two fabulous temples.

The tombs of the Pharaohs, which date back 3,000 years, reveal that the ancient Egyptians were great engineers and artists. Modern man, with all the tools and gadgets of the 20th century at his disposal, would be hard pressed to copy these magnificent works.

No matter how impressed one may be in reading and hearing about the tombs, actually walking into them provides an unequalled thrill.

THE VALLEY of the Kings is across the Nile from this city, about three miles inland, located in the most fantastically barren area. It's the beginning of the Libyan Mountain range of volcanic rock swept with winding valleys. Not a single green thing grows there. The sun boils down during the day and temperatures range up to about 110 degrees.

Although some Egyptians live along the Nile, in front of the hilly landscape, no one can exist in the Valley. This apparently is why it was chosen for the burial of at least 64 kings (that's how many tombs have been found), to be as isolated as possible from grave robbers.

Unfortunately, the thieves found their way into the Valley over the years and broke into 63 of the tombs.

The one they missed, because it was directly under another, is the tomb most Americans know about, that of King Tut, or Tutankhamun, which was discovered by an English archaeologist in 1922. It had been undisturbed for 3,300 years.

☆

SURPRISINGLY, Tut's Tomb is one of the smaller ones, due to the fact his reign was among the shortest. In the days of the dynasties, the first thing a fellow did when declared king was to begin work on his tomb. The longer he lived, the more extensive the place of burial became.

Probably the Valley's most absorbing tomb is that of Seti I, who reigned for 15 years, from 1313 to 1298 B. C.

Interestingly enough, the air is clear and cool. The passageways are about 10 feet wide and 15 feet high, all decorated with intricate and symbolic paintings and hieroglyphics.

After proceeding about one-third of the way along, there's a deep well, which was designed to make robbers think that it led into the tomb proper.

But if this didn't fool them and they found that the back wall actually could be removed and allow further penetration, the trail seemed to end again in a large room, which was left unfinished, giving the idea that the tomb was never really completed.

AN ITALIAN, who discovered the tomb of Seti in 1817 knew of these bogus endings and kept tapping walls in the unfinished room until he found a hollow sound at one side. Cracking through, he learned that a stairway had been sealed off. This led to a lower level, another long passageway, and the real burial vault.

Unfortunately, robbers had also found the way many years earlier, looted the tomb and resealed it.

How the builders of this and other tombs were able to cut through the rock, keeping the walls true, and especially hewing out large rooms with pillars inside them, is truly a mystery.

Artwork depicts the passage of the king from life on earth to the "underground" and shows him being met by the various gods, then aided by other gods, battling demons.

Of course, the king always wins and is embraced by the gods in the final rooms, meaning he will be happy in his life after death.

☆

PRELIMINARY sketches were done in red pigment, then corrected in black by the master artist. These were finally painted. Over the years the colors have remained vivid. King Tut's burial room is alive with brilliant pictures, the best preserved of all the tombs.

The Temple of Luxor, right in the city, and about three miles due north near the Nile, the Representatives of the various industries will meet Friday afternoon to complete plans.

Mr. Conway says commercial, residential, municipal and professional sections will get underway on Oct. 23.

The Jaycee Auxiliary again will solicit the businesses. Dyke Helms is chairman.

It's the hope of officials to hit the $80,000 goal this year and be able to retire the $26,500 library debt.

Survey Nears End

The first phase of the Jaycee Community Survey will be completed next week according to Frank Sandhoff, chairman.

Only a few of the 300 questionnaires sent to residents of Tecumseh have not been turned in yet.

The Jaycees will begin tabulating the information and should be finished by the end of October.

"We were pleased with the response," Mr. Sandhoff said. Those who have not turned their questionnaires in yet may bring them to John Day, at Woolworth's and Dyke Helms at Helms Fruniture, Mr. Sandhoff added.

Bildwel Moving to Adrian

The Bildwel Company, 9301 Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., is moving to Adrian after outgrowing its present location in little more than two years.

Construction on the new building began Friday, Sept. 27, and the move to Adrian is slated for early next year, according to Robert MacDonald, owner.

Bildwel was operated for a few years as a part-time effort, he said, then moved out to the present location in July, 1961. By summer of 1962, the payroll had grown from one to 15. This summer, he is employing 35.

The growth of Bildwell is the result of Mr. MacDonald's own invention, an automatic hinge which closes the door after you shut it two-thirds of the way.

It is built primarily for cabinet doors and the like. The hinge also keeps the door open in any position and eliminates the catch.

☆

MR. MacDONALD got the patent last fall, then began production this spring.

The demand has been so great he can't keep up, Mr. MacDonald related, partly because he must still purchase parts.

In his new plant, approximately 30,000 square feet of ground floor, Mr. MacDonald expects to produce his own parts.

Besides automatic hinges, Bildwel manufactures: sliding door hardware, floor registers, cosmetic boxes, door knobs, lazy susans, range hoods, concealed hinges, conventional hinges, drawer slides and drawer stops.

PARKED CAR STOPS BUS WITH FAULTY BRAKES

No Brakes, School Bus Hits Car

A Tecumseh school bus, carrying approximately 18 kindergartners, went out of control just before noon Tuesday and smashed into a parked car.

According to Police Officer Robert Arwood, Tecumseh Bus No. 7, driven by Mrs. LaJoyce Harper, was traveling east on Munger Rd., and was unable to stop at the Ternes Rd. intersection, due to faulty brakes.

The officer also stated that a mechanic checked the bus and found a wheel cylinder had broken. Mrs. Harper's attempt to stop the bus with the emergency brake also failed.

Police Chief Murell Clark said a charge against Mrs. Harper will be made, charging the driver with operating a vehicle with defective equipment — no brakes and also unable to keep the bus in gear over bumpy roads.

The 1956 bus has approximately 100,000 miles on it.

School Enrollment 3,192 Increases Aid $25,000

Official enrollment in the Tecumseh schools hit an all-time high when figures were tallied Friday — date required for state aid — and totalled 3,192.

Supt. James McDowell says the total is 112 more than the schools' budgeted for and will give the local schools approximately $25,000 more than expected.

With a senior class of about 180 graduating next June, and an eighth grade of about 250 entering high school for the 1964-65 term, Tecumseh's days as a Class B school are rapidly coming to an end.

A THS graduate of 20 plus years ago remarked that the high school alone now is about twice the total school enrollment when he was a senior.

At the September school board meeting, boardmen discussed ways of applying the extra state aid, at that time estimated to be about $15,000.

No action was taken with further discussion apt to be part of the Oct. 21 meeting.

Officials, in anticipating the following term enrollment for budgeting, take the number of students in June and with the expected number in kindergarten, usually come close to the total enrollment.

Post Office Option Taken

Max Schwartz, Mount Clemens investor, served notice on Wednesday that he did intend to comply with the requirements in purchasing Adams Park, site of the proposed Post Office building.

There was some speculation about Mr. Schwartz's intentions when he did not appear until the last minute.

The city must send the title insurance back to Mr. Schwartz, City Manager Cal Zorn said, and is now doing this.

Mr. Schwartz picked up the option early in July when the government awarded him the bid to build the new post office building.

While construction has not yet started, architects have been down to study the site. Completion date was previously set for Feb. 20, 1964.

Green's Store Celebrating

Seventeen years of retailing in downtown Tecumseh will be highlighted this Friday and Saturday when Harold Green celebrates completion of an extensive remodeling and expansion program.

During the past six months, Green's Men and Boys' Wear has been tripled in size, making it one of the newest and largest in southern Michigan.

Featuring the two-day celebration will be door prizes amounting to over $1,000 in value, with over 100 winners to be selected.

Folks who have not been in Green's recently, will be amazed — and pleased — at the tremendous change.

☆

THE FORMER main room has been extended, actually doubled in length, giving the clothing shop a stretch of 118 feet from front to back.

Another section of the basement was added and appropriately fixed for the boys and work clothes. The lower level room has 1,000 square feet of floor space.

☆

Glass and cedar paneled rear entrance is the finest in Tecumseh, and actually rates superior to the fronts of most retail businesses.

New lighting and fixtures in the main room.

Carpeting around the suit and shoe departments.

A cedar paneled gift bar section.

And, a new front show window plus larger display areas for clothing throughout the shop.

MR. GREEN came to Tecumseh from Franklin, Ind., in 1947, and has expanded twice since.

He first operated out of what is now the west section of the United Savings Bank. He later purchased the building next door and rapidly became the leading men and boys clothier in the area.

A. J. Smith was the architect. Benedict & Cheevers firm was the general contractor.

RETAILER 17 YEARS — Harold Green, center, will mark 17 years in the clothing business with a Grand Opening of his new store, Friday and Saturday. Ready to help at the celebration, are Tim Mead, salesman, John Graham, salesman and assistant to the owner, and son Mike Green,

Friends Hosting Gospel Illustrator

The Tecumseh Friends Church will be host on Sunday, Oct. 6, to Waldo H. Hostetler, a gospel illustrator from Detroit.

Mr. Hostetler, well-known in many churches of the United States and Canada, will show by magical demonstrations Biblical truths of interest to both young and old.

Mr. Hostetler will be presenting his [illegible] hand program for the youth at 6:30 p.m. and to the church at 7:30 p.m.

The services are open to the public.

Two Trucks Sideswipe

The trucks of two Tecumseh men were damaged when they sideswiped Monday afternoon on Clinton-Tecumseh Rd., south of Macon Hwy. The drivers were James A. McDonald, Jr., and Arthur H. Bowser, 49, 1351 E. Monroe Rd. State police said they were in a construction area.

350-Piece Band Plays

School officials combined the fifth and sixth, junior high, cadet and varsity bands into one mass band prior to the game.

The 350-piece band, not only playing well, had the [illegible] usually heard only when attending games at the University of Michigan and Michigan State.

Officers are Elected

Vice President — Hubert Lavendar

Teacher Vice President — Mrs. Clifford Wolf

Secretary — Mrs. Ed Osburn

Treasurer—Mrs. Halida Bates.

☆

DEPUTY Sheriff Rollins Pontious of the Lenawee County Department, using a life-sized doll made in Sweden, demonstrated mouth to mouth resuscitation.

"Resusci-anne" is the doll, the size of a 14-year-old girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson will be chairmen of the fun night scheduled for Oct. 26.

Festival Here Oct. 8

The 14th annual Lenawee County Band Festival will be held Tuesday, Oct. 8, at 8 p.m., on the Athletic Field.

Eleven high school marching bands in the county will present separate shows preceding a finale when the massed bands will perform under the baton of the president of the Lenawee County Band Directors Association, Miles Cowdrey.

The festival will be narrated by the Rev. Blair Bashore, one of the originators of the all-county event.

He and the late Clare Camburn produced the first festival 14 years ago.

Although a theme for the event has been dropped from the scheduling, the massed band will play selections of a patriotic nature.

The bands participating are:

Adrian
Britton-Macon
Clinton
Tecumseh
Addison
Onsted
Hudson
Morenci
Sand Creek
Blissfield
Deerfield

Tickets may be purchased from students in any of the participating bands.

Firemen Called to Put Out Kitchen Fire

Firemen were called to put out a fire caused by an electric stove Wednesday at 7:05 a.m.

Considerable smoke damage was caused to the apartment, and the kitchen partitions were burned.

The fire took place at 6012 Greene Rd., just south of Russell Rd., in an apartment house. It was not learned who the occupants were.

Behind Page One

Well, "John" found Lillian and showed her London all right. With mouth agap, Mrs. Frank Hoagland looked and listened as the young English stranger warmly greeted her in the British metropolis and spoke of personal matters that only the homefolk should know.

Sometime during the eventful day, 8:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m., it occured to her that Isabelle Van Verlinden of the Adrian travel agency must have sent "John" a copy of the Herald with the story of Lillian's proposed trip.

She had casually mentioned that "John" was going to show her London, her own little private joke. Clever Miss Van Verlinden provided the icing for the London tour cake of Mrs. Hoagland and her imaginary "John" who materialized right out of the London fog.

Br-r-r-ing. The staff at the Tecumseh Library is anxious to answer the telephone and give information as to the magazines they have received as gift subscriptions.

Juniors at the Tecumseh High School are conducting their annual sale and would like to help make the continuous use of magazines available at the library possible. All subscriptions had to be canceled due to the austere budget.

A little girl, looking at a patch of oil on a wet pavement, turns and says: "That's a dead rainbow!"

Dick Eggleston was having a great time telling Earl Baldwin about the fool who walked through the fresh concrete in front of his jewelry store last week. He stepped out of the hardware and "kersplosh" walked into the wet stuff being put in at Brandt's. Wonder what he said then?

No qualms about the Tecumseh-Milan game Friday night. Vic Lawson Tecumseh High School Athletic director, wrapped that one up while he was in the recovery room of St. Joseph Hospital Monday. Attendants heard the whole bit as Vic came out of anesthetic following an operation on his back.

Trooper Davis was the Ann Arbor policeman who discovered the Chinese student, Chuong Guam Lim, who hid in the Methodist Church loft for four years.

Trooper Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Davis, formerly of Tecumseh. Richie graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1955.

Auxiliary Activity Reported

The Fall District meeting held in Clinton brought 13 girls from Tecumseh.

Tuesday, Oct. 1, 1963, the auxiliary again helped the Bloodmobile with Mrs. Walter Wonderly chairman.

☆

MR. DYKE HELMS requested and received help on the Community Fund Drive.

The Baby Sitting Clinic will be held again this year, it was decided. Mrs. Dyke Helms was appointed chairman.

Those attending the Fall Board meeting at Mt. Clemens Oct. 11 and 12 will be: Mrs. James Fielder, Mrs. Earl Nisbett, Mrs. Walter Wonderly, Mrs. Raymond Shelton, Mrs. Richard Creswell, Mrs. Dyke Helms, Mrs. Clifford Bird, Mrs. Steve Kruger, and Mrs. Dave Jedele.

IN PREPARATION for the upcoming Band Festival to be held Tuesday, Oct. 8, Tecumseh high school marching band practices intricate oblique maneuvers. Tecumseh will host ten bands from the county for the fourteenth annual display.

Long and Short

Temple of Karnak, were built and added to over a series of dynasties, while this city was the capital of Egypt.

Only a few years ago, archaeologists found that the two were once connected by an avenue of ram-sphinxes with an estimated 1,500 such statues guarding each side.

This is presently being excavated, laying only 15 or 20 feet below the present ground level, on which homes and roads have been built.

BOTH TEMPLES are "open air" and feature columns of stone that reach up to 144 feet high. At Karnak, one segment features 134 sandstone columns arranged in 16 rows and covering about 66,000 square feet. Until you stand among them can you get the feeling of their enormity.

King after king added to the temples until they reached about 900 feet long. At Karnak, there also is a "Sacred Lake," in which the priests used to perform religious ceremonies. It's like a giant swim pool, about 100 x 400 feet, with stone sides.

From an antiquity standpoint, this is one of Egypt's most precious possessions.

For the tourist, there is the new, air-conditioned Winter Palace Hotel, a nice as one can find anywhere. As in Cairo, our room overlooked the Nile and the stay was thoroughly enjoyed.

Next Stop: Abu Simbel.

Double Ring Ceremony

Joyce Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Mason of Southfield, and Delbert K. Marsh, son of John R. Marsh, 5561 Green Hwy., and the late Mrs. Marsh, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony Sept. 28.

The wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Charles W. Marsh, uncle of the groom, formerly of Tecumseh, in the Southfield Baptist Church, where he is presently pastor.

Mrs. Charles Marsh presented nuptial music at the organ and accompanied herself as she sang "Because".

Only members of the immediate families were present as the bride approached the altar in a street-length sheath dress of white brocade with matching jacket trimmed with white fur.

Dorothy Mason was her sister's maid of honor in a street length dress of deep rose brocade with fitted bodice, bell skirt and matching sleeveless jacket.

☆

DINNER was served to 20 in the church basement. The meal featured a three-tiered cake baked by the groom's father and decorated by Leverette DeLonghe. Bride and groom dolls centered the table. Clothing for them was crocheted by the bride's mother.

The bride is a 1962 graduate of Southfield High School and was formerly employed at Gray-bar Electric, Inc., Detroit.

The groom attended Tecumseh High School and is now attending Bets Electronic School, Toledo, and is employed at Tecumseh Products Co., as an expediter.

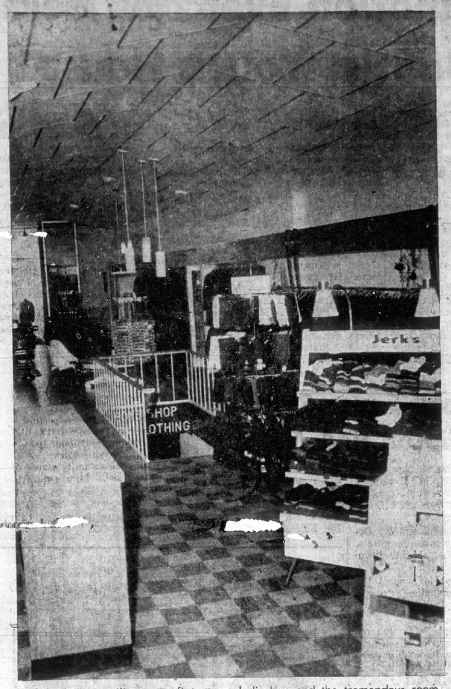
Grand Opening

2 BIG DAYS
FRIDAY and SATURDAY



Green's new ceiling, new fixtures and displays and the tremendous room size — running 118 feet deep — will immediately attract the eye of the customers entering the front door.

During the past six months, Green's clothing store has been rather hectic with remodeling and expansion construction. We hope these inconveniences were not too distracting. Now, we're ready — and proud — to show you our new men and boys shop. Come in and browse around. You'll find our larger shop has enabled us to carry a far greater amount of clothing, giving you a a bigger and finer selection. For example, there's over 60 feet of suit, sport coat and top coat displays, professionally arranged for careful and simple scrutiny. Green's has systemized their store for departmental merchandise, making it convenient for you to select your clothing. The boys department and work clothing selection have been centralized in a large, lower level room. One fine feature, not to be overlooked, is our new rear entrance, just off Tecumseh's large northwest off-street parking lot. If there's anything we've overlooked in our attempts to bring Tecumseh and area men and boys their finest clothing shop, let us know. We're here to accommodate you and will do our utmost to please. Be sure to drop in and see us this weekend.

OUR READERS WRITE

From reading the Tecumseh Herald (in my hospital bed for the past seven months) I see there is another Blood Drive. I do hope that the people of Tecumseh will turn out 100 per cent for this precious flow of red and white corpuscles and the many other parts of blood that carry food, oxygen and the army of antibodies that keep the human body going.

Since my automobile accident last Feb. 14, I have received 10 units of blood and two units of plasma.

I wish to say "Thank You" to the Lenawee Blood Chapter for the wonderful service that was extended to me. I know if needed I could call on them again and receive the same service.

It is a wonderful thing to know that our community belongs to the Lenawee Blood Chapter and any time there is a need at home or away you can rest assured that it will be supplied. I have been a donor of this precious fluid that is required for the human body to manipulate, exist, function or whatever you may call living. When I get out and have just one extra unit you can bet I will be there to extend my little ole arm and say "have some".

Yours truly,
Betty Bishop.

Addresses Friends on Missions

Thirty-eight members and guests of the Friends Missionary Society greeted by Mrs. Percy Slater and Mrs. Edward Furgason last Thursday evening when Mrs. John Brantingham spoke on "My Feeling of Missions".

Mrs. Brantingham is the third generation of her family to serve in the capacity of a missionary.

Through the years she has been at a vantage point for forming definite feelings about missions.

The Brantinghams volunteered for foreign missionary service five years ago. At that time Mrs. Brantingham felt called to India — her husband to Formosa. Both feel God leading them now to this responsibility in Taiwan.

Mrs. Brantingham left the group with a challenge, that even as she would be learning a new language, people ought to be learning the "language" of their neighbors to fulfill their Christian duty here.

Progress Club Plans

President, Mrs. Merton Boss, gave a talk on officer training and reported on the holiday open house to be held in November at the new Methodist Church in Adrian.

All clubs are invited to take an active part in the project.

Members worked on their yearbooks and mended.

☆

FOLLOWING the speaker, a brief business meeting was held at which the new officers presided. They are:

President — Mrs. Charles Manley.

Vice-president — Mrs. Harold Righter.

Secretary — Mrs. Charles Staples.

Assistant Secretary — Mrs. Clark Pearson.

Treasurer — Mrs. Sheldon Chase.

Programs — Mrs. Robert MacDonald.

Prayer Meeting—Mrs. Charles Huber.

Work Committee — Mrs. William Leyrer, Mrs. Everett Fielder and Mrs. Russell Johnston.

Churches Try To Increase Attendance

The Tecumseh Friends and Adrian United Brethren Sunday School personnel enjoyed a covered-dish dinner at the Tecumseh Friends Church Monday night, Sept. 29.

There were 90 Sunday School teachers and officers attending.

Rev. Norman Russell of Adrian United Brethren Church presented a challenge to the group to enlist those not attending a church.

Roy Waldfogel, Sunday School superintendent of Adrian United Brethren Church outlined the attendance contest objectives.

The contest plans for Tecumseh were presented by Sunday School superintendent, Richard Butler.

The contest will begin Sunday, Oct. 13, and conclude Nov. 3, 1963.

EUROPE INVADED

Tours 5 Countries

"It's true, I'm standing on English soil". This was one of the remarks Mrs. Lillian Hoagland made Sept. 23 as she told 46 members of the Monday Club and their guests of her experiences this summer on a European tour.

It seems that frequently during the trip Mrs. Hoagland felt it necessary to reassure herself that it was actually she making the trip.

One listener said, "She certainly made use of her leisure time, scouting around on her own."

Mrs. Hoagland spoke interestingly of the countries she toured adding many amusing tidbits in her own witty fashion.

☆

THE FRIENDLY TEA for the Monday Club was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Wickwire with other members of the executive board acting as co-hostesses.

A luncheon Monday, Oct. 7, in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church will open the activities for the year.

Mrs. E. T. Armstrong will be leader with past presidents of the club on the reception committee.

Mrs. H. L. Crance of Adrian has been engaged to speak on birthplaces of great men and sites of events of history which she has visited.

Student Disciplined

A 16-year-old boy was arrested Tuesday noon for malicious destruction when he deliberately stepped into fresh concrete in the downtown district.

He was turned over by police to the school and will be kept at school during noon hours for the rest of the year.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE

Crash! Bang! Thud! The friendly old walnut tree, which is near the southwest corner of my room, is dropping its fruit and I don't know how it is accomplished, but I am firmly convinced that each and every nut that falls, hits the roof. It makes for a noisy fall, believe me!

After the walnuts thunder on the roof and plop down to the ground the squirrels take over. Oh my, but things are busy. The sight of a lawn strewn with nuts sends our squirrels into a regular frenzy. They scurry around, burying nuts at a frantic pace.

Usually the nuts are carried away and cached in a rather haphazard manner. There are walnuts buried all over the lawns here at the west end of Logan Street.

This year, however, there has been so tittle rain that the ground is hard; it is simply baked, and digging is most difficult.

The squirrels are not being bothered though they are not wearing themselves out trying to scratch holes where really the digging must be next to impossible.

Oh, they are burying nuts alright but they are picking spots where the digging is easy. They are using places like flower gardens and borders, they are even burrowing into piles of leaves which have been dumped over the creek bank.

Nothing like doing things the easy way, is there?

But are you wondering about this article's title, who has the guilty feeling and why?

Well, I am — the twinge to my conscience is not terribly great, it just nags a bit now and then.

☆

YOU SEE, I know something that apparently the squirrels don't.

They are working so very, very hard at building up a winter's food supply and none of it will be any good. To take one of the walnuts now, shuck off the dirty fibrous outer husks and then crack the nut, would reveal a big plump nut-meat — try the same thing several months from now and the large nut-meat will have shriveled and dried up into a tasteless nothing.

For three or four years we went through the wearisome and messy business of picking up, shucking, drying and cracking but it was always the same thing so we finally gave up.

The squirrels never seem to learn, though, each fall they work so hard and for nothing.

At this writing, the squirrel population around here is sadly low. A month or so ago we were almost over-run; two families were raised here this summer and so for a while, it was quite common to look out anytime and see three, four, even five squirrels at once. On one red letter day, we even saw six!

That is just too many squirrels for one neighborhood to support but I am sorry that so many of them left. We are down to two, possibly three — by winter we hope at least one more will show up.

Of course, the squirrels we do have are putting on quite a show. They are having to carry the nuts farther than usual; it is just too bad the flower beds aren't closer to the walnut tree.

Too bad for them, not us. We enjoy watching them scamper through the yards lugging the big walnuts. It is hard work and often one stops for a short rest.

He carefully puts the nut on the ground, slouches down for a second's relaxation, then stands up straight and looks around. It is not hard to imagine him wondering "Wow, how much farther do I have to go?"

☆

BEING SMART, the squirrels are quite careful about not carrying any bigger load than is absolutely necessary. They tear the shucks off before they start and certainly this must make the carrying and burying much easier.

It is not a bit difficult to spot a hard-working squirrel this time of year, walnuts are so dirty that in no time at all the animal's 'hands' and mouth are stained a dark walnut brown.

So it is that our emotions are mixed — it is fun to see the squirrels working so hard but, knowing that their work is in vain makes for a guilty conscience.

Michigan Meat Week

This week is Michigan Meat Week, an event featured statewide by retailers, processors and producers. The purpose is to focus attention to the desirability of red meats produced within the state and to the opportunities of the livestock industry.

The event from Sept. 30 to Oct. 6 was proclaimed by Governor George Romney last evening (Sept. 25) at a kickoff dinner at Kellogg Center on the Michigan State University campus.

In signing the Michigan Meat Week proclamation, Gov. Romney said the state today produces only about 35 percent of the red meat it consumes. Expansion of the livestock industry would work to the advantage of both the farmer and the consumer.

"Born Yesterday"

Shady Business Deal Puts New Challange to Tecumseh Players

"Born Yesterday," scheduled for an Oct. 31 opening at the Community Center, was called by Director Rita Blake "a good comedy with good characterization."

It is about four characters who get entangled in a shady business deal.

Harry Brock, an extreme version of the American businessman out for money and power, is played by Robert Murray.

Mr. Murray played in the Clark Lake production of "South Pacific" this summer. He has appeared in Tecumseh Player productions "Girl Crazy" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

The unscrupulous Harry Brock has made a small fortune selling scrap iron to the government during the last war for munitions. Now, it is after the war and all the scrap iron is lying around the ruins of Europe.

Harry Brock's scheme is to bribe a senator to tack an amendment on a bill, which in effect, would open the way for Mr. Brock's purchase of all his old scrap iron that is now in Europe. He could then sell it to the U.S. Government again after bringing it back to America.

☆

HIS LAWYER Ed Devery, played by Gil Rothfuss, who will be remembered for his appearance in "Ten Little Indians," sells himself for $100,000. The moral to his story is brought off with a good deal of fun.

Mr. Brock's not too bright accomplice and amour, Billie Dawn, played by Katie Corkery, who played in "Marriage Go Round," begins to get on Harry Brock's nerves.

He took her off the chorus line, where she certainly would have stayed and wants to give her some polish so she can play in the big league. He hires a reporter to educate her, and in so doing, endangers not only his love nest, but his plans as well.

The reporter, Paul Verrall, is played by Frank Dalton, who is well known to fans of the Tecumseh Players.

He is the crusading type, and what's worse, succeeds in educating Harry Brock's doll. He not only lights the spark in her heart, which is not too much of a surprise, but he unfreezes her mind and she begins wondering what is going on.

RITA BLAKE

☆

ALTOGETHER, there are 15 in the cast, although half a dozen of these have only walk-on parts, Mrs. Blake said. The play depends primarily on the four major characters.

Others appearing in "'Born Yesterday," are:

William Frownfelder, as Senator Hedges; Betty Steele as Mrs. Hedges; Ed Mengerink as Eddie [illegible]

Laura Seager as Helen; Duane Steele, as the Barber; Jackie Pokorny as the Manucurist; and Michael Sharop as the bootblack and bellhop.

Duane Steele is in charge of technical directing, and Joy Dalton is in charge of lighting.

Rehearsals this week are being held in the Mrs. Dale Bowen residence, 2541 E. Munger Rd. Rehearsals will begin in the Community Center Monday, Oct. 7.

First showings: the 1964 Lincoln Continental.

When you inspect the new Continental you will discover why more than half the people who buy in our price range choose the Continental.

Notice the greater passenger room.

Come in, and inspect the new Continental yourself. Its profile is only three inches longer than in 1961-2-3. Yet you will find a roomier rear compartment, with four inches more leg room and 2.5 inches more knee room than in 1963. This makes for twice the knee room of the 1961 and 1962 Continental. And the luggage compartment is 15% larger, for a total increase of 33% over 1961-2.

But with all this added space, the Continental retains all the qualities that set it apart from every other automobile:

1. Timeless styling is a prime reason the Continental retains so high a value.
2. The Continental is available in just two models: the sedan and the convertible. There are no lower priced models, because there is no compromise of its standards to offer lesser versions.
3. Both the sedan and the convertible have four doors opening at the center for the easiest entrance. Continental offers the only American four-door convertible.
4. The unusual rigidity of integral construction contributes to its unequaled ride.
5. Within, virtually every luxury is included as standard equipment.
6. The Continental also includes full power auxiliaries as standard equipment.
7. The Continental is built at Wixom, Michigan, in a special plant which sets the world's highest standards of precision automotive engineering.
8. No other car is so thoroughly tested. Every Continental must pass 189 road performance tests in addition to thousands of examinations and inspections during manufacture.
9. The Continental is uniquely free from maintenance. It is constructed to last.

Before you decide on your next automobile, drive the Continental. It is the world's finest automobile. Please call us, and we will be happy to arrange a demonstration at your convenience.

Civil Service To Hear Pay Raise Talks

People with opinions on pay rates for state employees to be effective for fiscal year 1964-65 have been asked by the State Civil Service Commission to express their views at a pay hearing for state classified workers scheduled for Oct. 14 in Lansing.

The Commission is currently comparing state pay and fringe benefits with rates paid similar jobs by 355 private employers in Michigan and 61 public jurisdictions within the state and around the nation.

Results will be tabulated for consideration by the Commission at its December meeting, when a decision on any adjustments is expected.

Michigan's new constitution provides the Legislature may reject or reduce any pay increases authorized by the Commission by a two-thirds vote within 60 days of the time they are submitted to the Legislature by the Governor.

High Moisture Corn Found More Efficient

Michigan dairymen are turning to high-moisture harvesting and storage methods for efficient handling of their corn crops.

The corn is stored in concrete or gas-tight silos in one of three forms — ground ear corn, ground shelled corn or whole shelled corn.

The moisture content is generally in the 25 to 35 per cent bracket with about 15 per cent for air-dried corn, according to Don Hillman, dairy nutritionist with the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

Concrete silos used for storing high-moisture corn must be in good condition and air-tight. Dry matter losses were less than 5 per cent in tests conducted with concrete silos at Michigan State University.

☆

THE HIGH-MOISTURE corn harvest can start two or three weeks earlier than it would with crib storing, according to Mr. Hillman.

High-moisture storage costs generally are two to four cents lower per bushel than crib-storing of ear corn and up to eight cents less than heat-dried shelled corn.

What about the nutritional value of this corn? It's just as satisfactory as dry corn for milk production, says Hillman.

1st Lt. Lowery Pilots Fire Fighting Copter

First Lieutenant Darrell Lowery has been the pilot of a special HH43F helicopter "Huskie" during the [illegible] air-crash firefighters in Toul Rosieres AFB, France.

Crash and rescue operations at the base in northeast France have gone air-borne with a special one-week fire fighters course for an eight-man crew.

The "Huskie" helicopter, which looks like a panel truck made into a chopper, carries two firemen and a 1,000 pound fire suppression kit to the scene of a crash.

It then hovers overhead while a fireman moves towards the flame with the nozzle of the hose from the suppression kit.

Powerful props of the helicopter cause a downdraft to help keep the flames and smoke away from the man. His primary job is to cut a path about 10 feet wide to the downed aircraft to rescue trapped crew members.

Lt. Lowery is the son of Mrs. Sarah Lowery, 3618 Rogers Hwy. His wife, the former Mary Lou Perry, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perry, 714 River Acres Dr.

Mrs. Lowery and Mrs. Perry will leave Friday for France to tour Europe and visit the couple and their baby.

St. Elizabeth Jottings

GRADE ONE

Besides adjusting themselves to new surroundings the first graders are developing new trends of thought.

Much time has been spent on alphabet recognition. Some occupational work includes color words and phonetic skills. The idea of groups and sets is developed in the new approach of modern mathematics.

[illegible] all work and no play. The "little ones" have enjoyed learning several songs and poems.

As the first month comes to a close they are anxiously looking forward to the day when they will be able to read from their first books.

GRADE THREE

In the Third Grade "candy shop", the Peppermint Sticks, Tootsie Rolls and Gum Drops have been engaged in Second Grade review work this past month.

Most of the pupils have tried to apply themselves so that they will be ready for such new work as mulitplication tables, cursive writing and reading of a Third Grade level.

To stimulate the pupils to become better writers, we have inaugurated a "Writer's Club" for those whose writing improves most during the course of a week.

Art has been the highlight of Friday afternoons. Some of the projects thus far enjoyed have included encaustic painting, crayon design using the alphabet, and paper mosaics.

In the next report we hope to tell you of their progress in new work.

GRADE FOUR

The fourth grade family has gotten right down to the business of school work. They have found many new and interesting things to be studied and many skills to be acquired.

Multiplication tables, learned in third grade, must be put to work in solving arithmetic problems.

A brand new field, Geography, has been opened up to them. Fourth-graders are beginning to discover many wonderful things about their own state of Michigan.

Mental skills are not the only ones developed, as we see all these students energetically participating in the school physical fitness program.

GRADE SIX

As another summer vacation slipped by and a new school year dawned, 42 boys and girls found that they had risen to the ranks of sixth-graders.

A new year is always bright with promise, and as we looked ahead to the skills to be learned, we saw that it was necessary to review and remember some old ones.

Accordingly, the first weeks of sixth grade have been devoted to recalling and reemphasizing many of the important ideas in arithmetic, English and spelling.

The Religion program thus far has sought to develop a great reverence for God our Father, in preparation for a study of His ten laws, or commandments.

Finding out the causes of weather and learning what makes an airplane fly have proved interesting subjects for sixth grade scientists.

Music periods have been arranged so that each child may have the opportunity to learn a real enjoyment of singing.

GRADE SEVEN

Two more students were added to this group. They are: Bonnie Nichols, who attended St. Joseph Academy in Adrian last year, and Elizabeth Burkert, who came from St. Mary School in Erie.

President — Thomas Rohrer
Vice President — William Holmes
Secretary — William Whiting
Treasurer — Bonnie Nichols.

Among the many new skills this year, the seventh graders have been introduced to a modern approach to Mathematics. In this program, traditional ideas are studied from a new and different point of view. This new viewpoint provided a framework into which the traditional concepts fit in a unified fashion.

We hope that this approach will add freshness, meaning and a deeper understanding of the science of mathematics.

Injured Boy on the Road to Recovery

A Carlton Sheley, extensively injured in a bicycle-auto accident Sept. 20, is reported by his doctor as coming along basically in good shape.

The boy, 13, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Alfred C Sheley, 603 S. Pearl St., is in traction at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

The doctor said he has lots of sore spots. In three to four weeks, depending on speed of healing, he will be put in a body cast to mend his broken left leg and pelvis.

He stated the ruptured spleen and lacerations are no longer a major problem.

"Main thing we need is time for the bone injuries to heal," he added.

Mrs. Sheley said her son is in generally good spirits and is allowed visitors for a short time.

UP Lures Adventurous Tourist

That little extra touch of adventure most vacationists like can be anyone's simply by exploring some of Michigan's Upper Peninsula byways, the roads ignored by most tourists.

For instance, a motorist making the grand circle tour—might drive north from St. Ignace, at the terminus of the Mackinac Bridge, to Sault Ste. Marie, then west to Houghton or Ironwood on M-28 and back east to St. Ignace on US-2.

Along getting [illegible] off the beaten track, he could see such widely known spectacles as the internationally famous Soo Locks, the Tahquamenon Falls (largest in the midwest), Porcupine Mountains State Park (also largest in the midwest), the artificial ski jump at Iron Mountain (largest anywhere) and any number of other attractions with superlative labels.

But if the gypsy spirit moves him, there's a lot of color ,romance and excitement waiting along the Upper Peninsula's byways, said Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager.

INSTEAD of driving directly to Sault Ste. Marie from St. Ignace, for example, a motorist might want to head for Drummond Island, easternmost part of the Upper Peninsula. He can get there by taking M-134 to DeTour (a village, not a highway deviation).

From DeTour, the only way to get to the island is by ferry. The island is a quaint place, full of marvelous scenery and history. The British held it for 16 years after the War of 1812, and the ruins of Fort Drummond lie in mute testimony to Redcoat rule.

One can drive from Sault Ste. Marie to Marquette in three hours, but to make the trip more memorable, take one or two side jaunts from Seney, the halfway point, Fisher suggests.

Turn south at Seney on M-77 and drive five or six miles, to the entrance of Seney National Wildlife Refuge, which sprawls over 96,000 acres and harbors a large breeding colony of Canada Geese. Visitors are welcome, and they're turning up in greater numbers every year.

The staff conducts guided nature tours every evening during the summer. There is no charge for visiting the refuge or participating in the tours.

If there is time for fishing, refuge personnel direct visitors to pools on the property that are open to public fishing and offer good angling for northern pike, said Fisher.

By turning north instead of south on M-77 at Seney and driving 25 miles, one arrives at a sleepy little village with a big name — Grand Marais.

Once a thriving commercial fishing settlement overlooking Lake Superior, Grand Marais now depends largely on tourists, hunters and sports fishermen for its livelihood. Its striking scenery and peaceful isolation usually attracts a handful of amateur artists every summer.

If a proposed national lakeshore area is established along Lake Superior, Grand Marais would be the eastern gateway for the lakeshore area, which would extend about 40 miles from Grand Marais to Munising, encompassing the nearby Grand Sable Dunes, the famous Pictured Rocks and several spectacular waterfalls. A road through the lakeshore area would carry tourists from Grand Marais to Munising, or vice versa.

At Marquette, there is another inviting byway beckoning. It's another little village with a big name — Big Bay. Like Grand Marais, Big Bay is hopeful of a promising future in tourism.

BIG BAY can be reached by driving 28 miles nort[illegible] Marquette on County Road 550 to the end of the line. The village has had an interesting past. It was here that Henry Ford built a large sawmill in the days when wood was needed for car bodies and floorboards.

In 1952 the Lumberjack Tavern in Big Bay was the scene of a murder remarkably similar to the one that formed the basis for the best-selling novel, "Anatomy of a Murder." When the movie was filmed in 1959, several scenes were made in the tavern.

Big Bay is the home of a unique and relatively little-known institution — Bay Cliff Health Camp, a non-profit, non-denominational summer camp for crippled children and youngsters with all sorts of physical handicaps from throughout the Upper Peninsula.

Visitors are welcome any time during the camping period (June 24-Aug. 5), and a visit to the camp is guaranteed to restore your faith in human nature.

While Grand Marais expects a better future from a federal recreation project, Big Bay is looking optimistically ahead to a bright future based on a proposed private tourist project.

The multi-million dollar proposal centers around an old-fashioned steam locomotive chugging over a scenic route between Marquette and Big Bay, which is scheduled to become a year-around resort center.

MOST TRAVELERS en route from Marquette to Houghton drive right past one of Michigan's most scenic spots simply because it has received very little publicity. Yet it lies less than a mile off busy US-41 a short distance south of Alberta in Baraga County. It's the Sturgeon River Falls and Gorge, said Fisher.

This is probably the only true gorge in Michigan, and the falls are among the most beautiful in the state. A foot trail leads the visitor to the falls and gorge, which are located on woodlands owned by the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. There is no admission charge. Bring your camera.

When visitors bet to L'Anse, they may want to take a side trip to Pequaming, a ghost town about eight miles distant. Henry Ford once owned a summer home here, which he acquired along with other property.

In fact, Ford's holdings once included the entire Pequaming peninsula. L'Anse residents also can direct visitors to a nearby Indian cemetery, where the bodies are buried above ground.

From Houghton, one can drive to another of the Upper Peninsula's "end of the line" towns — Copper Harbor, Michigan's northernmost community.

Located on the rocky shore of Lake Superior at the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula, Copper Harbor is the northern terminus of S-41, a jumping-off point for Isle Royale, an inspiration for artists and a delight for tourists.

It was here that the U. S. government built Fort Wilkins in 1844 to protect copper miners from feared attacks by Indians that never materialized. The fort has been restored and is now maintained as a state park.

Copper Harbor is one of the Upper Peninsula's older settlements while White Pine is its newest. Located in Ontonagon County southwest of Houghton, White Pine merits a visit because it is a model town that mushroomed out of the woods along M-64 a few years ago when the Copper Range Co. opened a vast copper mine there.

From White Pine one can drive south to US-2, the main-traveled east-west route in the Upper Peninsula, all the way back to the Mackinac Bridge.

BUT the motorist who neglects to turn off US-2 and drive down the Garden Peninsula, will have missed seeing Fayette, and that shouldn't happen to anyone with a fondness for exploring the byways.

To reach Fayette, turn south off US-2 between Isabella and Cooks in Delta County onto County Road 483, said Fisher.

Fayette is a ghost town and state park among other things. It's a piece of land overlooking Snail Shell Harbor, the most beautiful harbor in the Upper Peninsula.

Fayette was built as a charcoal iron furnace town around 1869. But when the hardwood forests around Fayette were cut over, costs of operating the furnaces rose until, around 1892, Fayette was turned into a deserted village. Today it is complete with a genuine legend of buried treasure — but why not visit Fayette and learn the legend first-hand?

And why not travel all the byways that a trip schedule will permit? One just might find, when his vacation is over, that he'd had adventure he never dreamed of.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Sometime ago we read an interesting article entitled . . . "A Two Week Plan for Winning a Man"

This was rather light reading and as we remember, a bit silly in spots; but underneath it all was some sound advice for gals who want a man, and reluctant as you are to admit it, this would be a very dreary world without us! We only hope to find a sequel to this story telling you how to keep the lug when you get him!

Anyway, there were six rules which should bring a man to the marriage point, and the very first one was . . . "Dress the Part."

Contrary to some thoughts on the subject, we, men do not care for siren get-ups and clothes that are just too, too, high style. Seems that men have a very clear idea of what "the girl that I marry will have to be", and it is . . . "as sweet and fresh as . . . ." So, you should all stick to simple and becoming duds.

This is just the season for such. The sportive, fresh country look, is all about us; it starts with a casual hair-do and goes right on down to your smart little boots.

That is why the feel and touch of knitted clothes is so important. They give when you move, fit expertly, require little care and make you look like a girl!

Here at Clinton Woolen we have a wide assortment of knitted suits and outfits for every taste. Alice Kaye styles with that new casual look in knits. The Cortinas for those that prefer style in the finest quality. Kingsley and Lampl in both wool and Orlon. For the gal with the junior figure we recommend Modern Junior.

Do not overlook the variety you can put in your wardrobe with one basic Kingsley skirt matched with two or three fur-lamb sweaters. Here you can not only get the knit suit look as well as the sweater and skirt, ever popular, with just one skirt.

For three years we at Clinton Woolen have featured Mohair as the "style" yarn. This year it has really caught on in this area. Our Mohairs have really been moving and we are adding more every week.

Palmyra Holds State Corn Picking Contest

The Sixth Annual Michigan State Corn Picking Contest will be held on Thursday, Oct. 17, at Palmyra, on the Gilbert Ford Farm.

The Ford Farm is located one mile south of US-223 or about 6 miles southeast of Adrian.

An estimated forty farmers will participate in the contest which is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Adrian assisted by the other Kiwanis Clubs of Lenawee County. Melvin Beebe, president of Adrian Grain Company is General Chairman of the event.

Blague G. Knirk, of Quincy, Michigan, a Commissioner of Michigan Department of Agriculture will be featured speaker for the program.

☆

THE CORN was planted on May 2. The Corn picking was originally scheduled for October 3 but had to be postponed until October 17 because of the dry weather affecting the corn growth.

The winners in the contest will represent Michigan in the National Corn Picking Contest to be held October 23 in Monroe, Wisconsin.

Admission to the contest is free. An elaborate exhibit of farm equipment and machinery is planned with all major farm machinery manufacturers participating.

The program will start at 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 17. Refreshment booths will be manned by local civic, service and church groups.

MORE TOYS ARE NEEDED — Stanley Packard and his helper, Harvey Schmidt, need many more toys to repair for Tecumseh Jaycees to distribute to needy youngsters this Christmas. Mr. Packard is discouraged with the slow response from residents during the good weather. Paint dries quicker and the work is easier all around if he can get at it now while its warm. Last year he had four times as many articles and every one was used to make up holiday boxes for families assisted by the Tecumseh Service Club. Doug Dunn is the chairman for the Jaycees part of the project and he assures residents that discarded toys, books, dolls and other items may be left at the fire barn again this year. Chairman Dunn also stated that the Jaycees will pick up items for anyone unable to get them to the fire barn.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

What to Do

What can we do? Migrant workers, a necessity in this area for seasonal crop picking, pose a real problem. After trying to see the issue from all sides, (there are many) separate opinions unite to form a confusing circle.

Where to begin? Let's start with the many thoughtful people trying to make the migrants more comfortable by taking them clothing and other articles. They see the migrant as being underprivileged and in need of a helping hand. They work hard to supply him with a few of the better things in life.

In this same vein are ministers and groups that have been going to the camps to provide free church services and parties for the migrants. They have been touched by the plight of the children.

Farmers have yet another view — they feel the migrants take everything they can get and don't care for the items they receive.

One lady from the Britton area traveled to Toledo to purchase 20 sheet blankets and numerous pots and pans plus other household items for the migrants to use. When they left, she said, the place was in shambles and filthy clothes were literally raked out from under the beds. Some of them were rags, but many were good articles that were discarded when their first usefulness had been fulfilled.

A shopkeeper stated, "I have seen a woman in filthy rags come in and say she had no money for clothes, even the cheapest items. Just before she left she bought four pair of earrings."

"They always say they have no money, but when they see something they really want, somehow they buy it."

Another statement made, "When things are given to them most of them just spend their money on useless items. Farmers have had a bad time this year getting their migrants to work."

The migrants say another problem is the man who enlists them for the farmer. He not only makes money contracting and transporting them to the farmer, but also sells them certain commodities and services at ridiculous prices.

Education is yet another view. Schooling is offered to the children, if they would only take advantage of it. Free lunches are provided if they have no money, (Why should they have money?) "Mistah boss, are we on the free lunch list again today?"

Trouble is, after a few weeks in one locality, the crop is picked so the migrants move elsewhere. After another few weeks they move again.

Around and around and around. The migrant problem is not one that is going to be solved in a matter of a few years, perhaps never.

The people are going to know a better way of life only through long-term education — children born into this life know no other.

This is the place to start. But how?

Best of Luck

The fact that Tecumseh lost an industry last week has not affected — and should not — the relations between the Bildwel Company and this community.

We wish them the best of luck and prosperity in their new home in Adrian. We hope that Bildwel continues as successful in the future as in the past.

During the past two and three years, Tecumseh has benefited by Adrian plants moving here. First, was the H. W. Tuttle Company and more recently, Faraday, now owned by Gray Mfg. Company.

The fact that these companies have moved is not so important but where — and all three have stayed, not only in Michigan, but in this immediate area.

What industry does here, and what it does in Adrian, helps both communities. We should continue working together and realizing the benefits of having people working and living together, whether it be in Adrian or in Tecumseh.

Congratulation Harold

This week hundreds, perhaps thousands, will help celebrate the grand opening planned for this Friday and Saturday by Green's Clothing.

The two-day event will climax about six months of extensive work in making the men and boys' wear shop one of the finest in this southern Michigan area.

We along with [illegible] business row, are equally proud of the work Harold Green has completed. Not only does it give him a truly outstanding shop, but it gives the community and area a shop of which to be proud of.

Congratulations, Harold, and best of luck. We hope that all will admire and appreciate what you've done and realize the significance of a "new Green's store."

In recent years several Tecumseh merchants have bettered their businesses and business places. They have set examples that all in business here should strive to equal.

Courts Ban Lie Detector Tests

By ATTORNEY GENERAL FRANK J. KELLEY

It used to be said that a good liar needed a good memory. Today, thanks to the lie detector, more properly called the polygraph, the guilty criminal finds memory isn't enough.

The criminal in attempting to cover up his crime while taking a test suffers the same sensations common to all of us when we make up a story to explain why we forgot to mail a letter or run an errand.

We feel an uncomfortable rush of blood to the face, a dry mouth, at the same time we suffer an increased pulse rate, a rise in blood pressure, and then finally heavy breathing if we think we have gotten away with our story.

The lie detector records breathing, blood pressure and pulsation. It detects the changes and traces them on a graph so that the man operating the machine usually can tell when a suspected criminal is trying to deceive him. On the other hand, the operator as readily sees when an innocent man is telling the truth.

While the lie detector is estimated to be accurate in as high as 5 per cent of the cases, it requires an expert operator who knows not only the type of questions to ask, but how to measure and read the responses.

Because of this area of experience and ability required to read the results of the lie detector, courts still refuse to accept any testimony regarding a test. It cannot even be stated in court that a defendant took or refused to take a lie detector test.

In spite of this, law enforcement officials are greatly aided in investigations by this generally-reliable piece of scientific equipment.

While the polygraph is a valuable tool for law enforcement agencies, it should be recognized that it may not be used in court as evidence of the guilt or innocence of the accused.

In any event, individuals who may be subjected to polygraph examinations will be counselled by their private attorney as to their rights.

don't be a SQUARE

By TOM BRIEN

Now that the nuclear test ban has been passed, the next step may be to rechannel some of the frightful expenditures of the Cold War back into the domestic economy.

Already a proposal by Senator George McGovern asks for establishment of an Economic Conversion Commission. He's also asking for a $5 billion reduction in the arms budget.

This may seem a little premature, but there should be long, hard thinking on the matter of reconversion. The economy has been geared for military production for more than 20 years. At the present, half of the government's spending is for defense.

The defense budget has helped sustain the economy, put several new industries on its feet, and created a climate of prosperity in certain states.

With defensive spending down, government and industry will have to look for new fields to conquer.

This doesn't have to be a threat. Seymour Melman, associate professor of industrial and Management Engineering at Columbia, has shown how defense spending — which produces goods unusable in the economy — can be turned to civilian construction.

DEFENSE SPENDING	CIVILIAN EQUIVALENT
A $250 million ICBM base in Omaha, Nebraska.	The Dalles, Oregon, dam, 1½ miles long, for navigation, power of 1,743,000 kilowatts, irrigation, recreation.
One Polaris submarine worth $100 million, not including its 16 missiles at $1.1 million each.	Twenty-six new 160-bed hospitals at 4 million each.
One Polaris submarine plus missiles $122.6 million.	Thirty-five new school buildings at 4 million each.
The approximate cost of the aircraft carrier, Constellation, $275 million, not including the fire damage of $75 million in 1960.	The Depressed Area Development Bill.
Fourteen B-52 aircraft at $8 million each, or eight Atlas ICBMs at $13.7 million per missile.	The School Lunch Program of 110 million which involves 14 million people.

Before you get upset about taking needed defense money and spending it on welfare projects, remember two things. First, the money is going for something useful, such as hospitals, schools, and children.

Secondly, this total of $861 million is only 17 hundredths, (.017) of the current defense budget, and already the Senate is thinking of curtailing defense by 5 billion, which is a full 10 per cent.

With the cooling off of the Cold War, foresight, and at least a minimum of intelligent planning, the country may be in for a period of prosperity that would make the 1950s seem like our domestic economy was always in low gear.

☆

THERE IS another possibility Mr. Melman discusses which is intriguing and deserves some thought.

It may be strategy of this sort that President Kennedy is contemplating as he hurries to enact a detente with Russia while trying to maintain high levels of government expenditures.

► The United States is the only industrial center in the world that has large unused production — approximately 40 per cent in the steel industry. The unused production might of the U. S., at present a liability, could be turned into a strategic political and economic asset.

► The cost of the peace race will amount to a maximum of 10 per cent of America's gross national product — equal to the defense cutback Senator McGovern has already requested. This production could be taken from the present arms budget, or added to it, since we are running at considerably less than our full capacity.

It would be used to build the industrial sector of these countries, and not the military, as is too often the case today. It would not be haphazard, stopgap aid, but an all-out effort to establish a modern economy.

► This would offset the example of Russia, China, or Cuba, who are working toward national maturity by the harsh process of accumulating industrial resources at the expense of its population.

► The Soviet economy is already strained — They're asking for more surplus wheat, for instance — and would be incapable of the same 10 per cent increase in production.

To equal the U. S., it would have to cut back on housing, food, consumer goods, which it is finding harder to do all the time. Or it would have to cut back into its defense spending, which it is presently seeking to do.

THE PROBLEMS involved in this sort of "peace race" would be enormous. Our State Department and Foreign Service haven't endeared themselves to the American public. They may have a hard time convincing the public to continue the sacrifices we've had to make during the Cold War.

It would also demand huge expenditures that would dwarf Foreign Aid programs which are still rather small. (Two missile bases equal Alliance for Progress expenditures in 1962.)

Regardless of the present cooling off, the Cold War is shifting into an even broader global conflict that has the ominous outlines of future racial strife: China versus Russia, Africa versus the West, Latin America versus the United States.

Moreover, Russia, China, Cuba and Egypt are the examples most of the new countries tend to study. These countries have been, or are being successful in a short period of time; within memory of most living politicians.

The West, and the United States, have taken so long to develop into industrial powers that their example is lost on people who want to modernize in a hurry.

At any rate, these are two possible directions the United States faces now.

A period of withdrawal from global concerns and its resultant domestic prosperity, or a further effort to mold the future along Western lines with shifting global conflicts and new anxieties.

Indians Cop Easy Win, 34-0

Whether the Railsplitters were mere patsies or the Indians vastly improved won't be determined until this Friday night when Tecumseh plays at Milan.

A complete turnabout in team play and hustle paid dividends for Coach Tom Fagan's squad in the five-touchdown rout. It was the type of play many had anticipated the Indians to do all season.

Milan, upset last week by Grosse Ile, 33-12, will be a tougher opponent, especially before a partisan home crowd.

The Big Reds will be gunning for Tecumseh and out to revenge the shellacking the Indians handed out here last year. If the Indians play as well, or a lot better against Milan as they did against YL, Tecumseh could win its second victory and even the season's mark at 2-2.

Two Tecumseh backs enjoyed the best nights of their prep careers in Friday's 34-0 victory.

Quarterback John Oberlin tallied twice on jaunts of 34 and 55 yards and passed 24 yards to Dave Lemerand for another score.

Fullback Bob Baker plunged for one TD and kicked four of five extra point attempts. Baker rolled up 74 yards rushing, missed out on a 56-yard run for TD because of a Tecumseh penalty, and had the misfortune of losing an additional 75 yards in rushing because of Indian penalties.

Halfback Tim Collins, looking better each game, nearly caught fans napping when on the first play from scrimmage, the game only 41 seconds old, the fleet halfback scooted 68 yards to score.

End Ron Boltz set up Tecumseh's second score in the initial period when he recovered an YL fumble on the Railsplitters' 28.

Three plays later Oberlin hit Lemerand over the middle, Baker kicked the point, and Tecumseh led 14-0.

Midway in the second quarter, Baker dropped a punt on the YL four to put the visitors in another hole. Ypsi punted out to just its 38, from where Tecumseh started its third TD march.

Two passes from Oberlin to end Steve Derby picked up 21 yards in the drive with Baker capping the march in four consecutive runs, finally scoring from the one.

With just over three minutes remaining in the third quarter, Oberlin rolled out around left end to score behind the best Tecumseh blocking of the season. The play covered 34 yards.

Final score occurred in the last stanza when Oberlin took a YL punt on Tecumseh's 45, faked to Lemerand cutting across, and then stepped down the sidelines for 65 yards for the TD.

The score indicates exactly how much YL was outclassed, probably the last football meeting of the two schools.

Ypsilanti-Lincoln and Dundee (ugh!) are dropping out of the Huron League to enter an athletic league with smaller schools.

TOUCHDOWN RUN — Quarterback John Oberlin scampers around end for another score 34 yards out. Oberlin scored twice against Ypsilanti and passed to Dave Lemerand for a third tally.

WORKHORSE — Fullback Bob Baker scored one touchdown for the Indians Friday and kicked four extra points. Bob also piled up 74 yards in 14 carries. He lost an additional 75 yards Friday night due to Indian penalties.

HALFBACK TIM COLLINS IS CAUGHT FROM BEHIND AFTER MAKING A SHORT GAIN.

Hold that Line

When the lineups were announced for the Tecumseh-Ypsilanti Lincoln game, it was quite noticeable the number of changes Coach Tom Fagan had made during the week. Defensively, the Indians looked better.

Last year, the Indians had a peppery fullback and linebacker named Dan Greene. Sophomore Jim Greene is apparently made of the same stuff. He has the makings of a fine football player and one who should equal his brother in another year or two.

Bob Baker exhibited about the finest place kicking Tecumseh has seen in a number of years. A field goal attempt from the 29 was just short. Too bad he couldn't have borrowed some of the distance he got on two of his extra point kicks.

Some thought that the Indians' line was often moving just ahead of the snap and were lucky to avoid some penalties. Bud Willabee, Jackson official, remarked after the game — so close that the three officials once discussed it during the game.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: My only child and I are receiving social security benefits. He has just enlisted in the Navy. Will that stop all social security checks?

ANSWER: Your son's checks will continue until he is 18 years old if his pay in the Navy will not be over 1200 during the year. However, if you are under age 62, your benefits end with the month in which he is no longer in your care.

QUESTION: I am drawing social security old age insurance benefits. If my farm earnings for the year are 2,000, how much in benefits will I have to give up?

ANSWER: Based on earnings of $2,000 you would have to give up $550 in benefits for the year. $1 of benefits is withheld for each $2 you earn above $1,200 and up to $1,700. Then for each $1 you earn over $1,700, another $1 in benefits is withheld.

QUESTION: I will be 65 years of age on November 15, and I will retire at the end of that month. Should I make my application for social security benefits in January of next year, since I will earn about $5,000 this year?

ANSWER: You should file your application for social security benefits before you retire. Although your earnings for the year will be around $5,000, you will be eligible for a payment for the month of December. Regardless of how much a person earns in a year, he does not lose benefits for any month in which he neither earns over $100 in wages, nor renders substantial services in self-employment.

QUESTION: I think that some of the men that I worked for the first part of last year didn't report me for social security. How can I check this?

ANSWER: Ask for a post card form at your social security district office. With this card, you can request a statement of wages credited to your account.

QUESTION: My wife and I receive social security checks. I understand that we can each earn $1200 a year and still receive all of our checks. If my wife does not work, can I work and earn $2400 without losing any benefits?

ANSWER: No. You are each allowed to earn as much as $1200 in a year without a loss of benefits. However, the amount allowed each of you cannot be combined. There will be some loss of benefits if you earn over $1200 in a year.

Need to Know History, JFK Writes in Preface

The more Americans know about the history of their own country, the better they can understand the problems of today's "new nations" in their struggle for national fulfillment.

That is just one of the compelling reasons why Americans should be familiar with the history of their own nation, according to President John F. Kennedy in a special foreword he has written for the "American Heritage New Illustrated History of the United States", published this week by Dell Publishing Co., Inc.

Volume one, in which President Kennedy's foreword appears, is on sale this week at local supermarkets. The remaining books of the 16-volume set will be issued on a book-a-week basis for the next 15 weeks.

"If we recall the facts of our own past," writes President Kennedy, "we will be less liable to the national self - righteousness which is both unworthy of our own traditions and a bane of international relations.

"We may sometimes forget, for example, that the United States began as an underdeveloped nation which seized its independence by carrying out a successful revolution against a colonial power.

"We may forget that, in the first stages of our economic development, our national growth was stimulated to a considerable degree by "foreign aid" — that is, accompanied by the issue of wildcat paper money, by the repudiation of bonds, by disorder, fraud and violence."

In emphasizing that a knowledge of history can be a means of strength, President Kennedy quotes from a book by John Dos Passos, "When there is a quicksand of fear under men's reasoning, a sense of continuity with generations gone before can stretch like a life line across the scary present."

The President points out that the title of Dos Passos' book, "The Ground We Stand On," is a precise definition of history's role in preparing us for the crisis of the present and the [illegible] of the future.

Dairy Farm Machinery Costs Counted

It takes between $[illegible] and $16,000 to own and maintain the machinery to operate a dairy farm with 200 tillable acres.

That's the variation in machinery investment found in records of 206 southern Michigan dairy farmers.

Investments range all the way from $20 up to more than $130 per tillable acre on dairy farms with records in the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service program.

"Farmers should try to stay within the range of $40 to $60 per tillable acre for machinery investment," according to L. H. Brown, MSU agricultural economist. "This gives a farm a good balance between available land and machinery."

He points out that roughly one-third of the farmers keeping records have under $40 per tillable acre invested in machinery.

As a guide rule, Brown estimates the following for each $1,000 invested: depreciation, 10 per cent of cost; [illegible] of investment, 3 per cent of cost; repairs, 2 percent, and taxes and insurance, about 1 per cent.

Better to Plant One Tree

They don't have a church building yet. That won't come until next spring. But meanwhile members of Saline Baptist Church held a tree-planting ceremony at their building site Sunday, setting out one small spruce tree for each member-family of the congregation.

Among the families to have a tree planted were former Britton residents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bacon and their three children. Leon and his wife [illegible] members of Britton's former Baptist Church, where they finally were married.

And now, having moved to Saline seven years ago, they are among the prime movers of the Saline Baptist Church's building program.

The Saline Baptist group, organized three years ago, has met in rented quarters at Saline Elementary School and will continue there until their planned new church is completed next year.

Rapid growth of the church's membership in the past year led to the recent purchase of property for building; and plans are now well along toward the start of construction next May. Trees set out recently border the building site. As nearly as possible, each tree matched in height the youngest member of each family.

Sunday's tree-planting was headed by Pastor Robert Nelson, minister of the church. Said he: "These small trees have two-fold significance for our people. First, as the trees grow in the years ahead, so do we expect our church to grow in Christian strength and influence. Second, wherever our young people may go they will always know they have deep, living roots in their home-town, at Saline Baptist Church."

FORMER BRITTON BAPTISTS TAKE ROOT IN SALINE — Ready with pickaxe and shovel, members of the Leon Bacon family prepare for Saline Baptist Church's tree-planting ceremony held at the church's building site, corner of Saline-Milan and Willis Roads. Duane, four, is the youngest in the family, so the Bacons' tree matched his height. Diana Bacon stands by with shovel, Douglas with pick, both ready for action. Each member-family of the Saline Baptist congregation planted a tree of its own during the Sunday ceremony.

More new grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kruse have been told that a baby boy, Gerald Stanley, Jr., was born Sept. 24 to their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stanley Kruse, Sr., in South Bend. The baby weighed six lbs., and 10 oz.

Call Meeting To Discuss New Church

BRITTON — A special meeting will be held at the Britton Bethel Baptist Church Friday, Oct. 4, at 7:30 p.m., when members will discuss the proposed erection of a new church building.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hendershot of Brooklyn and formerly of Macon observed their golden wedding anniversary Sept. 29, at an open house at the Macon Methodist Church. Their four children were hosts for the event.

Ray Hendershot and Margaret Ferguson were married Sept. 6, 1913, by Rev. S. B. Johnson of Clinton in the Macon Church. Their children are Mrs. Charles Bigelow of Macon, Mrs. Marie Lowery of Ann Arbor, John Hendershot of Washington Court House, O., and William of Allen. There are 13 grandchildren. All were present except the oldest grandson, William Bigelow, who is serving in the Navy.

The church dining room was beautifully decorated with gold fall flowers and plants. The serving table was centered with an arrangement of yellow roses, and chrysanthemums. The table was placed in front of a gold hanging tapestry.

Mrs. Ray Smith cut the four-tiered cake. Mrs. Lilah Howell poured tea and coffee, Mrs. Elton Osborne served the punch. Mrs. Lee Ferguson had the guest book. Other friends and relatives assisted in making it a happy occasion.

Guests were from Washington Court House and Toledo, O., Brooklyn, Ann Arbor, Allen, Clinton, Milan, Ypsilanti, Britton, Tecumseh, Holly, Saline, and the Macon area.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendershot received several floral arrangements and gifts.

Japanese Beetles Diminished

The presence of Japanese beetle in Michigan is the lightest in several years. Only at Battle Creek and Ypsilanti are there any extensive areas of infestation.

The Plant Pest Control Division of the U. S. D. A. used about [illegible] traps than used by any other five states combined.

Japanese beetle in the adult stage feeds on more than 250 kinds of vegetation — fruits, ornamentals, cereal crops, vegetable plants and turf. The larva of the beetle spends 10 months underground where it feeds on plant roots before emerging as an adult beetle.

The emergence is usually around July and lasts several weeks. Adult beetles are around the rest of the summer.

The pest was first discovered in the state in 1932.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Macy's, world-famed retail store, like other giant retail stores become great through extensive use of newspaper advertising.

And like other large retailers, Macy's continues to experiment with, and, test all advertising media. During the newspaper strike in New York, Macy's was forced to experiment extensively to find some make-do substitute for newspapers.

After the strike, Macys again returned to the newspaper as a primary advertising medium. "Let me say here and now that the overwhelmingly largest part of the department store advertising is currently in the newspaper," according to John A. Blum, head of Macy's sales promotion.

Mr. Blum stated that, in his judgment, the bulk of department store advertising would remain in local newspapers.

"In our judgment, the point of view of women readers in particular, and consumers in general, when they pick up and look at their newspapers is that of shoppers.

"A woman is intensely interested in merchandise as news. She expects to get this news information from . . . the advertising of newspapers. She is totally open and receptive to the advertising messages she reads in her newspaper," Mr. Blum said.

The executive of Macy's said that his company often did advertising which "are not expected to mean a single penny of immediate sales." He added that advertising properly invested should deliver ten dollars over normal sales for each dollar spent on advertising.

Macy's attitude toward newspaper advertising should have meaning to any retailer. For Macy's sells everything from goldfish to yachts by newspaper advertising.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury CHEVROLET

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

Besides looks, ride and power - what's so special about it?
(it's so reasonably priced)

Kind of leaves the high-priced cars some explaining to do, wouldn't you say?

Long and luxurious—with a fresh-christened look that almost makes you feel somebody should be breaking a champagne bottle on its prow.

Richer roomy interiors with subtle new blending of colors and fabrics. Like the ultra-soft vinyl upholstery in the new Impala Super Sport Series. And the foam-cushioned front and rear seats and door-to-door carpeting, now standard in all models, including the modest-priced Biscaynes.

And underlying it all, the opulent feel of Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride—something some of the expensive makes would dearly love to claim for themselves.

Matter of fact, the most important and noticeable difference between this beautiful new 1964 Chevrolet and the high-priced cars is the price itself.

Let your Chevrolet dealer show you how much luxury that reasonable Chevrolet price now buys. *optional at extra cost

Uganda Bishop Visits St. Peter's

An Anglican Bishop from the African Country of Uganda preached at St. Peter's Episcopal Church recently.

The Rt. Rev. Kosyita Shalita, Bishop of the Diocese of Ankole-Kigezi, from the Province of Uganda, told the congregation of the great importance of Christianity to Africa.

After the service in the church, he showed colored slides of some of the people of his country.

Of particular interest were the pictures of the leper hospital run by the church. Bishop Shalita has almost 2,000 churches in his diocese.

There are more than 800 Anglican schools with an enrollment of over 120,000 children.

He spends nine months of the year on "Bishop's Safari", traveling from church to church confirming, preaching and administering his large area.

Bishop Shalita was born in Rwanda, South Africa, which was under Dutch control and he is now a citizen of, and was educated in, Southwest Uganda.

He was ordained to the priesthood in 1933 and became Bishop of the Diocese of Ankole-Kigezi, in the Province of Uganda, in 1957.

He said, "I have my own football team and would be willing to play against the United States."

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

It was a tremendous experience, traveling all the way to Egypt, but nothing topped that first glimpse of Tecumseh as we rolled into town Friday morning at day break.

Oh, how we missed the children, The Herald and the whole darn town. Home just can't be topped.

Lots of folks have asked what we rate as the highpoint of the seven-week junket and this takes a lot of considering.

So many interesting and fascinating events took place, it's going to take a month to catalog them all.

► The natives in primitive Nubia, where the giant temple of Abu Simbel is located, are the greatest. We lived with them for two days and although they spoke but a few words in English and we none in Arabic, our conversations were delightful.

Nubians greet you with a sort of British military salute, then shake hands vigorously. It would seem that a firm hand clasp means more to them than anything.

"Veeeeeeery good," was about the only words we used, but they seemed to cover everything we wanted to talk about.

► Calling cards are important in the Middle East, even the camel drivers have them. When one, Kahlil Ghaneim, gave us his, he proudly said he spoke five languages, then ticked them off.

"English, Arabic, Spanish, French and Spaghetti."

"Spaghetti?" I bite.

"Yep, Italian," he grinned.

► Touring the tombs at Saqqara with the man who discovered many of them will probably be an unequalled adventure in our lives. Dr. Saki Saad, now 62, has spent almost all of his adult life in the field of Egyptology, including many exciting years in search of antiquities. Who could top his minute explanations of the art?

► Aboard ship, getting caught in the Mistral, a fierce wind blowing off Africa into the Mediterranean, was the only rough sea we faced coming and returning.

It played with the 35,000-ton Mauretania as if it was a toy and did that ship creak! My lone thought: if it's this bad in the Mediterranean, what will the North Atlantic hold? As it turned out — nothing but sun and calm waters.

► Egypt has two major things going for its future:

1. The Aswan Dam
2. Vastly expanding public education.

In 10 years, these two items should have lifted the nation ahead about half a century.

The Herald will have articles on both of these in later issues.

► Pope Paul, in an audience we attended, spoke to the 4,000 present in Italian, Spanish, German, French and English, then we all rose with the Holy Father to join him in singing the Apostles Creed in Latin.

It was an emotion-packed three minutes as tears welled into the eyes of nearly everyone present.

► By a wide margin, the most beautiful place we visited was the Isle of Capri — clear air, breath-taking views, lovely shops, marvelous climate.

Unfortunately, we stopped there the last day before sailing — after being in noisy, dirty Naples three days. Turned out, we could have gotten a room on Capri for about the same rate as we paid in Naples. Kick me here.

► Motorists in France and Rome seem to go out of their minds when they get behind the wheel. It took about a month of careful consideration before I got up nerve enough to drive. We rented a tiny Fiat in Rome and motored to Naples.

Getting out of the Italian capitol was a miraculous feat, but the run along the sea in the last segment of the junket, made the initial strain well worth it.

► Greatest tomatoes and cucumbers in the world are grown in Egypt. Italy is tops in vegetable soup and rich pastry (oh, those pounds.)

Sportsman Dies in River Accident

Drowning victim Bert Ousterhout, long-time Tecumseh florist, was buried in Brookside Cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

Service for the outdoor enthusiast was conducted in the First Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Julian Gresham.

The 60-year-old Tecumseh native lost his life when he fell into the swift current of Mississagi River near Blind River, Ontario, Monday morning during a fishing trip and was unable to reach shore.

BERT OUSTERHOUT

Long an avid hunter and fisherman, Mr. Ousterhout was thrown from the drifting boat when it struck a cluster of rocks. The anchor wouldn't hold and the motor couldn't be started.

His companions said he came to the surface about 30 feet away and appeared to be swimming for shore when he disappeared.

Two others in the party, Bob Karle of Tipton and his father, David Karle of Cincinnati, O., were in another boat approximately 200 yards downstream.

A skin diver took two hours to recover the body.

☆

BORN JAN. 27, 1903, Mr. Ousterhout graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1922 and Michigan State University in 1926, as a floral-culture major.

He joined his father, William, in the operation of the family greenhouse on Blood Rd., which was later sold to Ollie Musch.

Thirty-five years ago, Bert and his wife Arlene opened a gift and floral shop in what now is Jean Colgrove Gifts.

In 1954, they built the present Ousterhout Floral Shop at 220 E. Chicago Blvd. Mr. Ousterhout had been in semi-retirement the past few years, but kept as busy as ever with his sports activities, as well as work at the shop and helping his son, David, in the construction of his home.

☆

SEVENTEEN years ago, Mr. Ousterhout's health was severely impaired by high blood pressure. This prompted a delicate heart operation at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

It took almost three years for him to recuperate, but he was able to resume his work and outdoor activities fully.

In 1960, Mr. Ousterhout accompanied Bob Moore on an extensive boat trip down the Mississippi, which covered more than 3,000 miles.

Survivors include his wife, Arlene, son, David; and a daughter, Mrs. Harold Dresh of Chelsea, as well as five grandchildren.

Stockings Needed To Stuff Puppets

Calling all ladies — more clean old nylon stockings are needed for the assembly of puppets made for child patients at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Chairman of the Hospital Auxiliary project, Mrs. Joe Rohweder, said the current supply was exhausted two months ago.

The Auxiliary uses 250 stockings — takes five to make one puppet — for 50 puppets per month.

The busiest season for the hospital is coming up, said Mrs. Rohweder. "They'll take all the puppets we can make and more."

Stockings may be left at Shuyter Electric.

Saturday afternoon, their eight-year-old daughter, Sheila, was seriously injured in a freak accident, which occurred in the A & P Store.

Glass cut the cornea of her eye so that Dr. Carl Benz took 18 stitches in it.

She was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment and later transferred to Bixby Hospital.

Dr. Benz said Sunday that she was getting along remarkably well. He hoped to save the eye ball, but was skeptical about the sight in it.

He said that she would be hospitalized for seven to 10 days.

☆

SHEILA'S brother, Carlton Sheley, who is a patient at Herrick Memorial Hospital, has been placed in a cast and his progress is good.

Smoked Fish Ordered Off Store Shelves

All smoked whitefish packed in plastic bags, was ordered taken from the shelves of Kroger stores, according to a Toledo Zone official, as a precautionary measure.

"We have been informed of several cases of food poisoning, two of them in Knoxville, Tenn.," the Kroger representative said.

"One of the attending physicians reports that evidence indicates the poison followed the eating of smoked whitefish packed in plastic bags by H. D. Dornbos Bros. Fisheries of Grand Haven, Mich.," he added.

H. D. Dornbos, president of the firm, has broadcast a warning against Dornbos smoked fish packed in plastic bags and urged that any such product be returned immediately to the store where it was bought.

Kiwanis Presents Charters

The Kiwanis Club will award charters for Girl Scout, Boy Scout and Cub Scout troops to the students of Sutton School Thursday night.

The teaching staff of Sutton, where all students are exceptional, was indoctrinated into the Scouting movement. They will serve as troop leaders.

Dr. William Adams, who has been serving as counselor to the Sutton School Scouting effort, will make the presentation of the charters to the school.

President Richard Myers will yield to Fred Nash, who will act as toastmaster. Mr. Nash instigated the Scouting program.

Michigan District Kiwanis Governor Lauren White will attend.

The meeting will be held at St. Peter's Episcopal Church with dinner served by the ladies of St. Peter's.

Happy Home Builders Begin Year

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Baily were hosts in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church Wednesday evening for the first fall meeting of the Happy Home Builders.

A representative of the Gideons will talk during the worship hour Sunday and an offering for the purchase of bibles will be received.

The Adrian Commandery No. 4 of Knights Templar will be guests Oct. 13 at the First Baptist Church in observance of Hospitaler Sunday.

Sewer Plan OKed

With the outlook dim for Tecumseh to receive Federal monies soon for construction of the Evans Street Interceptor Sewer Project, Council approved expenditures for other projects.

Russell Rd. sewer, between Maumee and Union, was approved at an estimated cost of $8,800. Work is expected to start this fall.

Approval to blacktop Herrick Park Dr. also was approved.

Councilmen discussed a proposal for installation of a large storm sewer to correct flooding conditions from the Logan St. sewer.

The sewer would catch the overload from the present sewer, tie in with the storm sewer on E. Chicago Blvd. and eventually carry the storm water to Evans Creek.

Leg Amputated in Farm Mishap

Fred Noble, 61, lost most of his left leg as the result of a farm accident Thursday morning, in a woods on the Dick Sherman farm, 10716 Billmyer Rd.

Mr. Sherman and Mr. Noble had been cutting logs with a chain saw and pulling them out of the woods until Mr. Sherman left to take the saw to Tecumseh for sharpening.

When Mr. Sherman returned in less than an hour he found Mr. Noble pinned between the tractor and a log.

He apparantly had stood on the ground to free a load and tried to move the tractor forward, but it was in reverse and backed over him.

IT WAS necessary to get a wrecker from Bug's Super Service to lift the tractor before the injured man could be removed to the hospital.

Amputation of the left leg below the knee was necessary at the University of Michigan Medical Center, where physicians say Mr. Noble's general condition is good.

Mr. Noble lives in a trailer on the Sherman farm, where he has been employed eight years.

Future Nurses Hold Car Wash This Saturday

A car wash sponsored by Future Nurses Club will be held Sat., Oct. 12 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the corner of E. Chicago Blvd. and S. Ottawa St.

Charge will be 1.25 per car.

The funds will be used to meet club expenses, which include a $100 scholarship for a girl choosing the nursing profession.

IT'S NEARLY DONE — Ollie Musch, planting contractor, reported to Mrs. Orrie Gilbert and Mrs. Harold Easton as they viewed the Herrick Memorial Hospital's new front entrance landscaping. The Hospital Auxiliary invites the public to open house and dedication ceremonies Sunday, Oct. 13 from 2 to 4 p.m. The open house is an act of appreciation by the Auxiliary for all the supporters of the project. Invocation by the Rev. Frank Hawthorne will be at 2 p.m. followed by cider and doughnuts served on the hospital lawn. The landscape committee will host and also answer any questions. In case of rain, open house will be held Oct. 20.

Fire Call Situation Considered

Council Invites Township Boards

Rural fire calls, a costly service for the local fire department, came under the scrutiny of Council Monday night with the result that neighboring township boards have been invited to the next meeting.

Written agreements with all townships and possible increases in present rates were discussed.

Tecumseh's department serves seven townships, in addition to providing protection for city property.

Two of the townships — Franklin and Macon — have each agreed to pay $100 per call, plus labor charges.

With Clinton and Ridgeway Townships, which both have departments, there is a reciprocity agreement in which no charge is made when one fire unit calls on the other for help.

Tecumseh Townships arrangement is different. It pays the department $1,000 annually for equipment maintenance, plus labor charges for each fire.

In the case of Raisin Township, officials there have refused to meet the $100-plus-labor fee for every call, taking responsibility for labor only.

☆

DURING THE last two years, Raisin has had 18 calls and paid a total of $458, which averages to slightly less than $26 for every fire.

A flat rate, which will be discussed at the Oct. 21 Council meeting, of $500 per call to all townships except those with reciprocal agreements, was suggested.

REPORT NOT CORRECT — Julie Parrish writes that a recent tidbit in Louella Parson's column, stating that the Tecumseh girl was to be married, is incorrect. Julie tells us that an agent dreamed up the story. Julie's next appearance on television will come Thursday, Oct. 24, when she appears in the "My Three Sons" program as Mike's girl friend.

"A football player with a straight "A" average led all of State's 51 varsity athletes who achieved academic grades of "B" or better during Spring quarter. He is Jon L. Aho, a sophomore." (And a Tecumseh High graduate!)

In last week's obituary of 14-year-old Ricky Horton, The Herald incorrectly stated that he had played in a junior varsity football game the week before his death. Officials at Tecumseh High School point out that Ricky was not on the team.

In all of last year's Tecumseh Players' show, performances ran two weekends Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. This will be the pattern the first week with "Born Yesterday," but the second goes Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. What's wrong with Friday, Nov. 8? Well, Tecumseh plays Adrian here that evening in football and it seems unwise to buck this kind of competition.

Check at the Public Library before ordering subscriptions for them from the members of the Tecumseh High School Junior Class. Thus far residents have donated six for use at the library, including "Field and Stream", "Harpers", "Science Digest", "Electronics World", "Saturday Review" and "Newsweek." Mrs. Julie Fosbender suggests that "Time", "US News", "Parents", "Red Book", "Today's Health" and "Cosmopolitan" are others that are needed.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

In reference to The Herald of Oct. 3, "Don't Be a Square." Do you remember how Russia lied about missiles in Cuba? How Russia murdered hundreds or thousands of people in Hungary? How Russia broke the atom test moratorium? How Russia believes "We will bury you," or "Your grandchildren will all be communists"?

If you remember these and a long list of other hideous crimes that have been perpetrated on humanity by Russia, how can you advocate cutting essential military spending only to use the "Pork Barrel" civic projects that should be local issues anyway?

We as Americans must realize that the cold war will exist as long as America and Russia are world powers, and that if Russia ever feels she can win a "hot war" without suffering total destruction she will not hesitate to attack.

You also indicate that by increased federal spending for these civic projects the USA will have a boom economically in the 60's. If deficit spending creates more than a short-time false economy, why don't you advocate quadrupling the government expenditures and then every working man would own a $30,000 home, drive a Cadillac and live a life of ease?

Also I wonder how you explain the mass unemployment and recessions in our country, despite tremendous deficit spending, when other countries suffer from a lack of workers and fast financial gains with no deficit spending? Is it possible that people of a nation only get what they earn — that there are no shortcuts to economic prosperity, and that no one gets something for nothing?

You indicate that foreign aid is a small amount. Mr. Kennedy is asking for five billion plus, in both military and domestic aid. This is 10% of our military budget or with 200 million people it is $25 a person or $175,000 from the city of Tecumseh. (We could certainly create some wonderful civic projects with this kind of money each year.)

It is also true that only a small percentage of this aid reaches the people and does any good at all. We now have $3 billion in unspent aid and it is enough to fill all of our definite commitments for the next three years. Also the Congressional record shows that 104 nations receive some form of aid from the USA.

Americans must realize that we can't carry the world, our first allegiance is to the United States of America. We must worry less about friends and more about right and wrong.

As a representative from Texas said on the House floor, "A neutral, like a middle of the road politician, is either a skunk, yellow, or trying to get something from both sides for nothing."

If you believe the government should control the economy so that they can guarantee everything, you should be aware that no government in history has been able to fulfill this promise and that we as Americans must be willing to give up the rest of our freedom and liberty to let them try. Is it worth the chance?

Marvin Nelson.

TO THE EDITORS:

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visited Tecumseh Tuesday, Oct. 1, and produced a record turnout of donors. Ninety-six pints were collected which was a 50% increase over the last two visits.

On behalf of the Bloodmobile committee we would like to thank The Tecumseh Herald for its fine support of this worthwhile project.

It is our hope that future visits will produce an even greater turnout for this project which has resulted in blood being available at no cost for any Lenawee County resident at any hospital in the country.

Sincerely,
Robert J. Murray, D.D.S.
Committee Chairman.

'Sportsman' Bags Mackey Pet Ducks

Couldn't he tell they were tame?

Two shots rang out across the River Raisin Monday morning behind the William Mackey residence, 6767 Mill Hwy.

The supposition is, of course, that some "sportsman" shot them.

The green-headed, webb-footed pet of the Mackeys and his mate never learned to fly, having had their wings clipped when they were babies.

Bill and Bertha Mackey bought the ducks from a farmer in March and have thoroughly enjoyed watching the birds on the river all summer.

Mrs. Mackey fed them each day and they never failed to come when she called.

Tut's Tomb Treasures Showing Ends Tuesday

One of the most-talked about features of the current Treasures of King Tut exhibition at the Toledo Museum of Art is the supplementary gallery which sets the stage for the treasures themselves.

Specially prepared by Museum assistant curator Rudolf M. Riefstahl, the supplementary gallery has sparked considerable comment from many visitors.

Highlight of the gallery is a styrofoam scale model of King Tut's tomb, which Mr. Riefstahl planned and executed. The model illustrates in detail the composition of the famed Pharaoh's tomb, discovered in Egypt's Valley of the Kings in the 1920s.

The model shows the tunnel leading to the antechamber, where two statues of King Tut guard the door leading to the burial chamber. Added drama is provided by a model reconstruction of the chamber itself which includes small coffins and the sarcophagus.

Surrounding the scale model and the statue are numerous photos of the royal burial grounds in the Valley of the Kings and of the discovery complete with historical summary.

ANOTHER ITEM of interest in the gallery is a painted limestone statue from Egypt's Old Kingdom (about 2565 B. C.). The statue has been lent to the exhibition by the White House, which received it as a gift from the United Arab Republic.

Also supplementing the show is the newly-published book, "Tutankhamen," on display at the Museum information center. The book, published by the New York Graphic Society, is the first major illustrated volume dealing with the treasures discovered in the tomb.

The exhibition is scheduled to close Tuesday, Oct. 15.

The Museum director said the Museum will be open Tuesday and Thursday nights until 9 o'clock to accommodate those persons who are unable to visit the exhibition during normal Museum hours.

Hours for the remaining days of the exhibition are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays and Mondays.

Beagle's Survival Is Termed Miracle

"Jeff" is going to make it after all and is wagging his tail again.

This may not sound like a great accomplishment, but it's really a miracle.

"Jeff" is a beagle, one-year-old, who belongs to the Walter Frayer family, 1104 Murray Dr.

On Sept. 22, the family was visiting in Flushing with Mrs. Frayer's mother, when "Jeff" ran in the road and was hit by a car.

He was taken to the veterinary there and treated for shock, wrapped warmly and returned to Dr. Carlos Knisley in Tecumseh for treatment.

X-rays showed a broken neck. The dog was unconscious for three days and paralyzed for a week.

Now he is getting around with a cast on his neck, which he must wear for at least six weeks. Dr. Knisley said that it is unusual for a dog with a broken neck to survive.

A "Win A Pet" booth with gold fish as prizes will be one of the new concessions at the Tecumseh Acres Fun Night Saturday, Oct. 26.

A playroom for pre-school children will be supervised by Mrs. Hubert Lavender, assisted by Girl Scouts who have volunteered their services.

There will be no charge for this service, which will allow whole families to attend the event with more ease than in past years.

Mrs. William Tilton is the chairman of the fancy sock hop with prizes to be awarded to those with the fanciest foot wear.

Festivities at the school will begin at 4 p.m. and continue until 9.

About two years ago, it was broken at the elbow. This time it is fractured about an eighth of inch from the first break.

The little girl is left-handed, but she is rapidly learning to use the right one.

H-O-P-E Is Contest Theme

"H-O-P-E" is the theme for the contest in which the Tecumseh Friends Sunday School will be engaged from Oct. 13 through Nov. 3.

Each letter of the word will introduce a special emphasis for the Sundays.

Oct. 13 will be known as Hospitality Day, Oct. 20 as Others Day, Oct. 27 as Parents Day and Nov. 3 as Enrollment Day.

To build their attendance, the Friends challenged the United Brethren Church of Adrian to a contest, and the churches will compete on a percentage basis.

A kick-off dinner was held in the Friends Church, with Sunday School officers and teachers from both churches in attendance.

Roy Waldfogel is the Sunday School superintendent for the Adrian church, and Richard Butler serves in that capacity for the Friends.

Within each Sunday School inter-class and inter-department contests will take place and awards will be given each Sunday.

Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow

Past Presidents of the Tecumseh Monday Club had charge of the annual fall luncheon Oct. 7 in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church.

The family Bible, a pair of spectacles and an old-fashioned kerosene lamp, tastefully arranged by Mrs. Albert Todd, represented yesterday.

A landscaped, modern home setting by Mrs. Charles Kempf presented today and a moon maid and men landing on the moon by Mrs. Bessie Livingstone, exemplified tomorrow.

Nut cups fashioned into little black pot-bellied stoves were reminiscent of yesterday at each table setting. Flower-filled lamp chimneys also were used.

☆

Broken Toys for Needy Are Sought

Calling for toys.

Christmas won't catch them short of toys for the needy Tecumseh young folks if area residents cooperate as they have in past years.

Anyone having either new or repairable items suitable for this project, may leave them at the fire station or Mr. Packard's home at 401 S. Pearl, or call a Jaycee member to have them picked up.

Doug Dunn, chairman for the Jaycees, is urging quick donations, saying that so far this year, few toys have come in.

39th Annual Antique Show Opens in Masonic Temple

When the Great Lakes Antique Show opens for a four-day stand on Wednesday, Oct. 16, at Detroit's Masonic Temple, it will mark the 39th semi-annual bow of the "Old Reliable" show.

The show will continue through Saturday, Oct. 19, with the hours daily from 12 noon to 10:30 p.m., except for the last day when the doors will close at 9 p.m.

Opening a day early this fall, there will be no Sunday show.

The widely selected group of exhibitors will have most of its old standbys — some 55 from all over the middle west — who, over the years, have had a hand in establishing the reputation of the Great Lakes Show.

There will be an abundance of copper and brass tea kettles and sugar kettles, English and Swedish, brought from abroad this summer; continental antiques, Bohemian glassware and old books.

Such oddments as old fashioned coffee mills, snipe decoys, lamps to hang and lamps for tables, music stands, bird cages, coins, fans and a hundred other items will be displayed.

Enrollment Hits Peak at Adrian

Enrollment figures just released by Mrs. Viola Miller, college registrar, show there to be 672 men on campus compared to 460 women.

The grand total of 1,133 is the highest in the history of the college and an eight per cent increase over last year's 1,049 full time student enrollment.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: I am over 65 and have been getting social security checks. Now I have a chance to go back to work. I have two questions: First, will I have to pay social security tax on what I make? Second, if I do, will it raise my check after I quit?

ANSWER: You must keep on paying the social security tax whenever you work. There is no age limit. If you make enough to raise the average monthly wage upon which your social security check is based, you may get a larger check.

QUESTION: What should I take with me when I apply for social security benefits? I will be 62 in December.

ANSWER: When you come in, bring your social security card; some record to prove your age; a copy of your 1962 withholding tax statement (Form W-2), if you worked for wages; or a copy of your last income tax return, if you were self-employed.

QUESTION: I had a severe heart attack and have not been able to work for the last two months. May I receive insurance benefits immediately?

ANSWER: No. Disability insurance benefits are available to a worker whose disability is so severe that it is expected to exist for a long and indefinite time. If all the requirements in the law are met, benefits are payable after a six-month waiting period — usually the 7th month from the date when the impairment began.

QUESTION: I am 62 years old and recently had to quit working because I became disabled. Is there any advantage for me to apply for disability insurance benefits rather than my social security retirement benefits?

ANSWER: Yes, if your disability is so severe that you cannot do any substantial work, it would pay you to inquire about getting disability insurance benefits.

A retirement benefit under social security is reduced by 20 per cent if you file at age 62. If you are found eligible for a disability insurance benefit, it will be paid at the full rate, just as though you were 65 years old. And when you become 65, your disability insurance benefits will be converted automatically to retirement benefit payments in the same amount.

Ask for free booklet No. 29, "If You Become Disabled", to give you complete information about social security disability insurance benefits.

QUESTION: I will be employed part time by my father and uncle who operate a warehouse in partnership. Since I am under the age of 21, will my work be covered under the Social Security Act, and will I need a social security card?

ANSWER: Yes. Service performed by a child under 21 in the employ of a partnership is covered if it is not a partnership composed of both parents, or a natural parent and a step-parent. You will need a social security card when you go to work.

For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

can't open the door

It's a fact every parent must face!

We must come with them. We must worship every Sunday . . . and take an active part in the classes and activities of the Church for adults — not for ourselves alone.

For a child values supremely the example of his parents. If they love their Church — he loves it too! If going to Church is too much trouble for them — it's too much trouble for him too!

God gave us these little souls to love . . . to nurture . . . to raise to Christian manhood and womanhood. And God gave us churches . . . to enrich our lives and theirs.

And God gave us doors . . . to open!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Leading Lady in Doubt for Play 'Born Yesterday'

The Tecumseh Players spent an anxious week while their "Born Yesterday" leading lady, Mrs. Tom Corkery lay in the Herrick Memorial Hospital with a back injury.

Plans for an understudy were considered as both Mrs. Frank Dalton and Laura Seager read the role of Billie Dawn on alternate nights of rehearsals.

Although Mrs. Corkery is now out of the hospital and attended the rehearsal her first night home, her doctor's decision as to whether or not she may continue will not be final until later this week.

In the meantime, she and the rest of the cast are enthusiastically learning lines and carefully working out the finer points of their characterizations.

Director Rita Blake is pleased with the progress of the play at this point and barring any further mishaps predicts that "Born Yesterday" will be one of the most skilled performances the Tecumseh Players have given.

MRS. TOM CORKERY

The play opens Oct. 31 at the Tecumseh Community Center, continues Nov. 1 and 2; and on the following week, Nov. 6, 7 and 9.

Indians Wallop Milan, 20-6; Favored over Flat Rock Friday

Tecumseh ran its Huron League mark to 2-1 last Friday night with a convincing 20-6 victory over Milan.

The win, coupled with the Indians' play, had most fans wanting to start the season over again. Coach Tom Fagan's team played well enough to beat Willow Run and perhaps Dundee.

The Indians have another chance to improve on their record this Friday night when they travel to Flat Rock. The Rams, with only a mediocre team, have been trounced twice this season.

Unless Tecumseh has a big letdown, the Indians should win and keep in the league's championship race, despite its one loss.

Quarterback John Oberlin sparked Tecumseh's two TD victory over Milan and turned in the best running and scrimmage the Indians have had this year.

The senior signal-caller rolled out around right end from Milan's 31 for the game's first tally in the third quarter, although he appeared to be bottled in at the 10, but got away for the score.

Just before the period ended, Oberlin, faking beautifully, kept the pigskin, cut over right tackle and scooted 26 yards to give Tecumseh a comfortable 13-0 lead.

Fullback Bob Baker, who kicked the first extra point and the final point after Doug Goldsberry scored in the fourth stanza, missed his second try. The ball was just wide of the uprights.

☆

GOLDSBERRY, handicapped this fall with minor injuries, worked for his touchdown, running and hitting hard in a 54-yard Tecumseh drive.

The march took six plays with Goldsberry carrying three times for nine, 10 and finally for 13 yards and paydirt.

Milan scored in the final two minutes on a fluky pass, which could have just as easily been batted down. Quarterback Dave Glenn completing four of nine for the night, lobbed the six-pointer to Curtiss Hicks.

MOVES TO 12 — Tri-captain Dave Lemerand hauled in a long pass from John Oberlin in the first half and scampered to Milan's 12 before being pulled down from behind. Moments later, a five-yard penalty erased a Tecumseh TD threat after the Indians had moved to the Milan two.

THIRD TOUCHDOWN — Halfback Doug Goldsberry, recovering from minor injuries, crossed the goal line for Tecumseh's third score against Milan Friday night. The hard running Indian turned in by far his best game of the season, especially in the final quarter when he bumped and churned for extra yardage.

With any breaks in the first half, Tecumseh should have been on the scoreboard. Three times the Indians were inside Milan's 30.

A five-yard penalty nullified Tecumseh's best chance when Goldsberry picked up nine yards to Milan's two, only to have an infraction erase the gain and move the ball back to the 16.

Tecumseh amassed a total offense of 441 yards with 379 yards coming on the ground and all but 96 coming in the second half when Oberlin, Goldsberry, Dave Lemerand and Tim Collins knifed almost at will against the slow, but big Milan line and secondary.

37,607 Meals Served Students

Tecumseh High School's cafeteria seryed 37,607 meals at a cost of 35c each during the 1962-63 school year.

In addition, 36,572 extra bottles of milk were sold at 3c apiece in the high school alone.

These figures have been released in observation of National School Lunch Week, Oct. 13-19, as proclaimed by President Kennedy and Governor Romney.

Mrs. Ruth O'Neil, cafeteria supervisor, invites the public to go through the line at anytime during the year.

Adults may eat in the cafeteria, which is run on a non-profit basis, for 45c per meal.

The well-rounded meals provide one-third to one-half a youngster's daily nutrition needs.

When the occasion arises of a child who cannot pay full price for a lunch, community organizations have assisted.

Membership Drive Begun by Legion

Tecumseh American Legion reached its membership quota of 381 in the year 1962-63.

The Legion now starts '64 membership drive and points with pride to a number of its accomplishments in the past year.

The post also sent 20 boys to Boys State with assistance and held its second oratorical contest in Tecumseh.

For [illegible] services, the Tecumseh Legion was awarded the Louis S. Schneider memorial trophy for the fifth consecutive year by the Michigan Department.

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

by BARRY FLYNT

The Fighting Knights dumped the cellar-dwelling Bulldogs of Summerfield for their second victory of the season, 33-21. Al Padilla starting the scoring for the Knights with a 17-yard TD run.

The third quarter [illegible] Jacobs score on a 42-yard run, while the Bulldogs were held scoreless. Four touchdowns were scored in the fourth quarter, three by Boysville's Moe Jacobs, county scoring leader, and one by the Bulldogs.

√

Boysville's JV team, not to be outdone by the varsity, racked up their second victory over Sand Creek, 13-12. Tecumseh's Ron Nichols scored the first TD and was followed by Brad Harrison. Dan Maline made the all-important extra point.

√

The first weekend vacation of the year starts Saturday at 10 a.m. The boys may go home to visit their families, relatives or guardians as the case may be during these periods. The boys must be back on Monday evening by 8 p.m.

√

The Anniversary of Boysville was marked by late rising, shortened classes, a free afternoon and a movie.

√

You may have noticed groups of riders on the road between Boysville and Tecumseh. Chances are they were members of the Boysville Saddle Club.

The club is held to a small number because there are only 15 riding horses. Each of the horses is assigned two riders.

To obtain the privilege of riding on the weekends the boys must spend four hours a week working in the barns and keeping their horses curried and combed. The Saddle Club is under the direction of Mr. Lips who is also custodian of the school.

√

Bettis of Blissfield has been hired as the third full-time cook. Mr. Bettis cooked in the navy for six years.

9,500 Pounds of Potatoes

BRITTON — Second Annual National School Lunch Week Oct. 13-19, is being saluted by the Britton-Macon cafeteria staff.

"To observe our part in this expanding National Lunch Program, the local lunch programs plans regular menus for Oct. 14, 15, and 16, with community guests contacted to visit at noon hours each of the three days and have lunch wit[illegible] explains Mrs. Forrest Barrett, head of staff.

"A host and hostess — senior students — will meet them and escort them through the lunch line. The seniors chosen will have participated in our lunch program through their 12 years as that is the age of our local lunch program," explains Mrs. Barrett.

This program means improved health and better accomplishment in school, Mrs. Barrett feels. She believes better diets produce better studying habits.

Nationwide, the school lunch program is a $1¼ billion business, reaching more than 16 million school children daily in the United States. The school children of Britton are among 450,000 students who receive a well-balanced nutrition lunch in some 2,100 Michigan Schools.

Mrs. Barrett also reports that this food market amounts to $35 million a year in Michigan and $12,695 in Britton.

☆

AS AN EXAMPLE of amounts of some foods prepared last year in Britton were 9,500 pounds potatoes plus over 100 cans of potatoe chips 2,385 lbs. hamburg, 1,762 pounds of butter, 3,317 loaves of bread, 600 dozen hamburg and hot dog buns (besides all other bread and rolls baked in the cafeteria once a week throughout the school year) and over 50 turkeys.

Britton's four school lunch employees report to their lunch kitchens early each school morning to hustle about the business of preparing meals planned according to government specifications.

Personnel in the Britton Lunch Program besides Mrs. Barrett, who started with the program 12 years ago, are Mrs. Alice Benedict her seventh year, Mrs. Genevieve Servoss her third year and Mrs. Esther Seagert second year.

'Fun' Saturday

BRITTON — Concessions will open Saturday at 4 p.m. for the annual PTA "Fun Nite" with supper served between 5 and 8:30 p.m.

Door prizes, now on display in Gripton Hardware Store, include an electric blanket, electric fry pan and an electric percolator, all of which were donated by the local merchants.

The school children are busy selling tickets of admission for 10c each.

All ticket money and unsold tickets must be turned in to the teachers by Thursday, so the names of students who have sold the most may be announced and prizes given before school is dismissed Friday.

Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, chairman of the Thrift Shop, would like to remind those who have articles for the shop to bring them to her home.

Small knick-knacks, small electrical appliances, toys or small furniture are some of the items which will be sold in the Thrift Shop.

Parents are reminded to send all unwanted, readable comic books to school for the comic book sale.

Anyone who wishes to contribute comic books, but do not have children in school may call Mrs. James Shiels.

At this time Mrs. Ronald Cheever, chairman of the ways and means committee, reports a fine spirit of cooperation has been shown by all those who have been asked to work to make a success of what is hoped will be an annual event of the Britton-Macon PTA.

Friends Help Hanneviks Greet 25th Anniversary

BRITTON — Silver bells, pink and white decorations and floral bouquets, decorated the Fellowship Center in the Congregational Christian Church Sunday afternoon as nearly 200 guests greeted the Rev. and Mrs. G. O. Hannevik on their 25th wedding anniversary.

Among the visitors were the Rev. B. O. Bashore who gave the invocation, the Rev. and Mrs. O. E. Priest and the Rev. Allen Mitchinson.

The four-tier wedding cake enhanced with bells, hearts and flowers centered the serving table. On either side were floral arrangements.

Judy Rohrback of Britton and Mrs. Donald Olsen of Ann Arbor presided at the punch bowl. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. Ben Olsen of Detroit.

Mrs. Arnold Solstad and Erma Peter of Detroit poured. Kathleen Claire Solstad of Detroit was in charge of the guest bood.

'King' Stars in First Win

BRITTON — Ron Mastie was more than just the Homecoming King Friday evening as the Tory eleven won its first game of the year.

Sand Creek was the victim, 20-18, and Ron the key man for Britton.

Earlier, Ron had twice tallied on short plunges and he banged over for an extra point, Al Ross accounted for the other extra point.

Sand Creek was tough and until the final minute it looked as though the visitors were going to spoil the Tory Homecoming.

Despite the fact all three extra-point runs by Sand Creek had been stopped by a hard-rock Tory defense, it seemed Britton defeat was inevitable.

However, the Mastie-to-Rowe aerial changed all that.

The Tories entertain Ida Friday evening.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Have you been up North the last week or two? If you haven't, you have missed one of Mother Nature's most beautiful efforts.

While the color has been better other years, we doubt whether the weather has. Warm — sunny days, cool and crisp nights.

Color, color everywhere . . .

Blue skies touched here and there with white. The lakes ranging from pale green to the darkest of blues. The hills covered with gold, reds of every shade and the greens of the pines.

The hunting was not too good the first few days, but frankly the hunters were not trying too hard. It was reward enough to just be out in the fields and woods.

Believe me, a day in the North country this time of year is a tonic to one's soul and peace of mind.

Whether you sew or not you enjoy browsing through our woolens. Here you will find color in a wide variety of fabrics. Plaids, tweeds, solids, mohairs and novelties in all the beautiful fall shades.

A new walking suit is attracting lots of attention. This has been made up in a subdued plaid, of fine brushed wool. An excellent buy at $39.95.

Suede cloth has sold well in both fabric and ready to wear. Our fabric is all gone for the moment but we do have a suit of fine Heehsuede in green.

Next week we will have to write the whole column, we mean ad, over to new arrivals at Clinton Woolen.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

BOB — BOB WHITE

Back in the warm weather months, when a pair of quail started making regular visits, all sorts of article ideas came to mind. Instead of sharing them with you right away though, I decided to wait until a number of incidents could be compiled. Now, here I am with a good idea, but no central characters.

As suddenly as they came, they were gone and we have no clues to the whys for either the appearance or the disappearance.

It was way back in the middle of the summer that the Marshes, Gattie and we Duncans were thrilled to find ourselves playing host to Mr. and Mrs. Bob-Bob White. How exciting.

We all started dreaming about winter and what fun it would be to have a whole covey of quail around. We were overly optimistic — the birds were apparently not looking for a permanent home, but were just spending a few weeks vacationing at the creek-side.

Oh, well, it was nice while it lasted.

☆

I REMEMBER one Sunday in particular. They were most entertaining and fortunately Mom and Dad were both home to enjoy their antics, too.

It was during one of those cold, damp spells, the intermittent rain fell so frequently that it kept everyone inside. Everyone, that is, except the quail. They were brave souls and ventured out between showers. We first noticed them as they worked along the top of the creek-bank.

What a handsome pair, we could not help thinking that they were out for a Sunday stroll. After leaving Marshes' yard, they picked their way along our fence, following it to the barberry clump at the driveway.

Nothing much of interest there so they started back along the fence and suddenly the rain started again. Poor Mr. and Mrs. Quail — we had to laugh as they hurried for cover.

The little evergreen, which stands near the end of the fence, could hardly provide much protection, but the birds certainly scurried for it.

☆

THE SHOWER was brief and when it was over, the birds continued their outing. They went boldly through Marshes' front yard, across the driveway and back toward the flower border. Fine entertainment for a rainy day.

Appearance-wise Bob Whites are nice to have around. They have round plump bodies, funny short tails and rather small heads perched atop slender necks. Their legs are quite long and stout.

Their actions make them nice neighbors, too. This pair strutted around in single file fashion most of the time. He led the way and she followed — occasionally she even lagged behind, much to his displeasure.

They were a most compatible pair, given to talking to each other. When fairly close together, they spoke in soft, low clucking sounds. If she happened to wander away, he whistled the loud, clear bob-white.

☆

SPEAKING OF whistles, the birds don't really call bob-white. There is a preceding note, usually low and sometimes hard to hear, which makes their call bob-Bob White.

One day I was on the porch, didn't even realize the bird was around until he started sounding off: He was just outside the screen and it was hard to believe so much noise could come from a bird. What a blast.

So it is that we are all sorry they didn't stay around — we are not giving up hope though, maybe our summer visitors will be back. This winter it would be great to entertain a covey of bob-Bob Whites.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The fiscal reform program which I outlined to the Legislature has received widespread publicity, but I want to make a few observations here about the effect it will have on the people who p...

The proposals outlined to the lawmakers comprise a basic program of tax reform. They deal adequately and fairly with the major problems which have come to our attention. They are just and will help create jobs.

What does the program actually mean to each person in the state?

It means, in the case of the businessman, that the business activities tax — an unfair and inequitable tax — will be totally repealed, and that the corporation franchise tax would not affect businesses during their first two years of existence. The businessman would pay state taxes only if he made a profit.

The family of five would have 20 per cent relief in their property tax burden. And they will save the taxes they now pay on food.

Senior citizens, those over sixty-five who need relief, will be given the special relief they need and deserve. Their position can be eased by deferring their property taxes up to $200 annually, and they will also save on sales tax.

A low income retired couple who now pay 9.8 per cent of their income in state and local taxes will pay only 1.3 per cent.

The sales tax will no longer apply to prescription drugs. More important, it will no longer apply to most food purchases. This will grant significant relief to millions of our tax-burdened citizens.

The homeowner will receive relief from the property tax, which has now gone so high in many areas that the people no longer will approve the taxes needed to support our schools.

The schools will benefit, because the state will assume a larger role in their support.

☆

I URGE ALL of you to give careful consideration to the proposals I made to the Legislature. And while you do, I urge you to keep certain facts in mind.

First, government is not something apart from you. It actually is you. It has no strength, no purpose, no support apart from you.

Second, when government imposes and collects taxes, it acts as your agent; therefore your opinion controls what is done.

You must decide whether taxes should be levied through a sound, firm program based on justice, as I suggest.

Third, when government adopts a program and spends money to fulfill that program it is your money, spent to help meet your needs.

Stop and think for just a moment. Ask yourself what you want out of life.

I think most of you will agree that among the things you want are a decent job, a good home, good health, some protection against emergencies and the opportunity to give your children an education and a good start in life.

And then ask yourself whether you can provide all these things yourself, or whether they depend on the community and state in which you live, the employment opportunities, the health services, the schools which the community and the state support.

I think the answer is apparent.

BEST ONE YET — said Dr. Robert Murrey, general chairman of the Bloodmobile held at the Community Center Oct. 1. Although 115 donors turned out, several were refused and a total of 95 pints of blood were collected. Mrs. Marvin Nelson, chairman of volunteers, felt the project was very successful. Over 20 local people volunteered to work. Although the collection still fell short of the anticipated 150 pints goal, general feelings were that the bloodmobile is improving and more people will turn out next time.

Hire the Handicapped Week

National Employ the Handicapped Week is October 6-12.

Goodwill Industries of Southeastern Michigan located at 261 W. Maumee St. in Adrian will observe the week by demonstrating that physically and mentally handicapped people with all types of disability can be successfully employed.

For example a girl confined to a wheelchair with only one useful hand, does an efficient job as a bookkeeper and cashier.

Men with cerebral palsy and muscular dystrophy perform critical inspection of extruded aluminum and copper connectors for an industrial plant.

Other men who have had severely disabling injuries or illnesses are doing bench type assembly work where they only need good use of their hands.

People with similar disabilities are found in the clothing and shoe repair department are observed working quietly — there has been no conversation since birth with one woman.

All of these people, 40 at the main plant, demonstrate what can be done if they are given an opportunity. Their work record is good, safety record excellent, and they regularly meet production quotas and quality standards.

☆

DURING this week, Goodwill will also be celebrating the 5th Anniversary of the organization of the workshop program in Adrian.

Goodwill Industries of Detroit was primarily responsible for the establishment of a branch program in 1958.

In 1960 the local program was separated from Detroit and began operating as an independent, autonomous organization. The program now operates with a board of directors of twenty-four leading men and women of Lenawee County.

Since the beginning of operation in 1958 Goodwill Industries has paid $210,757 in wages to handicapped people.

Nearly $49,733 has been paid in wages in the first nine months of 1963. So far, 79 handicapped persons have been served this year with 25 handicapped served in training and evaluation programs.

An extensive program of capital improvement and equipment installation is now in progress at the Goodwill plant.

The operation of the workshop is self-supporting. Income is derived from the sale of reconditioned materials in the Goodwill store subcontract work performed for five local industries, and sale of salvage materials.

As a non-profit operation any surplus in operating income goes into wage increases and expansion of services.

Saturday evening, Sept. 28, the Ralph Comfort home was the location chosen by the Tecumseh Friends Youth Fellowship for the wiener roast which climaxed the annual Quarterly Meeting hayride.

Two hundred youth, counselors, and guests met at the Tecumseh Friends Church for devotions, after which 10 wagon loads of youth took a jaunt over the country roads for an hour's ride, ending up at the Comfort home where they were welcomed by several glowing bonfires.

LOCAL BUSINESS

A great share of the consumer dollar which should remain in the small city goes consistently to metropolitan centers.

It is the multibillion dollar used car market.

The reason why this large portion of the consumer dollar is not spent locally is due almost entirely to the failure of community auto dealers to use newspaper advertising with the same effectiveness as it is used in larger cities.

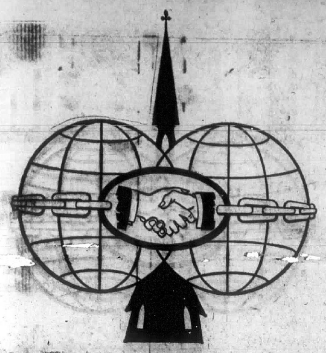
On the other hand a large portion of advertising space in metropolitan newspapers which come in to every community is devoted to competitive used car advertising.

The potential buyer of a used car naturally believes that he will be able to get what he wants at a better price by travelling fifty or one hundred miles to a metropolitan center. He knows exactly where to go and how much money he will need because of the extensive advertising he has studied in the metropolitan newspapers.

Since the local dealer choses to remain completely silent, the consumer just assumes that the kind of car he wants is not available in his home town.

This drain on the local economy will become much more serious in the years ahead as more families become two car families. For their second car in most cases they look for a good used car and they are likely to do their shopping in the newspaper which answers questions about the potential purchase.



See You in Church Sunday

Methodists to Push Church Attendance

First Methodist Church of Tecumseh is cooperating with churches of all faiths around the world in a church attendance emphasis.

The Rev. Donald C. Porteous, pastor, brought the message in Remembrance of Me," Sunday, Oct. 6, on the opening day of the "Emphasis."

"Our Christian Faith Strengthened Through Worship" will be the sermon theme for Sunday, Oct. 13.

The Church Attendance Emphasis will carry the theme "See You In Church Sunday."

The Rev. Porteous said "One of the most serious problems of our day, in our community and in our country, is that of the Unemployed Church Pews. The unoccupied pews, abundant and competent, carry a potential asset to the life of a church or community but unemployed become a liability instead of an asset."

"The regular worship service is held each Sunday at 10 a.m., followed by Sunday School Classes for all ages at 11:10. The public is invited," continued the pastor.

☆

THIS PROGRAM will be carried on by the Commission on Membership and Evangelism and encourages the members and friends of the church to attend worship, special emphasis during the months of October, November and December.

There will be an attendance graph kept each Sunday and records will be made of the percentage of membership present during the Emphasis Period.

Visits Family

Mrs. Jay Holly of Reading Center, N. Y., is a visitor at the home of her son and wife, the Rev. and Mrs. David Holly, and children. A daughter and her husband, the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Evans, and son, Roger, were also guests in the Holly home. They will sail Oct. 12 for mission fields in the Philippine Islands.

CONTROL [illegible] DRIFTS by preparing [illegible] Long open front buildings should have a partition every 30 to 40 feet in order to prevent accumulation of snow. Don't erect another building within 30 or 40 feet of an open front building. Set yard fences back and away from the corner of buildings 15 feet from the corner and 15 feet out from the side of a barn. Erect windbreaks from 60 to 100 feet upwind from trouble areas. This will assure most of the snow being deposited before it reaches the area.

BATCH BIN DRYING will speed your harvest operations. Where you have an in-storage drying system, you can batch dry by adding a sweep auger unloading system. With a 21-foot diameter bin, 3 h.p. fan, and 500,000 btu heater, a batch procedure will dry about 1,000 bushels per day at a relative humidity of 35%. You should adjust the thermostat flame to stay on; don't let tapping air temperature exceed 120°; fill only to 4 feet, and cool grain before removing.

SELL YOUR READY HOGS at the first opportunity. Hold weights to around 220 pounds. Granted, the bulk of the fall weakness has already occurred in the sharp price brake of August and September. But some modest adjustment to further increases in slaughter is expected during late October and early November. If you're buying feeder pigs alike, with the lighter ones. Those will finish later when the market is expected to show some improvement.

FREE STALLS IN DAIRY LOAFING BARNS don't particularly increase production per cow. But they can help you save on bedding and space. Stalls also lessen herd stress and mastitis problems. Build stalls 4 feet wide by 7.5 feet long for large breeds; 3.5 feet by 7 feet for smaller cows.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

No School Aid Solution Yet

Governor George Romney figures the 20 per cent tax relief for property owners will give the state $93 millions in tax relief. This, of course, will have to be made up somewhere else.

His purpose in revising the school tax structure is two-fold. First, to give property owners tax relief. Secondly, to increase the state's percentage of support for local education."

The trend has been for the people in the school district to carry an increasing tax load to support their own schools. In 1950-51, the state was contributing 52 per cent. Ten years later, the state is contributing only 41 per cent.

Gov. Romney said in his tax address, "This proposal . . . is not an effort to improve the school aid formula. I expect to make recommendations to improve the school aid formula to the 1964 regular legislative session."

His recommendations will be awaited with interest. Lynn Bartlett, superintendent of Michigan schools, lists the costs that must be met.

► The $93 million coming from the 20 per cent reduction.

► An additional $66 million in earmarked funds that has been eliminated through the new constitution.

► One-half, or $46 million, lost if the sales tax is repealed. Half of the sales tax was earmarked for education.

► Finally, $12.8 million expected to take care of new students in 1964. This does not include education expansion or money needed to help resolve the dropout problem.

This totals $277.8 million that Gov. Romney and the Legislature will have to come up with next year.

It's too bad Gov. Romney's "school aid formula" wasn't included in his tax proposals. We would like to see his solution to this one before the general tax revision plan passes.

A Birthday Present

October is birthday time for The Herald. Your hometown paper is now 113 years old, making it the granddaddy of Lenawee County publications and one of the real old-timers in Michigan.

The occasion was a quiet affair and only one present opened but that had been long-awaited. The "gift" was a font of 10-point linotype mats, the letters which are used to set these editorials.

The newcomers replaced type that had served long and honorably, not only with The Herald, but for several years at the now-defunct Detroit Times.

How we happened to get those Times' mats is a cute story. A salesman was trying to interest us in a new set and during the conversation he said his firm had just replaced a flock of linotype mats at The Times, this being about two years before its death.

We passed on getting the new ones, then wrote to The Times to see what was happening to their used mats. The business manager said he'd be happy to sell us a font and we made a connection.

Sale of Wheat to Russia

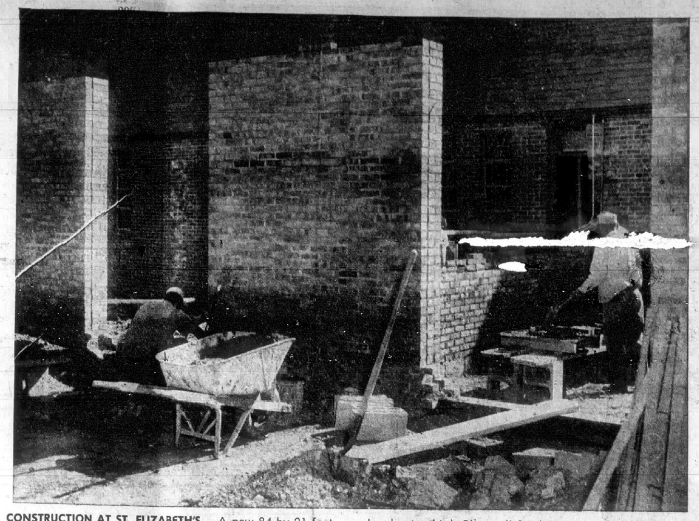
We're inclined to agree with Ike on the sale of surplus wheat to Russia. This is a matter of simple economics.

They need the grain. We need the gold.

Since the wheat is of little value to our nation, why not sell it?

Some folks might react that this is aiding and abetting an enemy, like the sale of scrap metal to Japan prior to Pearl Harbor. But really it's not at all.

And besides, aren't we trying to exhaust every possible avenue of hope in living with the Russians — without forgetting that we must at all times protect ourselves?



CONSTRUCTION AT ST. ELIZABETH'S — A new 84 by 21 foot addition is being constructed on the side of St. Elizabeth's church. It is expected to increase the capacity of the church by about a third. Plans call for the installing of 27 new pews. Started a few weeks ago, construction is expected to be finished sometime in December.

Don't Be a SQUARE

by TOM BRIEN

Tom Riordan returned to The Herald office early Friday morning, scanned the past four issues of the paper, which he missed on his trip, looked at the last few of my columns, shuddered, and good naturedly asked me to write a farewell column.

The journalist's job falls into several categories. Only one of these is to report the news. (I wasn't especially satisfied with the job I did in this aspect — you can't commute to a town for a few months and really know what's going on. Editors Riordan and Lincoln knew this, understood it, and accepted it.)

Another aspect of the job is to take stands on issues or events that happen in the community, not so much to blow off steam, though that is the editor's right, but to encourage debate, help crystalize opinion, and point out areas where public discussion could help clarify issues.

A third aspect of an editor's job, which many editors and publishers avoid, is to inject a certain amount of stimulant into the intellectual life of the community. This comes primarily from his own opinion and thinking, via editorials and columns.

☆

MODERN journalism usually fails in this regard. You can read 30 weekly newspapers and most small dailies and get the idea that no one in the state is thinking about anything but service club activity, and the like.

This wasn't always so. One has only to look at the newspapers of 100 years ago and be amazed at the sophisticated level of journalism. We always assume we're improving.)

On the national scale, the number of men responsible for public discussion, which takes place primarily in the newspapers, is appallingly small.

Well, I'm getting carried away again.

I intended to explain what led me into journalism and why I write a column such as this.

☆

I STARTED thinking about a career when about 16 years old. At that time I listed some of the requirements that I thought a career should meet. I still think they were pretty good.

► It had to be full time work, not just 40-hour-a-week, but something that both work and play could be plowed back into my career.

► It had to be primarily for myself. That is, the work I accomplished would be mine. The reward for a job done, in money or recognition, couldn't be usurped by someone else.

► It had to be significant. Not having a vested interest to protect, I picked one of the eternal virtues, truth, and decided to serve that master.

► This entailed honesty and integrity. In other words, I had to call them the way I saw them, regardless of the price in popularity or market value.

► Further, to be significant, it meant others had to pay attention to what I was saying which I would have to say as loud and as often as I could.

The career which these standards led me to was writing. It could have been something else, politics. But that requires playing with truth, and also demanded skills I didn't have.

(Other careers embody other virtues, but they don't have to. Not all lawyers are primarily concerned with justice. Not all doctors are primarily concerned with life. Not all artists are primarily concerned with beauty. Not all writers are primarily concerned with truth.)

☆

SOME TIME ago I tried to define the "square" the "beat," the "hipster," and the "cool cat." I didn't mean to imply I favored one over the other.

The type of person I do admire and respect — and he seems to be vanishing — is so well expressed by C. Wright Mills.

Said Mills:

"The craftsman has no ulterior motive for work other than the product being made and the processes of its creation. The craftsman imagines the completed product, often even as he creates it; and, even if he does not make it, he sees and understands the meaning of his own exertion in terms of the total process of its production.

"In craftsmanship, plan and performance are unified, and in both, the craftsman is master of the activity and of himself in the process. The craftsman is free to begin his working according to his own plan, and during the work he is free to modify its shape and the manner of its shaping.

"since he works freely, the craftsman is able to learn from his work, to develop as well as use his capacities. His work is thus a means of developing himself as a man as well as developing his skill.

"This self-development is not an ulterior goal, but a cumulative result of devotion to and practice of his craft. As he gives to work the quality of his own mind and skill, he is also further developing his own nature; in this simple sense, he lives in and through his work, which confesses and reveals him to the world.

"The craftsman's way of livelihood determines and infuses his entire mode of living. For him there is no split of work and play, of work and culture. His work is the mainspring of his life; he does not flee from work into a separate sphere of leisure; he brings to his off-working hours the values and qualities developed and employed in his working time."

Why this sort of person is vanishing would be the subject of quite a few other columns which I'm sorry that I won't be writing.

Anyway, these are the standards on which I try to judge myself and my work. If I fail to measure up, then it's partly my fault, partly the fault of this society which doesn't have much room for these people, and then only if they're very good.

I hope that you who have read this column have found it stimulating. I thank you, along with Editors Riordan and Lincoln, for the opportunity to speak my mind in public. I think more people should.

Well — cheery by.

Fire Ruins Hard Work of Youths

Brenda Gallant and Charlie Rebottaro are going to be married Oct. 26.

They have been carefully preparing for the event, even rented an apartment on Green Hwy., which they scrubbed and cleaned.

Then the young people began buying furniture, appliances, dishes and linen, carefully placing each item in their home-to-be.

But last week, the pair, their families and friends were awfully heartsick.

Fire swept the apartment, caused by faulty wiring. Bedroom, dining room and kitchen were badly damaged.

But the dark cloud has a silver lining.

Brenda's dad, Thomas Gallant, Jr., promises that the furniture will be completely refinished by the wedding day.

And the Rebottaro family has volunteered to tackle the sooty walls.

Theme of the five day schedule for the 1963 Forum is "Collecting Americana — Town and Country."

Featured will be illustrated lectures by outstanding nationally-known authorities in the decorative and fine arts fields, including representatives of major museums, historical societies and universities.

Chief Clark

Chief of Police Murell Clark will speak Oct. 14 to members of the Child Study Club at their guest night in the home of Mrs. Keith Barron.

Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Don Sunderland and Mrs. Stephen Fulop. Program leader is Mrs. Norm Bailey.

that there can be additional problems involved when the need occurs in a place far from home — but there needn't be! A call to the Green-Dunn Funeral Home — first — is all that's needed to obtain complete resolution of all problems.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Being a member of Tecumseh's volunteer fire department means more than tying the clamp on wayward blazes.

Much more. In fact if a fellow is really qualified, he might end up on the group's water ball team.

This sounds at first blush as a bit of playful diversion, but to the fire laddies this is deadly serious.

So much so, that the Tecumseh team has just won its second straight Lenawee County Championship.

Water ball is not a game for the timid or the athlete who doesn't want to get wet. It's played with fire hoses — going full blast.

Various departments in the county have five-man teams which compete in elimination meets. On the annual fireman's field day the finals are staged by the four best crews.

Tecumseh's quintet, including Wallace MacGeorge, Dick Beasley, Dave Faling, Mahlon Sebring and Harold Easton, did themselves proud on the big day two weeks ago.

Their performances in the semi-final and figal bouts was amazing. The Madison Township and then Palmyra teams were unable to even score a point, as Tecumseh racked up over 200 in both contests.

☆

An overhead wire 100 yards long, runs through an 18-pound ball, which can spin and slip when struck by a stream of water.

The water comes from regular fire department hoses with which the lads hammer at the ball. A no-man's land 30-yards long separates the teams and the game starts with the ball mid-way in this area.

Each team also has back-up hoses, which can only go into action when the ball slides overhead, having been pushed there by the stream of water from the opponent's offensive hose.

To score a point a team must get the ball out of the center zone and into its opponent's section. For every second the ball is there, a tally is recorded.

Tecumseh, in eight matches over a two year span — since water ball became part of the local department's activities — has seen only one-half point scored against it.

Hail to the champions!

KIWANIANS OF YEAR — Gene Tuckey was awarded the Kiwanis Distinguished Service Award for 1963 at last week's meeting and promptly received a congratulatory kiss from his wife. Mr. Tuckey is a past president of the club and has always been an active participant in its many enterprises as well as in community events.

Handicapped Youngsters Now Have Scout Troops

"Now these kids belong," Walt McCallum, Boy Scout executive from Adrian told Kiwanis Club members and their wives while issuing Cub Scout and Boy Scout charters for new organizations at Sutton School last week.

The troops are being sponsored by local Kiwanians.

Students in this special education school are mentally and physically handicapped. Feminine students have been enrolled in Girl Scouts and Brownies.

This is believed to be the only Scout chartering of its kind in the state and possibly in the nation.

Mr. McCallum related the start of the new groups, a weekend camp-out at Camp Kanestake on Washington Lake. For 95% of the youngsters this was the first time they had even been away from their parents.

Accompanying them were their teachers, Clarence Long and Jan Baxter, who have assumed the jobs of Scoutmaster and assistant.

The handicapped youngsters were seated in a circle as Tenderfoot badges were awarded the boys. As is the regular Scout tradition, they were pinned on upside down until the youth had performed their first good deeds.

"Within 15 minutes, everyone had been able to turn their pins right-side up," Mr. McCallum explained, "as Camp Kanestake had been completely policed by the kids."

He went on to relate how thrilled the children were and willing to pitch in on camp chores, hauling mattresses and benches, likely the first time they had ever done any sort of labor.

☆

ON HAND for the charter presentations were Lauren White of Pleasant Ridge, Kiwanis governor of Michigan and Don Dennis of Addison, lieutenant governor.

They were invited to participate in the charter ceremony by Mr. McCallum. Fred Nash, former president here who proposed the Sutton School Scout idea, accepted the charters, then passed them to Dick Myers, current club president.

Scout committee cards were presented to Dr. William Adams, chairman; John Pobuba and Don Partridge. Mr. Nash was named institutional representative.

Mr. Baxter explained that Sutton School is a Type B special education institution, where the youngsters are severely handicapped, but trainable.

They are not emotionally disturbed.

Teachers concentrate on helping their charges learn self-care, self-discipline and personal hygiene.

They are delighted with the Scouting program.

Painting on Globes Is Unique Hobby of Mrs. Mengerink

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Mrs. Ed Mengerink, 207 Pine St., has an unusual hobby for modern times — she paints on glass and china.

In years past, hand-painted plates were quite common, but not so now. Mrs. Mengerink says that many local people do ceramics, but she doesn't know of anyone in the city who paints china.

This interesting hobby started in 1958 at the request of Marilyn's aunt, an avid antique "hound" who lives in Toledo.

The aunt had several China lamp bases, but she was not satisfied with the painting done on the globes, which were supposed to match the bases.

☆

WITH THIS IN MIND, Marilyn purchased a used kiln and compiled information about the paints and then studied for 18 months with a china painter, Mrs. John Gasser, in Toledo.

She worked on glass for several years before starting on china, which is fired at a different temperature.

She says that firing is touchy with glass, it melts, china doesn't.

Marilyn does most of her work free hand with only an occasional tracing when necessary to get a certain pattern to match exactly.

She, she says, is the main thing in starting a project of this kind.

☆

THE MENGERINKS came to Tecumseh in 1957 when he was first employed by the offices of Dr. Robert Laidlaw and Robert Murray as a dental laboratory technician.

They have two daughters, Shelly, 10, and Tracy, 11, who attend elementary classes at Tecumseh Acres School.

Mr. Mengerink remarked one day as he watched his wife painting coffee mugs with holly design for Christmas gifts, "Well, why don't we have some like these?"

She is employed as a bookkeeper for Dr. R. G. V. Marsh. Her husband is secretary for the Exchange Club and both of them are active members of the Tecumseh Players.

Jessie Sluyter frequently sends people to Mrs. Mengerink who would like to have a globe to match the base of their antique

No Permits for Burning

The fire department will not issue burning permits until this area has a hard rain. Officials advise residents not to burn leaves.

The department was called six times during the week to control grass fires.

Wednesday, Oct. 9, firemen fought a field blaze on the farm of Fred Wrassa, Ives Rd., and grass fires at the homes of Richard Loughney, 106 E. Kilbuck St., and Coy Palmer, 6402 Green Rd. No damage resulted.

Tuesday, the department was called twice to a grass fire on Blood Rd. No damage was reported.

At 12:25 a.m. Wednesday, one truck was called to remove gasoline caused by a four-car collision at Occidental Rd. and the DT&I railroad crossing.

Committee Begins Work on Holiday Ball

The Holiday Ball will be the topic of discussion Tuesday, Oct. 22, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Meadows, 1004 River Acres Dr., when the committee gets together for a meeting.

The annual event is sponsored by the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Meadows and Mrs. Yale Kerby, co-chairmen, have announced their committees to the [illegible] Carlos Knisley.

Those chairmen are:

Decorating — Mrs. James Fielder

Publicity — Mrs. Thomas Riordan

Refreshments — Mrs. Donald Nixon

Tickets and Invitations — Mrs. W. N. Winfield, Mrs. Theodore Rundell, Mrs. Ben Hammack.

Advisors — Mrs. Howard Fury, Mrs. Ray Sluyter.

Medical Assistants Discuss Procedures

Eleven members of the Lenawee County Medical Assistants Association enjoyed a meal at the Bostonian Dining Room Oct. 15, preceding the regular meeting.

The program consisted of a question-and-answer period on office procedure conducted by Mrs. Vivian Guss of Hudson, Mrs. Ben Marley and Mrs. Ruth Dustin of Tecumseh.

Herb Munger Dies at Bixby Hospital

Herbert C. Munger passed away shortly before noon Wednesday at Bixby Hospital, where he had been a patient for about 11 weeks.

Hunters Cannot Smoke

Pheasant season opens Monday morning at 10, but hunters are going to find things difficult — especially smokers.

Gov. George Romney issued a strict no smoking and no burning order for fields and forests throughout the entire state.

Violators will be subject to a $100 fine or three months in jail. This is the first time in 17 years that such a mandate has been necessary, due to parched farm lands.

In addition to this, hunters are cautioned to check with farmers before setting foot on their property. Standing corn is brittle and should not be entered without permission.

DAR Holds Bake Sale Oct. 18, 19

Mrs. O. W. Laidlaw opened her home Oct. 11 for the Abi-Evans Chapter DAR meeting when Mrs. George Wittrup presided.

The Chapter is sponsoring a rummage and bake sale Oct. 18 and 19 at the Federal Savings and Loan Association building.

Anyone wishing to donate articles may contact Mrs. Neil Pearson or Mrs. Purnell Osburn.

The bake sale scheduled for Saturday morning will be in charge of Mrs. Louis S. Schneider.

Mrs. Pearson reported on National Defense.

MRS. JOE RICE and Mrs. O. W. Laidlaw attended the regional meeting last week at Grosse Pointe.

It was reported that the membership was growing with 30% predominantly young people.

Twenty dollars was voted as a Christmas gift to the DAR school in the south.

Vandals Slice Up Football Dummies, Break Goal Post

By JIM LINCOLN

Vandals hit the Tecumseh schools last week, inflicting over $100 damages, mainly to equipment belonging to the football department.

Saturday night, someone invaded the athletic shed, just north of the permanent bleachers, slashed four blocking dummies, stole two more dummies, and completely mutilated a large tackling dummy.

Tom Fagan, football coach, said the blocking dummies cost about $15 each and the tackling dummy about $20.

The athletic department, although practically self-supporting from gate receipts, is not financially able to order new dummies this fall.

The previous Monday noon, the vandals snapped an upright pole on the south goal post. A new section was installed and the goal post replaced for this Friday night's game with Airport.

Sometime last Friday, the large rubber hose for sprinkling the football field was slashed. School employees have repaired it.

☆

VANDALISM has not been limited locally.

Last Friday night at Flat Rock, a youngster used a small spray paint can and painted a swath the full length of one Tecumseh bus.

He said that at the first football game of the season, Willow Run police had anticipated trouble at the Ypsilanti school and gave the Tecumseh bus an escort from the school property.

Officials and local police are still investigating.

Britton-Macon $200,000 Bond Sale Goes to Bank

Britton-Macon School District awarded the sale of $200,000 in construction bonds to low-bidding United Savings Bank Tuesday evening.

Rate of interest offered by the Tecumseh bank was 2.4585%.

William Saxton, Britton-Macon superintendent, said that the money will be available in three to four weeks. Its receipt will signal the start of construction on an addition approved by voters last spring.

Seven rooms will be added to the western end of the present school. They will serve elementary grades, one is to be an all-purpose room for band and music.

Mr. Saxton hopes to also utilize another for special education.

☆

THE PROGRAM will include enlargement of the school office and the combining of the present fifth and sixth grade rooms into a science laboratory for chemistry and biology.

The kindergarten room will be converted into a library.

Britton - Macon's enrollment this year is 610, an increase of 13 over the past school year.

Dave Lemerand Gets 210 Yards as Indians Win

By JIM LINCOLN

The Indians — early season disappointment — are now rolling as the Flat Rock Rams will testify after being smothered last Friday night, 32-7.

For the past two weeks, Tecumseh has been the team expected for 1963 and could easily now be the best club in the Huron League — even better than Dundee.

Airport, winless in league play, and victor of only one game this season, comes to Tecumseh Friday night with little chance of slowing the Indians down.

Since formation of the Huron League a few years back, Airport and Tecumseh have usually been at opposite ends of the standings, with the Jets bringing up the bottom.

☆

ONLY A COUPLE of mistakes prevented the FR-Tecumseh game from turning into a complete rout.

First error came late in the second stanza when one official over-ruled another, moved the ball back about 18 inches and prevented the Indians from gaining a first down inside Flat Rock's one.

Final mistake was Tecumseh's kickoff with the ball laying flat. The pigskin traveled about 20 yards, was gathered in by FR lineman Bill Tucholke, who zipped right down the middle for a second quarter FR touchdown.

However, at the time, Tecumseh already had three TDs and was a sure bet to score more.

☆

HALFBACKS Dave Lemerand and Doug Goldsberry paced Tecumseh's victory. Lemerand rushed for 210 yards, the most for any Indian back in recent history.

On the third play from scrimmage in the first period, Lemerand took a pitchout from quarterback John Oberlin and went 75 yards down the sidelines to put Tecumseh ahead 6-0.

Six minutes later, Fullback Bob Baker climaxed a 54-yard drive with a one-yard plunge.

Oberlin wrapped up the first-half scoring for Tecumseh early in the second quarter when he pushed into the end zone from one yard out.

Baker, who missed two previous place kick attempts, once because of a bad pass from center, split the uprights to give Tecumseh a 19-6 halftime lead.

☆

THE INDIANS tallied in the third quarter with just three seconds left. Goldsberry ran the final 10 yards of a 66-yard march which took 13 plays. Baker kicked the extra point.

Tecumseh's final score was much easier with Goldsberry cutting through left tackle from the FR seven. The drive, starting on Tecumseh's 43, took only seven plays, including a 25-yard jaunt by Goldsberry.

Lemerand was easily the offensive star with runs of 51 and 35, besides the 75-yard scoring romps. He gained 179 yards in the first half alone, averaging nearly 36 yards in five attempts.

Flat Rock	0	7	0	0	— 7
Tecumseh	12	7	7	6	—32

Scoring: Flat Rock — Tucholke (60, run). PAT — John Laird (run).

Tecumseh: Lemerand (75 run), Baker (1, run), Oberlin (1, run) Goldsberry 2 (10 and 7, runs). PAT — Baker 2, place kicks.

TECUMSEH HERALD PHOTO

Veteran halfback Dave Lemerand rolled up 210 yards by rushing against Flat Rock Friday night, the most yardage any Indian back has gained in recent history. More noted for his defensive abilities, Lemerand scored once in reeling off runs of 75, 51 and 35 - all in the first half.

Rameses II Was Greatest

His Temples at Abu Simbel Top All His Efforts

(Editor's Note — This is one in a series of articles that The Herald will present on Egypt as prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riordan, who recently spent three weeks there.)

ABU SIMBEL — Back 3,200 years ago, the king of upper and lower Egypt was a chap by the name of Rameses II.

In just about every way, he ranked as the greatest — warrior, lover and monument builder. His reign lasted 67 years, during which he fought and won many battles, married many wives and had 100 sons and 50 daughters.

The name Rameses, still a household word in the entire Egyptian nation today, is best recalled for the statues, almost all of himself, he had fashioned.

The two temples here, one dedicated to himself and the other, smaller, to his favorite bride, Nefertari, surpass everything this famed king had done.

☆

ABU SIMBEL is located on the Nile in Upper Egypt, about 1,000 miles south of Cairo. The two temples were carved out of giant sandstone cliffs, which are the start of the Libyan dessert range.

Their dimensions are staggering and the visitor can only keep asking himself, "How in the world did they do it?" No matter how blase one is about life and antiquities, the temple of Rameses here is breathtaking.

Four duplicate figures of the king dominate the scene. They sit side by side, each 67 feet high. Three are in good condition, but in centuries past the chest and head of one was shattered and it lays on the staired terrace before the temple.

Rameses had smaller statues cut between his legs, these of his family, signifying that he stands over and protects them. But that's not all, the temple runs into the rock 200 feet to the three rooms, each smaller than the one before it.

In the last, sits a figure of the king with the gods Ra-Horakhti, Amun and Ptah. Naturally, Rameses was considered as a god by himself and his people.

The large entry corridor features eight colossal statues of the king, four on each side standing 30 feet high. Rameses holds the crook and the scourge — symbols of his kingly power.

But the huge figures are only a part of the story. Everywhere there are hieroglyphics and story-telling caricatures cut into the walls and ceilings of the great temple.

One inscription tells of the marriage of Rameses and Nefertari. Another gives the text of a peace treaty between Egypt and the Hittites.

Rameses defeated the Hittites and the beautiful princess Nefertari was given by her father, the king of the conquered, to the Egyptian. Some scenes are in color and after 3,000 years, still retain much of their original quality.

In depicting the battle of Qadesh, etchings in the sandstone show Egyptian soldiers advancing toward the city from their camp, crowded with warriors and chariots. Other figures are prisoners of war, who are being subjected to interrogation by Rameses' men.

Finally, the king leads a violent chariot attack and is shown drawing his bow against enemy castles while the foe screams for help. In the end, Rameses returns victorious with his tame lion beside him.

☆

GREAT CARE was taken in construction of the temple so that it faces due east. During the time of the equinox, each March and September when the sun crosses the equator, Abu Simbel is lighted dramatically each dawn, from within as well as without.

Its rays gleam straight through the entrance of the temple, down the 200-foot-long corridor and shines on the four figures in the innermost sanctuary.

Our visit to Abu Simbel came a few weeks too early for equinox and only one side of the interiors was illuminated at sunrise. However, this was partially compensated for by the fact there was a full moon at the time. Under the moon's rays, the vast tribute to Rameses took on a new dimension.

About 100 yards to the north is the temple the king built to honor his queen. Of course, he is on hand — four times — as his statues are on each side of the two of Nefertari. This temple is not nearly as striking as the big one.

What happens to these 3,000-year-old antiquities now that the new Aswan High Dam nears completion, which means a reservoir nearly 250 miles long, backing up the Nile and flooding this area?

The United Arab Republic, working through the United Nation's Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, is coming up with a program to preserve the temples on higher ground at a cost to match the size of the king's temple.

Several plans, one that would cost $90 million, were considered and dropped. Then the UAR contracted a firm of Swedish consulting engineers to survey the project and it's this program which will be used.

For about $32 million, the temples will be sawed into pieces, carried to a plateau above and behind the present site, then re-assembled. This will leave the structure well above the anticipated water level of the reservoir, but keep it close to the edge of the Nile.

First step will be to fashion a 300-foot-long coffer dam of steel sheets, about 450 feet high, to hold back the rising Nile as work commences around the structures. The water will start rising next spring, sooner than the temples can be moved.

☆

BIDS for the job are being asked of 24 firms and the job will be awarded about Nov. 15.

Of the total money needed, Uncle Sam will kick in nearly 33%, which is the United States' regular extent of participation in UNESCO work.

When the two temples have been reconstructed, they will be situated in identical relation to each other and the compass as they now are.

Wouldn't old Rameses be proud?

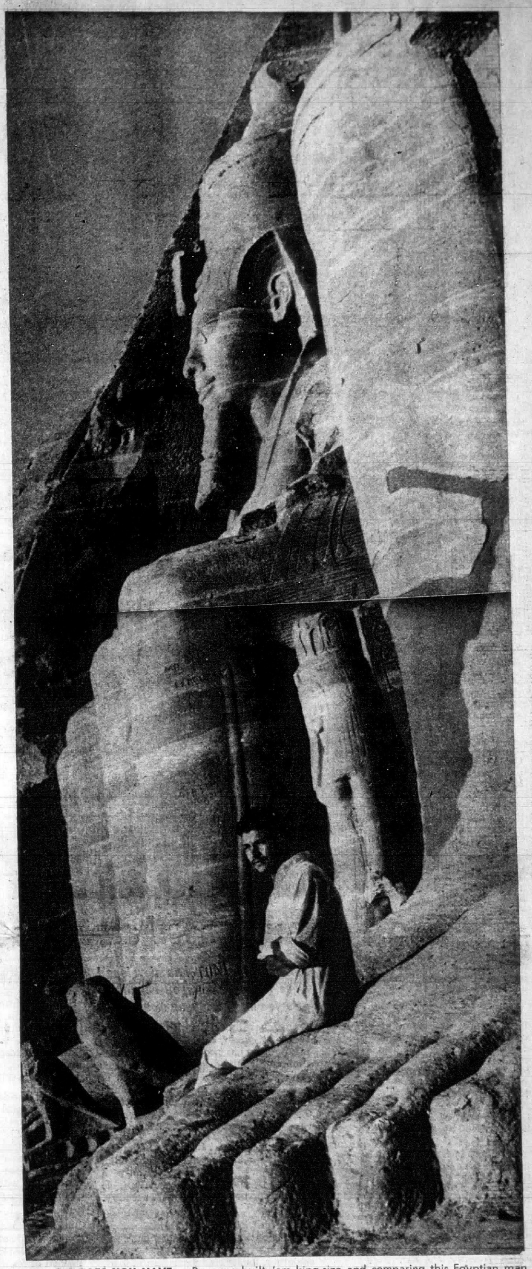
THE GREAT TEMPLE AT ABU SIMBEL WAS CARVED FROM SANDSTONE 3,200 YEARS AGO



WHAT BIG TOES YOU HAVE — Rameses built 'em king-size and comparing this Egyptian man with the feet helps give an idea how really gigantic the statues are. Each one of the four is 67 feet. Plans call for this entire temple to be sawed into blocks and moved to a plateau, which will keep it above the new Aswan High Dam's 350-mile-long reservoir. This, at a cost of about $32 million.

TO THE EDITORS:

In defense of the hunter (which The Herald sarcastically refers to as a "sportsman") not being able to tell that Mrs. Mackey's ducks were tame, I'm quite sure that a majority of duck hunters would find it difficult to separate tame mallards from wild mallards particularly when they are found swimming in a navigable stream which is accessible to any hunter who wants to expend the effort to float or wade it.

This might be compared to letting a tame deer run loose in the north woods during hunting season and expecting it not to be shot.

The fact that the ducks wings were clipped has little bearing on the situation. There are undoubtedly many wild ducks on the Raisin River which have been crippled during the past week that are unable to fly.

As a duck hunter, I find little challenge in shooting sitting ducks, but if a duck is unable to fly I see no reason for not shooting it, particularly in river hunting where you take your shots any way they come because you seldom get a second chance.

To people who do not hunt, the hunter's success is measured strictly in terms of game on the table and it usually helps pacify the better half when you come dragging in an hour late for dinner if you bring along a duck or two.

Duck hunting or any hunting for that matter is a tremendous sport which is as much a part of our heritage as July 4th or Thanksgiving Day and in my opinion biased reporting of incidents such as this one do a disservice to the sport.

I sincerely hope that when my son becomes of hunting age, [illegible] will share my interest and enthusiasm for hunting and that he isn't denied the privilege because of encroachment upon hunting rights by people who have little conception of how an incident like this can occur but are eager to swallow a one-sided story such as the one printed in this case.

Although I do not contend that all duck hunters are sportsmen (a bad example is the few who have been shooting for half an hour past the legal time along the river north of town), I do think that the hunter who shot Mrs. Mackey's ducks was justified in doing so if he honestly thought they were wild and that it is unfortunate that Mrs. Mackey didn't have the foresight to call in her pets which "never failed to come when she called" before the hunting season started.

NEWS for truck owners who need a new one now

Things Chevrolet has developed since the last time you bought to give you more for your money:

Double-wall construction. This feature of Chevrolet cabs and the Fleetside pickup body has two advantages. Insulation and sound-deadening material is sandwiched between the two layers of steel in the cab to give you more comfort; in the body, the lower inner wall acts as a buffer against load damage, preserving the outer appearance of the truck.

Suspension to fit the truck. Conventional half- and three-quarter-ton models have independent front suspension with variable rate coils in the rear. Variable rate coils do not "bottom out" as readily.

Mediums and heavies have I-beam suspension with variable-rate leaf springs. It automatically stiffens as the load increases—and vice versa. It means a smoother, flatter ride regardless of load, a better handling truck.

The right engine. Chevrolet never has been in better position to give you the type and size you need for maximum efficiency. Today there are many different capacities of gasoline and diesel Chevrolet truck engines—fours, sixes, V8's.

Stronger frames. Every conventional 1964 Chevrolet truck has a ladder-type frame. This type is more resilient, better able to give with the load and terrain. Its simple design also makes it easier to mount special bodies on the truck. Its riveted side rails are stronger.

Greater model selection. This time you're going to find it a simple matter to pick the exact type of Chevrolet truck for the kind of work you do. In delivery trucks, for instance, in addition to regular panels and pickups, we have eleven different sizes of ready-made walk-in vans, some with full-width rear doors.

Quality and value. Chevrolets today are a lot more truck than your money bought the last time, and yet the price tag is just about the same as 5 or 6 years ago. Call your Chevrolet dealer for information or for a demonstration.

Living Harsh in South America

(Editor's Note: Excerpts from letters written by Mrs. Bernard Fero in Cerro, South America, have been shared with Herald readers by Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. King, 1001 Sunset.)

Sept. 12, 1963

The weather has turned cold again and we have gas heaters going but they don't keep the whole house warm. Kelly is home from school with an earache — he is on one side of the fireplace with a new airplane model, putting it together and I have a typewriter on a stool on the other side.

Have been asked if I am driving yet. Yes, I drive here in Cerro, but haven't attempted downtown driving. It's fantastic.

There is only one general rule that I have discovered — the one on the right at an intersection has the legal right-of-way.

However, on the main streets, traffic moves along and those coming from the side streets usually stop or at least slow down but then, again, you cannot depend on it, so eyes in the back of one's head would be a distinct advantage.

☆

A FEW corners are marked with small arrows on a convenient building denoting the direction of traffic. There are lots of one-way streets.

If not marked, the only way is to get into the intersection and note the way the cars are headed — of course, sometimes this may be too late.

There are three traffic lights in the whole city but most of the time one or more of them are not operating and if they are, lots of people ignore them completely.

Traffic cops seem to have no definite rules for their arm motions so one must guess and hope they guess right.

Streets are choked with huge buses (the public transportation companies have a gold mine here) trucks, bicycles, motos and autos of all shapes and sizes.

This is where our tiny Renault comes in handy for parking, getting through tight places, etc.; although I feel very unprotected when Barnie tries to bluff a big bus.

Another hazard is the quantity of pedestrians. The sidewalks are just wide enough for two abreast. Push carts, with or without horses, line the streets selling every kind of article you can think of.

(Mrs. Fero writes of the problem in getting son, Mike, off on a plane from the Cordoba airport due to weather conditions. Scheduled to leave on a Saturday morning, Mike finally was able to get passage Sunday morning, hoping to make connections for the states from Santiago de Chili. He made it and is attending Michigan State University this term.)

I related all this to show that airplane travel may be faster, if you get to fly, but at this time of year it is very unpredictable and nobody worries about it at all — if not today, manana.

Sept. 21, 1963

Your letters received with rejoicing, we have read them over and over. Keep 'em coming.

Lovely day here, cooler, but it was over 90 so we can stand a little coolness. Ninety here is much different than in Michigan — the air is dry and the breeze cool in morning and evening.

The sun is hot and penetrating in the middle of the day, but there are no perspiration problems.

We need rain badly. There has been practically none since we have been here. Fruit trees are in blossom and we have roses and daisies outside our door.

☆

A FEW Sundays ago, in church, before the minister began his sermon, he asked some of the boys to chase the horse out of the churchyard before his hooves caused damage to the flower beds.

Where else would one get such a request right along with the the regular church announcements?

Last week we saw our first gypsies. A group of eight or 10 with one little girl, complete with flowing, colorful dresses, head kerchiefs, gold hoop earrings, brown skins and hooked noses — the little girl a miniature of the women.

On Monday last, a friend took me to Norte Market, a big farm-type wholesale market right in downtown Cordoba. We learned that prices were not cheaper but higher and we decided that we were justified in being lazy and having our regular cacho deliver to the house.

We were able to have more variety, however, and it was fun seeing the whole place with the meat stalls having their wares in full view — great haunches of beef, dripping, tiny goats with skin still on, all the varieties of meats (inards) which are considered delicacies with the Argentinians.

Our Don Pedro, grocer, has recently procured aluminum foil and waxed paper for which we are grateful.

We are taken aback when we realize things we take for granted in the States have not yet made an appearance in this country. Oh, for a visit to Kroger's.

I went with five other churchwomen to visit Las Violetas, a poor barrio (section) of Cordoba.

This place was built during Peron's administration. A lot of housing projects where thousands of poor people living in caves and huts along the river have been moved in.

☆

THERE is not a tree or blade of grass — just hard-packed earth which some of the better housekeepers sweep as if it were cement.

It is dreary, and the want and privation are unimaginable.

Most of the men are "winos," and there are hundreds of children.

Our church has a tiny building there, provides Sunday School, a woman's society and sometimes services. We took all the things for tea, including our own cups, utensils and water, plus homemade cakes and bread.

The children gathered outside to hear the hymn singing in Spanish. (I was the only one unable to speak and understand the language). We fed them in shifts and really gave them a little-known treat.

There was a terrible wind while we were there and though we were in the building, the dust sifted through till you couldn't see your hand. It's heartbreaking to see this kind of existence.

A former pastor, also a barber, gives free time for haircuts. A doctor-dentist has a chair set up and gives dental work one day a week.

There is one child, about five, an Albino, with snow-white hair and beet-red face — eyes squinted against the pain of light until someone put dark glasses on her and then she could see to take her sandwich or cake from the plate.

☆

I WAS worried about not having any constructive activity but this is one area in which I can help when I learn the language better.

Of course, we do nothing on our own, only through the church. This is a most dangerous place to go without companions.

We give milk and used clothing to the Sunday School children: no pesos, for the men would only take it for wine.

One of our women, an Argentine, has made arrangements for the Argentine army camp, located nearby, to give all their leftover food every day to the people. Much love to all.

1,300 Trailers Arrive for Dodge City Festival

By Saturday noon, 1,300 trailers had arrived and many were still coming.

Election of the Club's queen and Court Saturday was followed by a parade in the afternoon. Harrison's Chamber of Commerce presented both queens with corsages.

Wilma, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon LaLonde, 506 N. Union St., was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John McKenzie and son Tommy and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coogan of Dearborn.

The queen and her guests received free tickets to the entire celebration from the Trailer Club. They returned home Sunday night.

Dads in Spotlight at Friday's Game

BRITTON — Dads of Britton-Macon Tory football players will be honored Friday evening when Summerfield plays here.

The Tories will be going after their second win of the season after falling to top-ranked Ida, 21-7, last week.

"Ida has won four straight River Raisin League games and faces a showdown this week with Adrian Catholic Central, which also has an undefeated loop mark.

Unfortunately for Ida, the Bluestreaks will probably have to play without star fullback, Larry Fanning, who was seriously injured in the Britton game.

FANNING notched three touchdowns, then in the fourth period seriously hurt his shoulder and was taken to Toledo's St. Vincent Hospital.

However, Ida iced the contest in the last period on Fanning's final tally of the evening, just before he was sidelined.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Someone said, "There is nothing new under the sun." Could be . . . but here at Clinton Woolen we have added so many new things that it looks like we will not have room for the customers.

Woolens - woolens and woolens . . . We have increased our stock in all weights. New suitings, coatings and dress weights in the latest shades and colors.

Do you like plaids? We do. In fact we believe we have just about every Tartan plaid that was woven this year. There are over twenty in our collection. Some are all wool at 2.95 and others in washable wool-nylon at $3.35.

Among the other fabrics are man-made furs . . . Leopard, Broadtail, Dalmatian, Caracul, and Astrakan.

Of special note among the men's wear is a group of Harris Tweed Sportcoats. We are glad to see the tweeds back. The last few years the flat finished sportcoating was warmed over just too many times.

For that Town and Country look there is nothing more useful and comfortable than a good casual outer coat. Here we can show you style on top of style. Like a touch of the Highlands or do you prefer the Bold Look? The high styled Leopard or Leopard trim may be your preference. Perhaps a luxurious wool in Camel with a beautiful zip-out lining would suit your fancy. Plaids of course, some with the knit sleeves. Corduroy, suede, wool, nylon, all the most popular outer shells are found in our collection. You name it, we probably have it.

The casual outer coats for the men have intriguing names . . . English Walker, The Turk, Chukker, Auto Coat. (That name is a switch, dressy coat, too.)

We could go on and on . . . new sweaters, skirts, slacks, stretch pants, coordinates, etc., etc. Better come over and let us guide you through a wonderland of fabrics and sportswear.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The problems of an increasing number of senior citizens were paramount when I drew up my proposal for fiscal reform.

Much criticism has been directed at a single aspect of this program — the provision to defer property taxes for senior citizens.

Without even considering the validity, many other benefits which my program would afford senior citizens are generally being overlooked in the debate over the property tax deferral provision.

► Every citizen over 65 would receive a double exemption — $1,200 — in computing his or her state income tax. If both husband and wife were over 65, this would mean that the first $2,400 of family income over and above social security benefits would be exempt.

► If the city in which the senior citizen lives imposes an income tax, each couple over 65 would have a $2,400 tax exemption over and above social security benefits in computing that tax too.

The first three points add up to the fact that the average senior citizen couple will pay no state or local income tax. In addition, senior citizens will enjoy the following tax savings:

► Along with other citizens, senior citizens would get a 20% reduction in local property taxes imposed for school purposes.

► The intangibles tax would be repealed. This would mean a real savings for many senior citizens who have retired and receive a part of their income in dividends or interest.

► Finally, there is the property tax deferral itself. I recognize the need for senior citizen relief from property taxes; I think my proposal is a sound one. Under this provision, senior citizens would have the choice of deferring property taxes on their homesteads until their death or until they dispose of their property.

At the outset, this would be limited to taxes up to $200 per year on homesteads with a market value of less than $10,000 where family income is under $2,000.

About 62,000 families would be eligible for this relief immediately.

There are three basic arguments against straight property tax exemption, rather than deferral.

THEY ARE these:

► With a few years of experience, it should be possible to broaden the program to cover many more people than could ever be made eligible for straight exemption. It should be possible, in fact, to eliminate any limitations on family income and property value. This could not be done under the exemption approach without huge expenditures of general state money.

► One of the principal benefits of straight exemption would be to the children or other heirs of senior citizens. Is it fair to ask general taxpayers to pay millions of dollars of taxes each year so that these relatives can inherit porperty free and clear after the owner's death?

► After the first few years, a tax deferral program will become self-sustaining without any charge to the taxpayers other than a modest amount to pay for administration and to cover losses. An exemption program would cost the taxpayers millions of dollars each year for as long as the program continued.

New TELFARM Program Will Help Keep Records

A new program called TELFARM will be available for Lenawee County farmers in 1964.

The name TELFARM has been derived from Todays ELectronic FArm Records for Management.

Farm families need and are asking for expanded educational work in farm management. Credit institutions, business people, educational workers and government personnel are all asking for more help in improving their business program efforts with farmers.

TELFARM provides an opportunity to obtain the services of high-speed electronic machines at a nominal cost to handle financial records, depreciation schedules, labor accounts, enterprise accounts, credit accounts, family living records and other phases.

MOST OF ALL, this information only serves as a beginning point for an intensified management education program that should help the farmer improve his operations and earnings.

Consultations and farm visits by cooperating agents and specialists will be made to help farmers with records, business analysis, and planning.

Farmers and their wives are encouraged to attend a special meeting to learn how they might benefit from the TELFARM program.

The meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 23, from 8 until 10 p.m. at the Consumers Power Building, on E. Maumee St., in Adrian.

Another Great Festival

When 600 young musicians stand shoulder to shoulder and play "He's Got The Whole World in His Hands" with the skill of professionals, who can help but be thrilled?

That was the climax of the 17th annual Lenawee County Band Festival, staged last week at Tecumseh's Recreation Field.

Prior to the massed band renditions, each of the 10 county school units participating had produced some sharp-stepping and playing in six-minute stanzas.

This was the format established 17 years ago by the late Clare Camburn, one-time Tecumseh band director. He was assisted then by the Rev. Blair Bashore, who became the "Voice of the Festival" and who still carries on in this capacity.

Only change was that the central theme idea was dropped and instead each school allowed to present whatever show it might care to do.

Tecumseh has watched with pride each fall as the county bands wend their ways here for the affair. It might be worthwhile if civic leaders here considered how the community could lend a greater hand to make the festival even more of a success.

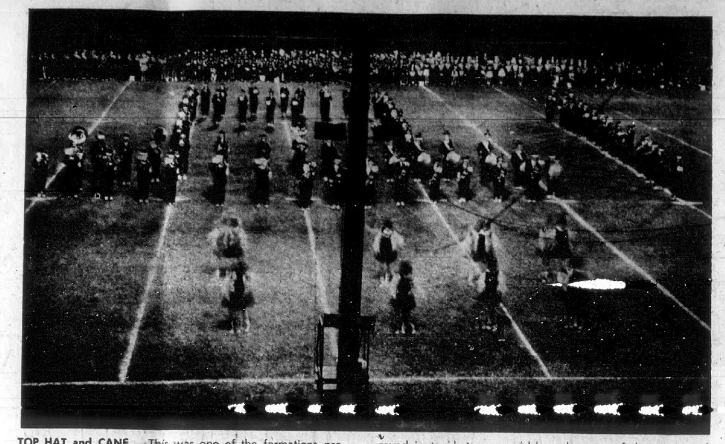
Always lurking in the background is the possibility that someone outside will make an attractive offer to draw this event from Tecumseh. If we consider this a possibility now we can take steps to [illegible] Tecumseh is the unquestioned Band Festival center.

The Tecumseh Band Boosters have done an excellent job of organizing the sale of tickets and serving as ushers and ticket takers, taking over the duties handled for several years by the Chamber of Commerce.

The ticket sale receipts have not yet been totaled. When this is completed, and expenses deducted, the net will be split evenly between each participating band.

We realize the bands don't come for the money they earn, but for the chance to see other units and to display their skills.

Band masters are in accord that this is an excellent event and that their young musicians look forward to playing here. They don't favor making it competitive, but want to keep the Festival just the way it is.



TOP HAT and CANE — This was one of the formations presented by the Tecumseh High School Band in the presentation of George M. Cohan's "Give My Regards to Broadway" at the Lenawee County Festival last week. The twirlers, arrayed in top hats, appear blurry because of the motion of their canes going 'round and 'round. The huge audience was able to hear the narrations and music due to the efforts of Forest Abner to boost the sound with extra speckers.

Neckerchiefs Smartly in Place

Not many years ago, the mentally or physically handicapped child was doomed to a life of nothingness. Oftentimes they were shunted into some hidden room and the family hoped no one would learn about what they mistakenly thought was a stigma.

Happily, this thinking is rapidly evaporating.

One of the major factors helping to accomplish a more sane approach have been the special education programs, which have sprung up throughout school systems all over the nation.

In our neighborhood, there is Sutton School, where dedicated teachers are doing a tremendous job with handicapped youths, some of whom regard the proper placement of a postage stamp on an envelope as a major accomplishment.

This autumn, the Sutton family got a grand assist in their work from members of Tecumseh Kiwanis.

Primarily through the efforts of Fred Nash, who became interested in Sutton students three years ago, Kiwanis has agreed to underwrite the cost of providing Girl and Boy Scout activity for Sutton.

The children were thrilled when they found that just like other boys and girls, they would be able to enter Scouting. It's apparently the only time handicapped kids have ever been offered the opportunity.

When Sutton School boys received Tenderfoot pins and donned neckerchiefs and had neckerchief slides slipped smartly into place by leaders, their faces shown like neon signs. Hours later, a Scout executive on hand for the festivities reported, the slides were still firmly in place.

The Herald congratulates Sutton's faculty, who will also act as Scout leaders, and Kiwanis members for lending their assistance to the program.

Pickles and Newspapers

National Newspaper Week, which is currently being celebrated, helps remind editors, publishers, reporters, printers and mailers that their industry is like many others.

Like the pickle business, for example, which annually celebrates seven days dedicated to pointing at itself with justifiable pride. After all, the pickle is a vital part of nearly every American's life. Why not?

In a way, newspapers are like pickles. Preparations of both must be executed with great care if the finished product is to be a winner. There are different sizes and shapes. Some are tart, others sweet.

Some people become addicted to one variety and forever after call for it. They get awfully irritated if the folks who fix their favorite change the formula.

When the customer reaches into his pocket for the needed price and suddenly discovers a sell-out of the one he wants, the resulting irritation is almost intolerable.

It's ironic, but this is usually the time that we realize how important they are to our lives.

State President Speaks

Mrs. Vernon S. Venman, state president of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs, was the speaker Oct. 6 for the Music Makers Club meeting at the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Venman spoke on the gift of music and what it means and how it effects the lives of each individual.

She explained what music should mean to the music student and how each person can apply this music to benefit their lives and give service and enjoyment to others.

An installation of officers preceded a program presented by students who attended the Interlochen Music Camp this summer.

☆

Linda Gilbert played "Little Nigar" and "Petite Etude" on the piano. Sherry Harper played "Autumn Leaves" on her flute.

Milton Bailey who attended the summer session at Olivet College sang "Le Reve" and "Come All Ye Songsters of the Sky."

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THE TINY ONES

I give up, I toss in the towel, I quit. In the springtime, warblers are hard enough to identify, but this time of year, they are impossible, absolutely impossible.

Several weeks ago we spent two and one-half days trying to put names to the little birds which flitted through our window pictures and we got exactly nowhere. It was most frustrating.

Warblers are tiny, a bird only three or four inches long isn't much to look at. They are also insect-eaters and as such, turn up their bills at the feeding station.

They stay in the trees or occasionally on the ground and never come close enough for a really good look. I may have trouble identifying individual warblers, but I am sure, they must share the same middle name — busy.

The tiny ones are just never still for a minute. They dart, they dash, they dive, they flit. Such boundless energy. Right now, in my present frame of mind, I nominate these characters as birdom's answer to perpetual motion.

☆

PROBABLY IT would be much smarter if I just said that the first contingent of the southward bound warblers had stopped here for a few days. However, I will stick my neck out and try to be a bit more specific. According to Peterson's 'Field Guide to Birds", I am positive that some of the group were yellow warblers.

During the summer the few who stay with us are easy to spot, their size and all over yellow color are easily recognized.

"In fall, female and young yellow warblers might be mistaken for other species but this is the only one with yellowish tail-spots."

Several times I am sure we saw those tell-tale yellow spots so chalk up one mark for yellow warblers.

☆

WE FOUND that the binoculars were of precious little help, the birds just wouldn't stay put long enough. One did make a mistake. Apparently bath time was just over because he sat on a limb, feathers all fluffed out and oh, but he was preening and cleaning up. We had time to put the glasses on this one — a white line over his eye and two wing bars showed plainly, as he flew away white spots under his tail flashed at us. A Tennessee warbler?

But one of the bird-books spoke of them as being rare — it was the only such reference that I could find, however and, since the field marks were the same as Peterson I think we must have been hosting some Tennessee Warblers.

☆

ABOUT HERE in where I became hopelessly bogged down, utter confusion set in and I just went around in circles. Trying to match the little birds with the identification - color-plates and descriptions was absolutely impossible.

There were wing-bars, eye bars, eye-rings, hoods, tail spots, tail bands, breast-stripes, back stripes and I give up. Even the birds, coloring was of no help. Yellow, pale yellow, greenish yellow, green, greenish gray, gray, bluish gray and dingy white.

Many warblers wear bright and gay springtime courting clothes, but in the fall they are dull and drab. And, as we said before, absolutely impossible to name.

ONCE THE decision was made to give up the frustrating job of finding names, we felt free to settle back and enjoy the birds. Wave after wave came through and what fun. They are a playful lot and we had great games of hide and seek.

As they flitted through the trees the smallest leaf was big enough to hide them. (I suppose some would say they were merely searching for bugs on the underside of the foliage but I have given up being serious about warblers.)

Follow the leader is another favorite — two or three birds line up and zip, zip, zip, they streak back and forth and around and around at incredible speeds. It is impossible to keep them in sight long, they move that fast.

So it is that, while at first we were confused by, we finally came to just enjoy the warblers, the tiny ones.

JP Tells Club About His Court

Lenawee County Farm Bureau President Clarence Hereford, and his wife were also guests at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kerr of Britton hosted the meeting Oct. 12.

Potluck supper preceded the session which, was opened with the Pledge of Allegiance, led by President Mrs. Wilson Sawyer.

Roy Cadmus, minuteman, reported on taxes and spoke on the Gov. Romney reform. He said that each person must use their own good judgement about voting.

Package reporter Bob Kerr gave a run down on service of the Farm Bureau. He told of the dangers of gasoline and said that it is time to order fertilizer for next spring.

Mrs. Alex Backus reported on the annual district women's meeting at Tomkins Corners. She spoke on talks about marketing and fabrics.

Merle Kerr led a discussion among the nine families present concerning marketing powers of today. It was determined that farmers must understand the skills of today's marketing powers.

(Editor's note — There has been considerable conversation about the "migrant situation" in recent weeks. A Britton area farmer's wife invited The Herald to see first hand what her place looked like after tomato pickers recently left. Staff Writer Judy Fielder vividly describes what she saw in the following article.)

By JUDY FIELDER

What can be done about the migrant worker? How can area residents help them?

Let me take you on my tour of the recently-deserted migrant camp on the "X" family farm, northeast of Britton. This might help people form some opinions.

Arriving at their home, my general impression was that this was a well-managed farm.

Work is being done on the [illegible] from the road the buildings seemed neat and clean.

Mrs. "X" met me in the yard. She impressed me as a pleasant woman capable of aiding her husband in farm management and raising a family. She was also forthright in her opinions.

She wanted me to see the problems involved with migrant workers before I formed a holier-than-thou attitude.

She and her husband include 40 acres of tomatoes on this farm and contract pickers from the south at harvest.

☆

ONE THING she pointed out was the workers don't appear out of nowhere — their bosses are contacted by government employment agencies. A preliminary contract is filled out with the number of workers and requirements for housing.

The "X" family had two separate crews, therefore two separate contracts.

The paper said the work force would bring 50 to 60 adults and eight children under the age of 16.

When the crew arrived, 38 children under the age of 14 were with them.

In Mrs. "X's" words, "What do you do with a half dozen pregnant women and over 30 children? These are pickers?"

☆

THE PICKERS were housed in four buildings.

First we toured a long narrow frame structure, similar to a row of single-story apartments, built in 1961.

Doors to the separate rooms were ajar, to get rid of the stench.

As we approached the building across a trash and bottle-strewn yard, I could see the exposed foundation. When I inquired, Mrs. "X" said the children played in the dirt and dug it away.

She pointed to an outdoor light fixture. "When the electrician installed that, I told him it was too low. Sure enough, it's been stripped every year."

A detailed account of every room in the building could be given, but this would be repititious. One thing they had in common was grease and filth.

Mrs. "X" said, "They weren't this way when the workers came — the health department comes to inspect and approve all facilities. They take water tests to be sure the water isn't contaminated."

Clothing, bottles and junk were strewn all over the concrete floor — here a woman's slip, there a child's shoe. On the tabletop lay a man's winter jacket and a pile of dirty cooking utensils.

☆

Mr. "X" had reinforced the chairs with plywood. With this exception they were similar to many found in the dining rooms of Tecumseh homes. A stuffed chair seat had the inside torn out of it.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

When a group of amateur theatre fans got together four years ago to stage "Charley's Aunt", there were polite comments of "How nice" and the like.

It was an excellent production, brought enthusiastic response — and turned up a variety of folks who wanted to try a hand at acting themselves.

Eight shows later and on the brink of a fourth season, members of the organization are just as eager as ever. There seems to be nothing like a stage-struck "ham".

The Players are laboring with the comedy, "Born Yesterday", which opens next Oct. 31, at the Community Center, playing two weekends.

Cast members, who always have great fun lauding the particular productions in which they take part, claim this will be "the greatest".

Even Dr. Bob Murray, who has never quite forgotten his role in "Charley's Aunt", is reluctantly admitting that "just maybe" this show will top that one of four years ago.

Mrs. Tom Corkery, who handles the feminine lead, has always been a great booster for "The Golden Fleecing", in which she happened to play three seasons ago. Now her memory is fading.

Since moving into the Glass Room of the Community Center, the Players have been giving six performances of each show running Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights on two successive weekends.

For "Born Yesterday" this pattern will be altered slightly the second weekend — with no Friday performance. That's Nov. 8 and happens to be the night Tecumseh's football team entertains the Adrian Maples.

First Aid Training Pays Off

Mrs. Charles Hyatt, 6711 Mill Hwy., became ill that evening while attending the wedding reception of her niece, Sherry Packard, who had just married David Henning.

She was stricken with a heart attack about 11 p.m.

Terry Auten, 16-year-old Britton Boy Scout also attending the reception administered mouth-to-mouth respiration which revived Mrs. Hyatt by the time first aid workers arrived with oxygen.

The victim was removed to Herrick Memorial Hospital, where she was resting comfortably Tuesday afternoon.

String Quartet Plays in Toledo

First of the 1963-64 season Great Gallery concerts of Chamber Music will bring the Netherlands String Quartet to the Toledo Museum of Art on Thursday, Oct. 24, at 8:30 p.m.

Migrant Tomato Pickers Can Earn Over $3 Hourly

Wages paid to migrant workers are established by the Michigan Employment Security Commission. On the "X's" farm the pickers received 10c per case, 1c bonus, 1½c per case for loading and 1½c supervision for crew leaders. This is a total of 14c per case. Mrs. "X" went into the field herself and picked 25 cases in one hour. At 12½c per case to a picker, 25 cases per hour, the migrant worker can earn $3.12 per hour.

Fire Call Fee Raised to $400

It's getting more expensive to have a fire in the country.

That's what members of surrounding township boards learned Monday evening while attending City Council.

After considerable discussion on the matter, Council offered a new fee system for fire calls made by the Tecumseh department outside city limits.

Five townships — Tecumseh, Adrian, Raisin, Franklin and Macon — will be charged $800 annually for standby fire protection. This amount will cover up to two calls. Each call made after the first two will be charged at the rate of $400.

Township boards have until Dec. 1 to decide if they wish to accept this arrangement.

In the case of Ridgeway and Clinton townships, there is an agreement between their departments and Tecumseh's. When one requests help from the other there is no charge.

☆

AT PRESENT there are various verbal setups with Tecumseh and the five townships.

Adrian Township, which no longer has a department, pays $500 per call to Tecumseh.

Tecumseh Township has been contributing a flat $1,000 per year for its share in purchase of new equipment, also paying labor charges for each call.

Others have been billed $100 plus labor for each fire.

City Manager Cal Zorn has made a study of the department and told councilmen and township boardmen that over a two-year period each call made within the city has averaged $379.45.

This also included the cost of the last truck purchased.

The average annual expense of the department was $34,917, of which the townships paid $5,326.

Mr. Zorn's proposal that the per-call fee be set at $500.

☆

TOWNSHIP boardmen said they felt this would strap their treasuries. Art Eaton and Al Merz, representing Tecumseh Township, added that one or two mills would probably have to be levied to pay for fire protection.

Charles Wade of Adrian Township told the group that his board thought the $500 fee was fair.

When there was a department in that area, it cost $700 per fire. If one was to be reactivated, Adrian Township boardmen felt this figure would grow to $1,000.

"We don't think you're out of line," Mr. Wade concluded.

Mills Swick of Macon Township countered this thought by explaining that "Adrian Township has lots of valuation and lots of population. Macon is at the opposite extreme."

Mr. Swick did agree that for a serious farm or home fire, $500 was not unreasonable.

☆

WHAT CONCERNED the boardmen most were the stray autos of transients, which happened to catch fire while coming through their areas and the minor grass fires, each of which would cost $400 to put out.

Councilman John Hamilton pointed out that often times what may seem to be just "another grass fire" may soon endanger building if not promptly contained.

Door-to-Door Solicitations for Fund Start Oct. 31

Door-to-door solicitations of the residential districts for the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation will start next Thursday, Oct. 31.

Mrs. Helen Craft, residential drive chairman, met with zone chairmen last Thursday to review procedures, distribute campaign supplies, and to discuss plans.

A special meeting of the Foundation's board met Thursday noon to review the fund drive, discuss objectives and set a total goal of approximately $62,000. This will include $33,000 for the charity budget and payment of $26,000 outstanding on Tecumseh's new library.

The industrial portion of the Foundation's drive is in full swing with Tim Neill, chairman for the industry, optimistic in view of preliminary reports from various plants.

Last Thursday night, committeemen and women met with division chairmen — Dyke Helms, commercial and Norvall Boyce, professional — along with General Chairman, Ken Conway, prior to starting these drives earlier this week.

Murell Clark, municipal chairman, opened the campaign among municipal employees also this week.

☆

LADIES and zones for the residential drive are:

Zone 1 — extreme northwest section with boundaries of N. Occidental, Munger and N. Union — Mrs. Jack Hanna and Mrs. Robert Laidlaw.

Zone 2 — River Acres, plus portions of Macon and Burt Rds. — Mrs. Royal Welch.

Knights Templar To Attend Service

Hospitaler's Sunday will be observed by Adrian Commandery No. 4 Knights Templar, Sunday.

The Sir Knights will present themselves in full Templar uniform for the purpose of attending divine services at The First Baptist Church in Tecumseh.

Parade Friday

Tecumseh High School's homecoming will be climaxed with the football game against Blissfield Friday evening.

A pep rally and bonfire will be held at the athletic field Thursday at 7:30 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Girls Athletic Association and cheerleaders.

Friday afternoon at 2:15 the homecoming parade will begin. Classes and clubs will convene with their floats on Shawnee St. and march through downtown.

The general homecoming theme this year is "Famous Historical Events and Sayings."

Tension mounts during the first half of the game, which starts at 7:30 p.m., in anticipation of announcement of the winning float and homecoming queen.

The queen and her court will be escorted by Joe Hanna, Jim Baker, Gregg Long, Jim Osburn, Anders Eden and Gregg King.

"An Evening in Athens" is the theme of the homecoming dance to be held immediately after the game. It hints of pillars and fountains representative of the days of ancient Greece.

Johnny Harberd's six-piece band from Ann Arbor will play.

Future Nurses Club is in charge of decorating. Future Teachers Club has taken charge of ticket sales and door favors. Art Club is handling advertising and Future Homemakers Club is planning refreshments.

City Will Buy Government Lot

City Manager Cal Zorn was authorized by Council Monday to start negotiations on the purchase of Federal government-owned property along S. Pearl St.

The Post Office Department held the land for many years, intending to use it for a new city post office.

However, officials changed their minds and instead selected Adams Park, across from city hall for the structure.

This made the S. Pearl St. land surplus and it was turned over to the General Services Administration, which disposes of all unwanted government land and material.

LAST SPRING, the GSA offered the area free to several school districts, if it would be used for educational purposes. No district was interested.

GSA informed the city the 23,500-square-foot lot is now available, at a price of $22,000.

The sale of Adams Park for the post office will bring $20,595 to the city. In addition, the parking meter fund has a $3,000 surplus. Between these, the additional off-street parking facility can be obtained.

COUNCIL ALSO told Mr. Zorn to investigate two other pieces of property, which would help ex-

'Baldy' Alderdyce Resigns as Fire Department Chief

After 15 years as Tecumseh fire chief, Cecil Alderdyce has resigned because he is moving out of the city limits.

Known by everyone as "Baldy", he has been a member of the local volunteer group for 26 years.

Named as Mr. Alderdyce's successor by Council Monday was Wallace MacGeorge, 216 Park St., a co-owner of R. S. Moore & Son Lumber Co.

Mr. MacGeorge has been a volunteer fireman for five years.

During Chief Alderdyce's tenure of office, the local department has greatly expanded its equipment.

Two new trucks were added, at a total cost of $39,500, and the local fire house twice enlarged. An emergency wagon and a tanker were also added while he served as chief.

Mr. Alderdyce lists his worst fire — and most dangerous — as the one at the American Gas Co. (now Protane) on S. Adrian St., Aug. 12, 1953.

The costliest blaze was the one in which Baldwin's Hardware was completely destroyed on Jan. 26, 1951. Des Ermia Furniture's fire on April 24, 1954, was also an expensive one.

"I always have had a good bunch of boys," the retiring chief said, "They have always cooperated. I don't think there's a better fire department in the county."

Mr. Alderdyce, who'll be 58 in February, will probably remain on the force. He's in his 20th year as an employee of Hoyt Whelan Farm Implements, serving as shop foreman.

No Problem Finding Spot for $12,550

By JIM LINCOLN

Tecumseh's School Board took advantage of additional state aid Monday night by authorizing expenditures amounting to $12,550.

The local schools will receive about $24,640 from the state due to an increase of total student enrollment — up 110 pupils.

Expenditures approved were:

► $1,500 — additional books to high school library.

► $1,400 — typing tables at high school.

► $3,000 — put 13 teachers in the system on the schools' salary schedule.

► $2,300 — purchase of a new tractor.

THE TECUMSEH Teachers Education Association had asked the board for several years to place all teachers on the salary schedule.

Most teachers, now benefited, were those who joined the Tecumseh staff on the annexation of other districts several years ago, and who did not have degrees at that time.

The law has since have acquired their degrees, but were not given credit for total years teaching and increments for degree teachers.

A request from Don Johnson and Jerry Nelson, teachers representing the TEA, also asked the board to consider a bonus to the teachers in light of additional aid for the schools.

They based their request on no salary increases since 1958 — except the regular increments — and the fact that teachers now have heavier student loads with the additional increased enrollment.

The subject was on cars of transients coming through townships, catching on fire and then the township having to pay for summoning the Tecumseh department. Mused Eaton to his fellows, how would you like to have "cars coast over the line (from Tecumseh) to have fires in the township?" This has happened twice.

THOUGH ONLY six years have passed since the congregation first organized on the first Sunday in Lent, 1957, Gloria Dei now boasts 308 members.

This is an increase of 251 baptized members since that first Sunday with a growth in the church school from 25 to 110 children.

Originally services were conducted in the high school and later that some year councilmen of the church purchased the Brownville school and two acres [illegible] the new church is located at the corner of Brown and N. Evans Sts.

The councilmen at that time were Don Buell, Herman Dick, Harry Farrell, Dean Hamilton, Thomas Kamppmueller, Edward Mengerink, Stanley Rentschler, William Rohweder and James Tonneberger.

AFTER THE school was renovated by churchmen, worship services were begun there in the latter part of 1957 with the Rev. Robert Bergman as pastor.

An interim pastor, the Rev. Victor Gruhn served until Dr. Gero from Cleveland, O., was installed as pastor Jan. 17, 1960.

It was with great emotion last Sunday that Dr. Gero preached the final sermon in the little church.

Bus Mechanic To Be Hired

Faced with signing a two-year contract for bus maintenance or employing a mechanic, the Tecumseh School Board Monday night chose to employ a mechanic.

Norvall Bovee, business manager, reported that Johnny and Bill's garage, only garage left providing maintenance work on the local school buses, had requested a two-year contract at $5 per hour for labor and 15% over cost on parts.

Mr. Bovee told board members that the schools' bus garage would be completed soon and a mechanic could be employed for about $2.50 an hour. He said that two already had applied.

The board also approved equipment purchases for the garage, amounting to approximately $700.

The schools' business manager also informed officials that the garage would probably cost between $1,000 and $2,000 more than expected and more than the $10,000 gift received.

The additional costs include electric wiring, preparation of site, painting, fill dirt and stone. It does not include school labor.

IN OTHER board action:

► Supt. James McDowell reported that the traffic division of the state highway department would investigate lowering speed limits on M-50 by the Ridgeway school.

► Members approved higher property damage limits on school vehicles from $5,000 to $10,000.

Committee Gathers

Committee chairmen of the Hospital Auxiliary's 15th annual Holiday ball met with general chairman Mrs. Yale Kerby and advisors Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. J. W. Meadows.

Mrs. Howard Furry, 1962 general chairman, reviewed last year's dance and offered suggestions.

"Winter Wonderland" is the theme for the ball, which will be held at the Tecumseh Country Club Dec. 7. Ken Edward's orchestra will be featured.

City Has One Shelter in State Fallout Plan

The public fallout shelter program in Michigan is 81% complete, report State Police.

This covers three classifications of work:

► Marking of buildings

► Both marking and Licensing

The program started shortly before Aug. 1, 1962, the date that the State Office of Civil Defense was merged with and became a division of the State Police department.

John Saling, [illegible] Civil Defense Director, said that Tecumseh has one approved shelter, stockpiled with food, radiological instraments, medical supplies and water tanks.

The building to be used is the Junior High School, which will accommodate about 120 persons.

He also stated that in all of Lenawee County, with a population of 50,000 outside the city of Adrian, there are only shelters for a few more than 500.

Buildings in Clinton and Hudson are in the process of being stockpiled.

The survey of buildings to determine if they were suitable for shelters was made by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Rendezvous with Death

When Jack Wallace climbed into the Cessna 172 Sunday afternoon at Meyers Airport, he had no idea the journey was to be a rendezvous with death.

The 36-year-old barber from Ypsilanti had been sky diving for the past four years.

A regular member of the Napoleon club, he came to Tecumseh Sunday afternoon as a guest jumper with the Chuting Angels, a group that has been using Meyers Airport for parachuting in recent weeks.

Mr. Wallace had made his 74th jump an hour earlier, hitting the target perfectly.

☆

IT WAS about 5:15 p.m. when the barber tumbled from the Cessna, followed seconds later by Louis Peres of Detroit, at an altitude of 4,500 feet.

The pair fell free for several seconds, then at 2,500 feet their chutes billowed out. Mr. Peres dropped on target, near the eastern end of Meyers' air field.

"It was a good delay fall," was the way Chuting Angels president Harold Lange of Allen Park described the jump.

Mr. Wallace was west of the target area and drifting. He decided he couldn't hit the field and to avoid the buildings and the Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., he pulled on his risers to accerelate the drift and take him into vacant property in River Acres.

He missed his mark by a few feet.

As he glided over a series of 13,000-volt power lines, running along the road, one leg snagged a line and the chutist snapped backwards across another. He was dead in a matter of seconds.

☆

MRS. WALLACE and their daughter, Dawn Evelyn, age three, had been visiting with some Tecumseh friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brooks, 807 Outer Dr. — until moments before the tragedy.

They arrived at the airport just in time to watch in horror as Mr. Wallace died. Mrs. Wallace was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital and placed under sedation.

Mr. Lange explained that in 350 jumps here and nearly 700 before around Howell — where the Chuting Angels used to sky dive — the most serious mishaps had been sprained ankles.

Two of the happiest grandmothers in the country are Mrs. Louis Perry and Mrs. Sarah Lowery. They returned Monday from a two-weeks' trip to France where they visited their 18-month-old grandson, Kevin, and incidentally his parents, Lt. and Mrs. Darrell Lowery.

Lt. Lowery is a jet and helicopter pilot stationed at Toul Rouesiers Air Force Base. He and his family will be there for another year.

While there, the grandmothers, Kevin and his parents spent one week touring France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Luxembourg.

My, the fun they had and according to Mrs. Perry, her grandson is "the most wonderful traveler you ever want to see." He cut three teeth, too, as they meandered around through the Holland canals, along the Rhine River Valley and through the home of Joan of Arc and a huge cathedral built in her honor at Domremy la Pucelle, France.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Al Merz and sons, John and Robert, returned Sunday night from four days at Gettysburg and Washington, D. C. According to Mrs. Merz, they too, crammed a "lot of good looking" into the short school recess.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown entertained two couples from Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Quilhart and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knudson, as house guests recently.

√

Mrs. Charles O'Neill and Mrs. Lawrence Holdridge visited Holt and Okemos Senior High Schools last week to view the operation of the cafeteria and transportation of food there.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hippert and family spent the weekend in Rock Falls, Ill., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Insley. They attended the local homecoming game and dance during their visit. Sunday an anniversary and birthday dinner was given for Mr. and Mrs. Hippert.

√

Chief Clark Advises Vehicle Winterizing

Experienced owners of cars and trucks know there are good reasons for "winterizing" their vehicles every fall.

Chief of Police Murell Clark also has good reasons for reminding Tecumseh drivers not to delay this necessary seasonal precaution.

"This is the time of year when our traffic department prepares for the big job of keeping city traffic moving safely and efficiently during the winter," he said.

"The department will do its part, but everyone who drives shares the responsibility," he added.

Breakdown of a single vehicle at a crucial point can seriously delay and obstruct vital traffic. Avoiding such occurrences depends almost entirely upon individual responsibility and initiative.

Cars should have anti-freeze, engines tuned, batteries checked, brakes and tires inspected, heater and defroster system gone over.

Students Have College Night

College Night for all Lenawee County High School juniors and seniors will be Monday, Oct. 28, at Adrian High School.

This program is geared for all types of post-graduation plans, whether students intend to attend college, business schools, junior college, trade schools or go into the armed services.

Representatives from nearly 40 colleges and universities will be in attendance to speak and visit with guests.

Scheduling has been arranged with time for conferences with three representatives plus browsing sessions and passing periods.

Each session lasts approximately 40 minutes wherein the representative will present the opportunities available for course selection or training as well as entrance requirements, living arrangements, costs and job opportunities. There will be sufficient time for question-and-answer periods as well as an opportunity at the close of the evening to request individual assistance from specific representatives.

The program will start promptly at 7 p.m. and principals and guidance counselors will supply additional information and guides.

Arranged by the Lenawee County Guidance Department, this is a once-a-year presentation well worth family participation.

The entire program will be closed about 9:45 p.m.

Square Dancing Fee Still $25

A request for reduced rental for square dancers at the Community Center was denied by the City Parks and Recreation Board.

The Shawnee Squares, which have 20 dances scheduled for the year, are slated to pay $750 or $25 per session.

Ollie Musch, president of the group, had asked that the fee be reduced to $15 a night or a total of $450.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Remember a few years ago when the Cranberry Merchant was not very busy? it happened when some adverse publicity concerning cranberries and cancer came right at the height of the season, and everybody lost their taste for them.

True to the old saying . . . the pendulum only swings so far one way . . . the cranberry business is going great guns again. Even the Russians have joined in; they have a new drink which consists of Vodka and cranberry juice and as you might know it is called "The Red Cocktail". Every manufacturer in the country has come up with a collection of garments in this favorite color, and it runs gamut from bright orange on through the bloodiest red you can ever imagine.

We have been amused every day at Clinton Woolen when we unpack merchandise and find shades of red, orange, crimson, scarlet and what-have-you, all tagged cranberry.

However, like everything else, there is an explanation. A designer had a bowl of raw cranberries on the table in his showroom. Some were very light, some very dark and all in-between shades; he also had the jelly which was almost a wine shade.

We had to admit they were all very beautiful, so much so that it was a matter of choice.

At Clinton Woolen we have sold lots and lots of Cranberry in all its variations. We find that more and more you gals are leaning toward the lighter or pastel shades in all colors. This is good because most of the makers are showing these brighter and light color.

Of course if you are an average Michigamer . . . Blue is your favorite color. There is a saying in the trade if nothing else one can sell blue in Michigan. Why not? It is the Water Wonderland.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Skinner will observe their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday when their children will hold open house in their ... nor from 2 to 5 p.m. in their parents' home at 611 N. Union St. The former Doris Miller and Eugene Skinner were married Oct. 29, 1938, in Angola, Ind. They are the parents of three children, Donna and Douglas at home, and Mrs. ... Smith of Tecumseh. They have one grandchild, Tina Ann Smith.

Excitement Is Mounting in Contest

The Tecumseh Friends Church School was the winner in the third week of the H-O-P-E contest between the Adrian United Brethren Church and the local Friends Church.

This Sunday, a skit, "Big and Little Imps" will be presented by John Hayden and Ben Brantingham as part of the Sunday School time.

Excitement mounts at the two church schools as superintendents telephone results, which are announced preceding dismissal each Sunday.

The inter-school contest is based on the highest percentage of gain in attendance.

OBITUARIES

● HARLEY DICK

Services will be held Thursday in North Baltimore, O., for Harley Dick, 62, a former Deerfield resident well known as a horse trainer and driver who died at 11 a.m. Monday.

He was a patient at the Wood County Hospital in Bowling Green, O.

Mr. Dick is survived by his wife, Alice; three sons, Harold of Lima, O., Elmer of Britton and Robert Dick of Cygnet, O., and three daughters, Mrs. Norman Haley of Swanton, O., Mrs. Allen Gonger of Cygnet and Mrs. Carl Bruckner of Petersburg.

The burial will be in McComb, Ohio.

● GEORGE BAKER

Funeral services will be held Thursday at the Ridgeway Church of the Nazarene at 2 p. m. for George Baker, 63, whose death occurred at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Mr. Baker, a Tecumseh area farmer, died while driving his tractor on his farm at 9852 Mills-Macon Highway.

Coroner Clarence Brown of Hudson ruled the death was the result of a heart attack.

Mr. Baker had suffered from a heart condition for the past seven years.

The son of Daniel and Ona Vandermolon Baker, he was born near Onarga, Ill., Jan. 30, 1900, and moved to the Tecumseh area when a young child.

He married Alfreda Sill Feb. 17, 1927.

He was a member of the Lenawee Farm Bureau, a charter member of the Ridgeway Church of the Nazarene and was instrumental in the construction of the church.

He also was a member of the church board.

Mr. Baker is survived by his wife; two sons, Donald W., of Route 1, Clinton, and Merle E. Baker of Route 2, Tecumseh; a daughter, Marilyn Baker of Portland, Ore., and four grandchildren.

Three sisters, Mrs. Milan Avery, Gertrude Baker and Mrs. Foster Hardesty all of Tecumseh; two brothers, Henry D. of Dundee and Garrett Baker of Clayton also survive.

A son, Dale, who died in infancy, and a brother, John, preceded Mr. Baker in death.

The Rev. Wade Roberts will officiate and burial will be in the Ridgeway Cemetery. Friends may call at the Niblack Funeral Home until 10 a.m. Thursday.

Hot Tecumseh '11' Crippled for Blissfield Tilt

Tecumseh continued to roll here Friday night for its fourth straight win after two early season defeats, easily trimming Airport, 39-13.

The visitors were in the game only at the offset when they connected on a 63-yard pass-scoring play to take a 6-0 lead. Thereafter, the Indians were in complete control although not quite as sharp as in the previous two games on defense.

With Dundee still winning, a showdown probably for second place in the Huron League will take place here this Friday night against Blissfield.

The Host, ... the waning minutes against Dundee, have improved steadily and are now reported as good, if not better than the team Tecumseh defeated last fall.

Sparking the Blissfield offense will be Tom Billington, injury-prone back, who is regarded as one of the finest players in this area. Billington missed the '62 game because of a back injury and only recently has he come on to help the Royals.

Defensively, Blissfield may be the toughest Tecumseh has faced this season, better than Dundee and far superior to Willow Run.

The homecoming game for Tecumseh should be rated a toss-up with the Indians a slight favorite, mainly due to their resurgence in the past three tilts.

If Doug Goldsberry and Bob Baker are unable to play for Coach Tom Fagan, Tecumseh's attack will certainly be curtailed. Goldsberry suffered a knee injury against Airport, and Baker, best blocking back on the Indians' squad, a sprained ankle.

Midway in the second quarter, shortly after a 67-yard TD romp by Goldsberry was nullified by a Tecumseh penalty, quarterback John Oberlin scored the first of his two touchdowns from the Airport four.

Halfback Dave Lemerand upped the margin to 12 points when he shook off a face-guard tackle — a penalty refused by Tecumseh — and raced 39 yards to paydirt. Oberlin flipped a short pass to Jay Osborn for the extra point.

Airport was never able to move after the next kickoff, and coupled with a poor punt, Tecumseh took over on the Jets' 19.

Two incomplete passes temporarily stymied the Indians, but an interference call against the visitors on the third pass gave Tecumseh the ball on the 10.

A 68-yard jaunt by Collins highlighted the third period. After a couple of nice blocks, Collins simply outraced the Jets' defense.

Early in the fourth stanza, quarterback Jeff Osburn turned an ordinary dive play into a 30-yard scoring play, following his teammate into the line and then breaking away, running right past a defensive Jet back.

Airport	6	0	0	7	—13
Tecumseh	6	20	6	7	—39

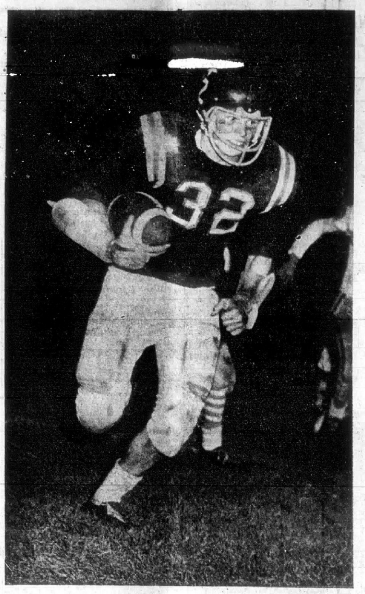
Tecumseh — Collins, 2 (18, run; 68, run), Oberlin, 2(4, run; 10, run), Lemerand (39, run), Jeff Osburn (30, run). Extra points — Jay Osburn pass from Oberlin; Baker, placekick; Lucas, run.



He Could Run Like This . . .

Gregg McEnroe (32) takes off on a jaunt during the late stages of the Tecumseh win over Airport, helping to rack up part of the 388 yards gained on the ground by the Indians.

Thanks to Key Blocks Like This . . .

Racking up Airport's linebacker is Tecumseh's Don Baird (62), one of the batch of outstanding linemen who tore huge holes in the Jet defense. When the backs scampered, you could be sure there were lots of crisp blocks like this one.

Jayvee Gridders Rack Up Win Over Airport, 38-7

Tecumseh Jayvees added another victim last week with a 38-7 rout of Airport on the Jets' gridiron.

They tallied three times in the first half to hold a two-touchdown lead at the end of two quarters, and then completely swamped their opponents in the final two stanzas.

Ron Forsyth and Doug Hall each scored twice and Marv Garcia and Fred Freeman, once each. Hall tallied one extra point on a run, and Terry Alcock one on a pass from Ron Rentschler.

4 Frosts in College

The kids are avid scholars at the Kenneth D. Frost residence in Macon.

All four of the older children are in universities, leaving little sister, Peggy, a sophmore at Tecumseh High School to fend for herself.

She wants to further her education after high school, too.

Lynn, a 1959 graduate of Tecumseh, and his brother, Lee, are both freshmen at Michigan State University and their sister, Kendra, is a senior in the same school majoring in English literature.

Anyone know of another family with four or more in college?

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The recent death of The New York Mirror is a cause for mourning not only among The Mirror's former readers, but among all who understand the vital role of the press in the successful functioning of a democracy.

Whatever one thought about the merits of the late New York Mirror, its demise silenced one more voice in a republic whose course is largely determined by the voice of public opinion.

It is obvious that people depend largely upon the press for information about the thoughts, the statements and the actions of the public officials they have elected to serve them.

Perhaps less widely understood is the extent to which public officials depend upon the press to communicate those ideas with promptness and accuracy to the people who must judge them.

☆

SINCE BECOMING governor, I have come to a fuller understanding of this mutual dependence of the public and public officials upon the nation's press than I ever had before.

A case in point is the fiscal reform program which I presented to the Legislature. While some misunderstanding of its provisions and its aims persists, I am afraid to think of the difficulty any governor would face in explaining a complex program without the aid of the press.

Here in Lansing, we have one of the finest press corps in the country, and I have done everything possible to carry out my campaign commitment to follow an open door policy in dealing with the press.

Since taking office I have held press conferences daily when I was in the capitol, and many times I have held two conferences a day.

☆

I WISH ALL citizens could observe one or more of these conferences in order to understand the energy and skill which these newspapermen apply to their assignment.

Often the conferences last for 45 minutes or an hour. The questioning ranges from incisive to sharp. These meetings give me an opportunity to explain what I am attempting to accomplish and how I hope to accomplish it, plus a better understanding of the questions and criticisms which are being raised about my programs.

Every time a newspaper dies, the opportunity for two-way communication between the public and its government is reduced. And the disturbing fact of the matter is that newspapers have been dying at an alarming rate in this country.

According to Editor & Publisher, the trade weekly, there were 2,078 dailies with a circulation of 26,443,351 in 1919. By the start of this year, this figure had dropped to 1,760 daily newspapers, although their circulation had climbed to 59,848,688.

☆

THE REASONS for the trend toward fewer daily newspapers are complex, but among the most important is the rising cost of production.

The continued decline in the number of daily newspapers makes it apparent that other media — weekly newspapers among them — will bear a larger share of the responsibility for communicating the affairs of government to the public.

The key role which newspapers play in a democracy is easily overlooked. But it is a role that has been clearly recognized by public officials dating back to this nation's founders.

It was Thomas Jefferson who said that if he had to choose between a government without newspapers, or newspapers without government, he would choose the latter.

MANWARING'S NEW LOOK — Extensive remodeling has now been completed for the Vern Manwaring Insurance Real Estate office. During the past three months, the front has been completely remodeled with brick, aluminum siding, and thermopane windows — creating a fresh, new look for the local business. Most of the house has also been covered with aluminum siding. Jim Brown was the contractor. Mr. Manwaring has been in the real estate business since 1950, and has operated an insurance agency since 1957. He is a director of Southeastern Mutual Ins. Company.

4 Make Stage Debuts

Four Tecumseh Players will make their stage debuts when the local group presents "Born Yesterday" in two weeks.

Three have been diligent backstage hands in previous productions.

► Ed Mengerink, a dental technician, has helped on almost every show. He gets his chance as the cousin of Harry Brock, combining a dry sense of humor with an impetuous grin.

► Bill Frownfelder first saw the light (and worked with them) in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," now steps into them as Senator Hodges.

► Mrs. Duane Steele, who quietly sat offstage while her hubby drew gales of laughter in two Players' comedies, will be the senator's wife.

THE FOURTH newcomer will be Michael Sharp, a Tecumseh High School junior, who'll be a hotel bellhop.

Mike's entry into the lineup is somewhat clouded since the Players can't tell what he likes best acting or shooting. At his first rehearsal in the Community Center, he discovered there was a gun club in the basement and he joined on the spot.

"Born Yesterday" opens Thursday, Oct. 31 and plays a total of six nights over two weekends.

Judith Mangrum, John C. Krebs Exchange Vows

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Krebs, 6903 Rogers Hwy.

The couple left Oct. 19 to make their home in San Diego, Calif.

Vern Manwaring Again Is Named to Firm's Board

Vern Manwaring of Tecumseh was re-elected to the Southeastern Mutual Insurance Co. board of directors at the firm's annual meeting in Adrian Oct. 7.

President Harold Strayer was retained as president and E. W. Hachman re-named secretary-treasurer.

Two new vice-presidents were selected, L. J. Hammond of Adrian and Edward Brewer of Dundee.

Southeastern's assets listed in the company's annual report were $1.8 million with a $1.3 million surplus.

Minister and Layman Attending

Methodist pastors and laymen representing more than 970 Michigan churches will meet Oct. 24 and 25 to give special consideration to "the challenge and the glory of the Christian ministry."

The convocations in Lansing and Pontiac are two of more than 60 such sessions being held across the nation this fall as focal point of the "Bishops' Mission on the Ministry."

Clarence Beach will accompany the Rev. Donald Porteous of the local church to the Pontiac meeting Oct. 25.

Termed by sponsors the "largest personal effort by Bishops of The Methodist Church in almost 20 years," the convocations have a three-fold purpose.

According to Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of Des Moines, Iowa, national chairman of the "Mission," they are intended to:

► Call attention of the church to the crucial importance of the parish ministry,

► Lift the morale of the current corps of pastors; and

2 Students Listed

Recent information from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation lists two Tecumseh High School seniors as Commended students from results of last Spring's National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

These two students are: Mary M. Boynton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Boynton, 4171 Allen Road, Tecumseh, and Robert A. Comfort, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Comfort, 6408 Rogers Hwy.

About 32,000 students throughout the country are being awarded "Letters of Commendation" for their capable achievements and outstanding performance on the qualifying test.

Although the students in the Commended category do not compete further for Merit Scholarships, these young people are given certificates which testify to their achievement and academic promise.

In addition to these certificates the names, home addresses, and test scores of Commended students are sent to the two colleges they indicated as their preferred choices at the time they took the qualifying test.

In many instances this can mean scholarship assistance from the individual schools.

Mary and Bob, along with the other students who make up the list of Commended students, as well as those in the Semi-finalists category, constitute only about two per cent of all high school seniors.

This certainly signifies noteworthy accomplishment by all these bright youngsters.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

STRANGE GOINGS-ON

Whenever you talk to a person who enjoys watching feeding birds, it is a sure thing that, sooner or later, certain phrases will pop into the conversation.

Phrases like:

"An unusual thing happened . . ."

"It was so funny when . . .",

"Guess who we saw . . ."

"Of all things, imagine what . . ."

Let me explain further.

An unusual thing happened three or four Sundays ago. I realize the first part of October was summer-like, but for goodness sakes, the birds should know what time it is and act accordingly.

Mom and I were busy, but a funny noise kept interrupting—it was a shrill, squeaky cheep. We kept looking at each other and shaking our heads no, it just couldn't be. The noise sounded like a baby cardinal begging, but it was October — ridiculous.

☆

WE HAD JUST about convinced ourselves that it was impossible when Papa Cardinal and his young offspring sailed down to the feeding tray.

Unusual is hardly the word for such goings-on — never have we had a baby cardinal this late in the season.

But it was a baby all right, it was a dark brown, had practically no top-knot but what an appetite! The youngster kept screaming for food and poor, conscientious over-worked Papa Cardinal did his best. Imagine seeing Papa feed Junior in October.

It was so funny when three blue-jays attacked the big sunflower head Ida had just put on the feeder. They started zeroing in and I had about an hour and one-half of laughs.

It was a fairly large head, packed full of seeds and we figured that, at this time of year, it should last for three or four days.

We hadn't figured on the trio of blue robbers. What they did to the sunflower head was grand larceny. Eating was not even considered. Their sole aim was thievery.

☆

WORKING one-at-a-time, because of course it wouldn't do to share such a prize, each bird would stuff as many seeds as possible into his mouth and then fly over to Marsh's to cache them.

All trips were made at top speed, they acted so afraid that someone else might sneak in for a bite. The screaming that accompanied all of this action was simply unbelievable. In about 90 minutes our full sunflower head was stripped clean. It was worth it, though — the bluejays were certainly fun to watch.

Guess who we saw, on a more or less regular schedule, during the middle two weeks in the month? A robin.

Nothing terribly unusual about that, even though the majority of these birds go south, there are always a few who pass up the trip to warmer climes.

This robin, however, appeared every morning and often he greeted us from the feeder. We never have robins visit the feeding station but all of a sudden, this character shows up — what a sight.

Of all things imagine what is happening in our martin house. At least, as of Oct. 13 it was happening. First, I should explain that again this year, the martin house was a huge success — not with the martins, but with the sparrows. We have never had martins. I think there are too many tall trees near the house.

☆

WE HAVE had sparrows though, they love the apartments and squabble as to who lives where all summer long.

Family after family is reared, but certainly such things should now be over for the year. Sunday morning, however, Mom saw sparrows carrying weeds and grass into one of the compartments. The unseasonable warm weather has everyone confused.

So it is that where bird-watching and feeding is practiced, there is always something happening, lots of strange goings-on.

John Uhr Serves With Attack Wing

SANFORD, Fla. — John F. Uhr, senior chief aviation electrician's mate and husband of the former Evelyn M. Dempf, is serving with Heavy Attack Wing One, at the Naval Air Station here.

The wing is responsible for command, coordination and planning for heavy attack squadrons of the Second and Sixth Fleet's long-range, all-weather air strike force, and is presently introducing the A-5 Vigilante attack bomber into Atlantic Fleet carrier strike forces.

The wing will also supply support for the Mach Two (twice the speed of sound) Vigilante and the A3B Skywarrior, both twin-jet carrier based attack planes.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The newspaper has survived for three centuries as the dominant form of advertising. The reason may be traced to the nature of the medium.

No form of communication has been discovered which is so efficient as the written word.

Every person who has listened to an hour speech knows that he would be able to read the same information in ten or fifteen minutes. The college student quickly learns that a long-lecture can be condensed in one page of notes which may be reviewed in five minutes.

Written language is also more efficient because it is a permanent record which permits a quick recheck of important points and details which may be lost forever through oral or visual communications.

At best, broadcast media leave a general impression which may have some influence on the listener. They do not provide details which can be retained, or offer any method of confirmation.

It is no wonder that a person, after hearing a broadcast about an exciting news event anxiously goes to the newspaper for a review of details, or to make certain that he heard or saw accurately.

The same reaction certainly could be expected of the consuming public which wishes to learn more about new products or details about a sale. So long as the process remains the same the newspaper, with its unlimited space to provide information, is likely to remain the dominant advertising medium.

More Individual Initiative Need in USA, Speaker Says

Richard Headlee, president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, highlighted the Michigan Jaycee fall board meeting held recently in Mt. Iemens.

He stated, "I'd rather see you fail with $14,000 profit on a $15,000 goal than suceed with $12,000 profit on an $11,000 goal."

"Too many of us give a lifetime trying to live like the Joneses. Just as we start to catch up with them, the son-of-a-guns refinance," he added.

The dynamic Jaycee leader advocated a drive for sound fiscal programing and more individual initiative. "In this day and age, to fail is almost to die. This is completely wrong, for we learn by our mistakes and our failures."

He went on to tell the story of the many failures of Abraham Lincoln, who, although he failed almost as many times as he succeeded, was the type of man who bounced up again fighting for his beliefs.

The two-day meet featured general meetings and forums for Jaycees and their auxiliary.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Creswell, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wonderly, Mr. and Mrs. James Fielder, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Sandhoff, Mrs. Dyke Helms and Mrs. Clifford Bird.

Lauson-Power Products Adds to Wisconsin Plant

Ground was broken recently at New Holstein, Wis., preparatory to adding some 85,000 sq. ft. of production facilities to the Lauson portion of the Lauson-Power Products Engine Divisions.

Gerald Laetsch, sales manager of Lauson-Power Products, explained that the additional space was required to meet ever-increasing demands for the present engine line and for manufacture of the new line of 4 HP, 5 HP, and 6 HP cast iron horizontal engines which go into production next December.

☆

IN ADDITION, the new facility will be used to manufacture the new 8 and 10 HP cast iron horizontal engines, which are scheduled for production in August of 1964.

Mr. Laetsch stated that the new plant addition will add 50% more production space to the Lauson plant.

Lauson-Power Products manufactures a wide range of air-cooled gasoline engines of the type used on outdoor lawn and garden power equipment, chain saws, outboards and in many industrial applications.

The New Holstein plant is one of two Lauson-Power Products producing facilities.

The second plant is located at Grafton, Wis. Grafton is also the home of the Lauson-Power Products parts depot.

Nation Celebrates 1st Free Enterprise Day

Free Enterprise Day, a national event commemorating America's system of free enterprise, was celebrated throughout the United States on Monday, October 7.

The purpose of Free Enterprise Day is to call attention to the great advantages of America's economic system and the American way of business life.

This marked the second year that Free Enterprise Day was celebrated in the U. S. but the first time it was celebrated nationally. Last year, Free Enterprise Day was conceived and celebrated for the first time in Falmouth, Mass.

It began when a group of independent businessmen in that city decided that one day should be set aside each year to honor America's economic system. The day selected was the first Monday in October each year.

Spearheading the first Free Enterprise Day celebration was an immigrant Rexall drug store owner in Falmouth who first conceived the idea. He obtained the support of other businessmen in the city and the first Free Enterprise Day was celebrated on the main street of Falmouth with city wide enthusiasm.

The story about the first Free Enterprise Day spread and this year thousands of cities and businessmen across the country celebrated the first Monday in October as Free Enterprise Day.

Tipton Pair Take Firsts in Crop Show

FFA and 4-H members participate with exhibits of grain, vegetables and canning.

Lynn Farly, 4-H leader in Morenci, headed the committee of leaders, Vo Ag instructors and seed dealers who planned the show this year.

Nurse Corps Candidates Sought

The army has four programs open to both male and female applicants.

In the Army Student Nurse program, a student nurse enrolled in a basic nursing education program at a hospital or university, is subsidized after completion of his or her second year of training.

When they enlist as army nurse corps candidates they receive the pay and allowances of their enlisted grade while completing their studies in their respective schools. Pay and allowances range from $78 to $227 per month.

They are commissioned as second lieutenants and serve on active duty for two years.

☆

IN THE Registered Nurse Student program the candidate is subsidized the last 12 months of a baccalaureate or master's degree.

Selected applicants between the ages of 21 and 32 are appointed second lieutenants, receiving the salary and allowances of their grade while studying and remain with the Corps for two years.

Special training is provided by the army in the various nursing fields as a third program.

Also a registered nurse, male or female, between the ages of 21 and 35, may join the corps if he or she is a citizen of the United States or has filed a declaration of intent.

☆

UNDER THIS program the nurse can be single or married with the women having no dependents under 18 years of age.

At the present time newly-commissioned officers of the army nurse corps may be assigned to a duty station of their choice.

Now... new name, new size, new style, new spirit, new car!

New CHEVELLE! by Chevrolet

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe (foreground) with Malibu Super Sport Convertible

Only this could come between Chevrolet and Chevy II.

The Chevelle is a highly polished car on a trim 115-inch wheelbase. With its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. All of which makes it a sweet-handling, easy-to-maneuver automobile.

But it's roomy and relaxing inside, with the kind of ride you'd expect in a bigger car. And it's styled with a lively grace and refinements (note the curved side windows and pillars, for example) that make its modest price all the more remarkable.

A neat trick? We agree. But not so difficult really when you have the skills of seasoned Body by Fisher craftsmen to draw upon.

And the advantage of Full Coil suspension developed by the same engineering talent that came up with the Jet-smooth Chevrolet's ride.

And that irrepressible Chevrolet spirit in a choice of four engines—V8 or 6—including optional-at-extra-cost versions all the way up to 220 hp.

Did we say one? Actually there are 11 models—wagons, sedans, sport coupes, convertibles—in three series.

Even some cars that have been around for quite a long time don't give you a choice like that.

Sound like something you ought to check into further? Consider this your invitation for a real hood-raising, door-slamming, seat-bouncing, wheel-turning time of it at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Who Have Moved to Tecumseh

Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Gates and their two children, Barbara, 17, and Jim, 11, recently moved to 9716 Tecumseh-Clinton Rd.

Mr. Gates is a zone manager for International Harvester Motor Truck out of Detroit and contacts dealers in seven counties.

By a strange coincidence, the home they selected in Tecumseh is owned by Al Merz, local International dealer.

Realtor Vern Manwaring's glowing appraisals of this city as a place to live helped prompt the Gates family to select Tecumseh as the locale in which they decided to settle.

About 100 attended ceremonsided in Kalamazoo.

Since their home is just across the dividing line between the Tecumseh and Clinton districts, the Gates youngsters attend Clinton schools. Barbara is a senior and was selected as Homecoming Queen. Jim is a sixth grader.

Mrs. Gates expressed great pleasure with the friendliness of the area residents and the experience of moving has proven to be much pleasanter than anticipated.

Barbara is presently working in the office of Dr. Richard Dixon in Clinton preparatory to attending the University of Michigan to study dental hygiene.

The family has joined the St. Peter's Church and though they have been here only two months, find themselves quite active in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Gates are taking square dancing lessons at the Community Center. Both are interested in oil painting, bridge and gardening. Mrs. Gates anticipates joining a class in painting here.

Barbara likes swimming, tennis, dancing and reading.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Merz and sons, Robert and John, have moved to a new home at 9251 Tonneberger Drive.

Chief Has Right Answer

In the musical "Bye Bye Birdie," there's a cute song rendered by a distraught father, who moans, "Why can't kids be like we were, perfect in every way . . ."

It's pure spoof.

Most adults will admit, possibly not in public, that with young folks there is little difference from generation to generation. There are good kids and bad kids — with the good always far outnumbering the bad.

Then, there are some "mediums", who can go either way, depending on the examples to which they are most often exposed.

An article in last week's Herald touched the situation of teen behavior concisely in a report of what our chief of police told members of the Child Study Club.

Murrel Clark emphasized the point that "basically teen agers are good, but they need plenty of home life, love, guidance, religious background and a good example set by parents."

This thought speaks volumes, as far as we're concerned, and in a nutshell shows what is needed most when problems come to young people. If parents can show their offspring the right way and then guide them along it, troubles will be kept to a minimum.

All of which brings us to a specific topic, certainly not of major proportions. It's the lunch period for senior and junior high students.

At present, students have 60 minutes for the noon meal and can eat at the high school cafeteria, go home or downtown.

Many seem to choose the latter course and end up with a sweet roll and a bag of potato chips, not exactly a well-balanced meal. They have time to kill and usually wander through downtown business places.

It is mainly regarding these boys and girls that we write. Couldn't their free time be put to better advantage?

Such as:

► A recreation arrangement at the Community Center

► One other thought would be shortening the lunch period to 30 minutes and requiring all junior and senior high youths to eat at the school cafeteria. They could bring sack lunches or buy the hot meals provided.

We'd be anxious to get reaction of parents on this lunch hour topic. How about writing your idea?

Another Paper Dies

Another newspaper is dead.

Men who should know say that in great part strikers who kept The New York Mirror and its fellow Gotham papers idle for several months last fall and winter contributed to the demise.

They accomplished their objectives — getting more money for themselves. But the lift was only temporary for the Mirror workers. They cut their own throats.

Over 1,400 were left without jobs.

The Mirror might have folded anyway, but who is to guess. Certainly you can't drain the very life blood from a business and expect it to revive hale and hearty.

Only the Times of New York would reveal its circulation figures for the six months following the strike. It was down 78,038 — a drop of 11.4%.

The others probably have been hurt even more.

Migrant Workers

A playpen that Mrs. "X" had used for her own children was ripped to pieces and lay askew on the floor.

Nearly all the mattresses I saw were either filthy, wet or burned.

Mrs. "X" remarked she had bought six good mattresses for the workers this year and the rest that she furnished were in good condition.

The migrants took the good ones and left dirty ones, presumably taken from a previous camp.

In some rooms, even the springs were gone. One room corner was bare. It formerly held a bed nailed to the wall with mattress and springs on it. Now just holes in the wall proved that a bed had once existed there.

Light fixtures were all stripped, bulbs and even porcelain holders were gone.

We moved on to the next building, a frame quonset hut sitting nearby.

En route, we had to step around broken beer and wine bottles and a pile of human excretion. Mrs. "X" said, "It was like this all over the places. I can't stand it. We're waiting for a big rain to wash this mess away."

☆

UPON ARRIVAL at the hut the same conditions met us. A refrigerator, clean when the migrants arrived, was torn apart and filthy. Pans filled with cooked food were sitting on top of a grease-covered stove.

A light fixture was torn off the wall, cord ripped. Even the walls were greasy.

On our way to the barn, newly-built last year, Mrs. "X" pointed out a wheat stubble field fired by the migrants. The burned area almost reached the buildings.

We also saw two separate outdoor toilets furnished for the pickers. They were no better or worse than many used on farms today.

State law requires separate facilities for men and women, but the migrants used whichever suited their fancy.

On the door of one was nailed a cow chain stolen from the "X's" equipment barn. She said, "The minute the barn is unlocked, we must watch, for they'll sneak in and take anything."

Twenty-five to 30 people were housed dormitory-style with partitions in the concrete floored block wall structure.

☆

WIVES OF the crew leaders set up a booth in one corner where they sold many articles to the workers: cigarettes, beer, wine, food, 4c cookies for 8c.

The day they left, 24 cases of empty beer bottles were taken out of the barn.

"The bosses pay their workers and are supposed to supervise them. Instead they ignored their duty and made more money by operating a store," said Mrs. "X".

"One of the crewleaders spent an entire week preparing a speech for a charitable organization while his workers did as they pleased," she added.

We returned to the yard to inspect the trash pile, which, itself, was an enlightenment— child's tricycle, food, bottles, clothing, parts of a wagon (that belonged to Mrs. "X's" children and was torn apart and discarded by the people), pots and pans.

A particular frying pan caught my eye — I had cooked eggs for my children in one exactly like it that very morning.

Good building blocks had been broken into bits for no apparent reason.

"I don't even know where this came from," exclaimed Mrs. "X", as she pointed to one of several discarded bus seats.

I saw with my own eyes food left in jars and cans, a large package of corn meal, dumped in the trash pile.

Members of the Lenawee County Migrant Ministry started a drive to GIVE the migrants clothing and other articles. The majority of the workers, when they don't use their money for necessities, spend most of it on beer and wine.

☆

AFTER THE bonus was paid this year, and, by the way, the "X's" have tomatoes rotting on their vines because their pickers heard a big apple crop was up north and left, the workers departed in heavily-laden cars.

(Four pickers bought cars while here. One of the couples with a new car had a tiny baby which was hospitalized for surgery. At five months, the baby weighed seven pounds. These parents had no money for doctor, hospital or food, yet bought a car before they left.)

The group reached the corner, then returned to camp. They proceeded to unload their cars and throw article after article into a pile. Then they lit a match to it.

Mrs. "X" says, and this writer agrees wholeheartedly with her, "If people want to come out and teach the workers, they are welcome — TEACH THEM TO CARE FOR WHAT THEY HAVE — But I will not allow one gift article to be brought to our property."

"The gifts and free articles have caused far more trouble for the migrant and farmer than can be told."

"I will be happy to tell people when the migrants are leaving. They can come out and give all they want to them when they are off our land. And the migrants won't turn around and unload their cars and burn the gifts here."

"Those people make 14c a case for picking tomatoes. I went into the field and picked 25 cases in an hour," she said.

"You figure how much they were making in one hour — and those people are more accustomed to the sun and that type of work than you or I ever will be."

☆

"POOR? Free housing and electricity (and often free food and clothing) plus wages. They also never paid me for the gas they used for heat and cooking, much less the damage to the tank when they tore it from its foundation and put it in the building," she added.

"Schooling is provided for the children and that's where they belong. Do you think any of the parents tried to make them go?"

"A real example of Christianity would be for someone to come and get those children every day and see they go to school."

Education apparently is the only way to help the migrant worker.

TIPTON SCHOOL NOTES

Oct. 14, 1963

First Grade — There are 33 in our group, and we have a new student from Brooklyn. His name is Randy Stein.

All of us are reading in the Pre-Primers. We are having fun with our word games.

We've had two birthday parties. Marsha Bale and James Karle both turned seven.

There is a Halloween atmosphere in our room. It is decorated with cats that the children have made.

Second Grade — The first and second grades went on a color tour. They have been making leaf collections. The children have been writing stories and drawing pictures. Some of the latter were done by Kimberly Howard, James Van Valkenburg and Roxanna Cook.

Third Grade—The third grade has been making a weather chart. First John Gebrowski drew it on the chalk board, then the rest of the class began to work on the real thing, which was done on poster board.

They also made pictures of fall trees which are being used to decorate the room.

The third grade pupils are now learning a Halloween poem. In addition, for every book they read, they may draw a picture about the book.

Fourth Grade — We have been studying Alaska in Social Studies. In Science we made two compasses and saw slides and a movie on magnets.

Fifth Grade — For Science the fifth graders are making notebooks and have been making pictures of the planets. They have a few projects. Joe Van Valkenburg made a model of Chubb Crater.

Sixth Grade — In Social Studies we are learning about ancient Greece. We are starting our project for the month. Bill Mukenstrum has made a model of the wooden horse of Troy.

We have many new library books, a new set of encyclopedias and a new set of Science books. For each library book that the children in the class read, we make a train car for the "Library Express". On the car we write the title and author of the book, and the name of the student who read it. We have put this on the wall in the hall. We are going to make the train reach the library and back.

For Science Janice Hendricks brought two teeth. We placed one in a glass with some pop, and the other in sugar water. At the end of the week the one in the sugar water had a cavity in it, and the one in pop was all black. We now know why Mrs. Shaw wants us to brush our teeth after all our meals and makes us bring a toothbrush to school!

PTA News — Over the summer the PTA worked on getting a new sidewalk. It has just been poured and will be a great safety measure for all the children who walk home. We are very thankful to the PTA president and all those who worked so hard on this.

We are still asking for a bookcase for our new collection of rocks.

These articles were written by Wendy Vollmer, Cynthia Vanderpool, Kay Patrick, Janice Powell, James Futrell, Mike Wilkin, Mrs. Shaw, co-ordinator.

HIT MIGRANT YARN

Earnings Lower Than $3 Hourly as Herald Said

(Editor's note — Last week's story on migrant workers prompted considerable reaction, including a variety of letters, which run on pages 2 and 3 of the third section. This article covers another aspect of the migrant situation.)

By JUDY FIELDER

Mrs. Maria Lopez of rural Britton, mother of six children, has picked tomatoes for many years. She has worked directly with the migrants.

► Grace, 26, is a graduate of Mercy College of Nursing, specializing in psychiatry. She and her dentist husband, Clare De-Loss Bates, live with their new daughter at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. while he serves in the army.

► Raul, 25, is an X-ray technician, graduated from Ford Hospital. He and his wife, a surgical nurse, now live at Ft. Bragg, N.C., where he is in the paratroops.

► Larry Jr., 23, has one year to go in pre-law at Michigan State University. He spent the summer working as a lab technician for Dr. Howard Dawson, head veterinary at Northville Race Course.

► Augustine, 14, is a freshman at Catholic Central.

Mrs. Lopez and her three youngest children have a farm income. She does housework and her sons work to help support the family. Her husband no longer lives with the family.

At first, the tomato money she earned was used for extras — like a new car. Later it helped pay for the children's education. They also pitched in on this score.

Mrs. Lopez feels the migrant camp illustrated in last week's issue is an exception to the majority.

"I have been to different camps and seldom has there been such destruction," she told this reporter.

"I don't know which place you toured, but it sounds like the migrants were mad to destroy like they did. It's too bad you weren't there when the pickers were living at the place," she added.

☆

A POINT brought to light recently was that this year the migrants came up to this area and found the tomatoes were still not ripe. The cool dry weather had slowed their progress. So they had to sit around —if you don't have tomatoes, you can't pick em.

The crop came late and stayed. Canneries closed for the season only to reopen. The pickers and farmers thought they were done. The bonus was paid and the pickers left.

This year picking was finished around Oct. 21 with a season that usually ends near the first weekend in October.

Also—as Mrs. Lopez said—"I have a goal to reach, so I work top capacity, 25 cases of tomatoes may be picked for an hour or two, but it is literally impossible to pick that many steadily. The best average would be 15 cases an hour during season's peak. At the beginning you can't even

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

More than 375 jammed Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, in an area built to handle about 200, for Sunday's dedication service.

Ushers were busy placing extra chairs down the aisles and still folks had to stand in back and in the vestibule.

Gloria Dei has a short, but fascinating history. How many recall the Rev. Robert Bergman? I certainly do.

He was an energy-packed, hard-working fellow, who made a 1956 door-to-door survey in the city to determine how many persons would like to help form this Lutheran parish.

The response was small by some standards. But analyze those first families of Gloria Dei and you'll find that here are people dedicated to their religious beliefs.

The Rev. Mr. Bergman worked like a trojaan and so did every one of his parishioners. Gradually more people joined the fold.

Services were initially held in the high school gymnasium, then the old Brownville School was purchased. By dint of back-breaking labor, the building was fashioned into a lovely house of worship.

The Rev. Dr. Laszlo Gero has been guardian of the flock since 1960 and has carried on in the traditions of Gloria Dei.

Now comes the new $70,000 structure. Dedication speaker the Rev. Frank P. Madsen said, "This church symbolizes a beautiful relationship between God and His people."

He pointed out that it is at this "mountaintop" a person can get a true perspective of life.

Man too often "covers himself with a coat of varnish, puts on a front. We're often unwilling to let people see us as we are," he said.

The speaker expressed pleasure at the progress of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council, which naturally was interesting for me, a Catholic, to hear.

The Rev. Mr. Madsen said that a Catholic theologian has said a definition of the Church is changing from "the Mystical Body of Christ" to the "People of God."

Two other services were held the same day, a festival in the afternoon and vespers that evening. Attendance at all three totaled 1,068.

Included in guests were six car-loads from the First Hungarian Lutheran Church of Cleveland, where Dr. Gero was assistant pastor before coming here.

Baptist Youngsters Hold Sock Hop Friday Evening

The Junior Youth Fellowship of the First Baptist Church is sponsoring a sock hop Friday, Nov. 1 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Youth House.

The committee is inviting all seventh and eighth grade students to attend.

Prizes will be awarded for the funniest, the most original and the prettiest socks.

Refreshments will be served.

Rabies Serum Flown Here from Cincinnati

By JIM LINCOLN

A rabies discovery Tuesday afternoon, involving a Tecumseh family, started a hectic three-state search for vaccine and serum.

About 4 p.m. Tuesday, Dr. Eleanor Skufus, county health doctor, informed pharmacist Bill Holmes at Hodges Drug Store that a Tecumseh family had been exposed to rabies by a dog.

Racing the clock, since laboratories and outlets close at five, the local pharmacist located enough vaccine in Toledo and some serum, but not in the quantity needed.

Telephone calls to Toledo hospitals failed to turn up more. Finally, a call to Chicago provided information that a hospital in Cincinnati probably had the quantity of serum necessary for the local family.

It was flown to the Toledo airport where Mr. Holmes met the plane at 11 p.m.

The vaccine arrived here by bus from Toledo about 8 p.m.

Dr. Carlos Knisley, Tecumseh veterinarian, who handled the dog here, said confirmed reports of rabies reached him Tuesday afternoon from Dr. Skufus.

The dog was first taken to the local veterinarian about 3 weeks ago. Although not vicious nor had he bitten anyone, he had several symptons of rabies — refusal to eat plus a slack jaw.

Confined, the dog lived about a week and died. His head was rushed to Ann Arbor for rabies tests..

The initial test was negative, but a second animal inoculation test confirmed rabies.

★

When the dog first became sick, three members of the family checked the dogs throat for an obstruction, and of course came into contact with saliva.

Whether a stray dog, since turned over to the humane shelter, or a skunk's carcass, found on the family's premises, was the original source of the rabies, has not been ascertained.

Treatment of the family may take 10 days or more.

ROUGH HOMECOMING — Indian linebacker Jim Greene takes a breather in the Tecumseh-Blissfield battle that the Royals won. The sophomore is learning that the life of a defensive player can be filled with bumps and jolts. Moments before this sideline shot was made, Jim had taken a rap in the mid-section, but he was soon back to normal, an example of a well-conditioned athlete.

City Seeking Promoter

An all-around promoter and organizer is being sought by the City Recreation Board.

This person, who may be either male or female, will have a raft of challenging responsibilities.

This is a full-time job, salary being open to discussion, depending on the candidate's qualifications.

Major duties would be:

► Do public relations on all community activities.

► Assume responsibilities for various city-wide parties.

"THIS IS a job for a promoter and salesman," explains City Manager Cal Zorn, "And we don't care if he (or she) can play baseball or not.

"We want this community activities coordinator to try new ideas.

"We're hoping that when the west end of the basement is completely cleared out, an arts and craft room can be created there for use every day by senior citizens.

"For example, there is a lot of interest around town in ceramics. Advice and instruction in this could be given. We could even install kilns," the city manager added.

Ray Herrick reported good news at outdoor meeting.

Products Folks Give $21,000

Tecumseh Products Co. employees established an all-time record for giving in this year's United Fund solicitations.

Ray Herrick, board chairman, announced Tuesday at an employee gathering that $21,000 had been given or pledged during the coming 12 months, via payroll deductions, by Products folks.

Of this, $13,000 was earmarked for the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation, the balance going to funds of other cities and towns, where the donors live.

Following the usual custom, the company's management will match the amount donated for Tecumseh, making the grand total $26,000.

The Fund's charity budget $32,055, and includes $6,183 to the Michigan United Fund, $1,500 for Huron Valley Guidance Clinic, $3,000 to the Red Cross, $1,200 for the Salvation Army and $5,000 for the Irish Hills Girl Scout Council.

Also being assisted are the Lenawee County Humane Society, $500; Family Counseling Service, $750; and Catholic Social Services, $500.

A sum of $8,500 is earmarked for the operation of the Community Center and for local recreation, while the Tecumseh Service Club is to get $1,200 and the Scout Cabin $600.

☆

DOOR-TO-DOOR solicitations in the residential areas of the city begin this week. City employes and business people are currently being asked to give.

Residential solicitors working this week and next are:

Mrs. John Boldon, Vera Gilbert, Mrs. Edward O'Neill, Mrs. Johnathan Birchfield, Mrs. William Tilton and Mrs. Wallace Rutherford.

Mrs. C. F. Sage, Mrs. Orville Bishop, Mrs. Ben Gillies, Mrs. Carson House, Mrs. Royal Welch, Mrs. Robert Laidlaw and Mrs. Jack Hanna.

Moms of Twins Fashion Dolls for Yule Presents

Eight members of the Mother of Twins Club held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Gillen in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Donald Hardcastle conducted the program based on physical fitness.

Tiny clothespin dolls, to be given to a hospital for Christmas favors, will be made at the November meeting at the home of Mrs. Steve Kruger.

Brief Visits OK for Mrs. Easton

Mrs. Harold Easton returned to her home Sunday from Herrick Memorial Hospital. She is progressing slowly and may have brief visits with her friends.

Faulty Chute Caused Death

It was "completely unsteerable."

These two words described a parachute in which a man died here Oct. 20 while sky diving at Meyers Airport.

The chute had been improperly modified for the sport, revealed John Mooneyham, of Manchester, a master rigger who helped conduct an experimental test jump Saturday and made the statement.

For the test the death parachute was used, with veteran sky diver Lou Schroeder of Detroit wearing the rig.

The men wanted to find out why Jack Wallace, a 36-year-old Ypsilanti barber, had strayed so far from his target two Sundays ago and landed in high wires which electrocuted him.

Harold Lange of Detroit, president of the Chuting Angels, suspected that something was amiss with Wallace's equipment.

Robert McTaggart, area safety officer for the Parachute Club of America, governing body for sky diving in this country, was on hand too.

In examining the chute before the drop, Mr. Mooneyham immediately spotted the trouble—the two steering lines had been installed improperly. He cautioned Mr. Schroeder to be extremely careful.

In the test Mr. McTaggart jumped seconds after Mr. Schroeder to observe the chute action from the air, while Messers. Lange and Mooneyham watched with field glasses from the ground.

"I had so little control I couldn't hit the airport, let alone the target. The canopy deployed properly, but the steering modification wouldn't perform," the jumper said.

All four men involved in the test agreed the course of Mr. Wallace's accident was the faulty chute.

☆

IT TURNED out that the person who modified the surplus military chute for sky diving is unknown.

Officials of the Federal Aviation Agency are attempting to track him down, to learn if he had modified other chutes the same way.

The death parachute was probably rigged in California. That's where a young Wyandotte marine purchased it from a fellow serviceman, while both were based at El Toro Air Station.

It was brought to Michigan when the Wyandotte man was discharged in August. He had used it once in California and had no difficulties, although this had been only his third jump.

A spur-of-the-moment exchange of equipment found Mr. Wallace wearing the strange equipment. The novice needed a

Flames Flirt with Driver in Bus Fire

The bus was empty, all 32 passengers having been just delivered to their homes.

Mr. VanCamp said as he came along Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., 100 yards north of the Red Mill bridge near A&P, flames suddenly burst out under the hood and licked in at his pant legs from beneath the dashboard.

He wheeled to the side of the road, grabbed the hand extinguisher and emptied its contents, but the blaze continued.

Tecumseh firemen arrived and found the motor still trying to turn over. They sliced the battery cable as they blanketed the flames.

James McDowell, school superintendent, and Mr. VanCamp examined the disabled vehicle, finding the gas line completely sheared off.

No. 16 bus is a 1963 and one of the district's newer models. Damages will probably run about $400, which is fully covered by insurance.

Mr. VanCamp told Mr. McDowell that he smelled gasoline prior to the fire, but that this often happened.

'BORN YESTERDAY' CAST — Ready and eager to stage six performances of the comedy "Born Yesterday" are these Tecumseh Players cast members, from left, Mrs. Duane Steele, Bill Frownfelder, Laura Seager, Bobby Murray, Mike Sharp, Lou Hardesty, Jeff Butts, Ed Mengerink, Mrs. Tom Corkery, Frank Dalton, Dr. Bob Murray and Duane Steele. The show plays Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights this weekend and also Nov. 6, 7 and 9 at the Community Center with all seats reserved and priced at $1.50. Curtain is 8 p.m.

Gov. George Romney has appointed Charley Trickey of Tecumseh to the board of trustees for Michigan's Veterans' Trust Fund, which at present contains $5 million, but eventually will be around $50 million. This was the fund, from which he drew [illegible] about $45 million a couple of years back when the financial crisis hit Michigan.

Can you translate? Four on the floor. Or: three on the tree. That's talk for various auto transmission setups. The first one means four forward speeds with the gear-shift located on the floor of the car. The second describes three-speeds forward with the lever on the steering post.

Cheers to Blissfield and Tecumseh football players and fans for excellent conduct on and off field Friday. Intense rivalry in no way colored the play, a real tribute to participants.

The time was when Russia was an exporter of wheat — before communism, said Paul Harvey, news commentator.

A Michigan Draft Goldwater Committee is being formed. If you'd like to join up, call Mrs. Joanne Smith in Hillsdale.

THS grad Norman Tucker is running as a first-string end on Iowa State's freshman football team.

They've been robbed! Jesse Sluyter has no sofa, Alice Schneider has no coffee table to put her feet on and Marge Rohweder is minus furnishings in her living room. Seems they're at the Community Center for "Born Yesterday's" stage setting.

chute having a dual purpose ring with which he could make a static line jump. The Wallace chute had one, so they traded gear.

In the death leap, Mr. Wallace, making his 65th sky dive, had a normal canopy opening, but when he started to manipulate the peg lines, there was little response.

This apparently panicked him and as he came towards the wires he was lashing out with his feet — exactly opposite the emergency technique for passing through electric lines.

☆

ONLY MASTER riggers are permitted to alter chutes for sports use. They must have five years experience in jumping and packing, then pass extensive tests.

Once licensed, riggers must imprint chutes they modify with their name and Civil Aviation Agency loft number.

The ill-fated chute bore no such data, indicating that it had been the work of a "bootleg rigger."

make 10".

This would drop the average hourly wage to about $1.80 as opposed to the more than $3 reported last week.

(Being the county's least experienced and probably slowest tomato picker, this writer probably would end up with three.)

☆

MRS. LOPEZ felt a big problem in the area is organization and that the farmers could offer more supervision.

"You've got to give the pickers credit—they could live off welfare. At least they're earning their own way."

What can be done?

► "One of the places I worked furnished refrigerators and never had any trouble. They also furnished a washing machine."

► "Toilet facilities are often poor. Holes aren't dug deep enough and it would help to have toilet paper and some lime. A toilet in the field would help, too."

► "Not only see the migrants get to school, but take them to church."

► "If anybody needs cleaning up it is the crew leaders. They exploit the worker from every angle. Govern these people and you'll have half the problem solved. They have an obligation both to the farmer and to the migrant worker."

The article last week concluded that education apparently is the only way to really help the migrant worker. Unless a person is educated he often doesn't feel his children need it.

Many of the migrants don't know what it means or what their children are missing.

'Boy, That Will Help a Lot'

This year's UNICEF drive netted $377.20 from city and township.

He was so right — to help is the purpose behind the drive.

There is considerable frustration for the planners of any community solicitation of funds.

UNICEF is no exception.

The few adults who are sufficiently interested to shoulder the responsibility, they hardly dare to dream that a whole new work crew will offer to take over another time.

☆

THEN, on the appointed night, the trick or treaters for UNICEF burst into the Baptist Youth House with enthusiasm that makes it a shame the kids can't do the whole thing themselves.

They are genuinely proud when they return from routes and empty their little cartons into the big glass container.

They seem to understand that a little bit collected here can do such big things through the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

The children have become tolerant of people who don't understand the drive is always at Halloween and United Fund time, but still is separate.

After the drive, Mrs. John Westgate and her committee served 21 dozen doughnuts and nine gallons of cider and coffee.

Gary Easton, George Surratt, Nancy Schwartz, Carol, John, Mark and Kim Hamilton made the cider Sunday afternoon with Wilfred Waldron's heirloom ciderpress.

Churches participating were the Friends, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, St. Elizabeth, Gloria Dei Lutheran and Grace Evangelical Lutheran.

The record attendance set one year ago was broken Oct. 27 at the Tecumseh Friends Sunday School. Attendance Sunday was 363 in comparison to 347 a year ago.

The largest number of visitors November 3 — The Rev. Clarence Sekerak of Canton, Ohio, will speak in the morning worship service. Rev. Sekerak is currently in the public relations department of Malone college located at Canton, O. He has traveled abroad extensively in the interest of Friends missions.

Mrs. Everett Fielder brought 11 visitors for Relative and Family Sunday on Oct. 17.

Mrs. Charles Manley, Don Baker, Lynn McCollum, Nancy Sinkey, Connie Burchfield, Jackie Miller and Marion Maynard won awards in their departments.

Brenda Gallent Weds Charles Rebottaro

MRS. CHARLES REBOTTARO

Brenda Carol Gallant and Charles J. Rebottaro were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Fr. Thomas Collins at 11 a.m. in the St. Elizabeth Catholic Church Oct. 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Gallant, Jr., 205 E. Kilbuck St., are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rebottara, Centennial Rd., are the parents of the groom.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of nylon and Chantilly lace designed with basque bodice, long sleeves and a scalloped scoop neckline with a delicate tracery of crystal.

The bouffant skirt featured cascades of lace, nylon tulle and a lavish spray of crystal and a brush train for back interest.

Her hand-rolled veil of illusion was secured to a crown of pearls and rhinestones accented with three centered crystal teardrops.

She carried a white lace-covered prayer book topped with a cascade arrangement of Snowdrift pompons centered with Tropicana roses outlined with strands of ivy.

Mrs. David Merillat was matron of honor for her sister's wedding. Mrs. Charles Jameson, sister of the groom, and Ann Surratt were the bridesmaids.

Mary Beth Gallant, sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Cindy Merillat was the flower girl and Master David Vanderpool Bailey served as ring bearer.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns of bittersweet peau de soie and silk organza designed and made by Mrs. Franklin Schroeder. They featured scalloped V necklines and sleeves and full softly-pleated overskirts of silk organza caught in an upsweep at the sides by dewdrop roses.

Their headpieees were matching veiled pillbox bands. They carried cascade arrangements of white and bittersweet Fuji chrysanthemums with grapes and velvet ribbons.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were single cultured pearls on fine chains.

Mary Beth Gallant carried a miniature bouquet like that of the matron of honor and little Miss Merillat carried a natural wicker basket of rose buds and pompons with cascades of green velvet ribbon.

Following the ceremony, a seven course dinner was served to 210 by Angelo Tonin and his staff of Detroit.

About 500 attended a reception at the Products Union Hall held in the evening.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Gallant, Sr., baked and decorated a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by five heart-shaped cakes and flanked by two 14-inch layer cakes.

She also made the groom's cake in the form of an open Bible with two miniature wedding rings with the words, "One Heart, One Hand."

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Tecumseh High School. The groom is a 1961 graduate of the same school and is employed by the local A & P Store.

Following a week at Niagara Falls, the couple will make their home at 122 E. Brown St.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at their home Thursday.

Oct. 30 Report: Comet Durability Run

Comet completes 100,000-mile durability run averaging over 105 miles per hour!

Day and night this team of '64 Comets, specially equipped and prepared for high-speed driving, roared around Daytona International Speedway. Driving under official NASCAR supervision, these Comets broke over 100 world records*, many once held by famous foreign cars. The average speed of the lead Comet was over 105 mph. And that included all time required for pit stops to permit refueling, driver changes, new rubber, and maintenance. At the end of this 100,000-mile run these Comets were still going strong. It was quite a challenge to stamina for a new car to face. But then these are quite some cars.

Patterson Gridders Defeat Arch Rival Tecumseh Acres Team in 3 Out of 5 Meetings

Do youngsters like to play football?

There would be no question in your mind if you got out to see boys from Patterson, Tecumseh Acres and Herrick Park Schools perform this fall in Saturday morning contests.

The fellows formed their own teams and have played six contests.

Patterson has the best record, winning four and losing two, while Tecumseh Acres has won a pair and lost three. Herrick Park has been in action once, losing to Patterson, 35-14.

Patterson beat the Acres crew, 6-0 and 24-6, in the first two meetings, then the tables were turned as the Acres won two straight, 27-0 and 25-0.

Last Saturday, the same teams met again and this time Patterson came out ahead, 6-0.

According to Stu Costigan, who has served as a referee, "They played a pretty good brand of ball, rough and tough. When people speak about our kids getting soft, one look would convince them differently. These boys deserve a lot of credit for arranging their own football recreation."

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

November . . .

It does not seem possible but here it comes.

We have plans and plans for this month. Clinton Woolen will be the place to shop.

To start it off . . . Friday, November 1st, we will begin a Blue Ticket Sale on men's and ladies casual wear plus a wide selection in wool remnants.

This Sale will continue for several weeks with new items added from time to time. Please do not ask what will be on sale as we honestly do not know. We do know there will be exceptional bargains on sweaters, skirts, jackets, coats and other things.

Saturday and Sunday, November 2nd and 3rd, we are having a Ski Wear Show. We have expanded our ski tog lines and will be showing all new Parkas, [illegible] and a great many accessories.

Don Orr, an old ski pro, from Traverse City will be here to have a trunk showing of McGregor's Ski Wear. The word is out that McGregor has the hottest ski line this year.

Don will also be glad to give you the benefit of his years of experience in advising you on the proper skis, boots and bindings you should have.

Door Prizes of ski wear will be given away. Be sure you register while attending this showing November 2 and 3.

Preview of Holiday Casual Wear will also begin November 1st. An opportunity to choose your after ski togs, smart casual wear for all occasions, and it is not too early to plan your gift buying.

Buying a used car can be a risky gamble, unless you know and have complete confidence in the dealer. Our policy is simple: we sell models which have been traded-in by our regular customers, often ones which they originally bought new from us. We don't deal in repossessed or questionable used cars and trucks. Right now our lot contains some fine buys, so come on to Clinton if you've been considering a used car.

BIG GAINER — Halfback Doug Goldsberry scrambled for 14 yards to move the Indians into scoring position late in the fourth quarter. Tecumseh's attack faltered after the run, with Blissfield taking over on its 19.

Indians Edged, 7-0

By JIM LINCOLN

One of the finest — and hardest fought — football games played here in a number of years unfortunately resulted in a 7-0 defeat for the Tecumseh Indians Friday night.

Three times Tecumseh had excellent scoring opportunities, twice inside the 10-yard line, before a stout Blissfield team stopped the Indians.

With two games remaining on the '63 schedule, Coach Tom Fagan will have a tough time to get the Indians up, especially for this week's encounter at Grosse Ile.

Third place hangs in the balance on Friday night's game with a remote possibility for the second place up for grabs. If the Indians had defeated the Royals, Tecumseh would be a heavy favorite to trim GI.

A Tecumseh win would boost its league mark to 52, good enough for third place and also second, if Blissfield is upset this week.

☆

Quarterback John Oberlin tried a rollout and was dropped for a three-yard loss. Then, an Oberlin pass to Bob Baker lost another three yards.

Finally, the Indians tried another pitchout to Lemerand and it lost nine yards to Blissfield's 23.

Late in the second quarter, Tecumseh moved to Blissfield's seven again only to have Oberlin dropped for an eight-yard loss and time to run out.

Final Tecumseh threat occurred late in the fourth quarter, when with the Royals leading, 7-0, Tecumseh moved to the 16.

Although two incomplete passes shut the door on Tecumseh's hopes, a third down pass to Lemerand on Blissfield's two just missed, being trapped instead of caught.

☆

BLISSFIELD'S fine running back Tom Billington broke the ice late in the third period, turning Tecumseh's left end for 25 yards and the game's lone score.

The winning drive covered 77 yards, of which 20 yards were doled out by officials in Tecumseh penalties.

The victors threatened once in the second period, when they reached Tecumseh's 10, and again in the fourth quarter when their drive carried to the six.

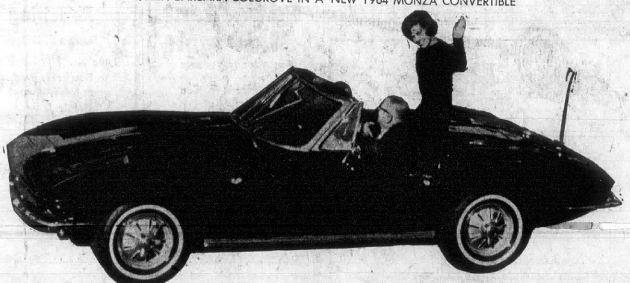
WE RAN SECOND

IT'S PRETTY DIFFICULT TO RATE FIRST, ESPECIALLY WHEN YOU'RE COMPETING WITH CANDIDATES FOR THE ANNUAL TECUMSEH HIGH SCHOOL HOMECOMING QUEEN. EVEN THOUGH OUR DESIGNERS COME UP WITH NEW, EXCITING STYLES EACH YEAR — AND THEY CAN MORE THAN HOLD THEIR OWN IN BUMPERS, GRILLS AND FENDERS — THEY'RE A BIT EMBARRASSED WHEN OUR CHEVIES ARE COMPARED TO THS GIRLS. IT'S THE SAME OLD STORY, YEAR AFTER YEAR . . . .

QUEEN BARBARA COLGROVE IN A NEW 1964 MONZA CONVERTIBLE



TERRI CLARK IN A NEW 1964 CO RVETTE STING RAY CONVERTIBLE

SUZANNE RUPURT IN A NEW 1964 CHEVROLET IMPALA CONVERTIBLE

DEBBIE CHEEVERS, COOKY LEATHERS AND SHARON GREEN IN A 1964 IMPALA CONVERTIBLE

BUT WE'RE HAPPY

NOT EVERYONE HAS A FANCY, NEW CHEVROLET WITH GOOD-LOOKS A PLENTY; CHEVIES ARE SOMETHING SPECIAL — AS MANY OF YOU ALREADY KNOW — AND THE FOUR 1964 MODELS USED IN THE HOMECOMING PARADE, AND AT THE GAME FOR THE QUEEN AND HER COURT, ARE ONLY FOUR OF THE MANY '64 MODELS THAT ARE MORE POPULAR THAN EVER THIS YEAR.

The MYF had charge of the candy booth and the United Workers the fancywork, bake goods and vegetable booth. Those winning blue ribbons were Charles Spreeman, largest potatoes, Donelda Robinson, biggest squash, and Clifford Southard, best apples.

Ridgeway Church was invited to Britton last Sunday for a Fellowship evening at 7:30 p.m. with a coffee hour after the program. A movie, "Born To Witness" was shown.

Sunday the nursery was in charge of Mrs. Raymond Bird. The acolyte was Mike Bishop and the greeters, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Sturtevant returned last week from an extensive trip to the north shore of Lake Superior and the Eastern States.

Mrs. Jennings Frayer returned home from Herrick Memorial Hospital Sunday.

Mrs. Dora Hartman and daughter, Louise, with Mrs. Tom Birdsall and Elmer Pocklington attended a dinner at Iron Creek in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Brazee who are retiring from the ministry.

The Official Board members of the Ridgeway Methodist Church will meet Nov. 4, at 8 p.m. at the church.

The Ridgeway Sunny Rays 4-H club met Oct. 15 at the Ridgeway Library. A new secretary, Nancy Marks and new treasurer, Alice Lopez were elected. Members voted to have a hayride Nov. 2, and the winter projects were registered. DeAnn Miller was in charge of the entertainment and refreshments.

Loyalty Sunday beginning every member canvass Nov. 3, will be observed at the Ridgeway Methodist Church with a potluck dinner immediately following the service. A movie will be shown called "Split-level Family." Mrs. Raymond Bird will have charge of the nursery and Dennis Shiels will be the acolyte.

Maude Bell of Tecumseh Has 208 Gowns to Credit

Mrs. Helen Bausch of Colwich, Kan., thought that she had set a record for making wedding gowns but her record pales beside that of Tecumseh's Maude Bell.

The Kansas seamstress said that she had made at least 300 bridal dresses in 33 years, all alone.

Mrs. Bell, who also works alone, has kept a record of 208 wedding gowns that she has made in 17 years.

The first one she made in Sept. 1946 for Floris Howe, now Mrs. John Snyder, 4066 Aebersold Rd.

The latest one was for Harriet Blanden when her marriage to Lee Britton was solemnized this past August.

The largest number of gowns Maude has made in one year was 23 in 1956. In 1962 she made 12.

When The Herald reporter talked with the talented seamstress she mentioned most weddings average from two to six bridesmaids and judging from these figures, Mrs. Bell believes she has made over 600 attendants' dresses besides many for mothers of the brides.

She has also made dozens and dozens of veils, hats and other head pieces.

The flawless work of Tecumseh's gown designer is done without the aid of an electric sewing machine, she still uses the pedal type.

You're Tops With Us, Indians

We were proud and pleased to be able to carry Indian gridders in the Homecoming parade on one of our trucks.

As fine a group of young athletes as you'll find anywhere — these are the Tecumseh High School Indian football players. OK, so you lost a heartbreaker to Blissfield in Friday evening's Homecoming. But you played to the limits of your ability, you played clean. When the game ended, you congratulated your opponents. To us, this proves again that the Tecumseh High sports program is well administered, well coached and our young athletes are fine Americans. You're tops with us, Indians!

OCTOBER BIRDS

October has been quite a month — we have almost had more than our share of birds. I am not complaining, mind you, I am just hoping the months to come prove as interesting and busy.

When all the warbler activity died down and we had waved goodby to the last bunch of these southward-bound army, I thought perhaps we would be in for a rather quiet spell. Fortunately, it didn't work out that way at all.

Our west-facing window picture was in about the third day of its gold phase. There was still much green, but there were also many trees that had turned yellow. It was a beautiful scene to gaze out upon, especially in the afternoon when the sun backlighted the leaves giving them a shimmering luminous quality.

Into this golden world flocked a band of cedar wax-wings. In just an instant the peaceful scene exploded into activity and our lazy afternoon of merely soaking up some quiet autumn loveliness was turned into a few hours of busy birdwatching.

☆

WE ARE always glad when a troupe of the wandering gypsies come our way. They are such pretty birds, a soft warm brown in color with bright yellow bands at the ends of their tails.

Occasionally one of the birds will show a bright red spot on his wings but seldom are these waxy spots as easily seen as the birdbooks would have one believe. As the birds flitted through the trees, they blended in just perfectly with the fall color scheme.

Of course the wax-wings moved through the trees with nowhere near the speed of the warblers, but they were much easier to see than the tiny ones were and they moved about quite fast.

It was a fairly large flock and they were apparently feeding on seeds across the creek. Feeding over there, but perching in the trees on this side. It was a combination that made for much flying back and forth.

☆

AS IS ALWAYS the case with cedar wax-wings, their visit was much too short, they simply never stay around very long. With the next flock of birds however, the story is different.

A dozen or so juncos flew in and I am happy to report they are still on the premises. With luck, the juncs will stay with us all winter. Ugh, winter — a terrible thought, but it is coming, the juncos are harbingers of Old North Wind and his cronies.

Juncos may bring thoughts of winter, but they certainly look well in a colorful fall setting. With the yard and creek bank carpeted in gold, it makes a perfect background for the black and white juncos.

They scratch through the leaves, sending everything flying and have a wonderful time. Right now, most of the activity centers around the end of the fence and along the top of the creek bank. It will take some snow before they will venture regularly to the feeding station.

☆

ANOTHER reminder of things to come are a pair of cocky little chick-a-dees. With their boundless energy and endless supply of high spirits, these little characters are always most welcome.

They are currently enjoying the ween-tree. This maple is always about the last to shed its leaves and the chick-a-dees have fun playing hide and seek. The big leaves are perfect to duck behind. Have they come to the feeder? — Well, yes and no.

They have not as yet come down to sample the bill of fare, but one of them has, occasionally, perched atop the post and whistled at us. There is nothing like announcing your presence with a loud whistle, is there?

So it is that although the summer residents are long gone and most of the fall migration is over, there has been no time to be lonesome — we have been much too busy with the October birds.

NEXT WEEK:

"One of Those Weekends."

Rummage Sale Profits Will Buy New Choir Robes

Mrs. Mae Dillon was hostess to 21 members of the Irene Circle of the Methodist Church Oct. 21 in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Moore.

Proceeds from the rummage and bake sale Oct. 26 will be used for new choir robes.

Mrs. Moore entertained the group with slides she has taken in Europe and Hawaii.

Mrs. Julius Vincze and Mrs. Herbert Dillon served refreshments concluding the evening.

566 Future Homemakers Attend Chelsea Meeting

There were 566 high school girls enrolled in homemaking on hand, plus advisors, chapter mothers and guests.

The theme for this year's program was "Miss FHA Designs the Way". The Tecumseh chapter was in charge of registration.

☆

THIS YEAR'S guest speaker was Mrs. Maria Szyfman of Poland, who spoke on life behind the Iron Curtain.

Typical school girl fashions were shown through a style show presented by the Saline chapter.

Since there were too many girls to eat all at once, guests were split into groups. While one ate the other group toured the campus style school.

Another highlight of the day was the electing and candlelight installation of the new officers.

Elizabeth Frost was the outgoing Historian. She has been assisting in preparation for the meeting throughout the year as well as taking part in the session.

Movie on Skiing Will Be Shown at Ford Auditorium

The American Youth Hostels Detroit Council presents its 17th Annual "Adventures in Skiing" series.

This film takes viewers around the world to Portillo, Chile, where they have Power Snow in July, to watch Daredevil Races down a sheer Headwall.

Tickets are available at ski shops, Ford Auditorium box office and the American Youth Hostels office, TE 1-4800.

Summer Fluoride Program Results Will Be Given

The Lenawee County Dental Health Committee will hold a fall meeting Monday, at 7:30 p.m. in the office of the Lenawee County Health Department.

Reports and an evaluation of the summer fluoride program will be given. Each school in the county is to send a representative.

Mrs. Melvin Purple was the chairman for the Tecumseh area schools.

Speech League Accepts Adrian

Adrian College has been accepted into the Michigan Intercollegiate Speech League. This means that Adrian College can enter outstanding students in state-wide Forensic contests.

RAINING RUST — Large patches of ugly brown are spreading across the basement ceiling of the Tecumseh Public Library. Barely a year old, the metal ceiling has been attacked by condensed moisture. The paint peels and rusty goo drips from the ceiling. Fortunately, historical volumes stored in the basement have escaped damage so far, but the rust is spreading. A rust-inhibitor only helped temporarily. A basic flaw in the building is held to blame, but both architect and contractor have refused to take responsibility, a ccording to the library board. Mrs. Murray Day, assistant librarian, here examines the damage.

Junior Livestock Show Scheduled for Motor City

Several hundred Michigan 4-H youths and their prize porkers, lambs and fat steers are busily planning for a December trip to Detroit.

The exhibitors and their livestock will head for the 34th annual Junior Livestock Show scheduled for Dec. 9 through 12 in the Motor City.

The youngsters will be seeking the glory and glamor which goes with owning one of the grand champions.

But highlighting the week will be educational sessions designed to give youngsters a better understanding of meat production by comparing animals on the hoof and in the meat cooler.

Chevy II Nova 4-Door Station Wagon. Luggage carrier rack shown, optional at extra cost.

WOW!

A pretty potent mixture.

The car's the same size. As trim and easy to handle as ever.

But now you can have a full-grown V8 in it. A Turbo-Fire 283* that turns out 195 hp.

It's the kind of machine that doesn't take much coaxing to set in motion. (Especially when you consider it has over 60% more power than the Chevy II that won North America's toughest rally last spring —the Shell 4,000.*)

And for '64 we've also added a choice of a 4-speed Synchro-Mesh transmission* with a floor-mounted shift.

But in case your tastes run somewhat milder, we should point out you have a pick of three other engines as well. The standard 4 (on 100 Series sedans), the standard 6 and a new 155-hp 6*.

And, whatever one you decide on, it's reassuring to know you're getting a car built with the pure and simple integrity of a Chevy II. (Upkeep has been even further reduced this year by such refinements as larger self-adjusting brakes.)

It's a simple matter to spot one of these '64's by styling touches like the new grille design and trim accents. But we'd like to suggest a more memorable way. Drop down to your dealer's and drive one.

American Students Get More Homework

Three speakers told of other lands for the members of the Neville Hart Chapter of the National Honor Society at the Oct. 9 meeting.

President John Oberlin introduced them.

► Russell Blanden related information about the school system in Ecuador, where he visited this summer.

► Sharlette Wegner spoke of her summer as an exchange student in Mexico. She expressed special appreciation of her home and community in America in comparison to some aspects of life in Mexico.

Anders explained the school system in Sweden and commented that although he studied about 10 subjects a year there, he seemed to be getting a lot more homework in the United States.

News From Boysville

The Fighting Knights beat Sand Creek's Aggies, 26-20, in a see-saw battle Oct. 19.

Hard-hitting Al Padilla scored the winning TD in the dying minutes of the game. The Knights are now 3-2 in league play.

☆

The Boysville Junior Knights were trounced by Adrian Catholic Central, 26-0, in their Oct. 16 meeting. The JV's had the scoring touch, but penalties brought back every scoring attempt.

☆

Nurses from the Lenawee Health Department administered TB tests to the students and faculty Oct. 15 and returned to read the results the following Thursday afternoon.

☆

☆

Ten upperclassmen took the Scholastic Aptitude [illegible] Oct. 15. The test was put out by CEEB (College Entrance Exam Board). The two-hour test, required for entrance in some [illegible] was administered by Brother Jeffery Michels, Boysville Principal.

☆

The annual Sophomore Halloween Party is now in the preparation stage. This year there will be many games and prizes, but the most coveted prize is something new. Brother James Reese, sophomore class moderator, has promised a pizza party for the dorm with the best costumes.

☆

Boysville Knights were overpowered by Ida's Blue Streaks, 32-18, last Friday night. The Knights started strong by taking a fumble deep in Ida's territory and capitalizing on it in the first three minutes of play.

For the next two periods Ida controlled the ball, picking up 32 points in the process. But the last quarter saw the tables reversed as Ida was held scoreless and the Knights picked up two more touchdowns.

Moe Jacobs, who holds a 20-point lead in county scoring honors, scored his second TD and 13th of the season. The fourth quarter also saw Jim Fielder scamper 25 yards for his first TD of the season.

☆

The student body will celebrate the Feast of All Saints with a free day. Class rings will be presented to the Seniors that day.

☆

The Junior Knights dropped a close non-league game to Morenci, 22-20, Oct. 23. A touchback in the fourth quarter broke the tie and won the game for Morenci. Roy Gamelin, Armand Boisvenue and Ron Nichols did the scoring for the Knights.

☆

Some members of the Senior and Junior class were at the Adrian roller rink Saturday evening. This was a pleasant diversion from the regular routine. Brother James Caley, Junior class moderator, was responsible for the trip.

HERE COMES THE BAND — Led by the Indian maiden majorettes, Sue Klappich, Ann Surratt, Mary Blumerick, Linda Bush, Patty Rutherford, Janice Reed and Beth O'Neill, the sharp-marching Tecumseh High School band strided ahead of the annual Homecoming parade. Don Johnson's marchers thrilled the spectators both in the parade and with their half-time show at the Blissfield game. Mr. Johnson says that his young men and women must be able to master the music, then the marching.

EXPORTS at close to a billion bushels are estimated by USDA for the 1963-64 export year. Last year they totaled 836 million. Big wheat sale of 200 million bushels to Russia and her satellites give rise to speculation that wheat surpluses may get as low as 700 million bushels by next June 30 . . . not far from what has been considered a safe national reserve. A farm price of about 8c above $1.82 loan for unsold balance of 1963 crop is predicted, which will add some $100 million to farmers' pockets.

SOYBEAN PRICES should go higher this season. Holding for $3.85 does not look too unrealistic. USDA crop estimates call for a record 727.4 million bushels, about 8% more than last year. But soybean usage will expand to keep supply-demand in close balance. Expanding livestock industries overseas and a need for protein in the diet of many people are providing a growing foreign market. Broadening harvest should whittle bids some, but no deep cuts are expected.

GROUND EAR CORN may result in higher feed conversion for growing hogs than dried ground shelled corn. In University of Minnesota tests the ear corn was dried to 15% moisture and ground through a quarter-inch screen. Pigs fed ground ear corn gained faster, had slightly less backfat, larger loin eyes, and tended to have leaner carcasses. Main benefit might be reduction in labor required to shell and store shelled corn.

AN AUTOMATIC LIVESTOCK WATER HEATER is a good investment. Mid-western experiment station studies show that warming drinking water for cattle can reduce feed costs up to 30% and cut feed bills as much as 10%.

Education Makes Great Progress Despite Hardship

(Editor's note — What happens when Tecumseh Public School instructors attend sessions, as they did the third Thursday and Friday of this month? Miles Cowdrey, one of them, collected some first-hand information, which was prepared as a cross-section of teachers and is presented in a series of two articles.)

Teachers of the Tecumseh Public Schools, along with many others from all over the state, attended conferences sponsored by the Michigan Education Association, local faculty people going to the Region Three Conference in Ann Arbor.

At the opening session Dr. Harold Dorr extended greetings to the conference from the University of Michigan. He emphasized the fact that education had made great progress despite many hardships.

Dr. Ralph Lapp, world famous scientist and science writer, gave an address on "The Space Frontier."

Dr. Lapp presented the scientific, political and military aspects of the present space program.

Largest expenditure in science is the "crash program" to the moon, although not pointed to scientific research, but towards bigger and better "kerosene burners", which propel these giant rockets.

Dr. Lapp advanced six reasons for reaching the moon.

- These were national prestige
- Military potential
- Economic prosperity
- Job security
- Scientific advancement
- Thrill of adventure.

He said none of these warrants justification for the enormous expenditures in this one area of science.

Another problem in the space program is that non-scientific politicians are making momentous decisions about the expenditures for space.

Dr. Lapp doesn't advocate giving up the quest for reaching the moon, adding that in time scientists would discover more efficient rockets and fuel. Money saved could be put to use in other scientific research, such as cancer, which is killing thousands of Americans every day.

Thursday afternoon, attended meetings of particular interest to each.

The following is a brief resume given by some of Tecumseh's Public School Staff to attempt to convey an overview of the conference to you, the reader.

☆

MRS. JOHN JONES, fifth grade teacher at Tipton School, and MRS. RUSSELL E. RAYMOND, Patterson fifth grade, attended the session "Reading Problems in Content Area" with Richard Slater, professor of education from the University of Toledo, as speaker.

Prof. Slater emphasized that since children imitate parents and other adults, it is the grown-ups' responsibility to motivate them by reading more themselves.

Reading problems can be overcome through giving purposeful reading, furnishing an example through reading, consistent word study and analysis, and formation of good study habits.

On Friday morning Mrs. Jones was chairman of the group meeting on "Problems of Beginning Teachers". The panel consisted of Ethel O'Connor from Eastern Michigan University, Edith Wendt from Adrian Public School, William Mills from the University of Michigan Law School and James McDowell from Tecumseh who acted as moderator.

The panel discussed questions that a survey indicated were of interest to beginning teachers — parent-teacher conferences, personal help from the staff in orientation, curriculum, role of the administrator and others were commented upon.

Mrs. Raymond also heard Earl Karau of the Mason Consolidated School in Erie, O., talk on "What is Modern Elementary Mathematics?"

Suggestions for ways to broaden the mathematics program the drop-out with a sincere desire to regain entrance to the high school from which he dropped out before graduation.

"The Use of Programmed Instruction in Chemistry" was another Friday presentation, which brought up a question: is programmed instruction an effective method of teaching scientific principles in high school chemistry classes?

☆

R. T. GILLAM, principal at Patterson School, went to the elementary principals' dinner, then heard a talk on "The Principal and Curriculum Development." Cited were aspects of leadership which could help to enrich the school program.

In the elementary division Friday the meeting on "Aerospace Education" was of prime interest. Ideas were suggested to keep the elementary schools abreast of the space age. Some suggestions which were presented were visits to local aircraft companies, the use of advertisements as a medium for information, formation of aerospace clubs, projects and creative writings.

☆

H. M. GONSER, who teaches driver education was on hand for a session Thursday on "The Law and the Teacher," followed by a panel discussion.

At a driver training meeting on Friday teachers were introduced to a new device which is used to analyze the driving techniques and habits of a person.

A new movie titled "Anatomy of an Accident" was previewed. This is a film both parents and students should view, says Mr. Gonser.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilt were home from Lansing over the weekend. They were accompanied by Frank Sachen, best man for their wedding.

Electronic Bookkeeping Machine Speed Statements

In line with our policy of maintaining the most efficient, accurate service, our bank has installed two new electronic bookkeeping machines. Beginning this month, our 4,100 checking account patrons will receive a unique type statement. It's blue instead of yellow, but the most fascinating part is the series of stripes on the back. These black, smudgeproof lines are metallic and help speed statements through the electronically coded machines. These posting devices eliminate three previous steps for head bookkeeper Mrs. Mary Mitchell and her four assistants. Now these tasks are done electronically within the machines. You might be interested to learn that your bank now processes more than 85,000 checks each month.

Don't Judge by One Camp

TO THE EDITOR :

It would seem that your staff writer got a little carried away in her article concerning migrants and the migrant camp which she visited.

She perhaps forgot to take into consideration that there are various kinds of people white and black. You don't discard a bushel of apples because there are one or two rotten ones. You discard the rotten ones in order to keep the rest from rotting.

Likewise you don't judge all migrant workers by one disreputable camp.

Mrs. X, whoever she is, had an unfortunate experience which has embittered her against migrants and perhaps justly so, but as chairman of Lenawee County United Churchwomen Migrant Committee, I have worked for many years among the migrants in their camps.

Their standard of living if you could call it that, is not our standard. We don't go there to criticize. We go to help and on a whole we have found them friendly, cooperative and appreciative.

This wanton destruction of property seems to be a trend of our times, not only with the migrants but with some of our "worthy" white citizens, and it is regrettable that people stoop to such acts.

I have never seen beer bottles in camps; pop bottles, yes, but I suspect these same beer bottles could be found in a good many of our respected white citizens' homes.

Be that as it may, we regret the instance that prompted the article to be written and the fact that this particular camp was brought before the public as an example of the average camp, which we feel was unfair.

We certainly regret the influence it may have on a worthy cause, that of administering to the migrants, a program which is and has been for many years sponsored by the Lenawee County Ministerial Association.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Migrant Story Ignites Comments

Few stories in The Herald have created the intense comment — pro and con — that last week's article on migrant labor ignited.

To our memory, the red-hot controversy over the film "Operation Abolition" probably comes the closest. That one brought a torrent of letters to The Herald, plus sparking a wide variety of conversation.

The Herald felt the best way to come to some sort of a conclusion on the film was to have it shown in Tecumseh. This was done and more than 500 saw it in two showings at the Presbyterian Church.

Discussions followed the screening of the movie, which showed a turbulent House of Representatives Un-American Committee hearing at San Francisco. Spokesmen for and against the film were asked to state their views.

The session closed with those attending invited to vote on whether "Operation Abolition" should or should not continue to be shown. Each person was given a printed ballot. The vote turned out 235 saying "yes", 52 saying "no" while 44 were "undecided."

Now comes our story last week by Judy Fielder about migrant workers. It was prompted by a telephone call from a Britton farm wife, who invited The Herald to see first hand how migrants left her place.

This was one story about one farm. It did not attempt to cover the complete migrant picture.

Reaction was swift and poignant. People spoke loud and clear — some agreeing, some voicing complete opposition.

Letters have poured in. Many of them appear on this page. More will be presented next week.

Mrs. Fielder has prepared another article, this time an interview with a woman who says The Herald was dead wrong. We will continue to probe and examine the migrant situation and present every factual bit of information that we can authenticate.

Letters from readers are welcome and we will run every one that is signed. If the writers wish to have their names withheld, we will do that.

Keep Them Off the Field

The Tecumseh-Blissfield football game Friday will rate as one of the best-played contests ever performed on Recreation Field.

Coaches and players from both sides can take great pride in the action on the gridiron. Only one team can win, Blissfield did. There were no hard feelings, no sore-headed reactions.

Jack Hepinstall, mentor of the Royals, was justifiably jubilant. Tom Fagan of Tecumseh felt badly that his charges were on the short end of the score. But with the final whistle, both men exchanged sincere good wishes. Their example typifies the best ideals of sportsmanship and proves that traditional games need not breed bad blood.

One thing did disturb us at the home game. The overflow crowd was allowed to roam to the very edge of the playing field — and in the far corners actually permitted to stand on the gridiron. This is a serious matter and should most certainly be corrected before the next home game, with Adrian on Nov. 8, and probably another sell-out.

A sturdy fence to hold back the naturally-excited fans would be the ideal solution. It's too late for that this season. But this idea should be considered before next fall.

The next best thing would be a strong rope, manned every 10 or 15 feet by volunteers. Several years ago members of the auxiliary police handled this job and did it capably.

A danger in letting spectators stand and sit so near the field is that a player may burst loose on a long run and end up being dumped by a stirring tackle right into the midst of the fans. This could bring injury to both spectators and players.

Our Reader's Write

Excellent Coverage

TO THE EDITORS:

The story on the mig[illegible] workers by Mrs. Fielder in last week's Herald was, in my opinion, an excellent coverage on a big problem in our modern society.

The filth and destruction that remained on Mrs. X's farm is not only typical of the migrant worker, but also many of the people moving into Federal Housing projects in the larger cities.

Education in personal hygiene, basic health and morals, I believe, are the big needs of these people rather than gifts of used clothing and furniture.

A Reader.

Migrant Needs as Human Beings

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Whatever the weakness of the migrant ministry itself and the weakness of migrant workers in their manner of living, their personal habits, their attitude toward property, and their working efficiency, attention must be drawn to their needs as human beings and to our needs as neighbors and Christians to help them if help can be given.

Thanks and appreciation and further encouragement should be given to the many people of Lenawee County who have worked in the migrant ministry program. Their work has not been meaningless.

Many people have given time, money, their energies, and a genuine heartfelt concern for migrant workers in our state. The ministry to migrant workers is, in fact, a nation-wide work of many thousands of people who recognize the work that has to be done in education, raising health standards, and above all, in demonstrating in some way the Gospel of Jesus Christ who came to minister to the poor and outcast.

I am proud and glad that Christian people of our county have witnessed in a small way to the moral principle of being, if not our brother's keeper, our brother's brother, and working cooperatively with state and county agencies and farm owners as well.

Migrant Labor Is Important

TO THE EDITORS:

We have been raising tomatoes for a number of years.

Migrant labor is very important to us; without it we couldn't afford to raise this perishable crop.

Labor has created many headaches for the farmer.

In regards to last week's article we feel that Mrs. Fielder wrote the truth and only what she saw, and there was no exaggeration on the part of Mrs. X, except in the case of the 25 boxes she mentioned that she picked in one hour.

That would have to be during the peak of the tomato season.

Most of our migrants are dedicated to wine and crew leaders.

We pay them on Friday, and they will not go back to picking until they are broke, which happens to be the following Monday or Tuesday.

There are a few exceptions, but only a very small percentage.

The children are not forced to go to school.

It seems that willingness on the part of the migrant to educate himself, is needed.

'Giant' Wages?

TO THE EDITORS:

Migrant workers are filthy, thieving, vandalistic, irresponsible, overpaid drunkards, it was said in last week's Herald article by Judy Fielder. Her words were somewhat more elaborate, but they meant the same as this condensed version.

The article opened with a request for some idea of how to help the migrant worker, ended with a righteous suggestion vaguely referring to "education" as the solution to the problem, and for the 50 column inches in between extolled them as being the above-mentioned filthy, thieving, et cetera.

If it is [illegible] these people on one's property why are they employed? The answer lies in the fact that agriculture in Michigan ranks second only to manufacturing as an income producer.

Michigan's agricultural diversity is dependent on at least 100,000 seasonal workers at the peak of the season. Half of these must come from out of state.

Michigan's own seasonal workers do not ordinarily move about the state, but work at farms near their homes. The migrants, therefore, are vitally important to Michigan's agricultural prosperity.

☆

ACCORDING to Mrs. X, they are filthy. We haven't seen the facilities she provided for her workers, but we pass the migrant worker quarters on the Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. frequently and we wonder how those people, after spending a day in the fields, can possibly wash clothes, themselves, and dishes properly by toting buckets of water from the one dribbly outdoor pump they have at their disposal.

We might add, that though the wash hanging on their line is not Rinso-bright they are obviously doing the best they can under the circumstances and certainly show a determination to make the best of a decidedly bad bet on their part.

She asks, "What do you do with a half dozen pregnant women and over 30 children?" Six pregnant women out of some 60 adults doesn't seem like such a high percentage.

We trust the percentage of pregnancies among migrants is no greater than that of other groups. We noticed that there was no mention of play facilities provided for the children she was expecting to arrive with the adults.

A child will amuse himself for hours peacefully and happily digging in soft sand and not damage the foundations of a sturdy farm building other than exposing it to view.

☆

MRS. X SEEMED to think it an outrage that the crew leaders' wives set up a store to sell cigarettes, wine, and "4c cookies for 8c", among other things.

The migrant worker, according to a survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, "gets 70 days of farm work and 31 days of non-farm work, making a total of 101 working days per year."

If he has the stamina to work eight hours a day at top speed, his adrenalin acting at full tilt, he might be able to pick 25 cases of tomatoes an hour, earning, at Mrs. X's wage scale, a bit over $3 an hour.

This top wage on a yearly basis would give him the fabulous income of $2,424. However, one can reasonably doubt that these people have such stamina (we've seen the gaunt, aged faces of some of these young couples counting their pennies to buy food at our local supermarkets) to work at the pace that Mrs. X would set for them.

[illegible] specified "crew-leaders' wives". The average worker would have little time to [illegible] he needs even if he did have his own transportation — which many of them do not. And which brings us to another point: transportation.

☆

WORKERS ARE frequently transported to their jobs by trucks and buses run by the crew leaders. The workers usually pay for this transportation by systematic deductions from their earnings. This brings down that astronomical $2,424 figure a bit. If they can manage their own transportation they travel in their own cars at their own expense.

The X's have tomatoes rotting on the vines because the migrant workers left early in order to reap the rewards of a big apple crop up north. Their contract was with the crew leaders, who are often unlicensed once they leave their home state.

These unlicensed and unregulated crew leaders have been and continue to be the source of two major migrant headaches, both to employers and workers.

1. Because there is no legal hold on the crew leaders, they often have been known to pack up their crew and leave for better sounding jobs before one job is completed.

2. The workers often have to pay the leader a percentage of their earnings (that wild-living $2,424 becomes even smaller), and since some employers offer the workers a bonus for completing a job this extra money is forfeited if they are not allowed by the crew chief to stay on the job until it is completed.

☆

THE X's must have spent a considerable sum of money erecting adequate housing for their workers, and they are certainly to be commended for this. Many migrants are not so well provided for.

Some actually have to live in abandoned houses, tents tool sheds, barns, garages, or whatever is available as some sort of shelter.

The housing on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. is an example of some of the "living quarters" they must accept in order to have work and earn their daily bread. There are, however, a number of farmers like the X's who do not mind spending $15,000 to $20,000 to house their migrants because they know that the investment pays for itself within three years.

Is the answer charity? No! Who wants it? They obviously do not. Is it education? Very likely, but let's be specific.

"Studies of migrant children in Te[illegible] Michigan show they are retarded from one to three grades in school although their ability is comparable to resident children of the same age!" These children are handicapped because of the very nature of the family employment.

☆

IF YOU HAVE ever changed schools in your lifetime you might have some inkling of the problem a child might have adjusting to a new school every two months or so.

In addition to this, Michigan's attendance laws are frequently not enforced partly because of lack of concern for the migrant children and partly due to the shortage of attendance officers. Often it is a matter of being kept from going to school because they cannot buy textbooks or might not have suitable clothing.

Aid can be obtained for the children on the same basis as for resident children. The Michigan Department of Public Instruction can give one the details if anyone is interested. Remember, their retardation is not due to lack of innate ability, but lack of opportunity.

☆

A SUMMER SCHOOL might be operated in the community as a solution to part of the problem. A nursery school certainly ought to be organized. Adult education classes could be held, perhaps.

"Funds provided by federal legislation can be applied to educational services for all agriculture."

Agricultural extension programs are directed to stable farm families providing homemaking education for urban and rural women, not for migrants, that we know of. The need, from what Mrs. X has experienced, is for health education and home-making, including simple sanitation, food preparation, infant care, nutrition, and perhaps, sewing.

Perhaps the information contained in this letter will set some wheels moving toward improving an unpleasant situation, if it doesn't do that at least it might round out the total picture of the migrant workers for some readers.

Facts incorporated in the letter were taken from a study of migratory labor compiled by The Michigan Study Commission on Migratory Labor.

Sincerely,
Patricia M. Kureth

DRIVE HOME IN A LUXURY AUTOMOBILE—A USED CONTINENTAL

Why not? The principal differences between it and a new Continental are that it has been road-tested a little longer and that it is priced within your reach.

You can scarcely tell that it is not brand-new. The classic look has not changed. This car has been restored to prime condition in both appearance and performance.

And the price includes, as standard equipment, virtually every luxury and performance feature you can imagine, too. This could be your year to move up to a LINCOLN CONTINENTAL.

Minister Blasts Story on Migrants

TO THE EDITORS:

I am writing with reference to Judy Fielder's article "Debris, Filth Left Behind" which appeared in last week's Herald.

Before going further, I would like to say that it was not the intention of any of the volunteers from our several area churches who worked with the migrants this season to criticize anyone, either the farmers who employ the migrant workers or [illegible] who [illegible] toward the migrant worker.

Although some individuals were not overly impressed with the conditions under which the migrants have to live, we realize the tremendous problem connected with trying to house these people in temporary quarters for a short period of time.

This could develop into a real mud-slinging affair which we certainly do not wish to become involved in, but facts are facts, and we cannot allow some of the statements to pass by unchallenged.

Although I have said some rather harsh things, the writing of the article "Debris, Filth Left Behind" has stirred up anger in the hearts and minds of countless people. We would be hypocritical if we did not admit that we have been angered.

☆

THIS ARTICLE completely degraded ALL migrants whether Negro, white or Anglos, or Spanish-speaking. We do have residents of our own community who do at times find it necessary to supplement their income by doing migrant labor.

Contrary to the opinions of others, members of the community who work with the migrants are not the Lenawee County Migrant Ministry. We are simply interested residents of the community and church members who began our ministry under the supervision of the Lenawee Migrant Ministry.

After the close of the county program, our churches continued with the work through the remainder of the tomato season. To emphasize the relationship between the Migrant Ministry and the local community, I would like to quote one statement made by the Michigan Migrant Ministry in a pamphlet "The Migrant Ministry in Michigan":

"One purpose of the Ministry is to encourage the local people to accept the migrants in the life of the church and community."

The Lenawee County Migrant Ministry was misrepresented in the article when it was stated "Members of the Lenawee County Migrant Ministry started a drive to GIVE the migrants clothing and other articles."

The Migrant Ministry asks for donations of clothing from interested individuals and in turn sells them to the migrant for a small renumeration. The purpose of charging the migrant is to give him a little self-respect and also prevent the migrant from taking more clothes than what he can use.

Some clothing was given to the migrant laborers this past [illegible] individual churches. At the "X" camp a small amount of clothing was given, but a good share of it was sold to the migrants at a very low cost.

It is an interesting fact that the migrant women at the "X" camp did not purchase any frivolous clothing or high-heeled shoes, of which we did offer them a few pieces.

☆

GETTING BACK to the contents of the article, many interesting facts and remarks by the people who were concerned with the migrant and took the time to become acquainted with him could be cited to give some of the facts recorded by Mrs. Fielder a slightly different slant.

Many of the facts given in Mrs. Fielder's article undoubtedly were true, but not all of them in their entirety. Additional facts could have changed the picture in many instances.

There was a bold insert placed beneath the first column of Mrs. Fielder's article which seemed to point to the fact that the migrant worker is able to pick enough tomatoes to earn $3.12 per hour.

Yet, there were many days when the tomato pickers did not work at all because the tomatoes were not ripening. Also, in order to make over $3 per hour, they had to pick at least 25 cases an hour. What human being could survive at this terrific pace. Not only this, but it is my understanding that there is only a maximum tonnage which can be expected from a 40-acre plot.

Let's be serious, take the maximum tonnage and number of cases per ton, and figure out just how much money each picker would receive during a season.

☆

IN REGARD to the migrants leaving to pick apples while tomatoes are rotting in the fields, is it not true that the canneries close and refuse to accept tomatoes after a certain time?

Now there is the matter of honesty. No one will question the fact that among 70 people there are bound to be some who are dishonest. Yet, Mrs. "X" through Mrs. Fielder doesn't mention that among the 70, or whatever number, there were some very honest people.

For instance, one young lad, being very musical, wanted to play a trumpet. One of our group loaned him an expensive instrument. After some weeks had passed, the boy decided to leave and go to Detroit and seek work. Before leaving, he returned the trumpet to its owner.

The writer of this letter spent several evenings with the migrants at Mrs. "X's" camp during their stay and also supervised them frequently in the park on Sunday afternoon.

I became well aware that some were dishonest and others very honest. For instance, one Sunday evening about 8:30 p.m. I discovered that the borrowed softball equipment which had been returned to me was minus an expensive catcher's glove and ball.

This became a concern to me, and I suspected that someone from another camp had accidentally taken it home. I confronted one of the leaders at Mrs. "X's" camp with this, and he volunteered to go with me to the other camp to retrieve the equipment.

It was dark when we arrived, and the dark faces peering at me made it seem even darker. I explained to them why I had come, and, after some shuffling around, the articles were returned to me, and I could detect a sense of embarrassment in the voices of those who talked to me. It was very obvious that the theft of these articles was an embarrassment to some.

☆

I HATE to dwell upon the question of honesty, but it seems so important that we refrain from making blanket statements which infer that because a few are dishonest all are dishonest.

While running in the dark to the barn at the farm of Mrs. "X," I twisted my ankle in a slight depression in the ground and, after picking myself up, I went on into the barn where I was to take part in the evening devotions. The next morning I discovered to my amazement that I had lost my wallet.

Naturally, when I remembered that I had fallen, I thought my wallet could be found at the farm of Mrs. "X." I arrived at the farm before many of the workers were up. I searched the ground where I had fallen and found nothing.

While there, one of the workers came up to me and I talked to him explaining my problem. Then I left. I had come to the conclusion that I had lost the wallet, and I forgot about it.

Later that day my wife presented me with my wallet which had become lost in our own home. That evening with my wife and family I went to the farm of Mrs. "X" to take blankets, and I picked up two migrant laborers walking along the road.

They got into the back seat of our car, and we had gone only a short distance when one of them said, "I'm awfully sorry to hear about your misfortune."

I was confused not realizing what he was referring to and stuttered about until my wife whispered, "Your wallet." Then I understood. The migrant workers were so concerned that I had lost my wallet, that many of them that day had returned from the tomato field a different way each time that per chance they might find my lost wallet.

I'm very sorry that Mrs. "X" during the period that the workers were on her farm did not see in these people some of the things that I had the privilege to see.

☆

IT STATED in the article (quoting Mrs. "X") "One of the crew leaders spent an entire week preparing a speech for a charitable organization while his workers did as they pleased."

If this is in reference to a worship service conducted by one of the crew leaders from Mrs. "X's" camp in the Britton Methodist Church, again the facts have been distorted. We had been requested to provide a worship service for the migrant workers.

As many of our ministers and people were previously committed to other responsibilities this particular evening, we invited the workers to worship in our church and asked the leader in question to lead his people in worship.

We did say, however, that we would urge some of our people to attend this service, and they did. Daniel Jones did not have a prepared address. Furthermore, he could not have spent a week on it because he was asked only the afternoon before.

Mrs. "X" was quoted as saying, "Schooling is provided for the children and that's where they belong. Do you think any of the parents tried to make them go?"

It is a fact that there were children from Mrs. "X's" camp who attended Britton-Macon School and were picked up by the Britton-Macon School bus. It is a fact that some of the same children at this camp have attended the Britton school other years during the tomato season.

On the fourth Friday of September there were 17 migrant children in the Britton school, entitling the school to receive the state aid for these children. At that time some of the children had already left the community.

☆

CONSIDER THE touchy subject of human excretions. It hardly seems possible that Mrs. "X" could talk about this without in some way apologizing or acknowledging the fact that there were only two outhouses for the number of migrants on her farm.

Mrs. Fielder stated that "State law requires separate facilities for men and women, but the migrants used whichever suited their fancy." It seems to me that rather than using whichever suited their fancy, they probably used whichever one was empty.

I do not like to be unkind, but this article written by Judy Fielder is not simply a reporting of the facts as was previously stated to the writer. It was stated by Mrs. Fielder that "Twenty-five to 30 people were housed dormitory-style with partitions in the concrete floored block wall structure . . ."

The twenty-five to 30 people were housed in the barn on springs plus mattresses set up on cement blocks with the only partitions being some old doors put together dividing off one corner for the leader, his wife and his aunt.

Examples such as this paragraph indicate to me that the people responsible for this article are guilty of the same dishonesty of which they are accusing the migrant worker.

After one studies this article over and over, he becomes more disgusted than ever. Why was it necessary for the writer of this article "Debris, Filth Left Behind to even go so far as to pick on the little children. In the words of Mrs. Fielder, "As we approached the building across a trash and bottle-strewn yard, I could see the exposed foundation. When I inquired, Mrs. "X" said the children played in the dirt and dug it away." Isn't there any leveling-off point for condemnation?

☆

THROUGH Mrs. "X's" statement, "A real example of Christianity would be for someone to come and get those children every day and see they go to school," it was inferred that efforts made by area residents were not really Christian and that we could have helped in a more practical way by transporting children to school. It would be interesting to know the remarks of Mrs. "X" which preceded this statement.

From the attitude of Mrs. "X", we apparently have lost an opportunity to be of service to the migrants, at least on the "X" farm. We realize that we undoubtedly made numerous mistakes. For this we are truly sorry.

If Mrs. "X" is ever moved to allow us to be of service again, we would certainly make sure that we help the migrant worker clear up the debris, etc.

There are only a few reasons why I am at all concerned with the attack made upon the migrant worker. The first is I feel that the migrant worker is a child of God, and it is the responsibility of a Christian community to do whatever it can to meet the needs.

Secondly, I feel that it is necessary to encourage those of our community to continue with this kind of service despite the criticism they might receive.

Thirdly, I have given my life to the Christian ministry and feel it my obligation not to stand by and allow the great truths of Christianity to go unheeded. As Christians we should know nothing of throwing up our hands and saying, "What's the use?" or "Why bother?"

Regardless of how many things can be brought against a group of people, it does not in any way lessen our Christian responsibility. Certainly.

Yet, these individuals are nonetheless people for whom Christ died. If we as so-called Christians are going to make a sham out of Christianity, what good is it?

☆

SOME OF US from the Ridgeway and Britton Methodist Churches have tried to perform a service based not upon any selfish desires of our own, but based solely on our Christian beliefs. We were not alone in this.

Other churches from the Tecumseh areas joined with us in this mission, and, despite what has been said against the migrant and the uselessness of doing anything for him, I am sure that we will continue to serve the migrant wherever we happen to find him. For after all, the love of God is only made manifest in the world through person to person encounter, and, if we as Christians, fail to make this encounter, how is the love of God going to be felt?

True, we may not have influenced too many of the migrants, but, after all if we only influenced one, it would be worth it.

"Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me."

Ridgeway & Britton Methodist Churches

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Despite clear evidence that change has made our nation stronger, we are now facing the changing structure of our industrial society with growing distrust and apprehension.

I am referring to the accelerating pace of automation. Where once the doomsayer [illegible] against unions, against mass production, against the $5 day, or immigration, or any other bugaboo or scapegoat, they now cry automation when better ways are found of producing things.

Today, we are shackling technological change — first, by surrounding it with doubts as to its virtues and fears as to its impact; and second, by ignoring the barriers we allow to stand before our full economic growth.

I think we must remove automation from its position as a scapegoat, and turn our attention to the real causes of the lag in our economic growth.

There is considerable split vision even among the experts on the impact of automation on total employment. One expert will claim automation wipes out thousands of jobs each week; another will say it has no measurable effect; and a third will say any dependable figures are impossible.

☆

BUT THE more basic question is this: Can our economy achieve an annual 5 percent growth and create the millions of new jobs needed for our burgeoning population without effective use of automation? I think not.

This is not to say we should reduce our concern about the human problems associated with technological change and the allied influence of monolithic power.

But I am convinced that these problems will best be solved, not by timidity and fear and misrepresentation, but by tackling the reasons why automation is not being allowed to do what it could do for our society.

I believe the first barrier toward realizing the full bounty of automation is an unwarranted fear of mechanization which frustrates progress.

The second barrier, and a more important one, consists of those impediments which prevent the unhampered growth of our economy. These impediments arise largely from the excessive concentration of power in large industries and large unions.

There is power that blocks an adequate sharing of progress with customers, power that prevents the economy as a whole from sharing the results of automation, power that battles for an excessive share of progress.

☆

THERE IS power that produces conflict between unions and employers who should be teammates in seeking competitively and cooperatively to outdo other teams in supplying the customers' needs at lower cost.

The future economic health of America depends on modernizing the basic laws governing our economy in order to make the mutual interest of unions and employers the basis of collective bargaining.

Our national economic policy contains a dangerous conflict between the principles of competition and the principles of monopoly.

We must resolve this conflict — and resolve it in favor of free competition and union-management teamwork — if our economy is to meet its full promise.

6-Year-Olds May Join Baton Marching Group

Recruitment for new members for the Aowakiyas baton marching group will end Wednesday, Nov. 13.

Any girl or boy who will be six years old by Dec. 1 may join. Anyone wishing to take baton lessons, but not join the group may do so.

The Aowakiyas were organized and are run by the mothers of members. There is a minimum charge made for the lessons to pay for the teacher.

As the group does not have winter uniforms they aren't able to march in parades during the cold weather, but they would be happy to put on performances inside for any group who would like them.

It is the hope of the mothers that they may at sometime be able to own drums for the group. Last year borrowed drums were used.

Lessons are held each Wednesday afternoon at the Presbyterian church Fellowship Center at 5 p.m. for beginners and 4 p.m. for those who have had previous lessons.

Pearl Myers Has 30 Years of Restaurant Experience

"Let's go to Pearl's for lunch," has been an oft spoken suggestion for a long time in Tecumseh.

For 30 years, in fact, Pearl Myers has been in the restaurant business, most of the time on the city's main streets.

She established and operated an eating place called The White Star in 1933, located on E. Chicago Blvd., now occupied by the Pioneer Rock Shop.

Reminiscing Monday, Pearl said, "Yes, I bought that place lock, stock and barrel for $75 and borrowed that, paying it back to Louie Schneider at $5 a week."

After a bout with rheumatic fever, Pearl operated Brees House, where Kustom Draperies is now located and then for nine years she rented the Clinton Hotel Dining Room.

Later she purchased and operated the Cozy Cafe, which she sold about 13 years ago to Don Smith of Don's Beef Buffet.

May 8, 1961, Pearl opened The Boston Lunch at the present location on N. Evans St.

Because so many use the phrase, "Go to Pearl's" when they tell their friends of a good place to eat in Tecumseh, it was decided to change the name from The Boston Lunch to Pearl's Cafe.

The lovely remodeled, redecorated dining room in conjunction with the cafe will retain the name, "The Bostonian Dining Room."

Breitenwischer Chosen Secretary

Gerald J. Breitenwischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Breitenwischer, 405 Seneca St., has been elected recording secretary of the Newman Club at Tri-State College in Angola, Ind.

Mr. Breitenwischer is a student in the Department of Electrical Engineering at Tri-State College.

HE'S THE HERO — Pepper, the 10-year-old dog belonging to the Fay Greenes, 712 Wenonah St., alerted the family to a fire in the kitchen of the residence Oct 17. Mary Helen Greene, 13, and her grandmother, Mrs. John Reiniche, show their gratitude to their canine friend for saving the home.

Tragedy Averted by Alert 'Pepper'

Pepper saved the house and perhaps at least two residents in the Fay Greene home, 712 Wenonah St., Oct. 17.

The persistent barking of the dog caused Mrs. John Reiniche, who was napping, to investigate the pot roast, which she was cooking on the top of the stove in the kitchen.

The roast had cooked dry and somehow caught fire. At this point Mary Helen Greene, 13, arrived and helped [illegible] smother the flames.

Mrs. Reiniche and her husband, 86, were invited to Tecumseh to celebrate her 84th birthday anniversary Oct. 3.

The following Saturday her daughter, Mrs. Greene, was taken ill and the next day admitted to the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Reiniche decided to stay and get meals for the family.

This is the reason they were the only ones at home when Pepper smelled the danger. The little dog has made Grandma Reiniche his special charge now and stays close to her at all times.

29 Sponsor Watershed Application

Twenty-nine units of government in Lenawee, Monroe, Jackson and Washtenaw Counties are co-sponsors of an application to have the River Raisin Watershed surveyed.

The request goes to the Soil Conversation Service in Washington.

This is the initial step in obtaining Federal aid for the proposed watershed improvement plan.

A final check of the application will be made Thursday evening at a meeting in Tecumseh's city hall. The session is open to all interested persons.

The application will ask SCS to determine what is feasible in cleaning up the river, to recommend impoundments as flood control measures and for water storage.

☆

SCS IS ALSO being asked to determine estimates of costs for these improvement.

At this point that is no cost to the co-sponsors of the petition.

Don Mitchell, Lenawee County drain commissioner, emphasizes that "this is not a Federal project. It is local. The people are in the driver's seat."

He has pointed out that what people want done will be tackled with Federal assistance, with local units of government sharing the costs. This usually means 80% Federal funds.

Michigan has had five watershed projects OKed by SCS. Three are complete and the other two under construction. The Raisin, if approved, would be the biggest to date.

In this area, the Globe and Red Mill Ponds would probably be cleaned and deepened and several dam sites established, creating large lakes.

☆

IN THE LOWER reaches of the river, where rich agricultural flatlands are often inundated in spring floods, deepening the stream bed would prevent damage to valuable croplands, straightening out ox-bows where banks are undercut and removal of deadheads and dying trees along its banks would stabilize stream flow.

The low head of water maintained by Blissfield, Deerfield, Petersburg and Dundee for municipal water supply would be adequate.

Dams upstream would not hold back water for Blissfield and Deerfield, Mr. Mitchell stated. "To the contrary, a regulated flow from upstream reservoirs will assure more water to dilute the industrial and farm wastes."

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Like many another householder in Tecumseh, I had to hustle out for additional stocks of goodies Halloween night.

The parade in our neighborhood topped the 100 mark with almost every youngster from Tecumseh. Very few were imports.

In making my fast junket to Al Snyder's Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Tecumseh branch, the thing that impressed most was the parade of lighted porch lights.

Almost every house had the welcome beacon blazing for the kids, giving a warm feeling to the passersby.

Incidentally, in the older days, we didn't say, "Trick or Treat," as the kids do nowadays.

Our greeting was "Help the poor."

And we meant it.

My Halloweening came during the Great Depression and as we trudged along Fullerton and then Leslie Aves., between Linwood and LaSalle in Detroit, our little eyes bugged out at each gift.

Folks used to make popcorn balls, fudge and other items that strung out the goodies and kept down the costs. We didn't question the houses that were dark, realizing they probably couldn't afford to give anything.

Returning home, just as our kids do now, we proudly dumped the loot out on the front-room carpet and carefully cataloged everything. Brother and sister trades inevitably ensued, as they did last week.

Halloween is a fun holiday and from generation to generation, the young ones seem to get a real blast from it.

MRS. WARD PERSO LIKES NEW JOB

Mail Lady Hoofs 15 Miles First Day

Tecumseh has a woman mail carrier.

When Mrs. Ward Perso, 409 W. Pottawatamie St., joined the Tecumseh post office staff she was grateful for being in top physical condition.

As a "sub-carrier" by classification, she fills in on any of the jobs.

On her first day she carried Herrick Park and the west-end route, a total distance of 15 miles.

"I f... a little t... the next day," Lillian grinned. But she was right back on the job.

Besides bringing mail to homes, she also delivers parcel post, COD's and specials — this by truck.

The mother of four grown youngsters, Lillian has never been afraid of hard work. She did house-keeping from the time she was 16 and that's about 27 years ago. During World War II she labored at Tecumseh Products, once worked at Clinton Woolen Mills and was a housemother at Girls Training School.

☆

"I LIKE post office work real well, it's pleasant and I don't think it's as hard as housework," she said. "There's something different every day."

After three weeks on duty, Lillian has carried every route in the city.

Lillian is proud of her offspring; Bill Fielder, 22; Sharon Fielder, 20; Dick Fielder, 17 and Shirley Fielder, 16.

Both Dick and Shirley play in the Tecumseh High School Band and she never misses seeing them perform at football games — here or away.

The night of the tilt at Flat Rock she rushed home from work, gobbled two donuts and a cup of coffee and was on her way.

Lillian's appointment was through Civil Service and her starting salary is $2.36 per hour. She is one of about 150 women in the United States working as a carrier.

Students Welcome

Lunch Hour Buying OK with Stores

How do downtown Tecumseh merchants feel about students shopping in the business section on week days?

This question, and others, put to the merchants late last month in a survey by city and school officials shows the merchants overwhelmingly in favor of the students.

Over the years, complaints have reached the police and school officials about the 900 or so students shopping and roaming downtown during the lunch hour.

Out of 46 questionnaires distributed, 26 were returned. Only two merchants wanted the students controlled and kept out and one of the two limited the restrictions to bus pupils.

☆

A BRIEF SUMMARY of the questionnaire and results are:

► Have a closed noon hour: 2 yes, 24 no.

► Should merchants selling bubble gum and other similar candy products be requested not to stock those items to help keep sidewalks clean: 8 yes, 18 no.

► Should police enforce bike laws more rigidly: 19 yes, 7 no.

► Should police enforce pedestrian laws more rigidly: 10 yes, 14 no.

► Should city, civic clubs and merchants set up recreation program at Community Center: 5 yes, 17 no.

► Should police warn students about littering: 20 yes, 5 no.

► Should adults be warned about littering: 17 yes, 5 no.

► Are bike and safety programs in schools sufficient: 16 yes, 2 no.

► Wish to donate funds to police to further safety education: 7 yes, 16 no.

► Should police continue to sell bike licenses: 23 yes, 2 no.

► Should justice of peace raise fines and costs for traffic violations: 2 yes, 21 no.

► Believe the actions of pupils away from home in public places, other than schools, are the responsibility of: home, 22; school, 0; police, 2.

► Believe both adults and students who jay-walk should be arrested and fined: 8 yes, 18 no.

☆

IN REGARDS to a question about losses at noon to pupils, half of the merchants reported no losses, two said they didn't know.

WHO IS SHE? — When pictures were taken last week at the kids' Halloween party in the Community Center, one last snap found this little gal very unhappy about the whole thing. The Herald tried to find out later who she was, but no luck. We'd like to know.

ALL IS NOT WELL — The Duaine Murphy children, 302 W. Pottawatamie won an originality prize at the elementary school Halloween party with their outfits of washer, dryer and soap combination. Mike was the washer, Joey, the dryer and little Nena was the unhappy box of "All."

Rusty Water Situation Soon To Be Corrected

Cal Zorn, city manager, was given permission to continue his investigation and then report back at the Nov. 18 Council meeting.

Mr. Zorn told Councilmen Monday night that all city attempts to alleviate rusty water here had failed and costs were expensive to continue indefinitely.

Three water main deadends plus the large eight-inch mains in the area, are blamed for the poor water condition. Solution is to tie-in the deadends to provide a continuous line. Consumers also do not use enough water in the large mains to keep the water moving.

Council indicated that a public hearing would be scheduled at the next meeting and a special assessment plan adopted.

Estimated cost for the property owners in the area was $2.33 per foot.

☆

IN OTHER action, Council:

► Approved ordering 1,000 Master Plan booklets instead of 500, with the intention of offering the booklets to interested parties and residents at a small cost.

► Approved an extension of a trailer permit for Mrs. Harold Hicks, 714 S. Union St.

Ball Guests Have Fun, Help Landscape Hospital

"Winter Wonderland," the Herrick Hospital Auxiliary's Dec. 7 dance, not only will afford folks in the community a chance for an enjoyable evening, but also the opportunity to aid in the group's hospital landscaping program.

All proceeds this year's Auxiliary activities have been earmarked for the beautification of hospital grounds, after the two nursing scholarships are paid for.

Committee members hope to realize enough money to complete the nursing home entrance before its mid-winter opening.

☆

AS THE fund increases, landscaping will be done for the patients' exercise garden and remaining hospital grounds. Over $2,000 has been donated so far by community organizations.

Envelopes for donations can be obtained from Tecumseh and Britton funeral homes, banks or at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Memorial gifts of shrubs or trees can be arranged by contacting committee members Mrs. Carlton Cook, chairman; Mrs. Howard Furry, Mrs. Orrie Gilbert, Mrs. Neville Hart, Mrs. Harold Easton or Mrs. R. G. B. Marsh.

☆

WORKING HARD to help insure the program's success are Holiday Ball co-chairmen Mrs. Yale Kerby and Mrs. J. W. Meadows.

The ball decoration committee is headed by Mrs. James Fielder. Mrs. W. N. Winfield is in charge of invitations.

'Soybeans for Jordan'

Carl Ringkvist of Clayton, chairman of the Lenawee County CROP committee, has announced a year-end drive for funds to buy "Soybeans For Jordan".

He said, "The thousands of Arab refugees and farmers who lost their land in the partition of the Holy Land will still have to look to Church World Service for food and clothing for a mere subsistence".

Cash gifts to CROP this year will be converted to "Soybeans For Jordan". A $3 contribution will buy slightly more than one bushel.

Gifts can be sent to Willis Moore, Courthouse, Adrian.

Car Smashed Up; Cover of Manhole Hits House

Two teenage boys were hurt Oct. 26 shortly after midnight, when their car went out of control as they drove over a loose manhole cover in the middle of Burt St.

The car, driven by Tom Velandra, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Velandra, 709 N. Union St., was badly damaged as it went over the loose cover, which flipped out and knocked a hole in the foundation of the Herbert Barnes home at 129 Burt St.

Tom received six stitches for a head injury and his passenger, Richard Graham, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham, 1105 Willow Ct., was hospitalized until Oct. 30 with a concussion.

Three other boys riding in the car were unhurt.

Tom was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law.

IN STAGE DEBUTS — Making their first appearances on stage are these five Tecumseh Players who have parts in "Born Yesterday," from left, Mrs. Duane Steele, Mike Sharp, Ed Mengerink, Bill Frownfelder and Lou Hardesty. Performances this week include Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings at the Community Center.

Some Suggestions

By TOM RIORDAN

There are several things that the Tecumseh Players might consider doing in this week's closing performance of "Born Yesterday" Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

In the lead role of multi-millionaire junk-man Harry Brock, Dr. Robert Murray could be a trifle more subdued and a little less brassy.

It's a difficult part, with more than 500 lines, but Brock's pace.

Dr. Murray tends to have forgotten that Brock need only [illegible] the words — especially in a place like the compact Community Center theatre.

Although much profanity was sliced from the script before the show went into rehearsal, that which remains could also go. It adds nothing.

The first act ran awfully long, but there isn't much that can be done about that now.

☆

ONE OF THE city's most versatile stage performers, Mrs. Tom Corkery, does a standout job as Billie Dawn, the dumb blonde who finally wises up.

Ed Mengerink, making his first cast appearance after four years of doing backstage chores, has found his niche. A natural comic, he adds real spark.

Gil Rothfuss, as the going-down-hill attorney for Brock who can spot a loophole at 20 yards," gains audience sympathy with his portrayal.

As the magazine writer, Frank Dalton was relaxed.

It's too bad that Laura Seager's part couldn't have been a bit larger. Maybe next time. She's stage wise.

Other minor players appeared a trifle stiff.

The hotel room set was excellent and the lighting of top calibre. Duane Steele and Mrs. Frank Dalton can take bows for these.

☆

TO LEARN HOW Saturday night viewers regarded the performance, The Herald sought out opinions of eight.

Mrs. Merlyn Downing, Occidental Rd. — Merlyn and I enjoyed it very much, especially Katherine Corkery and Bob Murray's performances. They were real, real good in it. We had seen the movie and we both marveled at the way they handled the roles, especially the voices.

Mrs. Donald Judd, 607 Blanchard St. — It was very good. I think the gentleman who played the alcoholic attorney (Guil Rothfuss) was exceptionally good. Kate (Corkery) did a good job especially with that dialect. Their set was pretty. They did a good job performing, considering that they had to do it so close to the audience.

Joe Mannino, 114 Park St. — We enjoyed it. My wife and I take great pleasure in attending these plays. We look forward to bigger and better ones. I saw "You Can't Take It With You" done professionally and I enjoyed the local performance much more. Perhaps it's because you know the people and appreciate the effort they are making. Dr. Murray did a terrific job, but it was perhaps just a little over-played. I know I couldn't do better. I haven't missed one of these plays and I don't intend to. I really enjoy them.

Mrs. O. W. Farver, 701 Red Mill Dr. — Delightful, really, it was perfectly delightful. I enjoyed it all. The fellow that played the part of the attorney, Guil Rothfuss of Brooklyn, was outstanding. They all were.

TECUMSEH HERALD PHOTO

LAURA SEAGER

Laura Seager was excellent. I just liked the whole thing.

Mrs. Wallace Whiting, 106 W. Pottawatamie St. — It was wonderful, I enjoyed it. Players were all good and did the parts well. I laughed all the way through. Dr. Murray and Katie (Mrs. Tom Corkery) did real well.

Mrs. Elmer Eberhardt of Britton — Katherine Corkery did a marvelous job of acting. I enjoyed seeing her. It was an awful hard play to do. I really enjoy comedies more, I liked "Girl Crazy." I don't see how they learned all that dialogue with the accents and everything.

Anonymous — I've seen better and I've seen worse. We like [illegible] musicals and, I think the other comedies were a little more interesting. The plot wasn't as exciting. It wasn't my kind of play. The language was so foul. That's the thing that sickened us. I don't think that the children should have been there.

Dick Meyers, 1008 Red Mill Dr. — Tremendous, I've attended a number of plays on Broadway in New York and the Tecumseh Players were just as good as the professionals. They did a splendid job. It was terrific, I'll never miss another play here.

Acres PTA Fun Nite Nets $800

Fun Night, sponsored by the Tecumseh Acres PTA Oct. 26, earned over $800.

With the money, the PTA will again sponsor year-end trips for the children, at a cost of $20 for each of the 14 rooms. PTA members will also be giving $30 to each class for the purchase of some item of permanent classroom value.

Last year the sixth grade was able to obtain microscopes with Fun Night funds.

Other grades purchased globes and box games for bad-weather recess times.

☆

WITH THE remainder of the money the PTA purchased books for the school library last year.

This year some of the proposals under consideration are:

► Purchase of outdoor play equipment such as a Jungle-Jim, swings or slides.

► Blackout curtains for the gymnasium so they might hold movie assemblies for larger groups of children.

► Additional bicycle racks or shrubbery.

IMPROVED WINTER FED CATTLE MARKET is a strong possibility judging from those now on feed. Bulk of the increase in cattle on feed October 1 was heavy kinds. Prices of Choice cattle sometime this winter could reach $25. For prices to reach these levels it will be necessary that no substantial increase in placement of heavy yearlings is made this fall. This is also barring the possibility that cattlemen will hold substantially more nearfinished cattle into 1964.

DOUBLE MATING SOWS will generally give you at least one more pig at farrowing. While it is more trouble to rotate the boars, your efforts will be rewarded. Another thing, don't breed gilts too soon. Rather, plan to breed them during about the third heat. Reason is that gilts will ovulate more eggs if you delay breeding beyond the first heat — could mean 1.5 to 2 more pigs per litter.

WONDERING IF IT'S TIME TO TRADE? Figure up what it costs you to own and operate the piece of equipment in question this past year. Then compare this figure with the average annual cost of owning and operating the equipment to date. To compute annual cost to date, add up all costs and divide by the years you've owned the equipment. If this year's costs equal or exceed the average annual cost, it's time to trade.

FEEDING UREA AS A SOURCE OF PROTEIN to dairy cows or beef cattle may be one way to cut feed costs this winter. At present levels, urea-corn is priced at about 60% of the equivalent amount of soybean meal. However, urea should not make up more than 1% of the total ration or 2% to 3% of the concentrate ration.

TEEN TALK

By JANICE WHELAN

Although the excitement and flurry of Homecoming is past, Tecumseh Teens still have enough to keep them busy.

Mid-term exams were Monday, of course, this meant last minute cramming for most of us.

☆

This year's seniors are in the process of helping to plan the annual Lenawee County Senior Government Day, which will be held Nov. 12.

Six seniors, Dave Lemerand, Dave Dustin, Jim Osburn, John Oberlin, Fawn Choske and your writer recently went to a planning session at Adrian High School.

Students from throughout Lenawee County participated with 25 discussion groups, each concerning a different phase.

Tecumseh Seniors were put in charge of getting speakers, discussion leaders and secretaries for the Discussion groups, Correctional Institutions, Civil Defense and county government.

The all-day session will begin with a coffee hour at 8:45 a.m., and will conclude with a general assembly beginning at about 2:00 p.m.

☆

Principal Neville Hart announced that as a result of the voting of the faculty, Fawn Choske, was elected to receive the DAR Good Citizen Award.

Fawn was one of six senior girls nominated by her class. Active in many extra curricular activities, Fawn is on Student Council, in the band, Science Club, Future Teachers Club, French Club and National Honor Society. Despite her busy schedule, she has managed to maintain an A-plus average.

Student Council decided that some money-making projects should be undertaken to help sponsor another foreign exchange student next year, as well as send a Council member to the leadership training workshop to be held in Ann Arbor next summer.

Members decided to sell Tecumseh High School Book covers and will contact the Art Club about designing them. They also discussed sponsoring an entertainment program, but decided against having the Harlem Diplomats again.

The Council plans to hold a Student Poll in order to find out what the student body's opinion is concerning "Stag" or non-date dances.

In the past the tradition (not a rule) has been that the more formal dances such as at Homecoming, Christmas, Sponge Dance and Prom be date only.

Council would like to know if the majority cares to continue in the old tradition or if students would rather have these dances be non-date affairs.

☆

The Science Club's only comment was that next year for Homecoming they will try to have their float in both the parade and half-time.

☆

Future Nurses Club is supplying girls to pass out admission cards to visitors in the waiting room at Herrick Memorial Hospital on Saturdays and Sundays.

Girls working during the month of November include Cathy Wallace, Edith Holmes, Linda Sumerlin and Marilyn Mumaw.

On Oct. 15, the club held its formal initiation of new members. Each initiate carrying a lighted candle was escorted by an old member to the head table, decorated with candles, floral centerpiece and a Bible.

There she said her pledge, was capped by the president, and vice-president, and then took her seat.

All 30 girls were initiated, Mrs. Boltz, the faculty advisor, and Mrs. M. L. Blanden, the Hospital Auxiliary Advisor, spoke to the members and parents. Mrs. Ed Boss also told about the Auxiliary Scholarship to be awarded to a senior girl planning to enter the field of nursing.

☆

The National Honor Society recently helped the Kiwanis Club sell pumpkins as a money-making project. The Society is setting up a tutoring system in which members of the Society can offer services during study halls to students who need help.

The Society and the Future Homemakers' Club will be in charge of the dance to be held after the Adrian game.

☆

GAA and girls physical education classes have recently been experimenting with touch football. A team has been chosen and a game with Dundee is planned.

☆

I'd appreciate any news you could give me concerning any teenage activities in the Tecumseh area. Please contact me at the high school or call Tipton 431-2490.

It's Game of Upsets!

As Tecumseh's Indians fell in the final minutes of play to Grosse Ile, 13-7, Friday evening, Adrian was turning in one of its best performances of the year, topping East Lansing by an identical margin.

This week, THS entertains the high-flying Maples, now 6 and 2, on Recreation Field at 7:30. It's no secret that Tecumseh will be about a three touchdown underdog.

Q. Psychologically, will the losses to Blissfield and Grosse Ile have any effect on the Indians being up for Adrian?

A. Our boys were shocked at losing to Grosse ... of course disappointed in losing to Blissfield. Early this week, especially Monday, the boys were down, no snap or pep. Personally I think they'll snap back and be ready for the Maples.

Q. During the past two or three weeks, Tecumseh has been badly hurt by injuries. What's the situation now in light of Friday night's game?

A. No question about it, injuries have hurt, and we'll be playing some boys against Adrian who have little game experience. Also, some boys who have played just offense will have to stay in on defense. This includes Mike Wilson, Bob Baker and Jay Osburn and possibly one or two others.

Q. In the past at the tail end of grid seasons, we often run into a wet, sloppy field. How will this affect the two teams?

A. Wet, sloppy fields have a tendency to equalize two teams, but I don't think it will either help or hurt the Indians.

Q. What boys definitely will miss the Adrian game?

Steve Derby has a broken ankle and, of course, won't play. We're still waiting word on Don Baird, our right tackle. He got a badly bruised right arm and we're afraid of calecification. The doctor will make the decision. Linebacker Jim Greene has a concussion and he's out. Others who will be slowed down, but expected to play are Gregg McEnroe and Doug Goldsberry.

Q. What do your scouting reports show about the Maples?

A. Our reports, and we've scouted them four times, show Adrian to be the toughest team on our schedule. They have a tremendous all-around player in Doug Nelson and Andy Fisher's passing is much better than most people admit. We've got to stop Nelson's running, and put pressure on Fisher when he's throwing.

Q. With some of the boys definitely out of the game, will you be bringing some boys up from the Jayvees?

A. We've already done this. Ron Rentschler, Ron Forsythe and Gordon Gibson already are working out with the varsity.

Last year at this time, THS was undefeated and the Indians had high hopes of dumping the Maples. They didn't come close as Doug Nelson, Andy Fisher and entourage hung a 33-7 loss on Tecumseh.

In reviewing the Indian football fortunes this week, the Herald questioned Coach Tom Fagan, whose gridders now stand with a 4 and 3 record.

COACH TOM FAGAN

Q. Is Nelson as good as they say, or is he overrated in hopes that the Maples land a player on the state's Class A team?

A. Nelson's tops, he's not overrated. He's a terrific offensive player, very deceptive with good speed, and difficult to bring down. He's equally good on defense, a ballhawk who comes from nowhere to intercept passes.

Q. What offense and defense plans are you coming up with for the Maples?

A. We'll try to stop Nelson, how we're not exactly sure, whether it's double-teaming him or simply playing a loose defense. We've worked hard to defense the Adrian offense, and believe me, it's not easy. If Nelson runs as a flanker, we'll double-team him and that side of the field. Their end Steve Rymal often is split, in this case, we'll play our exterior linebacker wide and bring up one of the halfbacks. Rymal is Adrian's best pass receiver. He's tough. As to offense, we'll go with about the attack as we've used all season, plus maybe a surprise or two.

Q. Just what are our chances against Adrian?

A. Well, Adrian should definitely be rated favorites, but upsets make football. We'll try to give them a game, particularly if the boys are up, and I think they will be.

She Tells Why Migrants Are Hired

TO THE EDITORS:

I have been reading with much interest your communications on migrant labor. I think you are being very fair in printing both sides of the story. I don't believe, however, in writing an article and not signing one's name.

In this great country of ours we still have freedom of speech and the right to our opinions, [illegible] hide behind "Name held" or Mrs. "X."

We have grown tomatoes for the past 25 years. We hear the question many times. "Why do farmers grow tomatoes and have migrants if they have so much trouble?

In our particular case we have two reasons for growing tomatoes.

We live on a 100 acre farm. John Cadmus, my father-in-law brought his bride here in 1900. He paid for this farm with timothy hay. All the tools he brought were hay tools drawn by horses.

☆

WITH THE passing of the horse as a beast of burden, timothy hay became worthless, so Mr. Cadmus engaged in general farming. In the past 35 years we have seen this business of farming undergo a great change. [illegible] married we [illegible] fair living on [illegible] acres and kept the old people besides.

Today a farmer has to have at least 250 acres in general farming to make it "pay". His investment is so great in this day of mechanized farming he must do business on a volume scale to realize anything on his investment and make a living for his family.

In other words farming, like our schools, churches and many other things has become a "Big Business" operation. Where does this leave the small farmer, especially one with a large family like ours?

He has to find some other income, work at Ford's, the Products, drive a school bus, sell insurance or grow a specialized crop.

Count the farmers today who are engaged in two, sometimes [illegible] a differ- ent from the horse-and-buggy days.

☆

REASON 1 — [illegible] grow tomatoes.

In our particular case we chose to grow a specialized crop to feed, clothe and educate our family. Tomatoes are a good cash crop.

On the other hand it's a perishable crop with many headaches. It is a constant worry from May 15 to Oct. 1, It's a terrible gamble.

So many things can go wrong, too much rain, too little rain, blight disease, too much labor, not enough labor, getting the crop to the processing plant some 60 miles away.

Is it worth it? We have always felt so but we are beginning to wonder.

REASON 2 — The investment in growing tomatoes is terrific. A farmer has to have special equipment, plant setter, sprayer, water tank, cultivator, [illegible] trailer and adequate housing that must pass health inspection.

When a farmer has made this investment it takes him 10 years to realize anything on his money. If he starts he almost has to continue to grow.

During our years in growing this crop we have had 15 to 20 acres which is considered a small acerage. We have had 20-25 laborers, which in turn is considered a small group. Therefore we haven't had the problems that many of the larger growers have had.

We have seen through the years a change in the attitude of these people. Each year they seem more demanding, boisterous and restless. We have never ruled with an "iron hand" which probably accounts for fact our tonnage hasn't ranked as high as some.

We were very fortunate to [illegible] crop this year. We have always felt these people are doing a job we can not do. We are dependant upon them. Our crop is worthless without [illegible]

☆

THEREFORE they deserve our consideration.

Their standard of living is not ours, but we can't have our cake and eat it too. It takes one-third of the crop to get it picked.

It concerns us the attitude of our friends who feel these people should not be brought here. But we notice every organization and many families in town have rummage sales as soon as they come. Of course they might better buy clothes than liquor.

The used car dealer starts visiting the camps, more groceries are sold. When we stop to think that these people have only been free 100 years maybe we would be a little more tolerant.

Mrs. Lilah Cadmus

Two Issues Have Things in Common

TO THE EDITORS:

As I was reading the Herald from front to back, I find that one of the issues (last week's) has some things in common with another (this week').

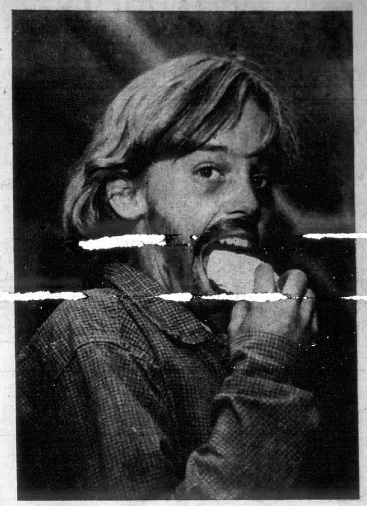
They are as follows:

1. Both read, "Volume 113"
2. Both read "Number 4"
3. Both read "October 31, 1963".

Why?

Chris Wheeler,
504 Outer Drive,
Tecumseh, Mich.

Ed's note — we goofed!



HALLOWEEN TREATS FROM COMMUNITY — Judy Ostrum munches on a doughnut during Halloween festivities at the Community Center for the elementary children. A total of $158.69 from the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation was used for cider and doughnuts for the three parties — elementary, junior and senior high schools. Another $46 was used for prizes and $39 for the dance band for the senior high school party. Cal Zorn reported that the festivities were well attended.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

First Plateau Reached

Addressed to the Soil Conservation Service at the Department of Agriculture, the correspondence will be an official application for the River Raisin Watershed project. It is being signed by Cliff Miles, Adrian city manager and chairman of the application committee.

This marks the first plateau in the undertaking, which may one day mean a vastly-improved Raisin in four counties, including a variety of lakes and recreational areas, higher water tables and an end to flooding of farm lands.

A lot of people have put in considerable amounts of work to get the application phase operative. Stretching out before them and others are mountains of additional tasks.

So far, 29 units of government in the four-county watershed area — including Tecumseh — have accepted roles as co-sponsors of the preliminary engineering survey of the Raisin.

Backing up the councils, township's board and county supervisors are 30 area organizations, all of whom have endorsed the project with official amendments.

A meeting of the entire committee will be held Thursday evening at 8 in Tecumseh city hall, with several experts on hand to answer questions. The public is invited.

Up to this point, expenditure of money is not involved. Nor by acting as co-sponsors for the survey are government units obligating themselves to any costs.

Following the government's report on the proposed plan, there would be a series of public hearings and the general public given an opportunity to approve or disapprove. This action is expected to take about a year.

If the Raisin plan wins an OK, it would be the largest in Michigan and already has prompted considerable interest among conservation people. The Federal government usually assumes approximately 80% of costs in such projects.

Question Would Have Helped

Like most everyone across the land, we were a mite shook when the Federal Food and Drug Administration branded fish caught in the Great Lakes as dangerous to eat.

The FDA statement was directed at smoked fish in bulk and plastic packages. But the fellow didn't add that, just sort of tossed a blanket over the whole fishing industry.

It was a serious business, first of all because some smoked fish had become tainted and several died as the result of eating it. Equally as serious was the fact that the government didn't narrow down the remark.

Now we come to our daily papers, which blithefully ran the government handout without apparently asking at least one pointed question — namely, does this mean all Great Lakes fish are suspected, whether fresh, frozen or canned?

This would have halted the big scare before it had a chance to blossom.

Respect for Teachers

"Today, technology has made even the 12-year-old mind superfluous in the industrial process," wrote Sid Canfield, editor of the Mount Sterling (Ill.) Democrat-Message.

He continued:

"But we are confronted on all sides by problems requiring vast amounts of intellectual power. The great immediate task is the development of this power. That is one reason why our teachers are still more important than our generals.

"There are inherent weaknesses in the American character, as well as great virtues. The overwhelming weakness is probably lack of respect for the mind.

"There is no special reason why Americans should have a tradition of respect for the mind, as far as practical operations of our lives are concerned.

"In 1776 Adam Smith said that the best investment a man could make in the colonies was to marry a woman with four children. There was so much work to do that anybody who had someone to do the work, and whose wages he could pocket, would get rich in no time.

"The aim of the whole industrial system was to reduce all operations down to the level where they could be performed by a 12-year-old child and demand very little of his attention, at that.

"Teachers all along have been classified as necessary evils, never having maintained the respect of the community at large, as is the case in most foreign countries. Compared to lawyers or accountants, for example, in our nation, teachers are second-rate citizens, and compared to doctors, teachers are just along for the ride. This is disastrous, to be sure.

"What we need desperately is a renewed sense of Western tradition, really a sense that we are involved in a living, evolving civilization. Teachers can be our keynote," his comments concluded.

People Don't Understand

TO THE EDITORS:

What can be done for the migrant worker? How can area residents help them? We repeat this question asked by Judy Fielder in her story in The Herald "Debris, Filth Left Behind".

She stated that her article "might help people form some opinions" and we surely agree with her and this is our main reason for writing this article in defense of the Migrant Ministry.

We believe that many people do not fully understand the work of this ministry and what motivates it. We would like to share with you how the work was carried out this year in our area.

The first part of August interested persons from the Britton and Ridgeway Methodist Churches met one evening with two of the staff workers, Adriana Asalgado from Chile and Haydee Lobo from Bolivia. Adriana had worked in our area before so she was not new to most of us and we who had worked under her had gained a great appreciation for her love of this work and her untiring efforts.

☆

AT THIS meeting she expressed to us her great concern over some remarks that were made to her by one of the area farmers. She had stopped to ask his permission for the staff and workers to minister to his migrants. All tomato growers had to give their permission before the staff could start their work.

He had conveyed to her the idea that they didn't do them any good. They minister to them, but don't keep coming back to follow it up and he didn't feel it did them any good. However, he did give his permission for them to come if they wanted to.

The opinion he gave her kept running through her mind and was a deep concern to her. She said to us, "What can we do to help them — it is true we go once or twice, but there aren't enough of us to do personal work with them as we should."

She said, "When I feel depressed, I seem to find consolation in reading from Matt. 25" so she read from this scripture to us starting with the 35th verse. Then she prayed and all of our hearts were full and we tried to share in her concern.

☆

THEN ONE of the ladies came up with the idea that if more churches could help, we could each adopt a camp so to speak and do for them as we saw their needs. This seemed like an excellent idea so nine churches, including some from Tecumseh and Macon were listed to be contacted.

Another meeting was called for the following Sunday at which time representatives from the nine churches were asked to be present and assigned a camp.

The first time the workers went out to their camp, at least one or two of the staff workers went with them to show them how to go ahead with the work and also to lend moral support. Another worker on the staff was John Powell, a Negro, whose desire was to go into the ministry.

He had an excellent singing voice and this helped a lot as the migrants did enjoy singing. We will explain to you the ministry to the camp of Mrs. "X" since this is the example we have before us.

☆

WE MET at the Britton Methodist Church and had with us cookies and Kool Aid, furnished by different members of the church. John was there to go out with us and after introductions were made, he asked if we would all join in a friendship circle by holding hands and he asked a friend to lead us in prayer.

Part of her simple prayer was that we go out with a smile on our face that would show our love for the migrants. The staff workers had toys for the children that belonged to the ministry.

When we arrived at Mrs. "X's" camp, the children came running out so happy to see us and eagerly awaiting the time to play with the toys. It was a strange feeling to us who were new, but we immediately mingled with the migrants.

We tried to make their acquaintance by shaking hands and trying to learn their names. Truly, as we mingled, we knew we had to work with these people with the love of Christ in our hearts for it wasn't a very inviting picture.

While some were unloading the toys, others were setting up a volley ball net as many of the younger migrants loved to play. The exercise was good for them as they had been there about a week with no tomatoes to pick yet, due to the cool weather. Can you feel with us the needs of a people living together in small quarters for a week with nothing to do?

☆

WE HAD been told by our staff worker that there would be about 70 in the camp and not too many children—all we could count during our ministry were 21, who included those too young to help with the picking.

One of our workers walked over and asked a young mother if she might hold her small baby and the mother seemed pleased to do so. She held the baby almost the remainder of the evening while she visited with the mother along with other folks.

Her name was Mary and she said, "My mama had 15 children." The friend asked her how old her baby was and she was surely surprised to learn she was five months old when she felt like a newborn infant. The baby had pretty and big eyes, a sweet smile, and her name was Diane.

Later it was learned the baby was seriously ill and as Mary put it in a sad tone the following week when asked where Diane was, "I carried my baby to the hospital."

☆

IN VISITING with Mary, she said to her friend, "I like everybody if they like me. I'll be good to them if they'll be good to me." Mary was asked, 'What do the children play with?" She pointed to a wagon with two back wheels intact and the handle and other wheels in another piece. She said sometimes the children go swimming in the creek.

Shortly after the workers had arrived, Mrs. "X" and her family came out and we enjoyed visiting with them. Mrs. "X" said that she had given the workers permission to burn off the wheat field next to the buildings so they would have a place to play ball. Surely they did need some form of exercise to pass away the time until the tomatoes were ready.

As darkness settled in, the migrants and workers went into the large barn. As you opened the large sliding doors, to your left was a washing machine setting in front of a section which had been partitioned off and allotted to the married workers.

One end of the barn (about half) was lined with makeshift beds. To the right was an open quarter for a kitchen with a two-burner hot plate and a refrigerator.

☆

IT FELT good to go into the barn as the evening air was getting quite cool. Under John's leadership, some of the migrants sang and John played a guitar. Their songs were very simple and much different than ours. Two religious films were shown and John read some scripture and talked to them about love, evpressing how very much he loved them all. The children sat on benches and were very well behaved.

Whenever they got out of line, Willie, who was one of the leaders, quickly corrected them. Everyone enjoyed the Kool Aid and cookies and then John asked Daniel Jones, the other leader, and preacher as they called him, to lead the group in prayer. He asked everyone to stand and they repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison after him, speaking just two or three words at a time.

☆

AFTER OUR first evening with the migrants, each of us started thinking of ways we could be of help to them and to

'We Hope To See You Again Some Day'

be a friend to them. We held a meeting at the Ridgeway Church during the middle of the week to collect our thoughts and ideas.

Out of this meeting, it was decided we would each go through our clothing and children's toys and bring what we could the next Friday.

The next Friday and each succeeding Friday until the harvest was almost over, we went to visit our camp. Each time seemed to include other interested folks, particularly the teenagers, who loved to play volley ball with the migrants.

We were surprised to find how much clothing we gathered each week from our closets and attics and those of our friends and ch[illegible] happily the migrants went through the boxes of clothing, but we sold most of it to them.

We had been instructed by our staff worker to charge something for the clothing as it was better for the migrants so we decided to charge them 5c an article unless it was a very small article. We surely hated to do this as this was a very poor season for the migrants and they expressed it many times.

The migrants do not earn a lot of money even though the figures given in The Herald and Mrs. "X's" remarks may have given that opinion.

One of our workers asked Willie's wife how many hampers she could pick in a day. She replied, "Oh 50 or 60 and some of the men can pick 100." We do not mean to dispute Mrs. "X's" statement that she picked 25 in an hour, but for how many hours could she keep up this back breaking pace? Then, too, how many days in a week do the migrants pick, especially this year? Would any of you care to change jobs with them?

☆

THE HUSBAND of one of our workers worked out an example to this effect: If a case of tomatoes weighed 40 pounds and the migrants got 14c a case and they picked 15 ton to an acre (which he understood would be a good yield) on 40 acres this would give $4,200.

If there were 40 pickers, they would earn $105 apiece for a seven-week harvest. We realize these aren't true figures, but a basis for figuring.

It was amazing how quickly the nickles added up and we found nothing but honesty in our dealing with these migrants. One lady came to us after picking out a box full of clothing and asked if she could pay for it next week as she hadn't received her pay yet, and of course we consented.

She was one of the first to meet us the following week, offering to pay for her box of clothes.

No one was actually checking closely to see if they paid for what they took as it was a busy time, but they would follow us around with their nickle or whatever the cost was, when they could have easily walked off without paying.

☆

ON DIFFERENT occasions special articles of clothing were brought and given, but not a great deal of this was done. An instance of this was in the case of Mary and her baby.

Her friend asked what she might need for her baby and she said, "Something for her head and her feet, a sweater, and she could surely use diapers."

So the friend had these articles saved from many years ago and gladly washed them up and put them in a sack and gave them to Mary for her baby. Also another worker had received a real pretty pink baby dress, brand new, with the tags still on it.

She didn't feel she should put it among the boxes of clothing so it was decided to give it to Mary to put on her baby when she brought her home from the hospital. It was put in a sack, along with a pair of pink and white crocheted booties and a white knitted bonnet.

We wish everyone could have seen Mary's face light up when she saw these pretty things for her baby.

☆

ANOTHER INSTANE of not wanting to charge for the clothing was in the case of Daniel Jones, who, as we stated, was "the preacher". He seemed like a sincere man and spent a lot of time visiting with Rev. Mr. Mitchinson, who is the pastor of both the Britton and Ridgeway churches.

Sometimes we would take along literature from the church and Daniel would seem so glad to receive it. One of the group's husband was a tall man, as was Daniel, so she thought of a suit he had that was in fairly good shape, but had been outgrown.

She also found a white shirt and tie and put them all on a hanger. We wish everyone could have seen and felt the reaction of Daniel Jones when he held that outfit on its hanger and turned it around admiringly.

"I surely do appreciate it, ma'am", he repeated several times. "I don't even feel I should touch it", and after saying this, he wiped his hands on his overalls before stroking the garment.

"How much do I owe you for this, ma'am?" he inquired. The friend surely hated to take anything for it, but had been advised that this would be better since it would show no partiality.

"Fifteen cents will be all right, Daniel, since there are three items", she told him, and he quickly sent his married daughter, Ethel Mae, to get the 15c. Sometimes today we find difficulty in finding humility among people, but we surely found much of it a[illegible] playing any blankets was that a few months prior, the call had gone out in our churches to send blankets to Algeria where refugees were in dire need. Many people had responded with any excess blankets.

Each week when we drove in the yard, they would quickly gather around the cars to ask if we had any covers. They would so readily take any kind of a covering such as an old bedspread or anything we might have.

At this time, other folks were running their furnaces and we [illegible] home to our warm houses and almost feel guilty, knowing the migrants had no heat and not nearly enough covers. Most all the children had runny noses and coughs.

Then one day one of our group discovered that a nearby wholesale dealer was having a sale on blankets for $1.98. We soon got our heads together and unanimously agreed to buy 10 blankets for we discovered we had around $20 from the nickles we had taken in.

This was left after we had taken some out partly to pay for the refreshments we served them. Some of this was donated, but not all. The 10 blankets were purchased, along with two more that one of our group decided to buy on her own. Our pastor happily took these out to the migrant camp.

Many were the smiles and comments of appreciation the following week when we mentioned the new blankets. It was made known to the migrants that their own nickles had purchased the blankets. We tried to use this as an example to them that if you save just a little, it quickly adds up.

☆

WE CANNOT begin to share with you the many events that took place among all our camps. We know that each person would have many instances they could relate to you, but our ministries were similar — film strips, singing, reading the scripture and praying together.

The efforts were untiring because the rewards were so gratifying. We came to know many of these migrants personally and shared in their joys and sorrows.

Many were the remarks such as these as our ministry drew to a close:

"May God bless you."

"We'll never forget you."

"We sure do appreciate it."

"We hope to see you again some day."

Daniel Jones made some heartwarming, humble remarks one Sunday evening in the Britton Church. Some of us had gone to a worship service that he was in charge of for the migrants and everyone who cared to come.

(This may have been the speech Mrs. "X" referred to in the article in which she said, "a crew leader had spent an entire week preparing a speech for a charitable organization.")

However, we didn't see how this was possible as Daniel was asked to have this service on Saturday afternoon (the day before the service).

He spoke humbly as he walked back and forth across the front of the church. He carried himself tall as he wore the white shirt and coat to the suit he had "bought".

He finished his service by saying that they had been in many places and had been treated kindly by many people, but had never found such Christian love as he had felt among those who ministered to them.

He felt it was a true example of Christianity and that what was done was in the spirit of love. He said they would never forget us and all we had done for them.

Opening the doors of the Britton Methodist Church to the migrants was another phase of the ministry this year. Each Sunday a party was held in the Britton park where there was play for the children and baseball games.

The migrants really love to play ball and play the game hard. Following the recreation they would gather at the church where refreshments were served to them by the different churches in our area as far away as Sand Creek. Then there was a time of singing and a worship service.

☆

NOW LET us do a little more serious thinking before we, the American public, can judge the migrants. We are not, for the most part, disputing the conditions found on Mrs. "X's" farm, but let us wonder why and just for a time put ourselves in the place of the migrant.

We agree that one of the most important needs is education, for it is very difficult for many of them to read or write and it was difficult in visiting with them to always understand their speaking, but through the years what has been their chances for education among this under-privilized group?

The hope lies in the young people and we do not understand the remarks about the children not going to school while here, for the parents talked about it as if the children were going.

One young boy clutched a World Geography book that had been given to him by a worker, and upon questioning him about how he liked school, the man standing with him said, "He should get all the education he could. Education is the most important thing." A local teacher had some of these children in her class.

We Americans have easy access to education, but are we utilizing it for the betterment of mankind? Are we applying our education to the kindnesses and courtesies of everyday life?

What about all the juvenile delinquency that is so prevalent today? In our education, have we lost the art of humility?

☆

THE WASTE in the garbage cans that was spoken of — it must be very difficult to plan and prepare for so many people without some waste, especially with only one refrigerator to keep things in and no cupboard room to store food.

We believe the American public would bow their heads in shame if a similar research was made on the terrific waste that goes into our garbage cans! And we have the freezers, refrigerators and cupboard room for storage!

We criticize Mary and her husband for buying a car and not paying their hospital bill, but how many of you are driving around in an up-to-date car that have no other debts on which to pay?

We don't mean to justify this act on Mary's part, but they had a sick baby that was supposed to be taken to a warm climate and we don't really know the circumstances under which they bought the car. We who are so blest continue to buy even though we yet owe many others.

☆

WE WONDER about what we knew of as only the "kitchen quarter" but was described in the article as a "b[illegible] sting a store".

To us it was the cooking quarters for a good many people with a two-burner hot plate, a refrig[illegible] and some [illegible] We were never impressed by the grease and filth described in the article.

It is understandable that the area would be somewhat greasy for without an oven to bake, everything must have been fried or cooked.

Without hot and cold running water and a neat kitchen you can call your own, where are the incentives for keeping a scrub-bed-down, shining cooking area with nothing to shine?

We agree the odors coming out of the quonset were not very pleasant and the flies were thick during the warmer part of the season, but what are the accommodations for sanitation in our migrant camps?

Sanitation to us Americans certainly entails much more than two outside toilets and one washing machine for almost 70 people. Think of the many areas that sanitation covers. It is certainly more than the matter of elimination and the washing of clothes!

☆

YES, THERE were beer cases; in fact, we worked around them, but how many of you could cast the first stone?

What of this dishonesty among the migrants? Mrs. "X" must have had unpleasant experiences along this line. However, we didn't encounter any and we are sure things could have been taken out of the several unlocked cars that sat around each Friday.

Dishonesty is another facet of our American population which is a blight to our society. Do you find pure honesty in your dealings with people today?

What about the untold articles that are carried out of our stores and factories each day, and many of these by our school children?

In reviewing these wrongs found in Mrs. Fielder's article, it certainly is not our purpose to condone them, but we do feel the saying "Judge not that ye be not judged" can certainly be applied here.

When you have ministered and worked with people for several weeks and then you find them totally condemned, there is a strong urge to defend these people whom you have befriended.

Neither is it our purpose to think or speak unkindly against Mrs. "X" and her family, for we are sure the employers of migrants have [illegible] problems also.

It is instead our hope that good will come out of this article for we too are learning and searching [illegible] more constructive ways of helping these people.

We are sure the churches took more into the migrant camps than the material goods that were left behind to clutter the farms, but the results of these other things are not always so easily measured.

☆

PERHAPS YOU, who are reading this article, would have some helpful ideas that we could apply next year. If so, they certainly would be most appreciated.

In the future, when you hear of the migrant ministry, we hope you will be aware that it is a group of dedicated people who are striving to help their fellowman in his plight.

"There is no use," you say, "they are not worthy".

Each Sunday morning, many of you go to church to worship and to learn more of Christ, Who ministered to all conditions of men. Before He served them, He surely did not ask, "Are you worthy?"

Those who served Mrs. "X's" camp.

Reader Feels Article Insulted Migrants, Work by Church Members

TO THE EDITORS:

Upon reading the article "Filth, Debris left Behind" written by Mrs. Ielder, I was as indignant as many other people seem to have been.

I feel that she highly insulted all migrants as well as the work of the churches.

My family and I have worked with another camp with the Tecumseh Methodists, but we have also been to the camp of Mrs. "X" and knew these people which were led by crew leaders Daniel Jones and William Rafus.

We feel that they were a fine group of migrants, far above some others we have known. In fact we entertained a group of them in our own home here in Tecumseh, who were brought here by Joseph Brown of Lincoln Park, a Catholic working with the migrants out of Blissfield, who wanted to make a recording of their voices and their southern ballads to use in the Detroit schools. So we let them come and use our piano. They were here a good three hours and several of the wives and children came along.

I have never met any white people that were any more quiet and polite than this group. And they were all dressed as clean and neat as they had clothes for. We gave them all refreshments and they were truly grateful.

When they left, one of the leaders said, "I guess all good things must end" and they all thanked and thanked us. It was one of this group who borrowed the cornet. He had attended high school and he had also served in the Navy. By the way, this group was also accompanied by the young migrant worker of the County named John Powers, who is a student at Tuskeegee Institute.

☆

WE FEEL that this group of people could not have inflicted such damage as was described by Mrs. "X". But here is a word of explanation as to that.

I have had two conversations with Mrs. Ruth Borradaile, farm placement officer of the Michigan Employment Security Commission offices at Adrian. She places all crews on the various farms of the county and makes calls to other employment offices in other parts of Michigan to help place them there.

Mrs. Borradaile has given me permission to quote her and this is what she said:

She told me that Daniel Jones and William Rafus have worked for Mrs. "X" for two years and Mrs. "X" had always been very well satisfied with them. Also she said that Mr. Jones and Mr. Rafus are two of the finest and best crew leaders that she has in the county and have always been very cooperative with the employment office. She felt that they would not have inflicted such damage. However, she told me that toward the end of the season that several other single transient workers from other crews came in to this camp to help out and it may possibly have been some of these who did the damage.

She also said in regard to part of them leaving early and going north to the apple crops, that these crew leaders had already signed up with the apple growers while they were up north picking cherries before they ever came down here to the tomato crop.

She said Mrs. "X" had called her several times saying that the crop was rotting and the pickers were leaving and that she told her, "You can't hold them here when they have already signed up with the apple growers, any more than you would want the cherry growers to hold them up from coming to you and your tomatoes."

Mrs. Borradaile also told me that all the migrants except the Mexican nationals, who are placed by the government, are free American citizens, the same as you and I and can leave or go anywhere they please." After all, they were not to blame that the tomato crop was so slow in ripening.

☆

MORE IMPORTANT yet! Mrs. Borradaile said, This has been a very, very bad year, both for the migrant and for the growers. The cold nights and dry weather have kept the tomatoes from ripening and also the cherry crop was so poor and short that the migrants arrived down here almost a full month before the tomatoes ever ripened so they could pick them."

She also said, "They have not made any money during the cherry season and feel that if they can get to the big apple crop, that will be the only chance they'll have to make anything to take home with them."

☆

I HAVE helped entertain these migrants from the camp of Mrs. "X" along with our Methodist crew from another camp at the Britton church and felt that it made a joyful experience in their bleak lives.

If all of you could have seen those little colored children doing relay races,etc., and receiving prizes from the hands of Mrs. Wilcox and Maynard Lucas, I'm sure you would feel as we do, that it was a very worthwhile effort.

Also, when we served supper to them, about a hundred in all, none would start eating. They all sat quietly waiting. We decided they were waiting for someone to say grace. So we asked a visiting Lutheran minister from Riga who was there to do so. Then they went ahead and ate their meal.

They attended the worship service afterward in the sanctuary and wholeheartedly joined in the singing of hymns. I'm sure these people never burned the good clothes and blankets that we gave them. They may have had to burn something to make room in their cars. I also can't see where they would have room for any mattresses in their bus and cars.

☆

PERHAPS Mrs. Fielder thinks we church people don't know that they use wine and beer. We had a crew leader at our Methodist camp, called "Dollar Bill", who was not of the calibre that Daniel Jones and William Rafus were.

He brought in liquor right along to his people. And one night when we went down with blankets, three or four of the group were playing poker with their money right out on the table. But do we throw up our hands and quit at that? No! They were cold and had very inadequate sleeping quarters.

For 30 or more people in this camp, there was one old ex-chicken coop or machine shed, one or the other about 14 x 16 feet, where they cooked and several slept in double bunks, with two small lean-tos attached and one quonset brooder house out back of that.

Many of the men slept in their old bus and two or three out on the lawn on some thin, dirty old mattresses. And you wonder why the mattresses are so dirty? Because there was no place and was too cold to undress and [illegible] sleeps in his tomato-picking clothes with no blankets on them, the mattresses naturally soon would [illegible] dy.

☆

ALSO THESE camp buildings were within 10 or 15 feet from the farmers hog lot. The water pipe and faucet from which they obtained their water, came up by the hog lot fence. This was the only place they had to wash unless they used their one washtub in front of all the rest of the crew.

The water naturally drizzled down from this pipe and made a nice hog wallow in which the old sows were happily wallowing. And the stench from this yard was overpowering and something these poor migrants could not get away from. They did have a washing machine furnished them but at one time the well broke down and water was [illegible] them in milk cans. Then the washer broke. Another one was brought in, however. We feel that these buildings were very inadequate and that the hog lot should be made some place else on the farm.

It was from this camp served by the Methodists that two people were found to have tuberculosis by the County Health Assn. They are now in Jackson Sanatorium and we have followed up with cards and money for these patients and one of our women has called on them as well.

We furnished clothes, blankets, cooking utensils [illegible] camp and took refreshments and played volley ball with them (by the way we had a dreadful time keeping the ball out of the [illegible] lot) and we sang hymns and read the Bible and showed them films. And you would certainly be surprised at how people like this could really sing those hymns. Some of them almost knew them better than we did.

THIS CREW also went north to Manistee to pick apples and would then go to Florida to pick oranges and strawberries they told us.

I feel that everything the churches and whole community can do another year to try to better the camp facilities of all these people and anything they can do to [illegible] are [illegible] worth the effort, as they go from place to place never being able to stay in a real home for long, [illegible] lucky enough to have one.

When we think that there are over 100,000 such people in the state of Michigan alone, holding up the great agricultural prosperity, by harvesting the cherries, berries, beans, sugar beets, tomatoes, apples and many many others, which the farmers could never get picked by themselves, then we certainly should give them some consideration.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carroll C. Sprague

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THE LATEST NEWSMAKERS

"Harry!! Harry! Quick, come here! Harry!". A rather rude awakening for a Saturday morning, but Mom was almost frantic. While going through the living room she just happened to glance out and now, she was desperately trying to get someone's, anyone's attention.

My bed could not be twisted around enough to see. Gram was in the kitchen with the water running and Dad was upstairs.

What was the cause of all this excitement? Nine big beautiful cock pheasants. They were strutting in Marsh's yard — no wonder Mother was calling Dad. Imagine seeing nine roosters all together. Wow.

What a marvelous sight and what a yard full of birds. Well, to make a long story short, Dad finally came rushing downstairs, but in such a hurry that his glasses were left behind.

All he saw of the nine handsome ringnecks were their fuzzy blurs. Needless to say, we all spent the rest of the day hoping for a return visit. Dad did see two fly over the house and land across the creek in Laidlaw's yard, but that was all. Quite a way to start the weekend, though. I just can't get over nine full-grown pheasants!

☆

THIS WAS apparently Mom's weekend to see birds. Just after opening the drapes Sunday morning, she spotted a flock of cedar waxwings bathing in the creek.

While she watched them, I laughed to myself. It had happened again — how often I have made a positive statement in one of these articles, and then, had it backfire immediately.

In last week's column I was complaining about the cedar waxwing's visits, how brief and far apart they were. Well, here we were with waxwings again, but who cares if they are proven wrong this way.

By one o'clock I was out in the back yard soaking up the wonderfully, and so very unseasonably warm, bright sunshine. With two waxwing visits just over, certainly the furtherest thing from my mind was another sighting.

But if you are going to do something it is always wise to do it well — if I am going to be wrong, let's be very wrong. We had not been out long until swish, swish, swish, there were birds everywhere. The cedar waxwings were back and I seemed to be right in the midst of them.

☆

AS MOM and I went to the top of the creek bank, we saw that the Sunday bathing had resumed. Our poor creek had shriveled until it was a mere shadow of its former self, never had we seen it so low.

There were, however, shallow pools between which trickled a tiny current of water. It could have been an ugly sight, but fallen leaves carpeted the dried-up bed and rimmed the pools.

It was really quite pretty. In these colorful bathtubs the waxwings were having a marvelous time splashing and ducking. So perfectly did they blend with the leaves that it was difficult to tell "what from which" except for movement.

As each bird finished his dip, he flew up into the trees for some shaking, preening and drying off. There was constant coming and going.

☆

THE BIRDS were also flying from the creek bank to the cherry tree and the walnut tree. The former was still fairly full of leaves and so spotting the birds after they had settled was a bit hard.

The walnut however was completely bare. Oh, what marvelous looking. As bird after bird lit on the naked branches we could see not only their soft brown color, the bright yellow tail bands and the black face markings, but we could also clearly see the white edging of the wings and the bluish cast to the lower part of their backs. Lovely birds and never have we seen them so close or for so long.

So it is that here at the west end of Logan Street and Evans Creek, cedar waxwings and pheasants are the latest newsmakers.

War Declared on Deadly Gas

Urging parents, teachers and the news media to declare war on carbon monoxide, State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis has called for an all-out effort to warn the public against the danger of the lethal gas which last winter claimed more than 60 lives in Michigan.

"An intensive educational campaign with constant repetition is the only way to prevent the annual toll of utterly needless deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning," the commissioner said.

"We must impress upon people — especially the young people — the importance of being aware of this danger."

"The tragic scene of a young boy and a young girl found in a parked car with the windows closed, the ignition on, the gas tank empty and the battery dead, was repeated at least 16 times last year resulting in 18 deaths.

"In eight of these instances both persons involved were killed — that's a pretty high mortality rate for any cause of death," Dr. Heustis said.

ALTHOUGH accidental carbon monoxide deaths happen at all times of the year, the majority of them occur during the winter months, starting with the approach of cold weather in the fall.

Carbon monoxide is a deadly enemy — one that lurks in wait for unsuspecting victims in many places — homes, garages, cars, schools, factories, motels, house trailers, and fishing shanties."

"If everyone recognized that carbon monoxide is present whenever there is combustion — whether it's canned heat, gas refrigerator, furnace, or automobile engine — and to protect against it requires adequate ventilation, we could eliminate most of the accidental exposures to carbon monoxide," Dr. Heustis said.

"And by adequate ventilation, I don't mean having the window open a crack — I mean a good strong draft," he emphasized.

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!
We built this one to do a lot more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines for it—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*!
And if that combination of modest weight and potent power makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.
You've also got a car with lots of room for legs, hips, shoulders, hats and luggage. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.
With its Full Coil suspension and snug insulation, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions you from bumps.
And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too. Just listen to the solid thunk of a door closing or look at the smooth metalwork. You'll see what we mean.
Sound good so far? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!
Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

'Red Letter Day' for Charles Howe Means Retirement

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Halloween was a red letter day rather than orange and black for Charlie Howe.

He retired after 22½ years as a toolmaker at the Tecumseh Products Co.

He and his wife, Florence, plan to leave Nov. 7 for Florida to spend the winter months.

In 1931, Charlie built and operated the Howe Gasoline Service Station where the Branch office of the Adrian Federal Savings and Loan Association building is presently located.

After 10 years in that business, he was employed by the Products

☆

NO STORY of Charlie Howe could be complete without mention of his wife.

Mrs. Howe, known in the area for her interest in the Republican party, has been on the main street of Tecumseh 37 years of her married life.

Soon after she and Charlie were married, she was employed for two years as reporter for The Tecumseh Herald. Then came 10 years helping her husband at the station.

The following 18 years she managed the office of Bancroft Cleaners, until 1960, when she was employed by the Drivers License Bureau in Adrian for six months.

Since that time, Mrs. Howe has been taking it easy, working one-half day a week at Greenwald's Cleaners and Laundry.

The Howes have one daughter, Mrs. John Snyder, and two grandchildren, Jan and John Snyder, 4066 Aebersold Rd.

☆

RESIDENTS of Lenawee County all of their lives, the Howes have been active members of the American Legion and Auxiliary. He is a past commander and member of the 40 and 8 and also the Masonic Lodge.

His wife is a past president of the Auxiliary, past district president and past department chaplain and member of the Petit Salon 8 and 40.

Her work with the American Legion Auxiliary drill and ritual teams as installing officer and adviser is outstanding.

Now the plan is to enjoy life, fish, play cards and have fun.

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Beland left Tuesday for Cortez, Fla. to spend the winter. En route they will go to Cleveland, O. to visit her sister, Mrs. Harold Harrington and Washington, D.C. to see Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Larson.

BUILDING PERMITS

Tecumseh Township has zoning regulations and a permit is needed to build, alter or repair any dwelling. A first floor plan is required which will be kept by Building Inspector.

Permits should be secured before construction is started.

No House Trailers will be lived in, any place in Tecumseh Township, except in Trailer Parks.

Also required is an electrical permit for any type wiring. This permit can be secured from the City Engineer of Tecumseh.

Township Board meetings are held the second Tuesday of each month at The Tecumseh Implement Company.

Halloween Decorations Greet Guests

Attractive Halloween decorations were at the door of Mrs. Elwyn Isley's home Oct. 28 when she entertained the members of the Raisin Center Extension Study Group.

The project lesson, "The People in Our Lives", was led by Mrs. James Young and Mrs. John Young.

Following the discussion each member told of an interesting experience in her life.

The club members also worked on an exhibit for the Holiday Open House.

At the conclusion of the evening, Mrs. Henry Frederick was presented with an attractive baby gift from the group.

Mrs. Isley, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Isley, served refreshments in keeping with the Halloween theme.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 25th at the home of Mrs. David Rickaby at 1786 Labardee Road.

Radio Cars Help Control Kid Pranks

Eleven cars of the Civilian Band — ham radio operators — each with two members of the Civil Defense, helped police patrol the city Oct. 31, curtailing Halloween pranks.

Six uniformed Tecumseh Police and Chief Murell Clark, were on duty.

Stephen Illeck directed the Civil Defense workers.

Chief Clark said Friday afternoon that the Police Department hadn't received a single complaint.

He expressed appreciation for the cooperation of the townspeople and the schools for scheduling parties and activities for the children and young people.

Among the Civil Defensemen helping with the patroling were:

George Van Camp Jr., Curtis Wright, Forest Abner, Doug Aylesworth, David Faling, Robert Warner, Ivan Maynard, Jim Sisty, Darwin Creger, Duaine Oswald, Ray Wright and Robert Hoekstra.

Engine Shipments Are On Increase

While industry engine shipments showed a 4% decline for 12 months, July to July, Lausen-Power Products Engine Divisions of Tecumseh Products Co. has recently announced a 3% engine shipment increase for the same period.

Gerald Laetsch, general sales manager of Lauson-Power Products, expects an even greater increase in the next period, ending June 30, 1964.

His projection is based on the order back log.

Reading Attitude Important

(Editor's note — This is the second in a series of reports by Tecumseh School District instructors, telling what they did during the recent Teachers' Institute held in Ann Arbor. The information was compiled by Miles Cowdrey.)

Mrs. Keith Swain, fourth grade teacher at Patterson School, commented on "The Space Frontier" lecture by Ralph Lapp, world scientist and writer.

She said that one of the most impressive points brought out was the fact that the United States is stressing getting to the moon too much.

"We should be trying to handle the information we already have rather than competing with Russia." Mrs. Swain said the session on "Reading Problems in Content Areas" by Richard Slater stressed a lack of readiness in children for reading. Reading standard for children are set which many are unable to achieve.

Teachers expect most children to read in first and second grades. Tests have shown that a child with a 70 IQ can't read until he is 11 to 12 years old. A child of 90 IQ can read when he is 9 to 10.

Many men do not read as much as they should, thus boys get the attitude that "men don't read." This is a fault in our society.

☆

MRS. RALPH YOUNG, fourth grade teacher at Tipton, had this to say:

"On Thursday I listened to a discussion on the topic 'Drop Out or School Leaver'. This made me think, 'Is it possible to keep this from happening in our school'?

"Children leave school in order to obtain things which they believe are important to their happiness. They do not realize that new methods and mechanization are requiring more education and technical skills.

"It was stated that seven and one-half million youth today will not graduate from high school and soon one million of them will be unemployed," she continued.

"The youth of today must see the need for equipping themselves so that they will be able to compete in today's labor market."

Mrs. Young also hear the topic "Relieving Tensions" discussed by Stuart M. Gould, Jr., attending physician at Mercywood Hospital. He stated that tensions are normal.

"It is the anxiety we have that drives us forward and makes it possible to achieve success. But we must be aware of our tensions, and learn to live with them and face reality squarely," according to Mr. Gould.

☆

MRS. HELEN SISSON, junior high school Spanish and Geography teacher, attended a session in Detroit the same day, featuring Dr. Martin Luther King, who spoke on "A World of Transition" declaring that the social order of the world is changing.

His most pointed remark was that the anthropologists have yet to find a superior or an inferior race, therefore, there are just superior and inferior persons.

Friday, Mrs. Sisson visited two junior high schools in Dearborn to hear Professor Earl C. Kelly speak on "The Significance of the Individual in the Communicative Process."

☆

MRS. BARBARA SPEERSTRA, guidance counselor at the High School, attended a session on drop-out, viewing a film expressing the feelings and frustrations of a young boy who left school for work. This film is available through the Michigan Employment Security Commission for public and private showing.

The panel discussion which followed mentioned that each case should be treated as an individual study, for each potential drop-out is a different problem.

Friday morning Mrs. Speerstra attended a panel discussion by two psychiatrists — a college professor in the school of guidance education and a junior counselor presented the problem of the under-achiever who is not a discipline problem.

The panel brought out that this person was not an under-achiever — as tagged by school academic criteria — but was a person hampered by personal problems that interfered with his conscious application to the scholastic subjects at hand.

Psychological studies show that the youngster is not an under-achiever as such, but is an individual who is not working to his normal capacity because his "subconscious" is filled with areas of doubt, fear and frustration which interferes with his conscious efforts.

☆

TOM FAGAN, high school physical education instructor and head football coach, was impressed by a demonstration of the new method of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation taught by the Red Cross and demonstrated on a full-sized mannequin.

A lecture on defensive football by Jay Stielstra, coach at Ann Arbor High School, last season's state Class A champs, interested Coach Fagan.

Mr. Stielstra used some of his players to demonstrate the 5-4 defense and the drills he uses to teach the individual movements.

☆

GERALD NELSON, high school biology and algebra teacher, attended the panel discussion and film presentation pertaining to the drop-out.

The film exemplified the typical thought processes which might be coursing through the brain of a potential school drop-out.

The film emphasized the problems of the non-high school graduate when he attempts to find steady employment in the society in which he lives.

The continual replacement of the non-educated personnel, doing menial tasks, by automation equipment was stressed as being a major factor in the plight of the school drop-outs.

RIDGEWAY

By MRS. WILLIAM WRIGHT

Around 10 p.m. Halloween a group of young people dumped an outhouse on the Ridge Rd. just north of the four corners.

Living not far from there, and hearing a racket I went to the door just in time to see the goblins disappear. What they didn't realize was that they put it in the middle of the road where it could cause an accident. Britton Police were notified, but there wasn't much they could do at that hour. It sat there all day Friday. Saturday morning the county took it away.

All this reporter can think of is that it was a miracle that somebody didn't smash into it and cause serious damage to themselves or their car.

Other than that Ridgeway had a nice Halloween. The children were out in droves all decked out in their costumes and orderly. But as the saying goes, kids will be kids the world over.

The Ridgeway Garden Club will bring the year to a close on Nov. 12 with a 7:30 p.m. meeting instead of the usual 2:30 session. The hostess will be Mrs. Nina Taylor with Mrs. Ina Palmer as co-hostess.

The MYF of Ridgeway will meet next Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Britton Church. Special Chelsea Day will be Nov. 17 with the youths taking the gifts to the Chelsea Home.

The MYF held a Halloween party Oct. 26 in the barn on the Jack Brown Farm. About 20 attended and many games were played. The refreshments were furnished and served by the group.

MRS. MAE HOPKINS REALLY LOVES TO STROLL

19-Block Walk Helps Celebrate 90th Birthday

Mrs. Mae Hopkins observed her 90th birthday anniversary Nov. 4 by walking 19 blocks round trip, to the Tecumseh Library for books.

Mrs. Hopkins, who came to Tecumseh nine years ago from Pleasant Ridge, lives with her daughter, Mrs. Hazel Coller, at 106 Muscody St.

She frequently walks downtown for groceries and to window shop, occasionally lunches at the Woolworth's.

This active senior citizen has three daughters, Mrs. Coller, Mrs. Sadie Butler of Birmingham and Mrs. Edna Davis of Detroit.

She has six grandchildren, Dr. Gerald Butler of Ann Arbor, Robert Butler of Berkley, Lewis and Earl Kruger of Tecumseh, Betty Pelkey of Brighton and Doris Miller of Adrian.

She has 11 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Besides cooking, baking and reading, Mrs. Hopkins enjoys writing three or four letters each day to friends and relatives.

Mrs. Hopkins attributes her long life and excellent health to consistently walking. She walks several miles each week.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Playing a high school football game isn't a matter of two teams suiting up and trotting out onto the gridiron on a Friday evening.

Especially when it comes to a tussle like the Tecumseh and Adrian affair.

As everyone within 30 miles of Lenawee County knows, the Maples of Adrian won the annual match last week.

What they don't know about was the intense preparation that took place prior to the opening kickoff. Tom Fagan, his staff and players spent endless hours getting ready for this game.

Tom had Adrian scouted, not once, but four times. This meant a trusted friend, who coaches or knows football intimately, watched the Maples play, charting every bit of their action.

Coach Fagan got to know Doug Nelson and his Adrian playmates probably as well as he did his own children the week before the game. Certainly his mind was occupied more with them. Ask Mrs. Fagan.

The coach took off enough time Tuesday to lunch with Jim Lincoln and me so we could discuss Adrian.

He went over plans for the coming Friday and told us how he wanted to defense the frisky Maples. His two trouble points were the running of Nelson and the pass catching of end Steve Rymal.

Adrian had a spread formation, with Nelson out on a wing and Rymal split wide from the nearest lineman. By opening up his defense, the Tecumseh coach wanted to double-team Nelson and also handle Rymal on a top priority basis.

But the biggest job of all was to psych his own kids into a white-hot fever — which was especially tough since they had been beaten two straight and were crippled with injuries.

The coach went to work Monday on the nearly impossible job.

"If you would have asked me what I thought we'd do against Adrian that afternoon," he confided, "I'd have said call off the game."

But the mentor was really only kidding because he knew his

He Seeks Integrated Worship

A former Tecumseh pastor is helping lead a campaign urging Methodist Bishops "to take a firm position condemning strict segregation in Methodist churches in the south."

The Rev. James Nixon, now pastor of Grosse Pointe Methodist Church, and his fellow ministers, hope to present their plea before Methodist Bishops of the United States, who are holding a three-day conference in Detroit.

Mr. Nixon stated, "Bishop (Marshall) Reed is in complete agreement with us in this matter and we have decided to conduct a completely positive program, rather than picketing or any other negative approach.

"If, however, the bishops fail or refuse to take any action on this matter, we are going to be asking them a lot of questions."

Harold Schachorn, Detroit News religious writer, believes that the integrated worship situation is divided along section lines between northern and southern bishops.

Librarians To Gather

Librarians at the Tecumseh Public Library, the high school and elementary schools will be hostesses for a tea for the librarians throughout Lenawee County Thursday, Nov. 14 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

All public librarians, school and college librarians are invited to the Tecumseh Public Library for the gathering.

Migrant Labor Forum Planned for Nov. 21

An open forum on the migrant worker situation, featuring a panel to represent all sides, will be staged in Tecumseh next week.

With interested area citizens welcome, the discussion is to be held in St. Peter's Episcopal Church parish hall Thursday, Nov. 21 at 8 p.m.

Being asked to sit as a panel will be representatives of the migrant ministry, the tomato growers and the Michigan Employment Security Commission — all of whom are vitally involved with migrant labor.

The forum has been organized by three area ministers, The Rev. Frank Hawthorne, pastor of St. Peter's, and the Rev. Julian Gresham, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Tecumseh and the Rev. Earl Davidson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Blissfield.

"Both the criticism and the defense of the migrant indicates a variety of opinion and strong feelings on the subject," states Mr. Gresham.

"This forum is not designed to indoctrinate or provide a platform for a particular organization, but offer the opportunity for interested persons to gather in consideration of a situation," he said.

☆

A FUROR OVER migrant workers began three weeks ago when The Herald ran a detailed story of the way one farm's facilities for tomato pickers were left when the part-time help departed.

It prompted a rash of lengthy letters, many attacking The Herald's handling of the situation. Others praised the story.

Deeply offended were people working in the migrant ministry, members of churches who went to great lengths to help the workers, bringing them clothing, treats, and helping to organize recreational programs.

NOW MOTORISTS KNOW — Thanks to two signs on the new US-23 near M-50, motorists have discovered there is a place called Tecumseh. The one pictured is at the expressway exit, just outside Dundee. Farther south another reports that coming up will be the road to Tecumseh.

Trees Come Down

Workers are busy preparing Adams Park, across from the city hall, for Tecumseh's new post office. When the big elms and maples started coming down there were groans from the spectators, who miss the shady trees. Actually, many were infected and would have been removed anyway. The big bulldozer, manned by Bob Brady (above) churned over the soil Friday as employees from Davey Tree Service (right) removed a final stump. When civic leaders stage an official ground-breaking ceremony Thursday morning at 11, they're going to be hard pressed to find a section of the property in which the turf hasn't already been turned. The public is invited to attend the festivity.

Teen Club 'Adopts' 10-Year-Old Girl in South America

Members of the Tecumseh Teen Club have financially "adopted" Rost Helena Rivera, a 10-year-old Colombian girl, through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 352 Park Avenue South, New York City.

Tecumseh Teens have promised to contribute $15 a month for the child's support for at least a year.

Little Rosa Helena lives in the poverty, bleak want and ugliness of Bogota. Her father can just read and write.

He is an unskilled workman on a construction crew and earns about 83c per day.

His wife can also read and write and they hope their children will get opportunities they never had.

☆

ROSA HELENA has five brothers and sisters and because of lack of money, she and her older brothers have not been able to keep up their schooling. Without schooling, there is no hope for any future save this continuing endless and relentless poverty.

With aid for Rosa Helena from the Parents Plan, the family all receives a lift out of its morass of want and despair.

The plan provides a monthly cash grant of $8, food and clothing and special medical care.

The members of the Teen Club are providing these gifts of life and hope.

Former Mortician George Green, Sr. Dies Early Monday

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Green-Dunn Funeral Home for George Green, Sr., 74, who died early Monday at his residence at 107 S. Maiden Lane.

He was born Sept. 18, 1889, in Lake Orion, the son of Elmer and Sarah Walters Green.

He and Carrie Crawford were married March 30, 1912, in Pontiac.

They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1962.

GEORGE GREEN, SR.

Mr. Green was graduated from the Worsham School of Mortuary Science in Chicago in 1920.

He was associated with the C. K. Wetherby Funeral Home in Jackson until 1942 when he came to Tecumseh to manage the Green Funeral Home with his son, George Green Jr.

Mr. Green retired about eight years ago.

A member of the Tecumseh Methodist Church and the Rotary Club, he also was a member of the Order of Eastern Star and the Masonic Lodge here.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Allen Ramsey of Trenton and Mrs. Wayne Hundley of California; two sons, George Green Jr. of Three Rivers and David M. Green of Philadelphia; 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

One brother, Jay Green of Oxford and a sister, Mrs. James Downs of Cleveland, O., also survive.

The Rev. Donald Porteous officiated and burial was in the Brookside Cemetery.

$10,000 Fire Sweeps Through Tucker Home

Fire, originating either from an overheated furnace or an electronic air filtering system, inflicted damages well in excess of $10,000 at the Virgil Tucker home, 1102 N. Rivers Acres Ct., Tuesday morning.

Tecumseh firemen battled fire and smoke for nearly an hour and one-half, most of this time searching through the heavy smoke for the source of the fire.

A fireman wearing a mask and breathing oxygen was within two feet of the flames in the basement without realizing it, only to discover it later.

Physical damages to the house were limited to burned and charred floor joists and wall studding.

Smoke damage was extensive, one fireman even reporting the smoke the thickest he had seen in 18 years on the local department. There was little water damage.

No one was injured.

Mr. Tucker, secretary of the Tecumseh Products, was at his office when the fire broke out, shortly after 7:30 a.m.

Behind Page One

Nearly 2,000 children of Onsted, Hudson, Addison, Clayton and Morenci collected 660 bags of used clothing and shoes for [illegible] Industries, Inc. [illegible]s provided about 4,600 man-hours of repair work for the handicapped. Money from sale of the repaired articles will be returned to employees in the form of pay checks and renewed lives. Perhaps Tecumseh youngsters might offer such a lift. Executive Director Claude W. Whitehead at Adrian Goodwill is the man to contact.

'Tis said that necessity is the mother of invention. This was true of the "Jody" haircut, too. When little Jody Fielder cut her own pretty long tresses recently, her mother, Mrs. James Fielder, trotted her down to Barbara's Beauty Salon where Shirley Brown initiated the new coiffure for little lassies who have cut their own locks.

In Marquette, the trick or treaters are allowed on the streets from 6 to 8 p.m. and all motorists are requested to keep their cars off the streets during this period.

Now we're all confused. When the older fellows start ranting about what Bobby is doing in Washington, we don't know if they mean Baker or Kennedy.

Credit the tremendous campaigns by Detroit News and Free Press for passage of the seven and one-half mill school renewal proposition.

What's so unusual about a fellow wearing a scotch plaid tam? Not much different from seeing guys like Dr. Bob Mohr peddling a bike around town.

Jack Osburn is back at the old stand, 509 N. Evans St., making him the movingest man in town.

Which is correct: Viet Nam or Vietnam? Different papers spell it differently.

Arthur Brady, the sand and gravel man, says that there were many unhappy spectators on hand when those trees in Adams Park were cut out last week to make way for the new post office.

The Air Force has a phonograph record on recruiting that can really get a fellow. Jerry Kapnick, already in, played it for Tecumseh pal, Kim Dabe, and the next thing you know Kim had signed up for four-years.

Last week's front page mystery was solved before the press run was ever completed. Our crying little zebra turned out to be Cheryl Kay Hayford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hayford, 120 S. Evans St. The little girl's daddy happened to stop for a paper and was quite surprised to see his own little one on page one.

Rusting ceiling in basement of the new library is getting attention. Action came day after Herald ran a picture of the problems — then we forgot to report the good news until now.

Off to Merry Old England Sunday went Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dalton, 906 W. Pottawatamie St. He'll be doing some consulting work for a plastics firm. Frank delayed the junket a week, in order to finish the run of "Born Yesterday."

Altar railings and pews from the 127-year-old St. Peter's Episcopal Church have been salvaged to serve again in the new Youth Chapel in the basement of the First Baptist Church in Adrian. Dedication services for the chapel are in the planning stage for next month.

Lenawee County was not one of the 40 in Michigan to merit the snow removal funds. To qualify, a county had to have 70 inches of snowfall the past year. Lenawee had 34, although it seemed like lots more. Keweenaw topped the field with 162. It's OK with us if Lenawee never has enough to get a slice of the melon.

Bet about now George Romney wishes he was back making compact cars.

Two more donations were given to the Hospital Auxiliary Landscaping Fund:

Friends in the memory of Bert Ousterhout.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith in the memory of Bert Ousterhout.

Talk about getting results in The Herald. Mrs. Joseph Rohweder says she has enough nylon hose to stuff a mattress. Those Pinky the Puppet dolls for juvenile hospital patients will have insides for a long while to come. The plea for hose was mentioned in a recent Hospital Auxiliary story.

The Tecumseh High School band will play for the dedication of the new bus garage. Date of the festivity has not been announced as yet.

Did you notice the new sweat shirts sported by the 59 members of the Cadet band at the Homecoming parade? Hal Warren rushed them to the band minutes before the parade.

Harvey E. Kapnick, Jr., speaker Tuesday night for the local chapter of accountants, is a cousin of Leland and Robert Kapnick, both of this area.

Long and Short

youngsters could be ke[illegible] 7:30 Friday evening.

By showing the youngsters that there was no[illegible] of stopping Adrian in practice sessions, he began to fan that flame of desire among his lads.

Who will forget that tremendous first quarter? This was football directly inspired by good tutoring, both physical and mental. Tecumseh nearly swept Adrian off the field — and how we loved it.

One of the most beautiful sights of the night was that punt return. Nelson booted a high one from about his own 25. With Tecumseh in a double safety setup, Dave Lemerand took the pigskin on the fly and started to his left. After about five strides, Dave deftly handed off to John Oberlin going behind him in the opposite direction.

The blonde quarterback tore down the sideline, as his teammates chopped down Maple after Maple. The blocking was tremendous. John almost went all the way.

Earlier when Tecumseh scored on Lemerand's run, a view from the end zone told the whole wonderful story. Adrian's defense was certain of an off-guard smash and just at the snap of the ball, the linebackers dove towards the center. The next thing they knew, Dave was all alone sprinting into the end zone.

There were several other interesting sidelights Friday.

Before the game, the parents of the players escorted their boys across the gridiron and were introduced to the spectators. It was fun to see the dads and moms glow with pride, although they were a little embarrassed out in all that limelight.

As they reached the end of the journey, dad might shake his boy's hand or give him a hug or a loving whack on the shoulder and mom would smile. Those parents can certainly be proud of their boys.

At halftime, spectators were treated to shows by two bands, both Adrian and Tecumseh units performing smartly. That halftime musical entertainment really adds to football nights.

TEEN TALK

By JANICE WHELAN

At the October meeting of the Spanish Club, Russell Blanden showed his slides taken on his trip to Ecuador last summer.

Beautiful buildings and landmarks, the people and dress of the country, the hacienda where he stayed and the many flowers found in its gardens were featured.

The club members were also shown a collection of souvenirs that Russell had brought back from Ecuador.

At its previous meeting the Club heard about Mexico and its customs from Mary Jo Mensing and Sharley Wagner, who spent the summer there as exchange students under the Youth For Better Understanding Program.

Members were especially amused by the modern rock and roll records of Mexico.

Officers elected by the Varsity Club include:

President — Jerry Hebb

Vice president — John Lindstrom

Secretary — Doug Luce

Treasurer — John Oberlin

The club reports that plans are underway for their slave auction of initiates to be held after the football season.

☆

Well, exams are finally over, and we're starting the second half of this first semester.

Football is also over, some may be glad about it, but as I've talked with some of the senior players after the Adrian game they seemed to feel pretty sad about playing their last game of high school football.

☆

The Tecumseh Teen Club officers for 1963-1964 include:

President — Jim Cook

Vice president — Mike Wilson

Secretary — Brenda Golat

Treasurer — Carole Winfield

The Legislative members recently elected are:

Seniors — Buzz Beland, Dick Fielder, Jim Brown and Steve Laskey.

Sophomores — Jana Barron, Janis Reed, Glenn Barton and Terry Sisty.

Juniors — Pam Bryan, Pam Spicer, Linda Easton and Jim Oberlin.

The Teen Club officers and legislative members hope to increase spirit and interest.

A free Halloween Dance was held at the Community Center Saturday for the teenagers in the area. The city sponsored the dance and the young people are grateful for the good time.

The Teen Club received a letter from the city, thanking members for paying for the boy's rest room in the Club.

☆

This Saturday the Future Nurses Club will be visiting the Ypsilanti State Hospital.

Gregg King has made the 1963-'64 Michigan Chorale. He was chosen as one of the 60 members out of about 300 to 400 other students who tried out. The Chorale will most likely be touring Europe this summer.

Gregg, a bass, will begin attending practice sessions Nov. 9. They'll continue every Saturday until the Chorale departs.

☆

It has been in operation during the home football games. Seniors work in it in order to earn money towards their senior trip. The seniors working may stay after school and fix pop-corn, work in one of the two booths, solicit through the spectator stands or work on clean-up detail.

They will continue selling refreshments during basketball season and usually during any special activity held at the school. The seniors are renting the pop-corn machine from the Student Council.

☆

Initiation of five new members was the main event at the Nov. 7 meeting of the Art Club.

During the business session the club decided to start a point system and a committee was appointed to take care of it.

Club pins were voted on and members decided to order them in the spring.

Drawing for the Student Council book covers were discussed and three were chosen. After the meeting the members enjoyed refreshments of cider and donuts.

☆

Every year he honors the football team with a steak dinner the night before the Adrian game, and this year was no exception!

The menu consisted of steak, homemade bread, vegetables, salad and homemade pie. Mr. Osburn estimated that nine gallons of milk would disappear before the meal was finished.

A surprise for both the coaches and the boys was a guest, Dick Compton, backfield man for the Detroit Lions.

After the dinner the team and coaches presented Mr. Osburn with a varsity jacket, making him an honorary member of the club. Following the presentation football movies were shown.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

I have been reading the communications about the migrant situation in the Britton area. It has been real interesting until your Nov. 7 issue came out.

This time it got sickening. Mentioning names, designating places, perhaps unintentional slanderous statements, snap conclusions without basic facts, made me crawl.

In my opinion, slanting of the truth or quoting half-truths is as bad as an outright lie. It gives the reader an entirely wrong impression [illegible] and conditions.

For instance, Mrs. S. leads one to believe that the conditions we [illegible] had here that two people contracted TB. Lenawee Health Department said that it was of long duration and these people should have been hospitalized two years ago.

I would like to clear up some of these misunderstandings by mentioning several pertinent things, namely,

1. It is my opinion, 90% of the migrant workers that come to Michigan are "Wineies" and they are going to get drunk on pay day in spite of anything that one can do. This is based on years of experience with migrants.

At my suggestion the "Crew Leader" brought the liquor into camp. I concluded that it would be better for them to be drunk here than on the streets of Britton or Tecumseh where they certainly would be picked up and lodged in jail.

Certain ones are going to get "stoned" up in spite of all the uplifting one can give them. I do not approve of it but it is one of those things, like blight. It goes with tomatoes.

At this season of the year I do not have time to bail them out of jail—I have them here for one purpose—pick tomatoes.

2. These people were not cold. There are heating facilities in each building and fuel furnished. If they are too lazy to put it in the stove—too bad.

3. I have accomodations for 32 persons in "bunk type" beds if they had wanted to use them. I think that the most that I had here at any one time was 28 hands. They tore out the bunks, threw the mattresses and springs under the trees, slept there and on the bus by their own choice.

4. In regards machine shed. This building was constructed about eight years ago at a cost of approximately $1,200. from new material and is listed on my insurance policy as a utility dwelling. I also use it for storage of hybrid seed corn.

It measures 20 x 28 and not 14 x 16 as Mrs. S. quoted. Her yard stick must have only 26 inches. Her measurements would lead one to believe that the quarters were very crowded.

One apartment was built this past year. True, one building was a brooder house that has not been used as such for 10 years. It was cleaned, renovated, and a new roof installed this season. I consider these buildings adequate for August and September weather. Michigan Farm Placement Office in Adrian OKed them.

5. Yes, there was a lot near that I had hogs in. Purpose: To eat the garbage and dishwater. Mrs. S. should have been here before I let the hogs into this adjoining lot. I chose the lesser of two evils: (a) Garbage all over the place and dishwater thrown out the doors and windows to walk through and track back into the buildings or, (b) be eaten by the hogs. I consider them the lesser of two evils.

While on this subject I wonder if Mrs. S. ever took a good deep breath in the vicinity of Herrick Hospital. I have reference to the rubbish burning in Tecumseh's dump. Talk about stench. Be sure your own backyard don't stink, Mrs. S.

6. The well did go dry. It did not "break down" as Mrs. S. quoted. And, by the way, the water was tested by the Lenawee Health Dept. and approved, "Safe for Drinking." I had to haul water for the crew and our own use too. I was not the only one and I do not consider it so terrible.

Perhaps the River Raisin Project will correct this matter and not annoy Mrs. S. in the future. The people were instructed to throw all waste water in the road to help lay the dust.

This method is used by our Michigan State Parks in the camping area. But no, they dumped it over the fence and made a "wallow" until I strictly forbid any more emptying of water near the hydrant.

Two washing machines were furnished along with four wash tubs. Mrs. S. missed three when she took inventory finding only one. A crock was installed under the hydrant and filled with crushed stone over a tile drain. With some care the excess water [illegible]ly drain away. Wash water was poured into the crock plugging it completely. Result "A" [illegible].

7. The bus referred to as OLD was secondhanded with a new motor in it. In my opinion, it was the best bus, mechanically, in this vicinity, I drive an old truck with a new motor in it. Works good too.

8. I do not like the remarks that Mrs. S. made about my "crew leader", which she called by name. In her view, because he played poker, shot craps, drank and did not preach from a pulpit, he was a tyrant. This is their way of life. I hired him for one purpose only—pick our tomatoes. This he did in a workman like manner and was the best "crew leader" that I have had for years. If I grow tomatoes this coming season he will be with me again.

In years past I have cooperated with the various Churches in holding meetings to uplift the migrant and not down grade the farmer because he don't keep them in plush quarters.

But after reading Mrs. S'. communication, pointing her finger directly at me, I am not so sure that I will be as cooperative in the future.

She has defeated the purpose with her "slanted" and distorted facts about conditions in my camp. I am not particularly interested in having Tecumseh Methodist Church Group visit my camp again and I am not so sure that I will allow any other group to do so in the future.

This subject is getting so putrid that it will be just nice to sit on a stump up in God's Country, The North, without having to read such trash.

In disgust, I'm going hunting.

Yours,
Percy Cadmus,
8248 Milwaukee,
Tecumseh, Mich.

TO THE EDITORS:

In reference to the articles and letters that have appeared in your paper about migrant labor and what can be done to help this situation, I would like to say this much.

Judy Fielder was wrong in taking only pictures of one particular place. She should have taken some pictures of the chicken coops that some of the farmers have for the labor and how many human beings are put into this chicken coop.

Thank God we have now a very good inspector in Adrian, who has been doing a terrific job in having some of these farmers to fix some of their places and to have good clean water to drink before he allows any labor to occupy these places.

If Mrs. Fielder and some of these other people that are using the migrant labor for a scapegoat would dedicate some of their precious time and education, to help some of these ministers and religious organizations abolish some of these conditions, it would be a whole lot better.

I cannot understand how all these people can see the filth, and destruction caused by the migrant labor that comes from 1,400 to 1,600 miles to help pick their crops and they cannot see some of the filth, health and morals of some of our permanent residents.

Anybody could write a book about these conditions, but what do we do? We look the other way. This is one of the worst sins in the world to criticize people and judge all the people by the standards of living of one person or one family alone.

It is true, a lot of education and knowledge is needed and lacking by most migrant labor. I read an article in a paper that even Jesus on not have the formal education of the scholars of today, that he took his directions directly from God, the Fount of all Wisdom.

As for the drinking of some of our migrant laborers, what are we going to do about some of our own wines and skid row?

I would like to quote an article from the Bible that does not apply to some of this do-goodies.

"Thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat, the blast of the terrible one's is as a storm against the wall." Isaiah 25:4.

As far as the destruction of property is concerned, I think somebody told our migrant labor about how our high society behaves in New York and they decided to do the same.

I said "told them", because they don't know how to read.

R. Montalvo
Britton.

P. S. I am enclosing a clipping from a newspaper, how our blue bloods behave.

(Enclosed was a clipping about the destruction of property by young socialites to a Southhampton, Long Island, N. Y., mansion. The 13 young men were charged with causing $3,202 damage after a debutante's ball.)

Red Stripes Hit Corn

Midwest corn has been hit by mysterious red stripes this year.

Paul Burns, Tecumseh vocational agriculture teacher sought out information on the problem from Michigan State University's B. R. Churchill, associate professor in crop science.

MSU reported the following:

Not much is known for certain about it, but this is an attempt to bring you up to date on the current situation.

The extent of red-stripe in Michigan is not known yet because corn harvest and marketing have not progressed very far in some areas of the state. Red-stripe has also been reported from Indiana and Ohio.

In Michigan it was first reported in the southeastern counties, but since then has been found throughout southern counties in the state, and as far north as Ionia and Sanilac Counties.

☆

AFFECTED kernels have a red-stripe or stripes which are roughly parallel running the long way of the Kernel. The stripes are prominent. Some are hairline in width while others are 1/16th of an inch or more wide. The color occurs only in the pericarp (seed coat).

The red color is caused by an anthocyanin pigment, which is a common plant pigment and which is found in the majority of the higher plants at some stage in their development.

Evidence that the feeding value of the grain is affected in any way is not known.

Probably the cause is environmental. Anthocyanins occur when there is an excess of sugars in the leaves. This is especially true for plants where the conducting systems have been injured so that the transport of carbohydrates is interfered with.

The dry weather, the high amount of sunlight, the high temperatures during the fall, or combinations of these, could be responsible. There is much information about plant pigments in the literature, and if you want more details, one good source is Gortner's "Outlines of Biochemistry".

Apparently the cause is not genetic. Red-stripe is not limited to any particular variety or varieties.

☆

MARKET CORN is discounted.

According to the official grain standards yellow corn with more than 5% of corn of other colors is designated as mixed corn. Currently the discounts run one or two cents per bushel depending upon the amount of red-stripe.

A discount schedule that is widely used in Michigan is as follows:

5-20% red-stripe — 1c per bu. discount.

20-50% red-stripe — 2c per bu. discount.

Over 50% red-stripe — 3c per bu. discount.

To give some idea of the volume of corn marketed in Michigan, the Michigan Crop Reporting Service reports that 35,693,000 bushels of the 1962 Michigan crop were sold.

☆

THE AGRICULTURAL Marketing Service has the situation under review. Ohio grain trade and extension representatives have asked the Administrator of the AMS for relief from the color requirement and have suggested that it be waived or that it be interpreted more liberally by the Federal graders.

An official of AMS was in Ohio last week to study the situation and it is now under review by AMS.

The Ohio people have been very generous in keeping us informed of their efforts in this regard. As more information becomes available MSU will get it to farm folks.

ODD CORN MARKING — Carl Bower, a senior at Tecumseh High School, examines some red-stripe corn that was grown on his dad's farm, 4346 Ridge Hwy. This phenomenon sprung out in the southern part of Michigan and in Ohio, apparently caused by the extreme dry growing period.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

CURTAIN UP

[illegible] old [illegible] and warm [illegible] that I am [illegible] may come as a bit of a shock, but I must admit it seems a teeny bit good to have most of the leaves down.

Without a doubt, spring and its promise of good [illegible] to come, is my favorite season. The lushness of summer is also greatly enjoyed and, of course, free-wheeling autumn has an excitement all its own.

Now, however, with the fall spectacular over, it is as if a gigantic multi-colored curtain has been raised. Our picture windows have a new dimension — depth.

It is absolutely amazing how much more and how much farther we can see these days. The leaves are fine, but they do obscure the view. One of the things we have most enjoyed seeing again is a vast expanse of sky.

The first few days of November offered incredibly blue skies, the air was sharp and clear. Huge mounds of clouds were pushed along by roaring winds. Most exciting looking.

Even the blessed rain which ended October's drought produced good looking. The dark gray sky was nothing to brag about, of course, but as the early morning lightning crackled through the air, it was pink.

And in turn these pink flashes seemed to tint the whole sky. Very unusual, very interesting.

☆

ANOTHER PRETTY sight is the view of jet trails criss-crossing an unbelievably blue sky. And have you noticed how many there are lately?

As the jets draw their icy white sky-pictures it is really more than something just to look at — it is reassuring.

With Mr. K flexing his muscles in Berlin and Castro sounding off in Cuba, it is comforting to see this visual proof of our country's preparedness.

But, perhaps the most appreciated thing about this new visibility is that we can now see what is going on, and what has been going on, in the trees.

It is absolutely amazing how much the trees have grown. We have often talked about tree roads, the regular paths the squirrels have as they work from one limb to another. They go from place to place always using the same route. If speed is desired they often use the larger branches, but if the occasion is just a mere social outing, the smaller branches afford a bit of excitement — as they are small danger and [illegible] are also added.

Well, when we think of road construction, a great to-do with huge machinery and much fuss and bother comes to mind, but quietly and with no fan-fare at all, the trees have been carrying on a terrific building program.

☆

OH, THE main thoroughfares are much as they were last year. It is on the side-roads that we have detected a great difference. Routes which last year required great leaps are now near steps and the half-safe paths are so tame as to be no fun at all.

It will take much exploring, but by trial and error, I'm sure the more adventuresome squirrels will soon find tree roads challenging enough for every mood.

We thought there was an abundance of baby birds last summer and now it [illegible] to see where they were raised. Abandoned nests are everywhere and like all home which are deserted, they soon start showing signs of neglect.

The morning doves' nest will perhaps last through one more bad wind, but certainly no more than that. Of course, it was nothing much at the beginning, just a few twigs and some grass.

The robins' work is more substantial, building with mud as a cementing agent and selecting a good site in a crotch of a tree, many of these will last the winter.

Come spring, with just a bit of remodeling and renovating, they will be ready for occupancy. Quite a lesson in this for all of us, isn't there?

So it is that our sights have broadened now that Mother Nature has blown the whistle and signaled, "Curtain up!"

Fourteen Somethings

Fisherman's Paradise Is Subject of Magazine Yarn

Pointe Mouillee, one of Michigan's most varied nature spots and a fisherman's paradise since the days of the French explorers, is the subject of an article in the November issue of Motor News, official magazine of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Author Raymond Bottom of Monroe writes that while autumn is the best time to visit this 2,600-acre expanse of water and verdant marsh, any season is worthwhile.

This is true even in winter, when the marsh becomes an expanse of ice. Trappers, much as their French ancestors can be seen running trap lines for the ubiquitous muskrat.

In spring and fall, many of the waterfowl stop at the marsh before completing their migratory journeys. The marsh offers excellent fishing in the spring and summer. During the latter season the area also becomes a playground for boats.

☆

POINTE MOUILEE'S location is south of the Huron River at its junction with Lake Erie, about 10 miles northeast of Monroe. Good roads make the place easily accessible.

Interstate 75, a divided four-lane highway, is the best route. US-24 and 25 also link with roads which offer access to the marsh.

Pointe Mouillee is ever changing and mysterious. Mr. Bottom writes. High and low water years come in irregular cycles. The water level rises and lowers through the day, depending on wind direction and velocity.

The Conservation Department reports this is one of the low-water years, which will have an effect on fish, wildlife and vegetation.

Pointe Mouillee has its mysteries, too. Once wild rice flourished, but for some reason it does no more. Also unexplained are the years when it was a showplace of giant lotus blossoms, reminiscent of the Nile and ancient Egypt.

Motor News, with the largest circulation of any magazine in Michigan, goes into the homes of 635,000 Auto Club members each month.

Miss Scampo Is Champion Guest Getter

Bonnie Scampo brought the most visitors for three Sundays during the church school contest at Tecumseh Friends Church.

Those who attended for the three required Sundays became members on Enrollment Sunday, Nov. 3.

The grand prize, an airplane ride given by Ron Van Valkenburg, treasurer of the Sunday School, was awarded to Tom Fisher, Mervin Maynard and Lynn McCollum for their exceptional work during the contest.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury CHEVROLET

Chevrolet Impala 4-Door Sport Sedan

Now how are the high-priced cars going to explain this!

Here are looks, luxury and comfort you'd expect to set you back plenty —if they came from anybody but Chevrolet.

Fresh-minted styling with clean uncluttered lines that give the '64 Jet-smooth Chevrolet its feeling of new length and lowness.

Rich new interiors with supple fabrics (sink your hand into the new vinyl upholstery of the new Impala Super Sport Series, for instance, and ask yourself if you've ever felt softer seat covering).

Here are the niceties of Body by Fisher craftsmanship like you'll find on expensive cars. And stylish touches like the vinyl-clad roof* you can order on the Sport Coupes.

Door-to-door carpeting and foam-cushioned front and rear seats are standard now in all models, including the modestly priced Biscaynes.

And there's a wealth of power to pick from. Engines from a peppery 140-hp 6 to a 425-hp V8*. Transmissions that are refined for smoother, more silent operation. Sixteen power teams in all.

Then, with all of that going for you, you've got the '64 Jet-smooth ride at work to cushion you from road noise and vibration like few other cars can at any price.

Been promising yourself luxury like this someday? Your someday is here, as your dealer will gladly show you.

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

By BARRY FLYNT

The first quarter of the school year drew to a grinding close this past week. Report cards will be distributed and mailed to the boys' homes later this week.

√

The following day, the Senior English Class analyzed the play in conjunction with their present line of study—critical reading. Those who attended the play would like to thank the donor of the tickets for the enjoyable evening.

√

A fourth cook has joined the Boysville preparation staff. Opal Sherman of Blissfield, will assist the other cooks in the task of preparing three meals a day for 200 people.

√

Mr. Duchsley, a member of the Sheriff's Department, was at Boysville recently to instruct the boys in the latest in life-saving techniques. His talk varied from the history of artifical respiration to the demonstration of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation with a life size "doll."

√

A group of 76 boys toured the Cadillac plant in Detroit on Nov. 1. They thoroughly enjoyed the trip. Only regret they had was the fact that no free samples were given out. Mrs. Sophie Klop made the arrangements for the tour.

√

√

Boysville is proud of Moe Jacobs, who scored 90 points over the season to capture the Lenawee County High School football scoring title. Moe, a sophomore, still has two big years ahead of him.

√

A large turnout, fifty-six boys, showed up for the opening practice of the basketball season. Joe Fortunato will coach the varsity this year. Pat Connors will lead the junior varsity and Mr. Sailors will handle the freshmen team.

Seventy boys from Boysville will attend a semi-formal dance at St. Joseph Academy Saturday.

√

The second quarter saw the arrival of 14 new faces on campus this past week. The new arrivals boost the total enrollment to 180 boys, the largest number Boysville can presently accommodate.

√

Boysville's "back 40" is presently undergoing a change. A bulldozer has been hired to convert this area into an intramural center.

√

The following boys have been chosen as the Intramural "All-Star team: Mike Seidlecki, Paul Scully, Barry Flynt, Norman Vandenbossche, Dorman Kompsi, Pascal Brown and Vincent Mikula.

58 Seconds Left, THS Drops Tilt

Tecumseh dropped its fourth game of the season November 1 in an upset to Grosse Ile, 13-7.

GI, recovering an Indian fumble near midfield late in the fourth stanza, drove over for the winning score with just 58 seconds left — and on a fourth down and one situation.

Until GI tallied its second TD, Tecumseh had led throughout most of the game with quarterback John Oberlin passing 29 yards to Dave Lemerand for the score in the first period. Oberlin ran for the extra point.

The Indians finished fourth in the Huron League standings with Dundee. Blissfield and GI, first, second and third.

THREE BOOSTERS . . . [illegible]ping th[illegible] 1963 Christmas Seal "Keys to Breathtaking Victories" campaign are former Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke (left) of Alcona County, Mrs. George Romney, and Lloyd Humbarger, of Battle Creek, president of the Michigan TB and Respiratory Disease Association. Dehnke is a veteran campaigner against TB, now serves as secretary of the National Tuberculosis Association. Mrs. Romney is honorary state chairman of the Christmas Seal campaign, with $1,000,000 goal.

Black Muslims Grow in India

About 100 members and guests were in attendance at the WSCS meeting Nov. 6 to hear Mildred Drescher, retired missionary, speak.

Miss Dresher has spent 27 years in India and was then hostess for three and one-half years for the United Nations.

She said that there are many new religions due to Christian exposure, but the Black Muslim religion is the fastest growing one in India.

Miss Drescher spoke of work in India, Pakistan, Ceylon and especially of a hospital in Nepal, where there were no trained nurses until recently when a class was graduated.

Mrs. Edward Beal welcomed those attending Guest Night and Mrs. Robert Bonner gave the meditation.

Mrs. James Hood sang, "I Believe", accompanied by guest soloist, Mrs. Donald Bush.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Carroll Sprague, secretary of Missionary Education.

Ushers for the evening were Mrs. Arthur Crawford, Mrs. Tracy Lord, Mrs. Don Rodehaver and Mrs. W. N. Winfield.

Greeters were Mrs. George Green and Mrs. Carlos Jones who presented guests with miniature leaf name tags.

Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Vayn-ard Close poured beverages at a beautifully appointed tea table.

The hostess committee was Mrs. Owen Partridge, Mrs. Clyde Bailey and Mrs. Merlin Schultz.

—o—

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bigelow attended the Golden Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Gaines in Detroit. A buffet supper was served in the Nau's Snow White Dining Room.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: Will your office accept only birth certificates as evidence of a person's age?

ANSWER: No. There are many other ways to prove your age. Family Bible entries, baptismal certificates, voting registration records, old insurance policies, census records, and school records, for instance.

√

QUESTION: I'm 62 and get payments from social security. My mother is totally dependent on me for her support. Is there any way that she can get benefits from my account?

ANSWER: Not at this time. The law provides payments to her only in the case of your death.

√

QUESTION: I understand that I have enough quarters to be "fully covered". Does this mean that I will be paid the maximum amount when I retire?

ANSWER: No. Your benefit payment rate is related to your average earnings, not just the length of time you have worked under social security.

√

QUESTION: My husband and I are separated, but not divorced. Will this keep me from getting social security benefits on his account as his wife?

ANSWER: No. A wife does not have to be living with her husband to receive monthly benefits.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

For years on end, it has been a great sport with men to make remarks about women's hats. Somewhere we read the quip about the woman who said to her husband . . . "When I get down in the dumps, I buy a new hat." His answer was . . . "I often wondered where you got them."

The tide has turned, and male hat makers are trying disperately to come up with something new and different for men . . . any old thing to keep them from going bareheaded.

The latest jaunty style for the sports car owner is a plastic helmet covered with tweed. If you peek over the Wall Street Journal, you are apt to see a young executive wearing a rakish cobra skin fedora; the Russians have always gone all out for fur headgear, and now the American hatmakers are working on new designs in fake fur fabrics. Who knows, HE may come home any day in mink, right down over his ears!

We do not know just what got us started on hats . . . At Clinton Woolen we do not carry ladies hats . . . we do have a few men's casual hats and caps. It surprises each year how many men still wear caps year around. Tweeds and corduroy in the fall and winter and lightweight plaids and solids in the warm months.

This will be the last week for the Blue Ticket sale. For the ladies there is a good selection of casual outer coats, knit suits and a number of items in the junior miss sizes.

V neck slipovers for the gals is another feature.

Also, at Clinton Woolen all men's and ladies outer coats have been adjusted as to price . . . downward of course.

Headlines in the trade journals this week . . . "Clothing Prices Expected to Rise with Cost of Wool". Smart buyers will buy this year.

4-H Hustlers Pick Officers

Danny Dewey was elected president of the (North Franklin Hustlers 4-H Club at a meeting held Oct. 26 in the home of Cheryl and Patti Aebersold.

Other officers elecer are:

Vice-president — Barbara Vincent.

Secretary — Mary Ann Woodard

Treasurer — John Dewey

Reporter for Tecumseh — Carol Davenport

Reporter for Clinton — Jim Woodard

Recreation — [illegible] Aebersold and Freddie Davenport

Reports, project money, certificates and year pins were distributed.

Kiwanis gifts were presented and Cheryl Aebersold was commended for having the highest number of points during the year.

Enrollment cards were completed. The next meeting will be held Nov. 25 at the home of John and Danny Dewey when the program for the year will be organized.

For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

AMAZED . .

I tell a few war stories — just like the rest. The censorship of good taste and modesty makes my experiences pretty drab. But Jerry thrills to them. He's proud of his Dad's Purple Heart!

My son would be amazed if I were to tell him the stories we never tell; our thoughts as we hit the beach . . . what it was like in those jungles . . . what war does to its dead . . . and its living.

And in other ways Jerry would be amazed; for he doesn't know me as a man who prays often. He can't realize the depth of my Faith. He has never met the brave chaplain who brought me in when I was hit.

I'll never tell Jerry all of it. I don't think God wants me to!

I pray that Jerry's may be a different world. I want him to learn day by day, step by step, what his religion will mean to him!

That's why we're a church-going family!

Adrian Scores Victory

☆ ☆ ☆ . ☆

But Not Before Indians Sparkle and Hold Lead

By JIM LINCOLN

An inspired Tecumseh 11 bowed in the season's finale Friday night, but not before they put a scare into the visiting Adrian Maples.

The final score of 40-34 hardly tells the story of the hard-fought game, played before a crowd of nearly 4,000 fans.

The Indians scored first and completely dominated the first quarter, including a defense which stopped the high-scoring Adrian offense without a first down.

Coach Tom Fagan's team marched 58 yards in 10 plays with the opening kick-off for a 7-0 lead.

With a first down on Adrian's 20, quarterback John Oberlin handed off to halfback Dave Lemerand, who in turn slid off right tackle and raced for the TD without a Maple within 10 yards.

Adrian, unable to make a first down in the opening period, intercepted a pass late in the stanza to halt another Tecumseh threat.

WITH ABOUT two minutes remaining in the first quarter, Oberlin took a handoff on a punt from Lemerand on Tecumseh's 49 and romped down the west sidelines, finally being downed on Adrian's 16 [illegible] Adrian intercepted an Oberlin aerial.

Although the Maples still were not able to move, failure of Tecumseh backs to field a punt early in the second period put the Indians in a hole from which they were not able to escape.

Adrian's fine back, Doug Nelson, kicking from his 25, got off a 59-yard punt, mainly through roll, to Tecumseh's 16.

Tecumseh just missed a first down on the 25, where fullback Bob Baker punted to Adrian's 47.

Six plays later, despite an 11-yard loss in the drive, Adrian scored on a keeper play by quarterback Andy Fisher.

The Maples tallied three minutes later after Nelson returned a Tecumseh punt to the Indians' 22. Rick Coscarelli, on the third play, raced in from the 10.

Tecumseh threatened just before the half, reaching Adrian's 16 when time ran out.

With 55 seconds remaining in the half, Nelson limped from the field after a hard Tecumseh tackle. Fortunately, he was not seriously hurt and played the entire second half without any sign of injury.

If the Indians had ideas of an upset, they vanished in the third quarter when Adrian drove 77 yards for its third TD. The drive, sputtering several times, and once aided by a 15-yard Tecumseh penalty saw Fisher pitch to [illegible] Steve Rymal [illegible] yard [illegible].

☆

THE GAME'S final tally was an outright gift to the Maples and came just 90 seconds after Adrian scored in the third period.

The gift TD resulted from the kick-off, which no one wanted to cover, including Adrian. A little sideline coaching from Adrian fans finally resulted in the Maples realizing that the kick-off was a free ball.

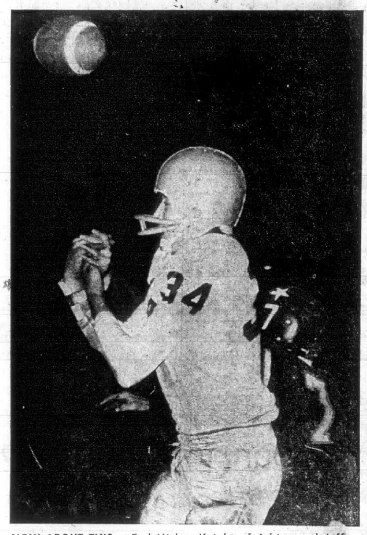
The Maples covered on the Tecumseh 10, and three plays later had their fourth touchdown with another pass from Fisher to Rymal.

With the exception of the first quarter, and a few moments in the third period, Adrian outplayed the Indians.

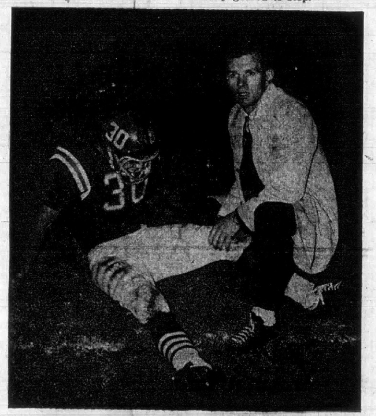
Tecumseh dominated the Maples in the first quarter and easily could have had another TD or two before the visitors got rolling.

Although Adrian came here with highly-touted Nelson in its backfield, equally impressive were Fisher and especially Rymal, the big end.

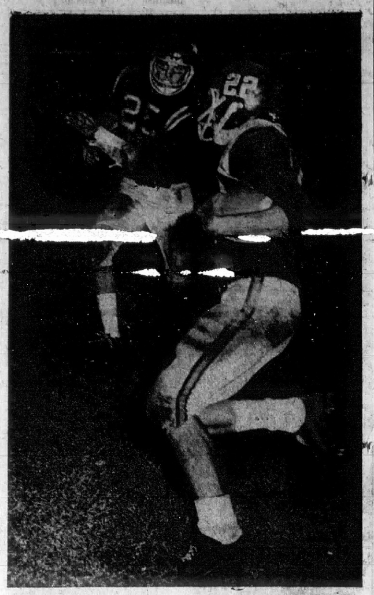
The combination of Fisher to Rymal hurt Tecumseh more than Nelson's running, a threat, however, which Tecumseh was primarily geared to stop.



HOW ABOUT THIS — End Mickey Knight of Adrian and Jeff Osburn go hand-in-hand for this pass from Andy Fisher. The pass fell incomplete, however, not because of too many hands, but because Fisher threw too long.



REALLY HURT — Both Doug Goldsberry, here with Coach Tom Fagan, and the Indians suffered when the scrappy halfback reinjured his knee against Adrian. An outstanding defensive player, Goldsberry was also one of Tecumseh's best runners in the past two or three games.



TWO CAPTAINS — Co-Captain Dave Lemerand, lone scorer for the Indians against Adrian, gets some blocking here from Co-Captain Jay Osburn. Lemerand ran 20 yards to put the Indians in front 7-0 in the first quarter.

13 Seniors End Careers

Thirteen seniors played their final game of the season here against Adrian, with eight players first string on either the offensive or defensive elevens.

Graduation will take John Oberlin, Bob Baker and Dave Lemerand from the backfield. Linemen leaving include Mike Wilson, Jay Osburn, Tom Meyers, John Lindstrom, Doug Luce, Glen Schmidt, Roy Newton, John Mensing, Tom Matteson and Jerry Hebb.

The juniors and sophomores remaining should give Tecumseh a nucleus for a strong team next season with lettermen at nearly every position.

Smoke Fills Van's Bakery

Tecumseh firemen were called to Van's Bakery Nov. 7 at 12:40 p.m. where wiping cloths near an oven caught fire.

The fire was extinguished without damage, but there was considerable smoke in the building when firemen arrived.

Tecumseh JC Start Search for Outstanding Farmer

Tecumseh Jaycees hope to secure better rural-urban relations as they prepare to conduct an interview survey of farmers between 21 and 35 in this area.

The end result of this search will be the naming of the 1963 Outstanding Young Farmer.

This is the eighth year that the Junior Chamber of Commerce has run its Outstanding Young Farmer program.

Joining with the Jaycees as a co-sponsor is the National LP-Gas Market Development Council.

"This program was adopted by the Jaycees because we sincerely feel it can improve understanding between people on the farm and those in the city," said Jim Rundell, project chairman.

☆

JAYCEES are presently laying plans for interviewing possible candidates in the area.

Names of the most promising candidates will be given to a special judging committee to select the '63 Outstanding Young Farmer.

Selection will be based on career progress, conservation practices and service to the community.

The local winner will be entered in state competition and should he win, then will advance to the national finals April 12-14 in Madison, Wis.

Girl Gridders Crush Dundee

By THERESA PICKENS
Girls Phys Ed Teacher

There was no band or cheerleaders or crowd when the Tecumseh GAA football team took the field Monday evening to defeat Dundee, 46-6, in touch football.

In the first quarter, Cindy Murphy intercepted a pass and ran to the five where Mary Jo Mensing took the ball over for the score.

Emily Manwaring intercepted another pass and ran it 30 yards for the second touchdown. An extra point pass from Miss Mensing to Miss Manwaring made the score 13-0 at half-time.

Miss Mensing sprinted for another touchdown and passed to Cathy Hall for the extra point in the third quarter. Dundee clicked for its only touchdown during that period.

A Mensing-to-Manwaring pass ended in a 40-yard touchdown. Linda Brazee caught the extra point.

Cindy Murphy made her second interception and ran it back for a touchdown, then Miss Brazee again caught a pass for her second extra point.

Miss Manwaring showed some brilliant running in the fourth quarter when she took a punt in her own end zone and ran all the way back for her third touchdown of the evening.

Miss Hall intercepted a Viking aerial to set up the last scoring play, which was a hand-off to Miss Manwaring, who went the final 20 yards to make the final score, 46-6.

Janice Linger, Diane Lake, Lee Ann Ward, Margie Barrett, Janice Matteson, Jackie Rentschler, Beverly Eggleston and Brenda Hoekstra were others on the THS squad.

Football Banquet To Be Thursday

The annual Tecumseh Indians football banquet will be held next Thursday night at 6:30, in the THS cafeteria, with Morely Fraser, head football coach at Albion College, the featured speaker.

The banquet is opened to the public with tickets available at the high school's principal office, or from Vic Lawson, athletic director.

WATCH THIS LONG ONE — Tommy Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Edwards, 500 N. Maiden Lane, passes the football in the Kick, Punt and Pass Contest staged at a recent Cub Scouting outing of Pack 4 at the Scout Cabin.

New members receiving bobcat pins included Jim Hawthorne, Jim Robideau, Ricky Disbrow, Tommy Laidlaw, Joseph Burns, Ron Randall, Donald Porteous and Loren Naugle.

Most Tomato Growers Furnish Only Items Required by Law

By FREIDA ROWLANDS
News of Britton Editor

I am writing this article in the hopes that a better feeling will be created in this migrant worker situation.

I am in a position to know that both sides — the church workers and the farmer — have legitimate complaints.

I also know that the article by Judy Fielder was not written to damn the churches or the migrant ministry, but to give as true a picture as possible to the general public as to what the average farmer who grows tomatoes has to put up with in getting his crop harvested.

Close friends of this writer have raised tomatoes for a few years and finally decided to quit growing them simply because they could not stand the constant filth and destruction and the constant worry as most of the growers have as to what might happen next.

True, the tomato crop is a good-paying crop, but we certainly should appreciate the fact that some farmers are willing to grow them in spite of all the hardships in getting them harvested.

☆

I HAPPEN to know that most farmers in the Britton area used to furnish all cooking utensils and bedding, including pillows and blankets and some furnished sheets and bedspreads for their help. The majority of the labor camps were as nice as many of our summer cottages with more conveniences than many of the workers have in their own homes.

In the past two or three years, these farmers have come to realize that this is not appreciated. The majority no longer furnish them. They do what is required by law, which includes adequate housing, good water, beds, mattresses, stove and refrigerator, for the simple reason that most of these items are either destroyed or taken by the workers when they leave.

These camps are inspected every year, in fact some of the camps were inspected two and three times this year by the farm placement officer of the Michigan Employment Security Commission and all were approved before the workers came.

I wonder how many from the ministry saw these camps before the workers came and how many would house one of these workers in their homes during the next tomato harvest, that is if any tomatoes are grown in this area next year.

I'm sure that most of our area farmers have no objections to the ministry coming to their camps to entertain and have worship services, which no doubt have helped in more ways than we will ever know.

The growers object to the clothing and other articles which were given to the workers or sold at a very low cost which enabled many of them to spend the biggest part of their earnings, whether large or small, for alcoholic beverages, which of course is their privilege as they earned the money.

☆

PERHAPS SOME of you readers are wondering by now just what prompted the writing of this article.

We happen to be one of the families mentioned in an article in last week's Herald that held a rummage sale.

Several residents of the area, as well as some who helped with the migrant ministry, feel that this is wrong.

We happen to have an empty building on which we pay taxes twice yearly, village as well as township and like most people who own property have a sizable insurance also.

Running this sale during the tomato season helps with this expense and besides we purchase used clothing and other articles from some people of the community.

We feel that this is a legitimate business as we purchase a Michigan Sales Tax license each year and are the only rummage sale in this area which pays the Michigan Sales Tax on the articles that are sold, so the State Inspector told us.

So by dealing with the migrants and knowing the area farmers that raise tomatoes we feel that we have as good a picture of the entire situation as anyone could have.

We sincerely hope that by reading this article that some people will think twice before condemning the farmer for the type of housing which they provide for the migrant.

Instead, the farmer should be commended for growing this perishable crop.

The ministry is to be commended for trying to bring a little enjoyment into the lives of the migrants, but not at the expense of the farmer.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Of the some 500 letters which come into the governor's office every day, none are more delightful than those written by children.

By now it is a firmly-established principle that kids say the darndest things. But with each new batch of mail, this principle is confirmed in a new and amusing way.

I've been collecting some of these letters, and I'd like to share some of my favorite ones with you. Here are some samples, with the last names of the writers omitted to prevent their identification:

"Dear Governor Romney — I like your speech but I did not understand it. But it was good anyway. How can you talk so much?" Yours truly, Gary.

"Dear Romney — I love Blue Birds. But there are few left. Can we help get more? Since I am just 7 years old, I would like to help to get more." Signed, Carol.

"Dear Governor Romney — Today when I was delivering papers I saw the strange warbler that is around the state. I will draw the picture of what it looks like.

"I do not know what the back looks like so I will not color the back of it." Phillip.

"Dear Mr. Romney — Your a very good governor. I am not mad. I don't care if you like it or not. You may have one like it. You don't have to build it or not. I don't care if you do or if you don't. Dean. Thank you." (The boy enclosed a picture of an airplane.)

"Dear Mr. Romney — I wanted to know if my boy friend and I could have a picture of you and your family. My boy friend doesn't know how to write a letter yet so he asked me to write a letter for him. I was going to write a letter before to you so he asked me to write one for him too. The teacher in homeroom hung a picture of you on the wall that a boy in my room brought in. Our class is studying on Lansing. I hope you will send me and my boyfriend a picture of you and your family." Your friend, Joe.

"Dear Gov. Romney — It was a pleasure to stand by your door yesterday." Sincerely, Ken and Paul.

"Dear George — I went to the capitol last month for my first time and I like it. I live in St. Clair Shores and I was visiting soom friends. When I was come home I couldn't get any sleep because of the holes in the road. I am moving soon and I would like a picture to take along." Yours truley, David. "P. S. I think you are a nice guy."

"Dear Governor — I hope you are having fun. I am. I live near lake Michigan. I go on hikes there. Would you please send me a picture of you." Your friend, Timothy.

"Dear gov. — my name is Dicky. I have sister Laurie. She is 10. And I am 8. I have sent a letter to Alvin, Simon & Theodore. The President. And Mickey mouse. And you. I got answers from everybody. The day is Feb. 7, 1963. I have a dog, Isabell. I have to go now Good-by. Love, Dicky.

"Dear Governor Romney — Sunday April 7th we were at the capitol building. In the parking lot where you park your car there was an oil spot on the cement. I think you should have your oil checked." Respectfully yours, Bruce.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Forum Will Help

If anyone in the Tecumseh area doesn't realize there is a migrant worker controversy, he hasn't seen the last few issues of this weekly.

We didn't put the measuring tape to the columns of material printed on the subject, but a guess of 500 inches should be pretty close.

Conversation about the migrants has waxed particularly heavy in the Britton area, where the concentration of tomato growers who hire such labor is located.

From a carefully objective examination, it is our observation that all sides of this situation have bona fide points in their favor. Neither is all right nor all wrong.

We always feel that it is best to have a vital subject such as this given a thorough airing. When personalities are injected and side remarks are made, in casual conversation or in print, we can see that the value of honest appraisal is being trampled.

The Herald is glad to see that an open forum on migrant labor will be held Thursday, Nov. 21, in St. Peter's Parish Hall. A panel for this session will include representatives of the migrant ministry, the growers, the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

All phases of the situation will be aired and the public invited to make comment.

We realize that the migrant situation is national in scope and that others have probably tried to come up with some concrete answers. Maybe our area could do just that.

This is an excellent public service for the community-at-large and deserves attention of people concerned with the migrant problem.

Ancient Grid Facilities

This year's gridiron wars are over. Once more the pads, helmets and jerseys are being packed away. Only the memory lingers.

Despite its 4-and-5 record for the season, Tecumseh had a capable squad. Injuries hurt at many key junctures. Certainly the school again had top-flight coaching.

In recent years townspeople have come to expect the Indians to win almost every time they step onto the field. This, of course, isn't always going to be the case. Often a youngster can learn as much from defeat as he can from victory.

It's time for us to make an almost annual plea that something be done to upgrade football facilities in Tecumseh.

First of all, more permanent grandstands are a must. These would probably cost about $15,000, but should be self-liquidating. Year after year the attendance at games has been limited because fans don't care to risk sitting on a dirt bank.

Next, the nearly 25-year-old lighting system is in need of replacement. The level of illumination is about 50% of what it should be. In addition, the lights should be placed much higher than at present and an ideal setup would be to have the poles metal and set behind the grandstands.

Finally, a sturdy fence about four-feet high should ring the entire playing field. Its purpose would be to hold back spectators. At the Blissfield and Adrian games fans were standing so close to the gridiron in places there could have been serious injury if sideline pileups of players had happened in those areas.

There is scant reason why the 1964 football team should find itself playing in 1946 surroundings. TAR

Keep Those Flags Flying

Mixed-up motorists have caused some confusion in the display of flags along Chicago Blvd. on various holidays.

Seems that the flag brackets, affixed to parking meters, looked to some folks like the place to deposit parking fines, reports Police Chief Murell Clark. So police removed them.

The American Legion has volunteered to put the bunting in place on designated days, but the question arises as to who will be responsible for getting the brackets on the meters.

Mayor Harold Easton said he'd personally handle the chore and with the aid of his son, got them up for the Veteran's Day display this week.

We certainly want to see those flags flying and hope the bracket job won't fall entirely on the shoulders of our already hard-working mayor.

EDITORIAL PICTURE

The freshly-cut tree stump had an odd shape. One segment looked like an arrow pointing towards the sky. It was all that remained of a once-stately maple along the sidewalk, next to Adams Park, where the new post office is going. This maple and one next to it came down to make way for utility wires. Later others in the same row are expected to go when parking facilities are started.

LOCAL BUSINESS

"For heaven's sake, gentlemen, the only place products and services are sold is locally!

"In our own newspapers we are most certainly dominated by local advertisers, and this is NOT bad . . . " This was, in part, the response of John D. Seater Jr., Arizona newspaper executive, to a national advertising agency's complaint about local orientation of newspaper advertising.

Mr. Seater asked what possible good is any sales effort unless it is locally oriented. "Our advertising is pitched to the local resident, and this is good." He emphasized that it was good for both local and national advertisers, as well as the consumer.

With the exception of mail order business, all consumer sales must be made through a local retailer, whatever his size. As Mr. Seater implies, any advertising which ignores this fact is incomplete advertising.

Since modern retail selling cannnot be done efficiently and adequately without advertising, it follows that any community where local advertising is incompletely utilized stands to suffer economically.

The final stimulant for the purchase of a product comes from some local promotion, regardless of the amount of preselling in national media. The local merchant who does not take part in the final selling effort, may lose in two ways. First, a potential buyer may remain unsold because he does not know a product is available locally.

Or, worse for the whole community, the potential buyer may utilize advertising of an out-of-town retailer, thus changing the nature of local shopping. Even so, the advertising which does the final selling is local advertising.

$5 Million Chemical Plant To Locate in County

By JIM LINCOLN

Prospects are improving that a new, multi-million dollar chemical plant will be constructed at the intersection of Sutton Rd. and Raisin Hwy., just three miles south of Tecumseh.

Drillers already have struck water at the Sutton site and are presently drilling a second well. The first well reportedly is rated excellent and capable of producing a good flow of water.

Failure to hit water at the Academy and Wade Rd. site, about one mile east of Adrian, appears to have shifted attention and plant desirability to Sutton.

Whether the plant is built three miles south of Tecumseh or one mile east of Adrian is immaterial, as the employment and resulting economy will benefit both communities and the entire area.

Both sites are in Raisin Township, with the Sutton-Raisin site in the Tecumseh School District, an important factor for the local schools which would benefit from taxes on the $5 million plant.

☆

NEWS EARLIER this week that Stauffer Chemical Co. was building a plant for its Anderson Chemical Division in Lenawee County excited Tecumseh and area folks.

The new plant, devoted largely to research development with some manufacturing, is expected to employ upwards of 700 with plant and equipment evaluations between five and six million dollars. It will rank second only to the Tecumseh Products in total employment and investment in the Tecumseh area.

Construction on the plant is expected to start yet this year with completion scheduled for late 1964. The site announcement is anticipated within the next few days.

Raisin Township officials met Monday night to prepare zoning changes, if the Sutton site is selected. The site adjacent to Adrian already is zoned for industry, but it would be more costly for the township to prepare for Anderson Chemical, since the roads there are not improved and hard-surfaced such as Sutton Rd.

Raisin Hwy. is not hard-surfaced, but would probably come under a township improvement program if the plant is built at Sutton. It leads directly south from Tecumseh on S. Evans St. to the proposed site.

The chemical company has an option with Robert Macham for the 125 acres on what is known locally as the "Old Sutton Place." Mr. Macham recently purchased the farm from Mrs. Ruth Browne Delker, who in turn had purchased it from Andrew Pinter.

☆

SUPT. JAMES McDOWELL reports the plant's evaluation would give the Tecumseh schools about $60,000 annually in taxes.

The Adrian Chamber of Commerce and that city's industrial development group are responsible along with A. R. Anderson, of Adrian, for obtaining the huge chemical plant for Lenawee County.

Mr. Anderson, a vice-president of Stauffer Co. and founder of the Anderson Laboratories at Weston, is general manager of the Weston operations, since merged with Stauffer and now called Anderson Chemical Division.

The new plant, besides research work, will develop organo-silicon rubber and other organo-silicon compounds.

Study Figures Should Not Alarm, MD Says

Initial statistics released on the Tecumseh Community Health Study "should not be considered by the people as a cause for worry, but rather as a source of reassurance."

So spoke Dr. Frederick Epstein of the Study.

"While the chronic conditions reported — particularly heart disease, diabetes, rheumatoid arthritis and chronic bronchitis — are common in Tecumseh, though not more common than elsewhere in the nation, the reverse is equally true: health is also common," the doctor stated.

"Thus, members of the Community Study research team can achieve not only their aim to study illness, but the ever greater goal of studying health."

☆

AT THE Kansas City meeting, the group also reported on the frequency of high blood pressure, serum Cholesterol (blood fat) levels, concentrations of blood sugar, weight distribution and lung function measurements.

"These measurements are among those obtained in the course of the medical examination in the clinic at Herrick Memorial Hospital," the physician stated.

"For this particular report, these measurements were selected because abnormal values indicate a relationship to the disease mentioned earlier.

"Here, again, such values were quite common, especially in the middle age and beyond, but it must not be thought that such findiags necessarily mean future health problems.

"For instance, persons with elevated blood pressure often live into old age without impairment in well-being. On the other hand, such abnormalities carry on increased risk.

"Since such findings are reported to the family physician, an opportunity is provided to institute treatment, if it is considered necessary, to forestall future trouble.

"The discovery of an abnormality does not by any means always predict difficulties in the years to come.

"This, in fact, is the purpose of the Community Health Study, to discover better means of pin-

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

There's certainly a lot of news around Tecumseh these days.

► New industry to build $5 million plant nearby.

► Health Study reports.

► Forum on migrant problem.

Exact site of the Stauffer Chemical Co. layout isn't certain as this is written, but it's definitely in Lenawee County and possibly will end up on Sutton Rd., three miles south of town.

Adrian folks did a grand job in helping Stauffer make its plans. Wherever the plant lights in Lenawee, it's bound to help the whole county, in fact an area that covers portions of many counties.

One of the most vital requirements for Stauffer — and almost every other type of manufacturing industry — is an ample supply of water.

An area without plenty of water will always lose out to the locales with it.

This fact alone helps to boost the River Raisin Watershed reclamation project, which will affix an enormous imprint on the entire southeastern Michigan.

STUDY REPORT

Men in Fifties Gain Spotlight

First comprehensive report on results being gained from the Tecumseh Community Health Study, presented by scientists from the University of Michigan School of Public Health, has caused a stir. Considerable attention has been received in the daily press.

They said their first round of medical exams has revealed:

► A strong association between coronary heart disease and blood sugar levels, even in the absence of diabetes.

► Abnormally high blood pressures in one-fifth of the population above middle age.

High blood sugar and serum cholesterol levels each affected one-fifth of the people, too, and the total percentage of people with one or more of these three conditions was much higher, they said.

☆

DR. FREDERICK H. EPSTEIN, a chief investigator in the U-M Cardiovascular Research Center, made the information available.

Since 1956, residents of Tecumseh have served in the first broad and comprehensive study of health and disease in an entire natural population.

More than 88% of the inhabitants participated in the first round of medical check-ups, and 96% of those asked to return for complete re-examinations have done so.

Nine investigators, including Dr. Epstein and Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., chairman of the U-M department of epidemiology, prepared the present report.

It is the first public account of the prevalance of major diseases and physiological disorders of a total population in the United States.

The report and its accompanying statistical charts give the frequency of cardiovascular diseases, diabetes, rheumatoid arthritis, bronchitis, cancer and other chronic disorders, detailed by age and sex.

☆

IT STATES, for example, that among people in their 50's "the prevalence of coronary heart disease is 12% in men, and 6% in women."

NEW REST HOME NEARS COMPLETION — Finishing touches are being made to the new Herrick Nursing Home in preparation for the dedication and open house, which comes Dec. 1. Twenty-five patients will be housed in the $220,000 facility, which includes L-shaped building, equipment and the passageway which connects it to the hospital. The rest home, completely self-contained, has a living room, dining room, hobby room, chapel and kitchen, in addition to patients' private rooms. Burrows Co. of Chicago, surgical suppliers, furnished the new home.

City Cooperates in Aiding Plant

Anxious to have another industry locate near Tecumseh, Council agreed Monday night to put Rogers Hwy., from M-50 to Raisin Township, in class A condition.

Improvement of the road was requested by people helping locate Stauffer Chemical Co. in Lenawee County, since Rogers would be the prime truck entry from the north if the Sutton Rd. site is selected.

Council said that the Rogers work would be done if the industry is built on Sutton.

The cost to improve the 3,700 feet of Rogers within city limits is not exactly known, but would probably run about $10,000 plus an unknown amount for grading.

☆

CITY MANAGER Cal Zorn said that the city has earmarked an annual $32,000 for the street construction program and that this is where the money would come from.

Even if the Rogers work is done, the tentatively planned one block of paving on Shawnee St., Evans to Ottawa Sts., and the work on N. Union from Brown St. to north of Nokomis St., would probably still be done next spring and summer.

A class A road means that trucks with unlimited loads may safely use it.

Rogers was turned into class A conditions from the city limits to Palmyra in the past several years by the county. The final link, from south of Blood Rd. to M-50, is the only sub-par section.

$76,258

It's going to be a buying Christmas for 891 members of the United Savings Bank's 1963 Christmas Club.

Checks totaling $76,258 went into the mail last week to folks who had been putting aside from 25c to $10 a week since last Yule for this year's Christmas.

Usually Pure Water Looks Like Coffee

Complaints on condition of city water flooded city hall Monday.

Instead of the usual pure and clear variety, householders and business places found their taps spewing out clouded and discolored water.

By Monday evening, the situation had been corrected, City Manager Cal Zorn assured Council.

The trouble was caused by the fact that city wells No. 1 and 3 at Ed Nelson Field had to be turned off three weeks ago due to a broken main nearby.

The pipe was repaired Monday and the two wells turned back on.

"We had coffee coming up," mused Mr. Zorn. "Calls came in quite fast after 11 o'clock."

Fire hydrants were opened and much of the sediment that had collected in the pipes was flushed away.

Next Week's Herald Will Carry Christmas Section

Next week's Herald will be printed one day early and include a special Christmas Shopping section. Stories and correspondence should be in The Herald office on Friday if possible. Advertising copy will be picked up Thursday and Friday.

The panel will include:

► Neil Cooper of Detroit, assistant chief of farm labor service in the Employment Services Division of the Michigan Employment Security Division.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"May I give you some news," said the voice over the phone early Wednesday morning, "My husband is so happy, I just had to call."

Seems Charles Sinkey arrived home Tuesday evening with a nine-point buck that he shot Monday near Lupton while hunting with his father, Elmer Sinkey, and Orval Thomas of Eliot.

Like many a true-blooded hunter, this is the first buck he has taken from the woods in a long time, probably seven or eight years. Plans are to use the hide for deerskin gloves for his four daughters.

The Sinkey family lives at 1001 Murray Dr., and the elation exemplifies that of many marksmen who were fortunate this season.

√

Max Skinner, Pat Murphy, Bud Cleveland and Cal Zorn arrived home Friday after hunting at Sidnaw in the upper peninsula. Cleveland and Zorn both brought deer home. Murphy got one but had to leave it. It seems he hit one with the car while driving the party to the north woods. They had to stay in Clare while repairs were made before continuing on their trip. Tough luck, Pat.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Green and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Green are hunting near Lewiston. They are expected home Wednesday evening.

√

Gene Skinner and son, Douglas, are also hunting near Lewiston. This is the first time out for Douglas. Others in the party are Gary Mack of Brooklyn, David Mack and Troy Wallace.

√

Dr. Gerald Butler of Ann Arbor was a luncheon guest of his aunt, Mrs. Hazel Coller, and his grandmother, Mrs. Mae Hopkins, Tuesday.

√

Mrs. Jens Houborg is in Chicago visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank Klapperich, and family.

Another Tipton man, Harold Lamb, 10808 Beebe Hwy., shot an eight-pointer that weighed 180 pounds with a .22 magnum through the heart. 150,000 Migrant Children Condemned to Ignorance

By JUDY FIELDER

Migrant — a simple seven-letter word — spells complex problems for everyone involved, farmers, workers, churches, educators, etc.

The 150,000 migrant children in the country are referred to as "the most educationally deprived group of children in our nation" in a pamphlet issued by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare "Selected State Programs in Migrant Education."

They enter school late, have poor attendance, slow progress and drop out early.

Plight of these children is a national problem, since illiteracy nearly condemns them to a life of ignorance, poverty and welfare.

☆

REASONS GIVEN for poor school attendance (prime factor in substandard education) of these children are:

► Lack of education and attitude of migrant parents.

► Child's earnings needed by family (diminishing).

► Language barrier.

► Lack of acceptance by community.

► Older children must care for younger ones while parents work.

► Failure of schools to enforce child labor laws.

► Lack of adequate school facilities and record transfers.

California has a system where the child receives a school-addressed postcard to present at the next school he attends.

Moving from community to community keeps the child out of school and it is not uncommon for the family to move on the spur of the moment without notifying schools.

☆

INTERSTATE agreements on information to be given on transfer records and methods of sending records from school to school are two items listed in urgent need.

► High rate of scholastic retardation (not ability) among migrant children.

► Lack of proper food or clothing. School lunches are a drawing card. Reports from Colorado says, "The value of the school lunch to children of low income families and those from economically depressed areas is tremendous.

The meal at school is, in many cases, the only real meal they get all day, and almost without exception it is the only nutritionally balanced one.

Truancy and discipline problems have consistently diminshed where a good lunch is available and a special effort is made to see that all children needing a lunch get it."

Specially operated summer schools have helped children catch up.

☆

THE BOOKLET ended with statements typical of survey answers under several headings.

Attitudes listed were:

► Do-gooders must be avoided.

► True and total facts of the need for education are its best supporting instruments.

► There are educators, as there are clinics, too reluse to believe short-term school attendance worth the effort and expense.

► More parents send children to school when it is available and when they feel welcome. More effective ways need to be developed for communicating with the families.

► Teachers in training at Bucknell University in Pennsylvania have a committee on migrant children. These young prospective teachers are eagerly offering their services.

Education, complicated, long-term and costly, still seems to be the best way to help the migrant worker.

Architect James Smith Has All-Metal Sail Plane Ready for 1964 National

Jim Smith, local architect and sail plane enthusiast, says that he felt there was a great possibility that the National Soaring Championship Contest would be held in Adrian in 1964.

He continued, "Adrian has a lot to offer in the way of facilities and previous contests have been held either on the east or west coasts, none in the middle west."

First place winner in the 1963 Midwest Soaring Meet and first in the '61 National event, Mr. Smith continued, "I like the idea of having the 1964 meet here. I understand the bid from Adrian includes the use of the college dormitories and eating facilities, which will mean a lot when at least 400 people are directly involved in the meet."

Mr. Smith has a new all-metal sail plane, a Sisu, manufactured in Greenville, S. C., which he expects to enter in the competition.

JIM SMITH

He said that the new plane, with a 50-foot wing span, is the highest performing sail plane in the world.

Besides himself, the architect said that there are about six from the Detroit-Toledo area who will be in on the competition next summer.

Naturally if the meet is held at the Adrian Municipal Airport, travel will be a breeze for these contestants.

☆

THE ADRIAN Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the bid to host the National Meet for the Midwest Soaring Club which will bring more than 125 pilots to Adrian from June 30 to July 9.

Bids have also been submitted by soaring clubs in New York, New Mexico and California.

The site is expected to be designated by the Soaring Society of America before the end of the year.

Hear Superintendent

The St. Elizabeth Rosary Altar Society meeting held Nov. 6, featured the Very Reverend Monsignor Vincent J. Horkan, PhD, as speaker.

Monsignor Horkan, the superintendent of the archdiocese of Detroit Catholic schools, spoke on "Your Parochial Schools."

Information was presented on the administration, growth and development of parochial schools in the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Of great interest to all the members present were the facts that in the eight counties comprising the Archdiocese of Detroit, over 200,000 children are enrolled in Catholic schools.

Over 3,350 religious teachers, priests, nuns and brothers, and more than 1,500 lay teachers, provide for their education.

☆

AT THE Society meeting, there were 60 members and one guest, Mrs. Helen Burcket, present.

Mrs. Charles Allen reported the success of the recent card party. Mrs. Louis Schneider said that the next NCCW Deanery meeting will be held Dec. 8 at St. Alphonsus Church in Deerfield.

Mrs. Benjamin McWilliams reminded the ladies that a supply of Christmas cards is still available.

The next Rosary Altar Society meeting will be a Christmas party Dec. 4. New Christmas religious articles will be on display. There will be a $1 gift exchange.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. James Beardsley, chairman and Mrs. Edward DeLisle, Mrs. Morgan Ford, Mrs. Charles Fitch, Mrs. Burt Folk, Mrs. Joseph Forgacs and Mrs. Fred Frolich.

The Monroe Lenawee Deanery of National Council of Catholic Women, staged a district meeting at St. Elizabeth, Tuesday, Nov. 19.

After our "The Tecumseh Herald, Lenawee County's Oldest Newspaper serving Tecumseh, Britton, Ridgeway, Macon and Tipton," Mrs. Osburn added "and Holloway."

Would that we had a correspondent from there, that we might do a better job of serving Holloway. Any applicants?

At the recent Student Council meeting, members unanimously decided to give special recognition to the Music Makers Club, as being a benefit to our school and community.

The Tecumseh High School Student Council recently conducted a student opinaire to determine whether the Homecoming Dance, the Senior Christmas Party, the Sponge Dance, and the Junior Prom should be continued as couple dances or should become stag affairs.

The results were:

For continuation of the traditional couple affair — 379
Against — 190.

This indicates that a majority of 183 are in favor of continuing the couple dances. A total of 310 pupils did not vote, of whom 75 were absent. Thus 235 pupils did not care enough either way.

These four dances have been held as couple affairs for so many years that they have become a tradition as such.

☆

At the last National Honors Society meeting, Jim Beardsley gave a talk on the legal profession. He related to the members the background necessary for practicing law, the cost of such an education, and various things concerning the career itself.

The Michigan Math Test was given Nov. 14 to all students at Tecumseh High School who wished to participate.

This is a Competitive Test, open to all Michigan Students. Finalists are chosen from the top scores throughout the state, and those selected as finalists are eligible for Scholarships.

☆

The Teen Club had a group of square dancers from Brighton, who call themselves the Kollide-a-scopes, November 16. This is one of the various things which the Teen Club will be sponsoring throughout the year. The main reason is to have a variation of activities to accommodate and enthuse the teens in the Tecumseh area.

An art-project by the French Club is underway.

Members will frame a set of famous French painting reproductions purchased with club funds.

This set will be used in the French classroom and also for special display use.

☆

The Future Teachers Club re-cently held an initiation of new members. The club holds both a formal and informal initiation.

The purpose of the organization is to help the members to learn about teaching. In line with this purpose, the club has set up a cadet teaching system. In this system a member of the club goes twice a week to help a teacher. They tell stories, help individual students, and work with displays. About all of the membership is able to participate in this activity.

Club Studies Civil War Vets Buried in Brookside

A lesson in "Living Color" was given by Mrs. Richard Whelan and Mrs. David Oosterhout to 12 members of the Tri-town Extension Study Club during their meeting at the home of Mrs. Ted Sisson.

The group made room arrangements using the simple rules of color harmony.

Roll call was answered by each person reciting the Creed by memory.

During the business meeting, conducted by president Mrs. Larry Kanous, the club voted to send a donation to Stanley Packard to help defray expenses of preparing Christmas toys for needy children.

They also sent a donation to CARE and the USS Hope.

The club is undertaking a study of all Civil War veterans buried in Brookside Cemetery.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sisson.

Nursery Class Has Openings

Mrs. Warren Puffer announced Tuesday that there are still openings for children in the local Nursery School at the Presbyterian Church.

Due to some families moving from the city and drop-outs, classes held three days a week may still be entered by youngsters who have reached their third birthday anniversary by Sept. 1, 1963, through five years of age.

Parents may enroll children at the church any Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 9 until 11:15 a.m.

Nursery School develops potentials, broadens horizons, helps the child to learn to live and play better in the society in which he lives, according to Mrs. Puffer, instructor.

ALCOHOL IN LIQUID FEED supplements for ruminant animals has proven successful in nation-wide college trials. A liquid feed of alcohol, urea nitrogen, molasses, phosphoric acid and trace minerals has shown advantages both as a supplement to low-cost roughages or to bolster full-grain roughages. Cattle in Iowa tests fed a ration containing alcohol put on 3.33 pounds of gain per head per day compared with 3.21 pounds without alcohol. Feed cost per pound of gain was 13.8c; 14.2c without alcohol.

BETTER BUY SOYBEAN SEED NOW, especially if you are planning on planting one of the new varieties resistant to phytophthora rot next spring. New resistant varieties are Clark 63, Harosoy 63 and Lindarin 63. Since they are available for the first time supplies are likely to be limited. Insist on certified seed, otherwise you have no way of telling whether they are the resistant strains of their parent - Clark, Harosoy and Lindarin varieties.

GALVANIZED STEEL STRAND FENCES help add to the appearance of your farmstead. Yet they generally cost less than plank or board fences. Although the cost is higher than for conventional woven and barbed wire fencing, it has several advantages. It has higher durability and needs less maintenance. There's less danger of damage to livestock, too. Other than the usual equipment no special tools are required for erection either.

ELECTRONIC COMPUTERS show promise for use in farm record keeping services. One economist estimates commercial cost accounting firms have to charge about $200 to make a profit, though. However, one farmer reports records add $500 to his annual income. Value of this service depends on type of farm and extent of a farmer's records.

ONE REASON OXYGEN MASKS ARE NEEDED — Don Purkey gasps for air as he comes out of the smoke-filled basement of the Virgil Tucker home where he was trying to locate the source of the fire. Two new oxygen masks have been authorized by City Council for use by the Fire Department. Old-type masks were found inadequate at this recent fire where Chief Wallace MacGeorge, left, Ernie Oliver, Purkey and Dave Osterhout all worked to quell the $10,000 blaze.

Firemen Get Two New Masks

Council authorized the purchase of two new oxygen masks for the fire department Monday.

The units will cost $563, include an alarm on each, which tells when the supply of oxygen is low, also an extra tank of oxygen.

Henry Saylor of Adrian, a supplier of such equipment, was the lowest bidder of three firms seeking the sale.

The department currently has two old-style masks, which are worn and hard to see through.

In the Virgil Tucker residence fire, the masks were used extensively as firemen probed the heavy smoke to find where the blaze was.

Co-op Program Starts

H. Randall Wickes, president of the Wickes Corp. in Saginaw, in conjunction with Dr. Samuel Marble, president of Delta College in Midland, has announced "Operation Future".

It's a management training program open to qualified high school graduates or present college students throughout the nation.

Specifically designed to provide the burgeoning Wickes Corp. with management personnel, the three-year program will use both the Delta campus and Wickes facilities in a "learn and earn" sequence.

It will start at Delta College on Jan. 6.

Wickes has a location in Milan.

The student will attend Delta College for one 15-week trimester and then be assigned for a 15-week earning period in any Wickes division, depending upon desire and ability.

This sequence will continue through the three-year period and new classes will begin every trimester.

"With educational costs rising day by day", Mr. Wickes declared. "Many outstanding high school graduates are caught in an economic squeeze. Industry needs their potential talents more than ever before, yet rising costs price many of them out of a sound economic future".

High school graduates may obtain application forms by writing David Wallace, Director of Corporate Education, Wickes Corporation, Saginaw.

Ski Guides Shows All Sport Areas

LANSING — The booming interest in Michigan's winter sports is reflected in the increase in the number of facilities listed in the 1963-64 Ski Map and Winter Sports Guide just published by the Michigan Tourist Council.

A copy of the Guide is in The Herald window.

A record 85 Michigan winter sports centers — more than any other state in the nation — are pin-pointed on the green and white map.

Coded symbols on the map denote what facilities individual areas offer for skiing, tobogganing or both.

References in the guide furnish information on location, types of facilities available, rates, accommodations and other items of interest to winter sports enthusiasts.

An added feature this year is the inclusion of telephone numbers for each winter sports center for the convenience of those who wish to make advance registrations or who seek additional information.

Free copies of the 1964 Ski Map and Winter Sports Guide are available from the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 26.

To Spend $13,000

A sum of $13,000 has been earmarked for service expansion in Tecumseh by the General Telephone Co. from nearly $1,000,000 to be spent for improvements in southeastern Michigan during 1964.

About $311,700 has been listed for the Adrian exchange area, most of it for cables and lines in suburban sections.

Underground cable to improve direct dialing between Adrian, Tipton and Onsted will cost about $57,000.

The Tecumseh-Adrian service will thus be improved, too, according to Richard Henemyer, Adrian district manager.

The southeastern division of the phone company has been one of the fastest growing in the state.

In December, 1955, the company had 109,029 telephones in 462 communities compared with today's 286,390.

In 1955 the company had 230,202 miles of wire compared with 797,960 today.

Gremlins Get Credit

"Gremlins" is the only explanation that General Telephone's Director of Public Relations, Judd Perkins, can offer in discussing a printing error on current telephone customer bill inserts.

"The copy was right when we last saw it, but the word 'extension' disappeared in the printing," Mr. Perkins said.

The message erroneously reads: "Residence telephones now installed at no charge," instead of "residence extension telephones" . . . . . as was intended.

"We goofed and regret the confusion it caused for some of our customers," Mr. Perkins stated, "but we will stand behind our intended offer to install resident 'extension' phones at no charge," he concluded.

1,508 Folks at Products Get Flu Shots

Tecumseh Products has given 1,508 employees the needle. Flu shots, that is.

This is the second year that the firm offered free inoculation against influenza and most Products folks accepted.

The operation cost the company about $8,500 and took three days to complete.

Handling the inoculation were all 14 doctors on the staff of Herrick Memorial Hospital. They worked in shifts.

About half of the employees received their shots from a jet innoculator, which doesn't have a needle at all.

"It's a high" velocity device, which drills the fluid through a hole in the skin by means of two human hairs at a rate of 600 miles per hour.

CHRISTMAS FANTASY MODELS — Linda Gilbert with Lora Lee Baldwin and Peggy Burns will be the models for the Christmas Fantasy displays made by Mrs. Harold Pickard at the Community Center Monday, Dec. 2, at 8 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Little Garden Club with members also acting as models. Many Christmas arrangements to be worn on the hair and corsages as well as centerpieces and other house decorations will be demonstrated.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

My wife and I wish to thank The Herald for your recent picture-story on the plans of Saline Baptist Church for building next spring. As former members of the Britton Baptist Church, we were delighted at the way your story helped to renew old friendships with the folks back home.

We heard from lots of them right after the write-up appeared. We were also happy to read, in the same issue of The Herald, that Britton Baptist, like our group here in Saline, is planning to build. We wish them great success.

Our own Baptist congregation here is working hard these days, to pay off the note on the property we've bought, and to get in shape financially to meet our May 1, 1964, deadline for the start of construction on our church building.

It's a real struggle, and for some it involves a real sacrifice . . . but none of us has any doubts that we'll make it. Come May 1, Saline Baptist will be building!

And a few months later we'll be happy to invite all our friends in your area to drive over for an inspection of the completed project.

Again, our sincere thanks for The Herald's help in spreading the word of our plans. (Incidentally, we had no idea that your paper had such widespread circulation until we started hearing from old friends far and near. One message came all the way from California, where a friend of ours had read the story in The Herald!)

Kindest wishes,
Leon Bacon
3641 Weber Road
Saline, Michigan.

TO THE EDITORS:

It was gratifying to read of the Migrant Labor Forum, planned for Nov. 21. This will be the time for interested citizens and representatives of all sides to sit down together and attempt to work out a big problem.

I think it's a shame when people are called upon to help those less fortunate, and after six or eight weeks of effort by a large group of Christian people, that any one of us should receive a slap in the face.

After re-reading Mrs. Sprague's communication in the Nov. 14 Herald, I can honestly say that I was unable to find anything derogatory in the article. She evidently tried to put into words what she saw and tried to do for the migrants and I know exactly how she feels because we all ministered and worked with these people for the same reasons.

Some of us were not aware of the problems of the migrants and the farmers, but I can assure you, it did not take long to find out.

Now Thursday evening we will have the opportunity to meet with interested area citizens and discuss our migrant worker situation.

Sincerely,
One who served,
Mrs. Vern Manwaring.

TO THE EDITORS:

15 November, 1963

I was especially interested in the Oct. 31 issue of your paper. I believe you could do the most good by suggesting that educational opportunities for children are not a waste of money.

Sincerely,
William Aebersold,
Principal, John D. Pierce Junior High School
5145 Hatchery Road,
Drayton Plains, Mich.

Editor's note — Mr. Aebersold enclosed a government booklet entitled "Selected State Programs in Migrant Education." It is now available at The Herald for any interested persons.

Who Have Moved to Tecumseh

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leathers and family of four have not been Tecumsehites long, even though they purchased their home at 212 E. Shawnee St. two years ago from Marion Drury.

Shortly after completing the real estate transaction, Mr. and Mrs. Leathers were involved in an auto accident that resulted in two broken legs for her.

For 13 years the family had lived in Toledo. After the accident and hospitalization, they moved to a cottage at Vineyard Lake where Mrs. Leathers recuperated.

She said Tuesday that it just seems like a bad dream now that she is able to care for her family again.

Plans for the remodeling of the home they purchased had to be scrapped in favor of a ranch-type dwelling, which the family moved into in September.

ROBERT, II, with the Air Force at Dickenson Field, N. D., is the oldest; Elena, a sophomore at Tecumseh High School, Annette in second grade and Beth in kindergarten at Herrick Park School, make up the family.

Elena likes rock and roll music and church activities and Annette is thrilled with the Scouting program. Beth says that kindergarteners have a lot of work to do.

Christine remarked during the interview that the whole family would like to become more active in church work. They attend the Methodist Church.

Being in the construction business, Mr. Leathers enjoyed remodeling the house for his family. He also likes bowling, any sports, reading and luckily, they still have the cottage because he likes to fish.

When asked about her interests, Christine remarked, "I'm just the tag-along." Like any good housewife and mother, she is interested in her family's interests.

It Is Youth Sunday at Gloria Dei

Youth Sunday will be held at the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church Nov. 24.

The Luther League choir will participate in the service with a special hymn conducted by Mrs. Steven Illeck. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Laszlo Gero, said, "During the service our youth will offer their thanks to the Lord. They invite everyone who sincerely believes that our Lord is the Provider and Sustainer of our life to come to the worship service."

Wesley Whelan, Ron Roe, Jerry Munger, Richard Smith and Willis Davenport have returned after deer hunting at Marion. Ron and Jerry each got a four-point buck.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

All sorts of little ditties on fashion make their way to our desk. We would like to share this one with you . . .

"Penelope Harris
Spent six months in Paris
To learn about life and L'amour.
Now she takes awful chances
When she goes to dances
Cause she can't keep the wolves
From her Dior!"

We do not know who composed this, but we have always had a great respect for Mr. Dior. Several years ago he came out with the statement that American women should erect a monument to manufacturers on 7th Avenue in New York City. They keep you clothed in the highest fashion for the least amount of money, and any woman in this country can look like a fashion plate, by choosing her wardrobe carefully.

Before we forget, now at Clinton Woolen we have a complete selection of Butterick Patterns in stock. Along with the Simplicity Patterns and the Vogue by order (three to four-day delivery) our pattern service is quite complete.

If you are wondering about having a touch of an old fachioned Christmas in the home, we suggest items made from felt. Kits for making tree skirts, table covers, stockings and other ideas are now in at Clinton Woolen. They are easy to make, no sewing, just glue, and the results are beautiful.

The new pastel sweaters and skirts are arriving. Skirts in slim styles, A and coachman to fit every size. The sweaters are in a great variety of styles and the colors are lush!

Brighten the winter scene with one of these lovely pastel sets. Of course, they make beautiful presents but you will want at least one for yourself.

By this time you know we are nuts about knits . . . and you will join us when you see the Holiday lines at Clinton Woolen.

2 Indians on League's 'Star' 11

Two Tecumseh gridders — Guard Mike Wilson and Halfback Dave Lemerand — made the Huron League All-Star football team released last week.

Both Wilson and Lemerand are THS seniors and were outstanding players for the Indians.

Selection of all-league players is confusing, even to the local coaches, with players and coaches giving a list of prospects to the league office at Grosse Ile.

How the final selection is made is not known here.

Long and Short

By returning the ... its former glories, adding a variety of ponds and lakes along its path, water condition will greatly improve, with higher tables in dry areas and greater supplies at many points.

Of course, the watershed program will also introduce new recreational sections and in general help increase the value of the adjoining land.

Moving to the Health Study, this writer, like probably many others in town, was impressed by the front-page coverage given first reports of it last week. (Unhappily, the report reached us on press day as we were putting the finishing touches on our backshop chores. But that's life.)

The front-page stories in various dailies help spotlight the fact that this is a mighty important undertaking and that Tecumseh folks are playing vital roles in what can one day mold early detection methods and treatment of diseases.

Two stories on this page deal with the Study report, plus an editorial, which appears on the back page of the second section.

Now, there's the migrant forum, which is slated for Thursday evening at St. Peter's.

A great deal can be accomplished at this gathering, but for goodness sakes, let's all stay objective and calm.

True, migrants can be a most emotional topic — this has been brought out by the various letters The Herald has and is regularly finding in its box at the post office.

According to some reports, the forum might go on without any tomato growers accepting an invitation to take part in the program. We sincerely hope not.

All people involved should be on hand and given ample opportunity to express themselves. Certainly the farmers themselves are a vital part.

One new phase of the migrant problem has been injected into the picture, thanks to William Aebersold, a Tecumseh native, now the principal of a Drayton Plains junior high school.

He sends along a government booklet entitled "Selected State Programs in Migrant Education." The Herald runs a summary of it on page two.

45 To Canvass

A drive for Muscular Dystrophy with 45 canvassers going from door to door in the Tecumseh area will be held Nov. 26 from 7 to 9 p.m.

City Fathers Want To Learn What They Did

Eleven Girl Scouts of Troop 110 and their leader, Mrs. Harvey Carpenter, attended Monday's regular session of City Council.

When Mayor Harold Easton asked the young guests if they had any questions, the Scouts demurred.

Mrs. Carpenter explained that the girls were going to prepare reports of the gathering for a civics class.

Piped up Councilman Robert Bonner, "Maybe we should go hear the reports and find out what we did tonight."

Joint Thanksgiving Service Will Be Held in Gloria Dei

Year after year the local Ministerial Association provides for the Community Thanksgiving Service, held in different Christian churches.

This year the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church has the privilege of inviting Tecumseh residents and those of neighboring communities to this year's service, which will be held Wednesday, Nov. 27, at 8 p.m.

The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Donald E. Bodley, pastor of the Christ Episcopal Church of Adrian, with the service conducted by the Rev. Dr. Laszlo Gero, host pastor.

The adult choir of the Gloria Dei Church will sing a special hymn, "Prayer for Thanksgiving".

"Let us remember that God is to be the center of our thanksgiving," said Dr. Gero. "It is to Him we give thanks. Come, join with us in returning thanks to

Health Study Report

In this same age group, diabetes was found in 2% of the men and 3% of the women, but many others in this bracket were classed "suspected diabetics."

Rheumatoid arthritis affected 1% of the men in this age level, and 5% of the women.

Chronic bronchitis occurred in 11% of men, and 2% of women.

The University of Michigan researchers presented detailed information they had collected in seeking telltale combinations of disease and physiologic disorders.

The current report is expected to provide a baseline for future intensive investigations seeking the causes of disease and means for the prevention of illness.

Need Not Be Alarmed

pointing impairments of health, seek causes for these impairments and measures to prevent illness," the doctor revealed.

☆

HE EXPLAINED that the first report was based on the initial round of examinations and clinical checks in 1959 and 1960. With each cycle of re-examination (the second one is now about 40% complete), the problem areas will be narrowed down.

So far, 3,825 persons have been examined in the current second round of examinations. Families are being contacted again in approximately the same order as during the first series of examinations.

Families that have moved to another address since 1960 will be contacted, but it may be later than it would have been had they not moved.

Each home or apartment has been randomly assigned to one to 10 representative samples (cross-sections of the community). The samples to which the family's residence has been assigned determines how soon that family will be contacted. New families in the community are included in the Study when their dwelling unit's turn comes up.

Dr. Epstein concludes, "The outlook is good that Tecumseh can continue to serve as a national outpost and beacon for health research for years to come.

"The study staff will, always, be eager to remain worthy of the faith and welcome they have received in the city."

Council ordered a limited number of copies, 1,000, and they should prove valuable and interesting to real estate agents, business, industries, newcomers and to every resident of the community.

Bashores Serve Church 20 Years

By DOROTHY GRIGG

The Rev. Blair O. Bashore and his wife, Miriam, of the First Baptist Church have hearts filled with gratitude as the Thanksgiving season nears.

They will have completed 20 years of leadership in the church and community.

Mrs. Bashore said that they are truly grateful for the privileges and opportunities that have been theirs in serving in the pastorate here.

A total of 395 persons have joined the church during the 20 years of ministry here.

The Bashores have also served the North Rome Church for 14 years, where 67 have joined in that time. Approximately 275 children have been dedicated in the two churches.

The average Sunday attendance in the local church has grown from 76 the first year to 194 this year. In the North Rome Church it has increased from five to 30 per Sunday.

☆

THE BASHORES are happy for the splendid way that members of the congregation have given in efforts and means to improve church facilities.

Over $130,000 in improvements have been made in the church and parsonage since the present pastor and his family arrived.

Members will not soon forget the many hours spent in public barbecues and suppers and the amount of planning and preparation that went into serving meals for a week at the Lenawee County Fair for five years.

These earnings greatly aided toward the expense of building the much-needed Youth House.

Next year the Baptist Church will celebrate its 125th anniversary as will the Lenawee Baptist Association of which it is a member. The Rev. Mr. Bashore is the present moderator.

☆

MANY TECUMSEH and Lenawee County residents are thankful that the church members have permitted their pastor to engage in various phases of civic work.

He served as chairman of a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which effected the changing of the government of Tecumseh from a village to a city.

He was on the first City Council and on the County Board of Supervisors for three years. He was a member of the County Welfare Board for six years, the past five of which he was the chairman.

He was county chairman of Civil Defense for several years, organized and was the first president of the Family Counseling Service.

He stated Tuesday that civic interests have served to broaden his appreciation of people who are the community, local and countywide.

Shortly after coming to Michigan, Mr. Bashore was elected Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, a position he held for two years.

☆

ON NOV. 24, Mr. Bashore will conduct his 833rd broadcast over WABJ.

He said, "We count this radio work among our most sacred trusts. We have made countless friends through this medium of communication and count it a great honor to lead thousands in worship each Sunday."

Listeners from Lansing, Toledo and as far as Marion, O., have been among those who worship weekly with the Baptist Church on the boulevard in Tecumseh.

Commenting about folks in the city, Mr. Bashore said, "They are the greatest."

Mr. Bashore is proud to have had a part in organizing the annual Band Festival with the late Clair Camburn, who first conceived the idea.

He continued, "We have cooperated with all Christian groups to promote better understanding among all people seeking the strength of God in every day life.

"Our plans for the future include the employment of a Christian Education Director and more worship experiences of greater helpfulness to all seeking release from the cares of modern living."

THE REV. AND MRS. BLAIR BASHORE

Dinner Set for Bashores

A recognition dinner will be held in the Baptist Youth House immediately following the worship service Sunday, for the Rev. and Mrs. Blair Bashore by members of the church. Arrangements are being made by the deacons, deaconesses, trustees, and the Women's Society.

Sunday will also be observed as Harvest Festival day in the church and Sunday School, with students and adults bringing gifts for the Thanksgiving baskets for the needy to both 10 and 11 a.m. services.

Prettiest Sox Win Hop Prize

Linda Lask was awarded the prize for the prettiest sox at the Sock Hop held Nov. 1 in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church, sponsored by the Junior High Youth Fellowship.

Steve Cook won the prize for the funniest sox and there was a tie between Jan Snyder and Anne Currah for the most original.

Other prizes were won by Dulce Robinson and Tracie Brooks.

Twenty-eight seventh and eighth graders attending the party were served refreshments by the Baptist young people.

John Boyce gave the invocation preceding the dinner served to 125 parents, sons and guests at the 22nd annual Future Farmers Association banquet Nov. 11 in the Tecumseh High School cafeteria.

Sisters and friends of the FFA boys served the dinner at tables decorated with fall arrangements.

Chickens for the meal were raised and then dressed by FFA [illegible] the direction of Paul Burns, instructor.

Following the dinner, reports were presented by Richard Neuman on the treasury, Ron Mueller on the pig chain, Charles Relyea on the commercial sheep chain, Dick Bilby on the broiler project and David Lips on corn.

Mr. Burns introduced the guests and officers of the mothers club, presenting the ladies with corsages from the boys.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Henry Howard, Mrs. Jack Smith, Mrs. William Kukral, Mrs. Harlan Johnston and Mrs. Albert Neuman.

Teachers who were guests included Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Dowell, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brazee, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fagan and Mr. and Mrs. Norval Bovee.

All Pythian Grand Officers from the State of Michigan were present and were seated at the head table.

At the meeting, the rank of Page was conferred on six candidates.

Entertainment was provided for the ladies downstairs, under the direction of Past Grand Chief Wanty of Milan.

Guests were present from Port Huron, Pontiac, Plymouth, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Hillsdale, Milan, Three Rivers, Dundee, Tecumseh and Adrian.

The Pythian Centennial will be held Feb. 15, 1964, in the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel at Detroit.

Goodwill Combines Two Adrian Stores

In the interest of efficiency and service the Goodwill Industries store on Beecher St., in Adrian has been closed.

The board of directors of Goodwill Industries of Southeastern Michigan voted last week to close the store and move the operations to the main plant an W. Maumee St.

The store was closed at the end of the business day Saturday. The two handicapped people working at the store were transferred to the main store.

An additional 500 square feet of display space was recently added to the main store.

The Maumee St. store registered a 75% increase in October over last year in retail sales, while the Beecher store lost 50% from last year.

Future plans call for a store in at least one outlying community in Lenawee County and eventually for community stores throughout both Lenawee and Monroe counties.

Mrs. W. P. Rogers of Palmyra, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Goodwill, announced that the Auxiliary plans to open a Christmas gift shop Nov. 29. It will be at 106 W. Maumee St.

Proceeds will be used to provide special services to the handicapped employees.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

Tecumseh, Mich.

In reply to your story a couple of weeks ago concerning the migrant workers in the area of Britton, first may I say I was, along with several more people, very upset.

I feel the problem of the migrant worker should be brought to the [illegible] I still think that it should [illegible] been covered from the beginning to the end instead of end to beginning.

This letter was read many times before I have been able to find the words to put on paper how I feel, now after thinking and praying that what is said will be the words of my heart I will attempt an answer.

☆

FIRST, I WOULD like to ask some questions just for thought.

1. What was the purpose of the church-sponsored visits to the migrant workers' camp?

2. Will the people of your paper be informed of the arrival of workers again in the coming '64 season?

3. Is education only for the migrant worker?

4. If you had an investment as great as Mrs. "X" (or anyone reading this), would you not have some form of supervision of property?

5. What is the contract of the migrant worker?

6. If a place is rented and the furniture is nailed to the wall what will the occupants think?

7. If your (or anyone's) husband is in work that takes him away from home for all except a few weeks of the year would you not be with him if at all possible?

8. Are children a blessing instead of a burden?

☆

THE SPIRITUAL life of a migrant worker would probably be less than other workers because of the work he is in. How long does it take other people in a new neighborhood to get acquainted and start to church, clubs, etc.?

Migrants not only travel from town to town, but state to state. This is hard on anyone even to make friends. The Lenawee County Migrant Ministry's purpose is to help bring spiritual life, charity only if needed, and any other way that is asked for in morals, education, or medical services.

I visited one camp seven or eight weeks and only found a need for friendship, love, understanding, a kind word, blankets or material things only!

May I say that I visited this camp after the workers moved to another area, the only evidence left was one apple partly eaten, one pop bottle, few places where papers and trash were burned (this was burned carefully or the dry season as we all have knowledge of, would have started more than the papers or trash.)

☆

HOW CAN we judge the morals of anyone? We all have a standard of morals that we try to uphold, but we all slip. The migrant ministry's purpose was to present a standard and hope that it will be accepted. I feel this was presented to the camps that were visited and was accepted by some and will have some meaning after association and understanding of the purpose.

The education of the migrant worker is another thing that can be improved. First may I say that the staff workers from the ministry visited these camps and personally picked up the Bible School-age children and took them to Bible School.

In the afternoons there were visits to the camps to give sewing instructions to mothers.

I cannot say how many of the children attended school, but I know some did. There was one family in our camp that had nine children — there were three under-school-age and four of school age.

These four attended some school, but not all the time. In order for the mother to work, one of the school-age children would stay home and care for the smaller ones. The children were not in camp alone as for an adult being with them.

There was a cook in camp to prepare the meals to be taken to fields to workers and if a problem was present there was a car and help in any form could be adjusted. Isn't that what working mothers have baby-sitters for.

☆

[illegible] thing comes to mind while thinking of a mother with nine children — the bedding was, in my estimation, good. Did you ever see a mother of any number cook on a one-burner oil stove? This was her stove.

Did you ever see a mother wash on a scrub board, one wash tub, with water being hauled in? The heater for this family was made from scraps of metal and a dangerous thing to have for any thing.

Another man and wife had as their stove a hole dug in the ground with metal across it; for chairs, a board across a couple cement blocks; a bed in a small cement block house.

There was a chicken house for two families. This wasn't the nicest place: no glass in several windows, a very small heater stove combination. May I say that if there was food cooking in any of these places mentioned while visiting, the aroma was not bad. What I am getting to or trying to—would we live under the same conditions?

☆

WE HAVE to remember that these people are only humans, the same as we are. How would we feel if we were migrant workers and arrived in the community and there were no friends and no one from the community visited us?

We hope these workers were made to feel as welcome to the community as we would like to be in another part of the country!

I would like to give the program of one visit to a camp we will call "Y".

There were three to four cars to visit the camp each Tuesday night, arriving at 7 p.m. The cars were met with smiles, a big "Hi, I'm so glad that you came."

"Let me get through with my work and be right with you."

"I have to get cleaned up before I come out."

There were a couple boxes of toys to take each time and the children made a dash for the trunk of the car, the rear of the station wagon, the only things removed from the car by the children were toys. Now in the same car or station wagon were drinks, cakes, cookies and ice cream, but that was not bothered unless help was asked to take it in the house.

☆

AFTER THE children were settled to toys, adult games were started. There was ball for the older boys, horseshoes for men. I think out of all the visits, at one time or other every member took part in some form.

After it was dark and outdoor games could no longer be played and dinner was over and everyone was presentable, we were joined in the main house for the program.

In order: refreshments, passing of Sunday School material, pictures, cartoons for kiddies, a religious film for all, or our closing there was a prayer by all with the Friendship Circle. Now just how did we of the surrounding communities go wrong in our visits?

I personally feel the purpose of the visits to camp "Y" was fulfilled. If the migrant workers are in the area again the coming season I would again donate my [illegible] one weekly visits to bring cheer, fellowship and charity in any way possible.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Orville Bishop,
113 Maple St.

TO THE EDITORS:

November 9, 1963

We were very deeply disappointed recently when Britton friends sent us clippings from your paper about the migrant controversy.

I note that you print anonymous communications. Anyone unwilling to stand up for their convictions shouldn't expect to have them aired in the paper.

The migrant problem isn't a private community affair. It is county-wide, state-wide and nation-wide. Health and law enforcement problems should be of interest to all taxpayers and all Christians.

It seemed to us that there were far fewer reports of arrests for drinking and fighting among the Britton area migrant workers this year than last and we feel that the programs of the churches contributed much to that improvement.

We felt that the work being done was important enough so that a sizable group from the Sand Creek Community Church traveled the 25 miles to Britton one Sunday to sponsor an afternoon and evening program.

My own personal interest is in children and child welfare, particularly any who are handicapped physically, mentally or morally and, I might add, racially. Our own family spent two other Sunday afternoons helping entertain the children at the park. I don't believe I have ever worked around a better behaved group of children.

One incident in particular impressed me very much. We took a large box of toys over for use at the park. We spread a large tarp and dumped them out and they promptly disappeared in all directions.

I honestly wondered how many of them we would ever see again. When we were ready to leave we told the children and they began bringing them in. When all the major toys were in I put the box in the station wagon and drove over to the Church.

A little later I went out to the car for something and was confronted by four little boys, probably seven to 10 years old.

"We've got something of yours" they announced, and handed me a little plastic truck that had been filled originally with bubble gum and still bore the label. I thanked them, sincerely, and explained that the toys would be left at the church for their future use.

I am reminded of a remark my grandfather used to make about an old man in our neighborhood. "The poor ol —— fool ain't to blame for what he don't know."

I may not agree with his grammar, but I can't argue with its truth. Continuing ignorance, enforced by a hostile white world and a nomadic life must be hard enough to endure at best.

I don't believe any problem is insurmountable and a common sense approach should find some answers. Inasmuch as Ye have done it unto one of the least of these, Ye have done it unto Me."

Better to have wasted much than to have missed an opportunity to help someone who really needed it.

Sincerely,
Leslie Sell,
Sand Creek, Mich.

TO THE EDITORS:

We would like to take this way of expressing our deep admiration for the members of the volunteer Fire Department who so gallantly fought to save our home for us last week.

We could very easily have lost everything. Their prompt arrival at our fire and the valiant work they did confined our loss to little structural damage.

We appreciate their concern for our furnishings as their careful handling saved us from much further loss. We have nothing but praise for their successful effort.

This is our first experience with such a disaster and we are grateful for the many offers of assistance from our friends.

We can never repay our neighbors for their many kindnesses.

The Herald's coverage, as usual, was accurate and most tactful.

Sincerely,
Marian and Virgil Tucker.

TO THE EDITORS:

November 15, 1963

Prepare yourself to be corrected on two counts concerning last week's edition of The Herald.

The first prong of my critique is directed at the caption beneath the editorial picture showing a "stately maple", felled and from a worm's eye view.

Was this a maple tree or am I correct in stating that the corner lot opposite our city hall contained only elm trees and therefore the pictured log is that of a "stately elm" tree?

Prong number two deals with the front-page story and picture on Mrs. Mae Hopkins, better known to my two-year-old daughter as "Gamma Hokins", which was a charming tribute to a grand person with a strong constitution and a lust for the salt-of-the-earth things of life.

However, being 90 and being able to traverse 19 city blocks with "vigah" isn't enough in her case. She still has some thunder left, thunder not revealed in the article.

You correctly numbered her children, three, her grandchildren six, but the next generation includes 11 GREAT-grandchildren, and let's put another GREAT before the family tree names of her four youngest relatives making them great-great-grandchildren.

So, you see, with five generations living here in Tecumseh, she is even more remarkable to me because I'll consider it a victory to make it through my own lifetime unscathed by chronic ill-health, worldly pressures, and Mrs. Mae Hopkins' four great-great-grandchildren.

Sincerely,
Steve Kruger.

TO THE EDITORS:

November 12, 1963

I have been reading with great interest the articles which have been appearing in the Herald concerning the migrant workers, who came to the Tecumseh and surrounding areas for the harvest season.

All of the letters which have appeared have had very good points brought up. There are a few, however, that had comments which could have been withheld.

However, they were written, and may have done some sort of good in the long run.

I, myself, am from the Tecumseh area, and until the articles started appearing, I had no idea as to the problems involving migrant workers.

I am sure that I am not the only one who has been unaware of these many problems.

If all people could see just how a lot of these workers live in the "off" season, I'm sure that they would be more sympathetic with them.

I am now serving with the United States Air Force, and in traveling in the many parts of the States, I have had a chance to observe first hand just how these people live after the northharvest season is over.

Well, some might say, "There are jobs in the South, and plenty of them."

Sure, there are jobs in the South, but not near enough to accommodate the thousands who seek this type of work.

These people live in homes that you and I would say, "aren't fit for people to live in." They are pushed into these conditions by people who have got quite a lot but who still want more and are too busy with themselves to help another.

These homes are the only ones available to the worker for the price he can afford to pay.

You say, why can't they work harder for what they want?

They do work hard, probably harder than most who read this, but they get paid less for doing a job that we would never think of doing.

Look at it this way: Could you, the grower, get local help for as little as you get this migrant worker for?

THROUGH MY WINDOW

FOURTEEN SOMETHINGS

Mondays are such nothing days — we expect nothing of them and are usually disappointed. Occasionally, of course, they pull a switch and, when something does happen, it is apt to be big.

For example:

It was several weeks ago, a cold, blowy Monday. Ida finally decided the weather was not going to get any better, so she charged out to refill the feeders.

Gloomy and uninspiring as the day might be, our old regulars would nevertheless be winging in for lunch. I waited and waited, but no Ida. Finally I heard her come rushing in the back door.

Without saying a word to Gram., not even commenting on the cold nasty wind, she came rushing through the house and into my room.

With her jacket still zipped up, she made a bee-line for the bookshelves and, while reaching for the Audubon Bird-book, she did manage to stammer, "I just saw 14 somethings."

I SHOULD say she had seen something. One of the nice features about this particular bird-book is that all of the color-plates are grouped together and, of course, this makes finding things quick and easy.

With a whoop of satisfaction Ida plunked the book on my reading-table and, triumphantly pointed to the bird on the bottom of Plate 38.

No wonder she was excited — it was an evening grosbeak.

It seems that she had just lifted the cover from the big can of scratchfeed, which this time of the year we keep in back of the garage, when she heard a chattering in the near-by walnut tree.

She could hardly believe her eyes but there was a flock of birds and, as she explained later, they stayed right in the tree until she had had a good look.

There were 14 in all and some showed bright yellow, black and white while the others were much darkery After a while the flock took off, flew just across the creek and apparently settled down for some weed seed eating. Ida flew inside and settled down with the bird-book — she was right, evening grosbeaks.

☆

WHO SAID something about Mondays being nothing days? Fortunately they all aren't. And when there is excitement, it is really, really big.

The next grosbeak business occurred Wednesday and again Ida was involved. It was noon and she had started home for lunch. At least, I thought she had gone — actually she was out in the side yard looking and listening.

A few minutes after she went out the front door she came back in again. The air was full of bird noises, she explained, and the whole tree seemed absolutely alive with grosbeaks.

There were more than 14 this time, far, far more. They were so absorbed with their own business that she had walked practically under the tree and they had paid her no heed. So noisy was their chattering that, when the radio was turned down, I could even hear them.

☆

A QUICK phone call to Mom and she decided to come home for lunch. Well, in the 45 minutes between Ida's finally leaving and Mom arriving home, the grosbeaks "flew the coop."

Wouldn't it seem that they could have stayed around a few minutes longer? The rest of the week was spent looking for the elusive ones but it wasn't until Sunday that we had any luck.

It was just a brief sighting then. I saw three fly into a tree on the creekbank and Mom was just about to move the bed around for a better look when the telephone rang. By the time the short conversation had ended, the birds had gone. Oh, well, maybe they will be back again in a few days.

So it is that we hope a good winter of evening grosbeak watching has been started by Ida's 14 somethings.

LOCAL BUSINESS

A new definition of advertising has been suggested in a study released by the School of Journalism, University of Nebraska.

Advertising is called a "multiplier of salesmanship" in the booklet by Professor Sidney R. Bernstein.

This definition is more accurate than the concept of advertising as a more economical substitute for personal salesmanship. Advertising not only is more economical than personal salesmanship, it does a job which the personal salesman can not do.

"Because it uses mass media of communication, advertising multiplies — and sometimes a thousandfold or even a millionfold, the number of sales calls a company can make on its prospects," Prof. Bernstein says.

Mr. Bernstein points out that the power of advertising to mislead or control a public has been exaggerated.

"Advertising has no power but the power of persuasion; and the power of persuasion embraces, by its very definition, complete freedom to make a choice, and complete freedom to believe or disbelieve. Advertising can cajole, it can entice, it can urge, but it cannot force," he stated.

The booklet points out that making a better mousetrap is not enough. Someone must show that it is a better mousetrap and offer proof that it is better.

Sure the salesman and advertising perform as a special pleader for some product or some firm. However, if salesmanship had not peformed this function men would still be living in caves and mice would have free run of the caves.

Vandals Hit New Boiler

Relief valve on the Community Center's new boiler was propped open, letting water pump through it all night Sunday.

The two million BTU unit is being installed by Forest Abner.

The vandalism will require going back over certain phases of the job.

The vandalism was discovered Monday morning.

Ad Talk Translated

No Egyptian was bright enough to think of putting one pyramid on top of another.

Detroit, however, does it easily every year in telling us why this year's car is better than last year's "best ever" model.

Now that the 1964 season is going full swing, we prepared a little guide to help you understand what the ads are really saying about the new cars.

The ad copy comes first, then the translation in parentheses:

"Family-size compact." (Bigger than a compact, but smaller than a full-size small car or a small-size big car but bigger than a medium-sized full-size in-between car.)

"New, from the ground up!" (These didn't sell at all last year, so let's swap some chrome and fenders around, huh?)

"Too good to tamper with." (These sold fine, so let's not mess around with a good thing — yet.)

"Styling distinction — your neighbors will stare!" (This car has the same wheelbase, body, dimensions, motor and transmission as three other cars by the same manufacturer, but it's distinctive in the advertising copy.)

"Four-on-the-floor!" (People tried for years to get rid of gear shifts on the floor — now they charge $200 extra for the same thing.)

"A great new idea in car comfort!" (We're coming out with running boards. We get all our ideas from old cars. Remember when we brought back outside sun shades, gear shifts, wire wheels, spare tires on the back bumper and things like that?)

"Full factory equipment!" (Things you get include tires, a motor, seats, a car body and headlights. Everything else is extra.)

Blood Program Needs Donors

BRITTON — The Red Cross Blood Mobile Unit will visit Britton Wednesday, Feb. 19. Carl Luegge, chairman for the Britton area and Mrs. Paul Rowlands attended a meeting last week at Red Cross headquarters in Adrian to help set the dates for the Bloodmobile visits throughout Lenawee County for 1964.

Michael Dana, county blood chairman, conducted the session which was attended by city and township chairman.

Mr. Dana announced that a total of 2,009 pints of blood were donated by residents of the county in the past 12 months.

This figure seems to be a sizeable amount, but when one stops to realize that there are nearly 80,000 persons in the county this is [illegible] a drop in the bucket.

Many people are unable to give blood because of sickness or a previous illness, some are too young and some are too old and many are unconcerned.

"I wonder how many of the non-donors realize that the pint of blood which they could give might some day save a life — even their own," the chairman states.

Mr. Dana also praised Mr. Luegge for a job well done in June when 69 pints of blood were donated by area residents and said that he hoped that future visits of the unit would prove even more fruitful.

REMEMBER? — What Britton-Macon basketball fan will ever forget that glorious March 23, 1963? That was the fabulous day that the Tor ies won the state Class D title. In this action, Phil Benedict, who'll be around again this season, flips in a two-pointer.

Can They Repeat?

BRITTON — Can the Tories do it again — go all the way this year in the Class D basketball race?

This question preys on the minds of a flock of people, from Coach Sam Hamilton and his players through an assortment of dyed-in-the-wool Britton rooters.

The defending D champs, with a string of 23 straight wins, open a tough 17-game slate Dec. 3 when they entertain Summerfield.

Every club on the Tory schedule will be pointing for the Britton games. "Knock off the state champs," will be their cry.

Coach Hamilton has a lot of things going for him, including a winning tradition and Phil Benedict.

Giant 6-8 Phil, who ranked all-state last winter and won a coveted position on the all-tournament honor squad, will be the center of attention whenever the Tories take the floor.

Two other regulars from the title quintet are Guards Ron Mastie and Pepper Griewahn, Pepper will move to forward this winter.

Battling it out for jobs are Verle Sanch, Roger Bortel and Tom Smetka, who went through the tourney, plus ex-junior varsity hoopsters, Dave Prill, Gary Dunham, Jim Miller, Terry Auten(Bob Fox and Larry Henning.

Over the past four years, Coach Hamilton's crews have posted 84 victories against 19 losses. In the last two seasons, the mark has been an amazing 43 and 1.

Muscular Dystrophy is a mysterious disease which progressively invades the voluntary muscles, eventually so weakening and disabling its victims that they cannot walk, feed themselves or talk, and finally cannot even take a breath.

Nothing now known to medical science can arrest its relentless downhill course.

☆

THE GREAT majority of its victims are children, and only a handful have survived to maturity.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association of America supports some 100 research projects located in leading medical institutions in the United States and abroad, where M D and allied neuromuscular diseases are under intensive study.

They maintain a network of clinics for medical supervision and assistance, local chapter help defray the cost of wheel chairs, lifts, braces, etc.

They also set up special recreation and educational programs for M D children and provide transportation between home, school and clinic where possible.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Don't Start Packing

Don't start packing to leave town, we're not as bad off as the headlines might have indicated last week.

Tecumseh is really not much different than most other American communities. Certainly it's not "disease-ridden," Dr. Frederick Epstein of the Community Health Study reassures.

It all started when Dr. Epstein delivered a report about the Tecumseh Study in Kansas City last week. Certain points were picked up by the daily press, including the fact that 12% of men in their 50's in Tecumseh have coronary heart disease.

As it turns out, this figure is reasonably comparable with those found in a variety of other scientific samplings being done around the nation, Dr. Epstein pointed out to The Herald.

The doctor said:

"Earlier health studies in different parts of the county, though less comprehensive, permit some comparison between Tecumseh and other population groups in the United States.

"Such comparisons suggest that health problems in Tecumseh are no worse and no better than elsewhere in our country, strengthening the original belief that Tecumseh is representative and can truly serve toward the goals of greater fitness and the conquest of disease."

The doctor explained that "Information of this kind, based on careful medical examinations of a whole community, (the Tecumseh Study) has not been previously available."

The findings, thus, caught the fancy of the daily press and caused quite a stir on front pages. Writers drew conclusions that life in a small community wasn't all relaxation and contentment. We probably could have told them this a long time ago, although the Health Study folks didn't even refer to this in their report.

The publicity caused the Health Study considerable embarrassment.

However, it helped show them that more and more the Tecumseh Study is going to be in the spotlight. In the coming months and years, it will surely attract more public attention and interest.

This Study is the only one of its kind in the world, where an entire community's health and ill-health are carefully checked over a period of many years. It is not limited to one category or sex, to a particular age bracket, to one avenue of disease.

Folks may not grasp readily the often deeply technical terms used so frequently in the world of science, but certainly all of us understand cold cash.

To date, more than $1½ million has been spent on the Tecumseh Study since it began in 1956. The annual budget now tops $500,000, with funds assured for future years. This money comes from the National Institutes of Health.

Within the community, 8,641 residents are taking part. At the data center in Ann Arbor, each one in the study accounts for 10 IBM cards so far — although the Study folks abhor the use of the term guinea pig. They regard each person in the Tecumseh Study as an individual, not a figure on a chart or a punched card.

We'll all probably be quick to agree that one of the Study's long suits is the way interviewers and examining personnel are so gracious in their personal interviews and during the clinical examinations.

The report given by Dr. Epstein had this concluding thought:

"The ultimate aim is to detect the origins of disorder and the susceptibility to disease early in life, so as to seek prevention of manifest chronic illness in middle age and beyond."

We Don't Buy It

Since when does one defeat end a career?

It's how a fellow bounces back following a setback that really counts.

A variety of political pundits have solemnly proclaimed that the death of George Romney's tax plan was in reality the death of George.

We don't buy that.

George Romney is a great man in our books for many reasons. He's intelligent, sincere and a hard-worker. These are qualities that help make top-flight businessmen, military leaders, governors and presidents.

Who ever heard of Mickey Mantle hitting a home run every time he went to bat — or for that matter, who ever expected it? Mickey gets his share and he will come through in the clutch many more times than the average ball player. Baseball and politics have a lot in common.

Our governor took the heavy timber up to the plate last week and the legislature blew three big strikes by him and down went our chief executive.

When up came the question, "How do you think this will affect your national political standing?" George snapped back a reply that did our hearts good.

"I wouldn't know and I couldn't care less!"

Fiery and concerned with his job at hand, George Romney isn't trying to walk a tightrope in the hopes he will never gain anyone's disfavor.

He doesn't look over his shoulder as he tackles Michigan problems to see how his move might color presidential nomination chances.

The Herald is firm in the belief that George Romney should go for re-election as governor — and he'll make it — then come 1968, jump into the national picture.

Are You Bored?

Is boredom a problem in your life?

It is with many folks. This prompted Ernie Hennes, editor and publisher of the weekly Wellington (O.) Enterprise, to write recently:

Nothing is safe these days. First one community and then another reports property damage. Here public toilets were closed to save them from complete destruction. Some communities have banned night high school grid games to curb gang fights. Why are we so troubled?

It's astonishing how often the word "boredom" pops up in efforts to get at the ills of our scientific-minded society.

Educators say the school drop-outs are bored.

Specialists say boredom is a big factor in juveniles' search for "kicks", a quest that sometimes leads them into crime so vicious that it staggers veteran criminologists.

Could it be that 20th Century man has helped to construct a civilization whose elements bore him to tears?

Countless factory and office workers find little interest in their work, which is often so beautifully organized and routined that the juice is squeezed out of it.

Untold numbers of Americans are dulled, if not irritated, by tedious hours of commuting by rail, bus, or bumper-to-bumper private car.

All this is not a new problem, except perhaps in magnitude. Many people feel they make no personal imprint on life. They are engulfed, bowled along like chips in a millrace. There is little they can conquer . . .

We'd better turn up some answers. The hobbies and vacation trips are not enough. It is work, with the hands and the brain, that must be creative — and fully challenging. Today too little of it is.

"Of the many remedies that won't cure a cold whiskey is by far the most popular."

Tecumseh 'Below Average' in 'Below Average' County

Norval Bovee, business manager of the Tecumseh School system, was the speaker at the Rotary dinner meeting Nov. 12.

He distributed comparison sheets of income and expenses per child of Lenawee County Schools for the year ending June 30, 1963.

One set of figures showed the total educational expenses per child for all schools in Lenawee County:

1. Adrian	$362.07
2. Deerfield	354.71
3. Hudson	315.68
4. Britton-Macon	312.86
5. Addison	300.44
6. Clinton	297.94
7. Tecumseh	293.12
8. Blissfield	292.54
9. Madison	291.32
10. Onsted	288.76
11. Morenci	281.67
12. Sand Creek	273.32
Average	$305.44

In the five-state area of Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, the per-pupil average is $345.

He pointed out that had Tecumseh met the county average, the district would have needed $38,000 more. If it had equaled the five-state mark, this would have required $200,000 additional.

The three drove continuously for 102 hours with no major mishaps.

They were away 26 days, encountering good roads all the way.

Plans for the annual Rotary Christmas dance Dec. 6 are in progress. Guests will include members of the Clinton, Saline, Milan, Blissfield and Adrian Clubs.

Life of City Halts To Mourn President Kennedy's Death

President John F. Kennedy's assassination in Dallas Friday paralyzed the area, from the moment word reached here via television, well into the following week.

Flags, at half mast, appeared throughout the city. Church doors were opened Friday and people of all faiths dropped in for moments of sorrowful meditation.

It was one of the most tragic weekends in the history of this community. Commerce was shut down all of Monday when business places closed in mourning. Most industrial operations in the city stopped at noon.

Sunday church services saw the clergy ask prayers for President Kennedy and his successor in office, President Lyndon Johnson.

Special services were arranged, with most churches open Monday.

At St. Elizabeth Catholic Church the rosary was recited Friday and Saturday evenings with almost every pew filled. A special High Requiem Mass Monday evening jammed the church.

St. Peter's Episcopal Church tolled the Passing Bell for one hour immediately after the President's death and people dropped in to pray. Saturday morning a requiem memorial service was given. The bells tolled again Monday at noon when a special service was conducted.

Gloria Dei Lutheran was nearly filled during a memorial service Monday and veterans paid homage at City Hall that afternoon.

Long and Short

BY TOM RIORDAN

With the terrible news of the president's assassination, I decided this week's column, as a change of pace, should be something light and frivolous.

Everyone's nerves have been worn to the traditional frazzle.

Sending it was Barb Gibson, a native of our city. She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson, 8824 Monroe Rd. Barb is presently living in Reseda, Calif.

A Tecumseh High graduate, Barb is a secretary for a contracting firm and may soon go into interior decorating work.

She sent along a clip from The Valley News, published in Van Nuys with a cute story headlined "How much is that in baby talk?"

It tells about . . . well, let's just reprint the piece.

"Exactly what was said in a long-distance direct dialing telephone call from 14-month-old Lisa Beth Brown to an unknown person in Tecumseh, Mich., isn't known but the cost of the call came in loud and clear.

"Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, 13463 Vanowen St., Van Nuys, received their telephone bill this month with a charge for the call. Mrs. Brown and her husband compared notes and decided the only one who could have made the call was Lisa.

"'We are sure she made the call', especially since just the other day I caught her dialing on the phone again. I waited until someone answered to find out whom she had called and the information operator wanted to know what number I wanted,' said Mrs. Brown.

"Lisa placed her $2.10 telephone call to Tecumseh on Oct. 29. After a talk with the telephone company it was decided that the less-than-a- minute call could be deducted from the Brown's bill.

"If you should answer the phone and it's only a child's voice on the other end, don't hang up — some youngster in Tecumseh may be returning little Miss Brown's call."

Does anyone in town recall hearing from Miss Brown in Van Nuys?

If the Tecumseh party will step forward, The Herald would like to wrap up the yarn from this end — and report to California.

☆

IN BARB'S letter she notes that Bonnie Buchheimer, mother Tecumseh gal and the 19-year-old daughter of Mrs. Emily Pocklington, 211 N. Maiden Lane, is also in California and in fact works on the Van Nuys paper.

Barb and Bonnie, along with two Deerfield sisters, Marj and Susie Keinath, trucked out to the Golden West in September to seek fame and fortune.

In closing, Barb kindly reports, "We receive The Tecumseh Herald every Monday (almost every Monday — we didn't get it this week and really miss it!!) and enjoy reading all the hometown news.

"We are keeping our fingers crossed that Michigan State comes out here for the Rose Bowl game," says Barb.

So are we.

Migrant Labor Ranks Included Skid Row Men

By TOM RIORDAN

Tomato growers, members of the Migrant Ministry, governmental and health officials discussed a mutual problem last Thursday at St. Peter's Parish Hall.

About 70 attended an open forum on migrant labor.

Charles Schwyn, a farmer from Blissfield, said that the growers are running into more problems every year. He claimed that prices for the tomatoes were tumbling down.

He said many of the migrants working at his farm needed a bottle of wine or they couldn't work. The state 'gives us a rough time on housing," he told the audience.

☆

THE CURRENT, predominantly inferior grade of labor was partially explained when Dr. Eleanor Skufis, county health officer, said that in checking X-rays she discovered many of this year's migrant labor force came from skid rows in Detroit and Chicago.

Some of these persons can work well in short bursts, but labor mainly to get wine money, and have no regard for the housing provided for them or the farmers who hire them.

Dr. Skufis reported that she is helpless when it comes to checking any possible sub-standard migrant housing, since the code in Lenawee only applies to new homes built since 1961.

Andrew Kramarz of Detroit, chief of farm labor service in the Michigan Employment Service, outlined the minimum governmental requirements for housing: adequate protection from elements, a wood floor, safe sewage disposal, and proper garbage disposal. He said there also must be a safe water supply.

He added that a pit privy passed toilet requirements.

☆

MRS. CARL GLADSTONE of Paw Paw recounted objectives of the Migrant Ministry and how it is supposed to work.

Begun 47 years ago and now operating in 37 states, the Ministry tries to follow the example of Christ, "Who fed and healed before he preached."

The ministry has been active in Lenawee county for the past 10 years.

Mrs. Gladstone said she came from a farm and understood the problems of the growers. Her staff instructs its members always to get permission of the growers first. The program seeks to work with the whole man.

Niel Cooper, assistant to Mr. Kramarz, told those attending, "The southwest part of the state realizes the problem is not all labor and so organized a labor-management committee."

The idea spread through the state with Lenawee County one of the only areas not to be taking part. He recommended growers here join in.

He told of the December meeting of the State Horticulture Society, when growers are scheduled to confer with representatives of the State Health Department to discuss the migrant problem.

Courses for farm management are being organized.

☆

THE POINT of group insurance for migrants' health needs was brought up by the Rev. Blair Bashore. Dr. Skufis thought that if growers got together on coverage for short-term needs, it could be worked out.

Dr. Skufis reported that get-

Library Note To Be Burned as '63 Drive Tops $67,987

Donations of $76,297.42 were made to this fall's Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation campaign, announces Chairman Ken Conway, manager of the General Telephone Co. office here.

Of this amount, $8,289.90 was earmarked for other funds by people who work in Tecumseh, but live elsewhere.

This leaves a balance of $67,987.52, which topped the goal by almost $6,000 and ran $12,000 over the 1962 drive.

"Our workers did an excellent job," the chairman said.

The city's charity obligations of $33,655 will be met and the $26,500 mortgage balance on the new library paid off during the coming year.

This city's Fund Foundation is believed to be the first of its kind in the nation, providing for charities and amassing cash for brick-and-mortar funds. The $230,000 library was the first such undertaking and in a scant three-year period completely paid off.

Residents Express Opinions on Forum

Migrant labor forum held at St. Peter's Episcopal Church was attended by around 70 people. Members of the panel each gave a brief resume, followed by discussion from the floor and a question and answer period. Even after adjournment a majority of the people attending stayed to personally discuss the problems. Next day, The Herald received many interesting and varied opinions on the forum when asked, "was the forum worthwhile?"

Mrs. Edna B. Wilcox, 609 Herrick Park Dr. — "Yes. A lot of information was given to us that we were not aware of before. The forum was conducted in a fine way, not as many personality angles were brought as I was afraid might be.

"Of course, we can't solve all the problems on the spot, but it gives us something to explore and possibilities for improvement.

"I hope a forthcoming meeting of responsible people will be able to formulate a happier working relationship and conditions. The forum has contributed a good deal to clearing the air."

Mrs. Beryl Albring, of Britton — "I don't think it did any harm like a lot of other things have, but it is a problem that will take a lot of cooperation."

Charles Schwyn, of Blissfield— "I think the county and state representatives got a little better idea as to the farmers' problems, which are many. The county and state are requiring better housing than the farmer can stand at the prices they receive for their crop."

Mrs. Percy Cadmus, of Britton — "I felt that this is our American way of doing things, hearing all sides and then coming up with a solution, but I felt that the problem wasn't solved."

Mrs. Charles Bishop, 6183 Centennial Rd. — "I think the forum was well-organized, well-conducted and educational. Nothing definite was decided. I hope the migrant ministry and the local churches can work out a program acceptable to the farmers and the migrants and beneficial to the community next year."

Joe Davilla, of Britton — "To my point of view everything was interesting, but I feel that nothing was accomplished."

Mrs. Barnard Clement, of Britton — "I do not honestly believe that too much good came out of the forum."

The Rev. Fr. Frank Hawthorne, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church — "Sure, it was. One thing people in a democracy must maintain is free discussion. It takes effort, work sometimes, brings to light mistakes, confusion, differences of opinion, but people must maintain free discussion. They will lose it by showing a lack of concern. They cannot remain silent on anything regardless of their point of view."

Robert Pearson, 416 W. Logan St. — "I think a solution can be worked out. As president of the G I Forum, a veteran's organization, I would like to offer our services to help straighten out the situation in any way that we can.

'Perhaps there are language barriers that we can help with. I think the tomato grower as represented at the forum Thursday evening is strictly for the grower. He complained about workers with kids leaving because the children had to go to school.

"They complain about the wimos, but they don't hire workers through the Farm Labor Service. If they did, the crews would be screened. Bad crews should be reported."

Mrs. Douglas Daykin, of Britton — "I believe some understanding came from the meeting, but much more could have been brought out that wasn't."

Mrs. Allison Milchinson of Ridgeway — "I think the meeting was very interesting and worthwhile. I think the people will be more aware of the migrants in the community and I hope a lot of good can come of this. I believe that labor and management should talk and work out their differences."

Lana Callihan, 205 W. Shawnee St., high school student — "Very worthwhile. I just wanted to see what it was like to see a group of citizens work together. I concluded that the farmers and the people representing the migrant workers should get together and work out their problems."

Ken Wheeler, 504 Outer Dr. — "It did some good. You certainly had opinions of three sides, Michigan Employment Security Commission, Farm Section included. You can see that they are pretty level-headed, too. I think that there was a pretty good representation."

THE TECUMSEH HERALD

An independent newspaper, published every Thursday morning at 117 S. Evans Street. Entered at the Post Office in Tecumseh, Michigan as second class matter.

Music Makers Plan To Hear Messiah

There will be no meeting of the Music Makers Club in December, but the group will attend the presentation of Handel's Messiah at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor Dec. 8.

The members will meet at the Presbyterian Church at 12:45 p. m.

Mrs. James E. Danforth, advisor, will be singing in the soprano section.

Herald Printing Letters to Santa, Also Pictures

As always, the Herald will help youngsters write their gift requests to Santa Claus. And, this year, something new is added. We'd like to show Santa pictures taken of the children as they write.

All letters will be published and then forwarded to the North Pole. It isn't necessary to send a snapshot, but enclose one if you wish and, if it's suitable for reproduction, we'll put it in the paper before sending it on to Santa.

Just write "Santa Claus, The Tecumseh Herald" on the envelope and we'll get it — and Santa will get it — and we hope you get it.

SKID ROW MEN

ting good labor was a matter of supply and demand. Some told her after seeing housing offered at some Lenawee County farms, "We don't live like this, we're not pigs," and left for other areas.

Mr. Schwyn injected the thought that growers had to end up with some profit at the end of the year.

He was asked by Mr. Bashore, "Are We (Migrant Ministry) doing any good?"

The Blissfield grower said the migrants who participated in the religious program were gaining from the program, but not the wimos."

Mrs. Maria Lopez of rural Britton, claimed that many migrants don't return to Britton farms. At nearby Erie, she related, they have come back for as many as 14 years. "The growers have to earn the respect of labor," she stated.

During the past tomato season, Mr. Cooper related, "We were scraping the bottom of the (labor) barrel."

☆

JERRY DOANS, migrant labor housing consultant, brought out the point that state officials would be happy to meet with local growers and go over various problems. He emphasized that the motivating force had to be the growers.

"We'd welcome your invitation to come down for a neighborhood meeting," Mr. Cooper added.

Although there seems to be much conversation about labor problems, "the state never gets letters of complaints from the growers," Mr. Cooper related.

He said that in Texas when the state gets three complaints on a crew leader he isn't offered work. Officials there cooperate with their opposite numbers in Michigan, relaying information on undesirables.

It was brought up that there are two migrant ministry groups — one Protestant and one Catholic — operating in Lenawee County.

Mrs. Gladstone commented that she was happy to note that the two groups had been working together.

Serving as moderator was the Rev. Earl Davidson, minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Blissfield.

Fred Whelans Celebrate 60th Anniversary

An open house honoring the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whelan will be held Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. in their home at 18 N. Drive, Vineyard Lake Point.

The event will also be held in observance of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Kempf, daughter and son-in-law of the Whelans.

Minnie A. Stitt and Fred L. Whelan were married Dec. 2, 1903, at the home of the bride's parents, located where Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Winzler now live at 605 S. Occidental Rd.

AFTER RESIDING in Onsted and Jackson the Whelan family returned to the farm home on Occidental Hwy., which they inherited. Their daughter, Mrs. Kempf, was the sixth generation to live in the residence.

She and her husband were married there on Dec. 4, 1938, by the Rev. W. C. B. Saxman, former Tecumseh Methodist pastor, now of Trenton.

The couples have lived together here and at Vineyard Lake. Ten years ago they built a home in River Acres, which is now for sale since they have moved to the lake residence permanently.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Last Friday after lunch I was organizing my thoughts on this ad, when over the radio came the words . . . "The President has been shot . . . . The President is dead . . . "

It has been very hard to start over again on this task. The countless words that have been spoken and written by the leaders of the world make me feel very inadequate.

I had intended to write a little about Thanksgiving, the day Americans give thanks they are Americans. The fly we enjoy the fruits of the harvest . . . a day of family gatherings.

This year I feel we can be especially thankful we live in the United States, where, though we lost our President through violence, another takes his place and our government and way of life goes on as before.

Thanksgiving marks the start of the Holiday season. A time of year where there does not seem to be time to do all the things one wishes to do . . . a time of good will, of love and giving.

At Clinton Woolen we offer gifts of warmth and beauty. Gifts that are long-lasting and express one's regard and appreciation.

As always we have a wide selection of sweaters. Styles of every kind for the men. From the moderate-priced pullover and cardigan to the most luxurious of alpaca.

Sweaters for the gals . . . . Golly, how can one tell of all the styles in the many different yarns we have, let alone colors. New pastels, gay ski styles, in fact styles for every occasion and colors of every hue.

Our collection of ski wear has been chosen with care. Wh ether one skis or not the practicability and style of ski wear makes it one of the most-wanted gifts.

Remember . . . for gifts of warmth and beauty, come to Clinto Woolen.

Cagers Open Season Friday

The biggest basketball team in the history of Tecumseh high school will take the floor this Friday night in the 1963-64 cage opener against Dundee.

Coach Vic Lawson, returning as basketball mentor after three years watching from the sidelines, has the makings of a possible contender for the Huron League title. It could be a team, once past the first few games, that might surprise a few rated powerhouses in the area.

However unless some key players come though, size could be the only thing going for the Indians, who will be lacking one important ingredient — experience.

If the Indians are to win this year, Lawson will have to get a lot of mileage out of Gregg Allen, Clark Nichols and Jerry Hebb.

Allen, a 6-4 sophomore of a year ago, came along fast last year and was one of Tecumseh's top players by the end of the season, one which saw the Indians rally for the league championship.

Hebb was one of Tecumseh's top scorers and best rebounders last season. He'll start either at center or forward, and like Allen, is 6-4.

A key player for Lawson may well be Nichols, a 5-8 returning letterman who has been exceptionally outstanding in practices. He could even go in the pivot position despite having two teammates towering over him.

Bill Thomas, 6-4 Jayvee center last season who helped the varsity in the final few games, is being counted on to help on the boards and will be playing considerable ball.

Senior Jim Baker is a forward prospect, lettering last year, and will play behind Allen, Hebb or Nichols.

Four fairly even rated guards are scrapping for the last two spots on the first five. In the race are John Oberlin, Jeff Osburn, Dave Tilton and Jim Lawson.

Several candidates are hobbled with football injuries but could easily crack the lineup later in the season. These include Don Baird, Steve Derby and Roy Newton. Baird and Derby were top Jayvee players last year, while Newton was a starter for Clinton before transfering to Tecumseh.

Other prospects include Doug Beasley, Jerry Hale and Bill Bartenslager.

The Indians' encounter against Dundee could easily tell how Tecumseh will fare this season. While the Vikings will not have Tecumseh's heighth, they will have greater speed, and better than average shots and ball handlers.

Dundee, winner of the Huron League grid title, is expected to be a top contender for the basketball championship.

Two of the season's first three games are vital for the Indians as Dundee and Airport are possibly the two best teams in the league. One slight advantage is that both will be played on the local court.

Jayvee games will start at 6:30, varsity games about 8 p.m.

BACK TO CAGE WARS — After three years of watching, Vic Lawson is back at his first love, coaching basketball. The Tecumseh High School athletic director took over the job when Doug Murdoch resigned. Mr. Murdoch had handled the Indian hoop squad two seasons. Prior to that, Mr. Lawson was cage mentor from 1952 to 1960. His first quintet turned in a 15 and 1 record, his last was 11 and 5.

RIDGEWAY

By MRS. WILLIAM WRIGHT

Rodger Palmer arrived home Nov. 19 with a big doe. He and his hunting party were in the upper peninsula and brought back only two deer. He said the hunting was bad where they were due to the dry and hot weather and only two inches of snow fell and that soon melted.

The Ridgeway Garden Club met with Mrs. Nina Taylor for their final meeting of the year. Mrs. Cal Rohrback of Adrian, presented Christmas suggestions, in ways to fix wreaths, table pieces and wall hangings using corn husks, Indian corn, feathers fruits and vegetables with either real or artificial flowers.

The pieces when finished were beautiful and an expression of gratitude is given to Mrs. Rohrback.

During the business meeting officers were elected for the coming year.

The nominating committee suggested that the 1963 officers be re-elected and the vote was unanimous.

Elected for the coming year:

President, Mrs. Margaret Watson

Vice President, Mrs. Ina Palmer

Secretary, Mrs. Gertrude Birdsall

Treasurer, Mrs. Viola Daisher.

The president named her new committees as follows:

Program committee, Mrs. LaVina Dettman, Mrs. Marian Auten, Mrs. Ann Fairbanks and Mrs. Nina Taylor.

Civic committee, Mrs. Edith Southard and Mrs. Viola Daisher.

Publicity, Mrs. Elaine Baker.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostess assisted by the co-hostess, Mrs. Ina Palmer.

When Buick builds a LeSabre--Buick builds a high-priced car, and puts a low price on it.

Lots of cars are in LeSabre's price class, but that's where the resemblance ends. For instance: Does anybody else in LeSabre's class treat you to that gentle Buick ride or impressive Buick performance and new gas economy? No. And who else gives you 15-inch wheels, finned aluminum front brakes, extra cushioning for middle-seat travelers, and separate heat ducts and controls for the rear seat? Right again: Nobody in LeSabre's field but LeSabre. If all this makes you think a LeSabre would look awfully nice in your garage, you should see how nicely it fits a budget. You know who to see about it, of course: your Buick dealer. Who else? Above all, it's a Buick

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THE GREAT LDAY

I am still under the spell of "Stillmeadow Sampler" by Gladys Taber. A marvelous book, full of humor, warmth and well, just plain good readin' it is the kind of a book which, after the second page, the author seems like an old and very dear friend.

I found that we had much in common — she loves her home, the out-of-doors, good food, milk glass and dogs.

But this did not start out to be a book review, even though I must say that the book is available at the library and I heartily recommend it.

Mrs. Taber's frequent references to her dogs, six cocker spaniels and one Irish setter, started me thinking that it has been a long time since our Lady made it into print.

If she can talk about her dogs why can't I talk about ours?

☆

ACTUALLY I am perhaps stretching a point by calling Lady our dog. I am sure that, if she had her say, I would not be included.

She absolutely worships the ground Dad walks on and when he isn't around, she will tolerate Mother. I am completely ignored or, worse still, snubbed.

Whenever I am outside Lady stops whatever she is doing and sits down with her back to me. If I stay in sight too long and she gets tired sitting, she lays down but, still her back is towards me.

One of Lady's greatest joys in life is helping Dad and a big English setter can be quite a help.

If, for instance, he is bending over planting tulip bulbs, she will help him see everything is done properly and, of course, it is just accidental that, in getting the best view, her icy cold nose rubs against his neck.

Whatever the yardwork is, that she and Dad are doing, Lady feels that there should be frequent stops for petting. If her idea of when it is time for a bit of attention doesn't jibe with his, she has an effective method of getting her way.

She merely sits down right in front of him. There is no walking around her because she moves too. The easiest way out for Dad is to give her a few scratches behind the ears — actually, of course, he is not a bit upset at having his work so interrupted.

☆

SELDOM IS Lady loose unless Dad is outside. But one day she was across the creek investigating some pheasant smells when it was time for him to go down after Mother.

Instead of spoiling her fun he merely left. Now Lady is a friendly dog but she does have one strong and abiding dislike—the garbage men.

She gives her most savage-sounding barks for them and has an uncanny way of knowing when they are about Blocks and blocks before we see them she announces their arrival.

Well, on the day we were discussing, our car had been gone about five minutes when up drove the garbage truck.

Oh, my — isn't it amazing the thoughts that can crowd through one's mind in just the fraction of a second? While waiting to hear Lady's vicious barking, I wondered about our liability insurance and just how much could we be sued for if our dog tore off someone's leg?

Nice, pleasant thoughts, you know.

But the barking and snarling never came. The garbage men came and went and not one peep did I hear from Lady.

☆

FROM PAST performances I knew that if she were in this end of town, she must have known they were here.

As soon as the folks arrived home, my first question was, "Where is Lady?" Dad and Mother both acted a little surprised and answered that she was out in her house — why?

So it is that Mrs. Taber may have six cockers and an Irish, but we have great fun with our one English setter — she is a great Lady.

Goodwill Seeking Clothes

Despite a record-breaking fall "heat-wave", it will be a long winter for some unemployed handicapped citizens of Lenawee and Monroe Counties.

The cold months are lonely for these unfortunate people who cannot compete with healthy workers.

But is this necessary? Can these people be helped?

Simple! A bag of old clothes will do the job. Several bags of discards will be turned into several time cards at Goodwill Industries of Southeastern Michigan.

Where do the clothes come from? That's easy, too. The housewife taking advantage of the warm fall weather by cleaning her house is the prime mover of this great opportunity.

☆

THE CLOTHES that the children have outgrown or that mother and father will never wear again will provide jobs for a heart patient, a shut-in or otherwise unemployable dependent of society.

And the procedure couldn't be simpler. Instead of wondering where to store the old clothes, the housewife can simply put them in a Goodwill bag, or any paper bag, and on the way to the store she can drop the bag in the big, yellow Goodwill deposit box.

Or she can call the Goodwill representative in her area and the Goodwill truck will pick up the bag at the door.

The Goodwill representative for the Tecumseh area is Sandra Burkhead, 427-7216.

The deposit boxes in Tecumseh are located at both Kroger and A & P stores.

CHRISTMAS FANTASY MODEL — Mrs. William Adams assists Mrs. Harold Pickard as she adjusts a lovely flocked red velvet rose and silver foliage into an arrangement for the hair. Mrs. Adams and other members of the Little Garden Club will model as Mrs. Pickard demonstrates at the "Christmas Fantasy" to be held Monday, Dec. 2, at the Community Center at 8 p.m. Lori Lee Baldwin, Peggy Burns, Linda Gilbert and Bridgett Miller will also model for the showing, sponsored by the Little Garden Club. Many Christmas decorations for the home as well as for the person will be presented.

Welcome Rebekahs Officials

Vice-president—Virginia Geer of Dexter

Secretary — Edith Wisiman of Lambertville

☆

GUESTS WERE also present from Ann Arbor, Dundee, Blissfield, Milan and Swanton, O.

Six past presidents answered roll call.

The Adrian Lodge presented a skit entitled, "Jane and Henry" and a fashion parade with styles from the time of Adam and Eve to the present.

Plans were made for a card party Nov. 23 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allshouse, Onsted with Mrs. Roger Pawson, Mrs. Carroll Frost, Mrs. R. C. Stauffer, Opal Brady and Alice Collom.

Sloppy Joes, cake and potato chips were served by Mabel Dunham and committee to 85 at tables decorated in keeping with Thanksgiving.

Are all foolish, or maybe dumb,
They repeat the telephone numbers
Five times, instead of one.

It takes twenty-one fine tobaccos
To make twenty Chesterfield fags,
What would happen if by mistake
They ground up a burlap bag?

We like the news, and also sports,
The weather gives us good advice
Some times they predict the showers
Then it turns out very nice.

I could mention several hundred
That might not cover them all,
We admit a few are really good:
But that percentage is very small.

Just think of the wasted moments
When we have to sit and wait,
For the finish of a picture,
But that seems to be our fate.

But I suppose we will stih endure
The Commercial's without doubt,
But as far as I am now concerned
They could cut them all right out.

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITORS:

After reading your many articles on the migrant situation and a few weeks ago on the problem concerning students imposing on the business places during the noon hour and the conclusions the group handling the problem arrived at, I suspect that not only I but others have, without a doubt, made some conclusions hardly considered as yet —.

With so much thought these days given to laws, regulations, restrictions, juvenile delinquency, migrants, etc., it might seem that people are or should be improving — but instead the reverse is actually true. Why?

Man in his bombardment or quest or whatever you wish to describe the true nature of man and his wish for education — knowledge and goodness and respect for himself — he is yet in the age of the "mostest" in all things to devise a slide rule for 'man's laws" and God's laws are in the background for fear of stepping on "religious demonstionalism", "race-ilism" and too various "isms" to herein mention or describe.

☆

HOWEVER, man's laws are the same as ever — they are man's! They LACK! God's laws are God's. They LAST! No matter how educated or intellectual one is or becomes, one cannot escape the true law — God's laws.

They are the omnipotent ones to yearn for, to learn of, to live by. May we yield ourselves, be concerned with, to serve by God's laws.

But how — some say — How?

The Psalmist prayed — "open mine eyes that I might see wondrous things out of thy law." How about our eyes?

Man's laws are condemning, are forcing, are failing! God's laws are loving, and free and have furnished us with Christ — "For God so loved the world, he gave his only begotten son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life." (John 3:16.)

God's son came not to condemn the world of sin, but to save the world from sin!

☆

NOW FOR those who say, 'Oh, I know all this."

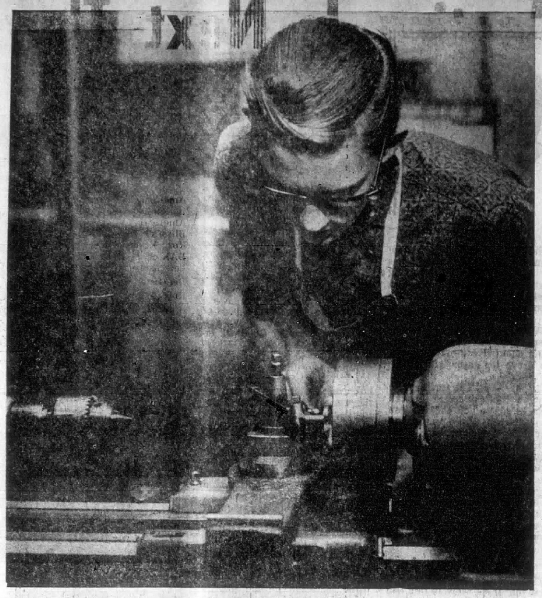
Know this? Awake to righteousness and sin not, for some have not the knowledge of God, I speak this to your shame. — (1, Corinthians 15:34.)

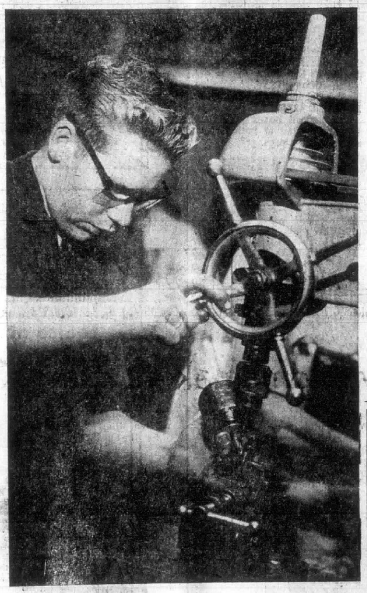
Please withhold my name from print — I do not wish to aggravate or agitate any persons, parsons or priests, but only to grolify God and His place and purpose for all people.

After all, most of what I have written was written years ago for all of us to read, and take heed so that our people might have richer rewarding lives for God, their neighbor, and themselves (and in that order) and that if problems did arise to consult God's word.)

Sincerely,
A Tecumseh Mother.

P. S. To be "do-gooders" or "good-doers" seems often frustrating. The difference might well be the reason for doing — doing for God's glory or doing for man's glory!





SHOP STUDENTS IN ACTION — When Tecumseh High School held Open House recently, shop teacher Gerald Potter came up with an unique idea — have his metal-working students operate various pieces of machinery as guests passed through the classes. An assembly line was set up and among the young men taking part were Terry Lawson (above) and Dave Radant (below), who helped fashion novelty key rings. These pictures of the event were taken by Jim Wilbar, new Herald photo apprentice.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

Q & A — SOCIAL SEC. F ...

QUESTION: Last year I was 65 and lost my regular job but obtained another at a lower salary. I will earn $1800 this year; should I file for social security?

ANSWER: Yes, you should file immediately as your present earnings will allow some benefits to be paid. The amount of benefits withheld for the year would be $350; $1 for each $2 of the $500 earned between $1200 and $1700, and dollar for dollar thereafter. An application is effective for no more than 12 months before filing. Therefore, delay in filing can cause loss of benefits.

QUESTION: I am planning on retiring in the near future and would like to know if dividends, interest, and company pension will count toward the $1200 a year I am allowed?

ANSWER: No, the above types of income do not affect your social security benefits. For a complete explanation of the annual earnings test under social security, write for booklet No. 23, or call at your social security office.

QUESTION: I retired some few months ago and had planned to start my social security checks then, but I found my birth was never recorded. Since I have no older relatives who could vouch for my age, what should I do?

ANSWER: You should have gotten in touch with the Social Security Administration sooner, at least 3 months before the day you planned to retire. That would have given them plenty of time to help you find other records that would prove your correct date of birth. Every day the Social Security Administration helps hundreds of people prove when they were born, and has a list of types of evidence that may be acceptable. Had you called sooner, you could have started your retirement by now. As they tell everyone, you should "inquire before you retire." Don't delay any longer.

better highways save lives

Traffic last Labor Day weekend broke all records—yet there was not a single fatality on Michigan's entire freeway system!

Modern highways are already reducing accidents by as much as 75% when compared with the outmoded roads they replace. It is a well-proved fact: Safety-engineered, easy-to-travel roads save lives. No better way has been found to cut accidents.

Yet today, nearly 50% of Michigan's roads and streets are still inadequate! This is no time to stop or curtail the state's great life-saving highway improvement program. The most effective way to further reduce Michigan's traffic toll is to improve these unsafe roads.

Also contributing to improved highway safety are today's modern concrete pavements. Wet or dry, concrete provides dependable skid resistance. Concrete's light color improves night visibility.

As an investment, too, concrete is first choice. Its long life and ability to take the heaviest traffic save taxes for every motorist.

Watershed Meeting Is Next Thursday

Everyone involved in the River Raisin Watershed project is being invited to a special meeting in Ritchie Hall on the Adrian College campus Thursday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m.

The five applications for federal assistance are to be completed that evening. These will cover:

1. River Raisin Main Stream, an area of 246,000 acres.
2. Wolf Creek and South Branch of River Raisin, 125,000 acres.
3. Black Creek, 100,000 acres.
4. Macon River, 123,700 acres.
5. Saline River, 84,000 acres.

The total cost for these five projects is unknown, but several millions of dollars is sure to be involved. If approved by the government, Washington would probably furnish 80% of the needed funds.

Breaking the job into five parts has been necessary because under Public Law 566, the maximum watershed acreage cannot exceed 250,000.

Great care has gone into preparation of application, under a committee headed by Cliff Miles, Adrian city manager. Various governmental units have agreed to co-sponsor the applications, although this act does not bind them to expenditure of funds.

If the program wins government approval, public hearings will be conducted and necessary land acquired.

Among governmental units acting as co-sponsors are:

City of Tecumseh
City of Adrian
Franklin Township
Tecumseh Township
Village of Clinton
Clinton Township
Palmyra Township
Petersburg Village
Summerfield Township
Woodstock Township
Dundee Township
Blissfield Township
Raisinville Township
City of Monroe

Manchester Village
London Township
Deerfield Village

War of 1812 Battle Cry Lives Again

(Editor's note — The Brooklyn Exponent, published by Bill Schepeler, recently ran a fascinating series of articles concerning the history of the River Raisin. The author is Mrs. Reginald Angus. The Herald is grateful to the Exponent for the opportunity to reprint them. The first deals with the source of the Raisin.)

By MRS. REGINALD ANGUS
The Brooklyn Exponent

"Remember the River Raisin" was a stirring battle cry of the War of 1812, when Americans who were fighting against England, heard of the massacre of our men in Monroe, by the Indians who could not be restrained by their British allies.

Today the emphasis is once more on the River Raisin but in this way: 'Do you remember the River Raisin"?

If you do, you are an old-timer recalling an unpolluted river, winding peacefully through pastoral southern Michigan in which both fishing and swimming could be enjoyed.

Today's "Remember the River Raisin" is once more a battle cry to arouse the public to preserve a watershed from both erosion and pollution so that an area rich in historical lore will know it once again as a beautiful river.

According to the geological survey maps of the United States Department of Interior, the source of the Raisin is Briggs Lake, a small undistinguished lake in the Irish Hills, three miles south of Cement City, and six or seven miles from Vineyard Lake into which it flows near Camp DeSales.

This lake is named for an early settler, John Briggs, a War of 1812 soldier who is buried in the Cambridge Junction Cemetery.

☆

FROM Vineyard Lake the river flows past Brooklyn where its Goose Creek tributary (which originates in Goose Lake, also at Cement City) joins it for the onward flow toward Norvell and Manchester.

There its main branch flows toward Clinton and Tecumseh, and smaller tributaries flow from the Adrian branch to Clayton, and Onsted.

Each branch has its own story to tell, but the Wolf Creek branch near Onsted has a unique history.

The source of Wolf Creek is Wolf Lake which may be seen from US-12.

The shores of that lake were once the camping grounds of the Pottawatamies. One of their early chiefs, Siam, gave his name to the historic school directly across US-12 from the lake.

In 1834 this site was a city on paper and Siam lots were sold to land speculators who expected to see Wolf Lake and Wolf Creek navigable by lake vessels since it was claimed that the lake was the source of the Raisin!

☆

AT BLISSFIELD the main branch of the Raisin makes a fork and winds toward Petersburg, but not before the Black Creek, Bear Creek and Nile Drain branch off.

The river in Monroe County flows through Petersburg and Dundee. Near Dundee the river again branches and receives the Saline River and the Macon Creek, which add to the water as it flows through the City of Monroe, and on past the lotus beds for which Monroe is still famous, to that bigger body of water, Lake Erie.

Harold Easton, mayor of Tecumseh, is spearheading a movement called the River Raisin Watershed Association which hopes to interest both citizens and communities in this area to unite in securing federal aid for their project under Congressional Law 566.

Such a project would impound the heavy flood and run-off waters, restore the beauty and normal flow of the river and bring parks and safe water areas to millions of people within a radius of 50-125 miles.

The project would affect 670,000 acres of land in five Michigan counties and one in Ohio, and would cost over $5,000,000.

Forty dams are planned for the Raisin and its tributaries. A string of small lakes and ponds would be created for recreation and water storage.

☆

WE SPEAK of this vast area through which the Raisin and its tributaries flow as a "watershed" which, according to the map, is one of the largest in Michigan since it touches the northeast tip of Hillsdale County, the northern part of Fulton County in Ohio, as well as the counties of Jackson, Lenawee, Washtenaw and Monroe through which it flows in snake-like coils.

One man, Ronald Pocklington of Britton, envisioned a project along the river as long ago as the 1930's when he was serving as a civil engineer for the Works Project Administration.

(To Be Continued)

Engineer Agrees on Raisin Source

Arlington D. Ash, district engineer for the United States Department of Interior Geological survey, authenticated to Mrs. Angus the information she writes about the source of the River Raisin.

Mr. Ash stated:

"A tributary draining a larger area than River Raisin joins the River Raisin about a mile upstream from State Highway 50 and about one and one-half miles northwest of Cambridge Junction.

"This tributary divides into two branches at One-mile Lake and the headwater of the west arm is South Lake (about one mile south of Briggs Lake while the headwater of the east arm is Crooked Lake (about two miles south of Cambridge Junction).

"On the basis of drainage-area size, either of these two lakes might be construed as the source of the River Raisin.

"However, it seems quite clear from the topographic maps that Briggs Lake is the true source of the River Raisin."

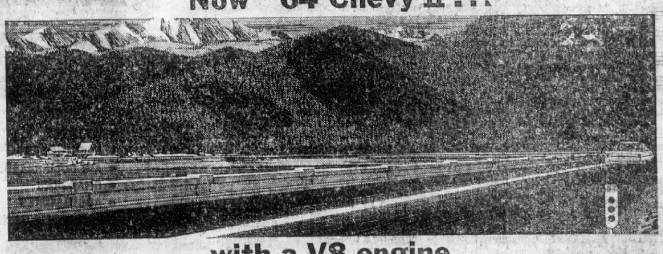
Chevy II Nova 4-Door Sedan

Now—'64 Chevy II . . .



with a V8 engine

Now you see it. Now you don't. When a Chevy II does that kind of disappearing act you know without looking twice: It's a '64 with a V8 engine.

That's right. A full-grown 195-hp Turbo-Fire V8.* It's available for the first time this year along with a choice of three other engines—the standard 4 (in 100 Series sedans), the standard 6 and a new 155-hp 6.* (And all of them maintain their high spirits on modest amounts of regular gasoline.)

But the changes aren't confined to what happens when you slip into the driver's seat.

There are new styling features like the tasteful grille design and trim accents, for instance. And the larger self-adjusting brakes that further reduce upkeep on a car that already has a reputation of coming about as close to perpetual motion as anything on four wheels can get.

The place to get the full details on the '64 is your Chevrolet dealer's. And after you've got them, we hope you'll attend to one further detail yourself. Drive it.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Defeat of fiscal reform in the special legislative session which ended last week was a defeat for all of the people of Michigan.

My personal concern about the inadequacy and unfairness of our existing tax structure goes back at least six years and is one fundamental reason why I became involved in politics.

Citizens for Michigan was organized back in 1958 to do something about correcting Michigan's tax structure.

The Citizens for Michigan tax study staff, of a dozen or so, in recent years that reached the same conclusions:

1. Michigan's tax structure must be corrected because it forces families of low income to bear a disproportionately heavy burden of the state's tax load.

2. Michigan's tax structure must be corrected because it places Michigan business at a competitive disadvantage with business in other states and thus discourages economic expansion and job creation.

3. Michigan's tax structure must be corrected because it places local government in a financial straight jacket.

☆

STEPS TAKEN by recent Legislatures to meet immediate fiscal crises have only made these deficiencies worse.

No flood of partisan charges, no boom times and treasury surpluses, no rationalization and false justifications can make our basic tax structure better. The only way to improve it is to change it.

Several things are clear about the defeat of the tax program:

1. Tax reform failed because of bipartisan opposition. Both parties must share the blame. If all Republicans had backed tax reform, it would have been adopted. Or if Democrats had continued to vote for the principles and even the details of tax reform they have supported in the past, then we would have tax reform.

2. There was more Republican support than ever before for basic tax reform. A majority of both Republican caucuses favored the tax reform before the Legislature.

3. More citizens and organizations than ever before responded to the call for support. There has been more general support for tax reform this year than at any time during the six years I have been actively engaged in the effort to straighten out Michigan's tax structure.

4. Legislators, citizens and organizations who have supported tax reform deserve the highest amount of credit for their stands. I recognize fully that nothing dulls the urgency for tax change as much as a bulging treasury. I commend those who have supported tax reform with actions and not just words.

5. It is obvious that somehow all these efforts were not enough. Although the best possible time for action is now while we do not face a crisis, tax reform is not to be at this time.

☆

MICHIGAN'S fiscal problems are not solved. They are latent, and they will rise again.

I hope with all my heart that the time for needed change will present itself again before the floodgates of crisis open up.

I predict that the people of Michigan will remember the defeat of the program and soon demand constructive action to assure the future of our state.

Michigan cannot continue to ignore the necessity of a just, job-producing program of tax action.

Hurry With Mailing

Faced with the certainty that Christmas, 1963, will set an all-time record for mailings of Christmas cards and gifts, Postmaster Jack G. Metcalf requested your cooperation in his annual "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign.

The Postmaster said, "Here are the things to watch to be sure that every Christmas card and gift package will be delivered before Christmas Eve."

First, check over Christmas card and gift list very carefully — be certain each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, state and zone or ZIP Code number.

Second, stock up soon on sturdy packing materials for gift packages, including heavy wrapping paper, corrugated cartons, strong cord and paper adhesive tape.

Third, buy your postage stamps now. Use the colorful new five-cent Christmas Tree stamps on your cards.

Fourth, procure free labels from the post office which read "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT-OF-TOWN DELIVERY", so that you can sort your Christmas cards into two groups, with addresses all facing one way, thus insuring fast delivery.

Fifth, be sure that full name and address is on all Christmas card envelopes and shipping labels and be doubly sure to include your ZIP Code number in your return address.

The Postmaster especially requests that schedule Christmas mailings so that all of cards and gifts for most distance points are mailed by Dec. 10.

Those for local destinations should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

157 Scholarships Will Be Awarded

EAST LANSING — Michigan State University, which last year became the first public university to sponsor Merit Scholarships, will renew its participation by awarding 157 such scholarships in 1964.

Through an agreement with the National Merit Scholarship Corp., MSU will make the 157 scholarship awards to students who will graduate from high school in June.

The winners will be selected for the Michigan State Merit Scholarships from finalists in the nationwide competition, who have expressed an interest in attending MSU.

Words from Grads' Mouths

Recently the members of the Guidance Department visited with some of the 1963 graduates who are attending either the University of Michigan or Eastern University. Each year these colleges (and others) invite high school representatives to the campus for interviews with their freshmen.

Of major interest is the adjustment of these youngsters to college life and curriculum, as well as the students' remarks concerning their high school preparation.

On the whole, our grads are doing all right. Some have found the going too rough, others have taken things in stride, but all say the same thing, "Whew! I never had to study like this before."

Each one of these college freshmen is finding that study habits are the largest adjustment to make. Here are some of the comments that the students wrote on their report sheets.

Question: Are you having difficulty with any college subjects?

Answer: "No great difficulty. I find that I must spend more time on every subject."

Question: What part of your high school program has been most helpful to you?

Answer: "My English courses, particularly College Prep."

"I think Tecumseh High's math courses helped me most."

"My American Lit class with Mr. Rehfro has been most helpful, as have all T.H.S. English courses."

"The extra foreign language taken has been helpful here."

Question: How could high school have better prepared you for college?

Answers: "Speeding up courses especially in math and science."

"Could have given more homework, particularly in the senior year."

"Strengthen assignment deadlines so a student feels the pressure."

". . . . make World History mandatory."

"More writing of themes, starting in the ninth grade and on up."

It's the same story every year. How come our students complain now about the work load and the pressures, and then next year complain that they weren't tough enough?

Baird, Goldsberry New '64 Grid Co-Captains

Guard Don Baird and halfback Doug Goldsberry were elected co-captains for the Tecumseh Indians 1964 grid season.

The announcement, made at the annual football banquet last Thursday night by Coach Tom Fagan, picked two of Tecumseh's outstanding football players.

Another prized award went to Dave Lemerand, selected by his teammates as the team's most valuable player for 1963.

Tim Neill served as toastmaster for the banquet, held in the THS cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Sieverts will entertain her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McKeen, of East Hartford, Conn.

Full-Length Mink Mohair Coat Is Newest Project

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Mrs. Sally Pope, 214 N. Union St., is off and running again — rather knitting again, in fact, she never stops.

This time she has quite a different project between her needles. It is a full-length mink mohair coat made with yarn imported from Italy.

Mrs. Pope hastens to say, "Oh, I'm not the only one, Mrs. Bill Harma has completed a gold and beige one and worn it several ... and Mrs. Robert French is planning to knit one. She gave me the pattern."

Mrs. Pope anticipates using about $40 to $55 worth of the fuzzy yarn made from goats whiskers to fashion a coat which might sell in a woman's shop from between $100 to $175.

STARTING FRIDAY, Mrs. Pope had completed the first 12 to 14 inches around the complete hemline by Monday morning. Wednesday, 38 inches of the coat had been knitted.

This enthusiastic knitter has completed five sweaters since Sept. 1. She knits for pleasure and mostly for members of her family, including her two sons, Eddie, 12, and Bill, 9.

She has taught numerous people the art of clicking needles and has frequently been approached about organizing a class for beginning knitters.

In reply to this Mrs. Pope says, "I wouldn't mind a bit except that I want to spend my time with my boys, even one night a week is more than I care to be away from them."

She continued, "I've helped many people out of a problem and I'm always glad to do so, but I can do this and still be with the boys. Knitting is wonderful to pick up and lay down. I knit all the time at the jewelry shop."

Many Tecumseh area residents enjoy this popular pastime.

Protection

Man's protection from evil influences through an understanding of God will be the theme at all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The title of the Bible Lesson is "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

OVER IN TURKEY — Features of a Lauson-Power Products engine, manufactured by that division of the Tecumseh Products Co., are described by a bilingual demonstrator to visitors to the U. S. Exhibition at the International Trade Fair in Izmir, Turkey.

Products Engines Are Exhibited

Lauson-Power Products Engine Divisions were among some 86 American firms who recently took part in the U. S. Exhibition at the International Trade Fair in Izmir, Turkey.

Shown at the Izmir Fair was a representative cross section of the more than 60 engine models currently produced by Lauson-Power Products. Gene E. Mackey, manager of Export Engine Sales of the Foreign Operations Division of Tecumseh Products Co., stated that the purpose of exhibiting at the fair is not only to " . . . promote sales, but to give the peoples of other countries an opportunity to better understand America through our products."

A great amount of interest was shown by the Turkish fair-goers in the entire Lauson-Power Products 1964 engine line. Each engine was explained to interested fair-goers by a bilingual demonstrator with thorough knowledge of the engine's function and uses.

Mr. Mackey is currently planning for Lauson-Power Products exhibits at several other International Trade Fairs throughout the world.

Death of Our Leader

Like the rest of America, Tecumseh was stunned Friday.

It took hours before the news of President John F. Kennedy's tragic death could sink in. Even then, people shook their heads and repeated softly, "It just can't be."

His youth, his vigor, his success so precluded the possibility of death that people were certain this hadn't happened. But, it was true, so terribly true.

Millions of words have been written and spoken about JFK. It's safe to say that no news event has ever had so much impact and such intense coverage. Television did the most tremendous job imaginable. Newspapers ran page after page of absorbing material.

We have long admired President Kennedy, as we have all men who risked their lives overseas in World War II. His heroics following the sinking of the PT boat he commanded in the Pacific will live forever in the pages of American military history.

Although we favored his opponent in the 1960 presidential election, because we hoped for a Republican administration, we never lost our deep admiration for Mr. Kennedy, a dynamic young American.

May God have mercy on his soul.

We Must Keep Posted

"I'm tired of reading about migrants," the lady said.

This could be a common reaction among other readers. Our news columns have been top-heavy with stories and letters regarding temporary workers who pick tomatoes in Lenawee County in late summer and early fall.

We might counter by saying, we're weary of reading about the Cold War, the Iron Curtain, communists in Cuba, sit-ins in the south and integration battles.

However, these are things which affect our very lives from day to day. Good citizens must learn about them, have to keep posted on world affairs.

Likewise we should be aware of community affairs. Obviously the migrant worker situation is much more urgently calling for attention than anyone at first realized. This is an intense area problem.

Readers began to speak their opinions on the subject within hours after the appearance of our story, which told how one migrant camp was left after the workers departed.

Letters and comments — pro and con — continued to pour in for a period of nearly three weeks.

As a direct result of interest in this problem, three ministers organized last week's forum, which is discussed in the editorial below.

Forum Was Excellent

Several possible courses of action that can be taken in the migrant labor situation were advanced at last week's open forum.

First of all, and probably the most important, was the thought that tomato growers in Lenawee County should join together to discuss this vital labor problem.

In turn, local growers could become part of the State Horticultural Society, which has long dealt with migrant matters — and helped solve many problems.

Representatives of the Michigan Employment Security Commission voiced genuine eagerness to meet with any group of local growers and lend their assistance. They suggested that several Lenawee County farmers attend the December meeting of the Horticulture Society in Grand Rapids.

Secondly, county health officer Dr. Eleanor Skufis brought out the fact that Lenawee County needs a housing code for old as well as new dwelling units. She explained that the present law, passed in 1961, only covers new homes.

Almost all migrant dwellings went up well before that year.

The concern of Dr. Skufis ranges beyond migrants, touching as well homes of welfare recipients. In many instances these dwellings are hovels.

Such sub-standard conditions in any part of the county can be the cause for the spread of disease to many areas. The doctor also stressed the need for pure water supplies.

The health officer can only inject herself into housing or health matters when there is suspect of a contagious disease or reports of dangerous debris and wastes in the area, or unfit water sources.

Migrant Ministry State Director Mrs. Carl Gladstone of Paw Paw, expressed concern over the Lenawee County situation and explained that the purpose of the movement she leads is purely a desire to be Christ-like in aiding those in need.

She added that being from the farm herself, she understood the many aspects confronting the growers. Mrs. Gladstone underlined the fact that people in the migrant ministry are carefully instructed in how they should go about this charity work.

Of prime importance, Mrs. Gladstone related, the church people must have full approval of the growers and closely cooperate with them. In the matter of providing clothing to migrants, she added that these must not be given away, but sold for small amounts. This helps maintain the self-respect of the migrants and at the same time underlines the fact that migrants must work for what they get.

Last week's forum was excellent for many reasons.

It was objective, informative, enlightening. The moderator, the Rev. Earl Davidson of Blissfield, did an exceptional job.

Members of the panel were articulate and honest in their comments. They represented all phases of the problem — labor, growers, Ministry, state government and health.

We're certain the work done at this forum will be the firm foundation for better understanding about the migrants and the farmers who employ them.

Another Tremendous Drive

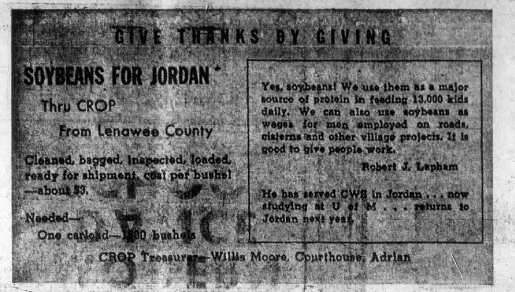
Another fabulous job was turned in by the folks who conducted Tecumseh's annual Community Fund Foundation drive.

Their work and the response by donors shot the campaign way over the top once again.

A total of $76,297 was collected and of this about $8,000 was earmarked for other funds, where local workers who pledged here live. This left a net of $67,987 for Tecumseh, almost $6,000 more than the pre-campaign goal.

Charity obligations of $33,000 will be taken care of and the surplus to pay off the library mortgage. This means a three-year debt of $50,000, paid off completely in two years.

Congratulations to the community and once again thanks to the man who conceived the idea for this unique plan four years ago.



HELP FOR CROP — This is a replica of an envelope being distributed to churches, farm groups, service clubs and other organizations in Lenawee County during the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons for individual and group contributions to CROP to buy a carload of Soybeans For Jordan.

Baby-Sitting Class Graduates 60 Girls, 3 Boys

Tecumseh Jaycee Auxiliary has completed its baby sitting clinic, held at the Community Center during the past five weeks.

Purpose of this clinic was to help the seventh and eighth grade "students become competent baby sitters.

Mrs. Dyke Helms, Co-chairman Mrs. Frank Sandhoff and Mrs. Doug Dunn report that 78 youths signed up for the class — three of them were boys.

The lessons covered.

Oct. 22 — Group told that in order to qualify for a Baby Sitting Certificate each would have to attend every meeting and pass a test that would be given on Nov. 18. Dr. Carlton Cook then spoke on what to do in case a child cut himself, also what to do if a child swallowed something. Dr. Cook's talk was followed by question and answer period.

Oct. 29 — Mrs. Robert Laidlaw, registered nurse, gave a talk on how to feed and care for children. Her talk was followed by question and answer period.

Nov. 12 — Chief of Police Clark gave a talk on what to do in case someone tried to enter the home. He stressed that under no circumstance should they leave the home they are baby sitting in. Chief Clark also gave a short discussion on what to do in case a fire broke out. Sheriff Robert Stites followed Chief Clark's talk with a demonstration on mouth-to-mouth resuscitation with a life-size manikin.

Long and Short

BY TOM RIORDAN

Back in September, when the wife and I were dashing happily about the temples at Abu Simbel in delightful 115-degree climes, we met a wonderful couple from England.

Readers may recall Jenny and Mike Lucas being mentioned in an article some weeks ago. A letter arrived from the 25-year-old Jenny the other day.

"We felt that we had to write and say how terribly shocked and sad we were to hear of the death of President Kennedy.

"I don't think I have ever experienced such honest sorrow to be felt among people concerning a public death as has been apparent in this country during the last two days.

"There are just a few times in life, aren't there, when you can tell the difference between real feeling and mocked-up feeling and this is such an occasion. People simply can't disguise true emotion.

"It is strange that in such a short space he could have built up such a stout reputation for his personality and policies.

"I can remember us discussing him — do you recall it? You said, I think, that you didn't vote for his party, but you admired him and his beliefs. I think a lot of people felt like that.

"We recognized in him the integrity that unfortunately is so rare in high-powered politics where so often that integrity has been lost by the wayside of vote-catching election campaigns.

"It must be so easy for a man to swing over to popular ideals rather than fight for what he believes.

"I feel we have all lost one of the world's greatest men and a great Catholic, too."

The kind note from Jenny was greatly appreciated and will always be cherished.

When last week's Herald was produced we were all too numb to comprehend the enormity of the situation.

Other reactions to the tragedy appear on this page.

* * *

Checking with our good neighbors at The Telegram in Adrian, we found they didn't have a spare part of the kind we needed.

Next call went to the Ann Arbor Daily News, with the same report, then The Blade in Toledo, ditto.

Chicago's Mergenthaler branch had one and wondered how we would like it to be shipped.

"Give us 15 minutes," the man was told, "And we'll try to see if we can get an air connection."

At approximately 5:15 p.m., we had the part and here's how it got to Tecumseh.

Emery Air Freight rushed the package to O'Hare Airport in the Windy City, just catching United Air Lines Flight 323 for Toledo.

The Herald's Judy Fielder got busy and phoned her friend, Mrs. Richard Jacobs, 115 W. Shawnee St., who, with her husband, runs a flying service in Adrian.

Hazel agreed to fly Judy to Toledo so that the plane from Chicago could be met and the part hustled back.

The 20-minute jump to Toledo was fine, then the Chicago ship arrived an hour late — or was it on Central Standard Time — well, anyway, the girls collected the priceless treasure and hopped back into the Jacobs' four-seated Piper.

Just as they were set to take off, the ship's radio went dead and there was no contact with the Toledo tower.

Mrs. Jacobs taxied the half mile back to the tower and reported her plight. She was told to return to the runway and watch for a green light signal. The 10-minute wait seemed like an eternity, as jets zipped above and about.

Then the light flashed and the gals were off for Adrian.

Judy reports that the run from Adrian's airport to The Herald took as much time as the Toledo-to-Adrian junket.

Thank goodness for Orville Wright and Hazel Jacobs.

Egypt Pictures Will Be Shown

Thomas Riordan, co-publisher of The Herald, will speak and present pictures of his trip to Europe and Egypt at Tecumseh Acres PTA's meeting Thursday.

The session will be held at 8 p.m., following room visitation at 7:30 p.m.

Township Fire Protection Agreements Are Reached

By JIM LINCOLN

An agreement for fire protection between two townships and Tecumseh was reached Monday night after compromises were made by each party.

Tecumseh Township Supervisor Art Eaton, and Clerk Al Merz, agreed with Councilmen to pay a flat rate of $2,000 a year, a figure less than what the city wanted, but one higher than what Tecumseh Township had been paying.

Merrick Dibble, Franklin Township supervisor, also agreed to a proposal, one different than that accepted by Tecumseh Twp., which had been paying more than any other township in the past for fire protection.

The city offered Mr. Dibble's township a contract of $300 for each fire call with a $600 annual guarantee. This would insure the local fire department at least $600 annually from Franklin Twp., plus $300 per call thereafter.

The same offer was made to Raisin Township, but no officials from this area were present. Whether the offer is accepted or rejected may not be decided until January.

James Mitchell, Raisin supervisor, said Tuesday morning that his township certainly would have rejected council's other proposal — $400 per call — but might accept an agreement to pay $300 per call, with an annual guarantee of $600.

He said the township held its monthly meeting Monday night, but didn't discuss fire protection from Tecumseh.

☆

RAISIN TWP. officials had previously considered withdrawing from Tecumseh's fire protection and depending entirely on their one-pumper and one-tanker fire department at Holloway, Mr. Mitchell said.

City officials here are known to be somewhat disappointed with their agreement and working relations with Franklin.

Although Mr. Mitchell said his township has always paid the city for the amount it was billed for fire call service, Councilmen pointed out Monday night that the township has paid only $267 for eight fire calls this year.

City Manager Cal Zorn was instructed to contact Franklin Twp., along with Macon and Adrian township officials as to their desirability in having fire protection.

Council proposed the same contract for Macon, but one of $400 per call with a guarantee of $800 per year with Adrian Twp. Reason for Adrian's higher rates was because of the greater distance from Tecumseh.

Franklin officials, who may be asked to make a decision before their next monthly meeting, are Clerk Suzanne Simon, Treasurer Mildred Gritzmaker, and Trustees Russell Schultz and Louis Westgate, besides Mr. Mitchell.

Councilmen stressed opinions that the townships should make up their minds about wanting or not wanting local fire protection.

☆

THE TECUMSEH department budget is in excess of $23,000 annually with most of the revenue covering costs coming from the community.

Both Mr. Merz and Mr. Eaton said the only way their township could have met the $400 charge per fire call was to take an extra mill, which would eventually result in the Tecumseh schools losing about $35,000 annually.

(Their reference was to the complicated 15-mill tax limitation. This tax revenue is divided between county, township and school districts, in that order.

(Each township is allowed by law to take up to three mills. None of the six townships in the Tecumseh District now take more than one mill.

(If the county allocation board approved another mill for one township in a school district, the educational unit would get that much less of the 15-mills through the entire district.

(At present, the Tecumseh District receives 8½ mills of the 15. By dropping to 7½, it would lose approximately $35,000 in revenue annually.)

Both township officials pointed out that this was wrong and pointed out that the schools certainly could not afford the loss.

Water Project on Occidental Is Questioned

Council's attempt at a public hearing Monday night, to schedule completion of water mains in the Occidental Rd. and Willow St., area hit a snag.

Several residents from the area questioned the necessity of installing water mains to eliminate dead-ends in the area and thereby improve the quality of water there.

Dr. Richard Ocamb, 417 S. Occidental Rd., said that he would not object if the installations were necessary for the progress and welfare of the area.

He added that some others in the area had contacted him, raising doubts about the necessity.

Charles Ireland protested the installations and objected to the assessment. He told Councilmen that the cost to him would be about $2,600 and property involved only netted him about $300 annually.

He added that only a few would benefit and if the installations were necessary why not raise the cost of water all over town and let the entire community help pay.

☆

CITY MANAGER Cal Zorn said that three families complain regularly about the rusty and smelly water—and are justified in their complaint — and that about 10 families would benefit from installing water mains.

Mr. Ireland was also told that the new mains would benefit his property in the future, making it more valuable.

Dr. Ocamb was told that his participation in the special assessment would certainly entitle him to tap into the water mains in the future.

Mayor Harold Easton sought —and gained—an extension of the hearing after he told other officials that one property owner along Occidental had obtained services of an attorney to handle his intesest in the matter.

Convalescent Home Operator Considers City

Possibility of using the Bildwel Building on N. Evans St., north edge of airport property, for a new convalescent home was reported Monday night at Council meeting.

City Manager Cal Zorn told officials that Dr. C. B. Jackson, owner of the Saline Convalescent Home, had sought information about a sanitary sewer, water service for a sprinkler system, water and sewerage rates, and assurance of fire protection.

Mr. Zorn was advised to inform the doctor that services were available but the doctor would have to pay the costs.

☆

IN OTHER action, Counil:

► Authorized city manager's request to seek bids for installation of 400 feet of 12-inch storm sewer on S. Maumee St.

► Refused to swap eight acres of residential lots for cancellation of ossessments amounting to $11,000 with Brooks Barron, owner of Town and Country Homes in Dearborn.

► Passed a resolution to complete legal work for construction of a new post office on site formerly known as Adams Park.

► Gave the ordinance pertaining to the highway-business district in west section of Tecumseh its first reading by title only.

Off-Street Parking for Free

Council approved free off-street parking for downtown Tecumseh merchants, Dec. 16 through Dec. 24, to help benefit merchants and shoppers alike.

City officials have regularly granted free off-street parking since the installation of the meters.

Merchants, now staying open 'til nine on weekends, will start staying open in the evenings on the first day of free parking, Dec. 16.

Clark Nichols is only 5'8", but he's a hustler on the basketball floor, "with a good nose for the ball" as Tecumseh Coach Vic Lawson puts it. Clark whipped in 36 points Friday, as the Indians were edged in their opener by Dundee, 82-80. Clark's scoring effort puts him just behind Ken Miller's 39 tallies, made in 1957 and the THS all-time individual record. Full details on the game appear on the last page.

Saginaw Area Grocery Chain Operates Here

Tecumseh Country Market has joined forces with Vescio Super Markets of Saginaw to offer a new low price program in the newly-remodeled food store.

According to Louis Vescio, an officer of the company, the pricing policy of Vescio's pronounced "Way-Shows," is to offer everyday low shelf prices plus super specials.

As part of the new policy, trading stamps have been discontinued. Coupons will be discontinued.

New store hours will be 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily with the store closing on Sundays.

The supermarket brings to four the number of Vescio Country Markets in this area. Others are located in Adrian, Milan and Saline.

Vescio Super Markets operate a total of 10 supermarkets in the Saginaw, Bay City and Owosso area.

All present employees of Country Markets have been retained and additional new personnel have been hired.

"The store was closed from Saturday night until Wednesday morning to complete remodeling and to enable store personnel to lower prices on thousands of items," said Mr. Vescio.

Public Card Party

The public card party at the Tecumseh Grange Hall has been re-scheduled for Friday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. It was originally planned for Saturday evening.

JFK Assassination Brings to Mind McKinley's Death

By GROVER SWARTS

The terrible thing that happened in Dallas recently when our President was shot and killed, a thing that we should not expect in a civilized country, brought to my mind the assassination of President McKinley on Sept. 6, 1901, at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo, N. Y.

This was 62 years ago and as a small boy I went with my father and mother to visit their relatives in New York State and on the way home stopped off at Buffalo to see the Exposition and we were in Buffalo the day this happened.

The President was at the exposition at the Temple of Music by the door and the people filed by and he shook hands with them. There was a long line in waiting when the assassin, Leon Czolgosz, came along in line with his hand wrapped up and his arm in a sling and as the President reached to shake his hand he shot him with a revolver that was wrappped in his hand.

Grover Swartz, author of this article, is a 74-year-old lifelong resident of Tipton.

The President was very seriously wounded and the assassin was captured on the spot by a colored man.

The people took it very seriously, the wounded President was rushed to the home of a friend and medical aid summoned, the Exposition grounds were cleared and closed.

We came home and on Sept. 14 the President died from the Five from Area Attend Funeral of Late President

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"It seemed like a duty and a privilege. We just had to go," said Mrs. John Hamilton, 413 E. Shawnee St. speaking of their trip to Washington, D.C., Nov. 25.

The Hamiltons with Mr. and Mrs. Russ Hyatt, 6671 Mill Hwy., and Sam Hamilton of Britton arrived in the nation's capitol city about 2 a.m. Monday.

They parked their car near the Supreme Court Building and got into a line about 15 blocks long waiting to pass by the bier of the late President John F. Kennedy.

At 8 a.m., with the last section to go into the Capitol rotunda, the Tecumseh group passed through the vestibule filled with floral offerings from the different countries throughout the world and on to the place where the President's body lay in state.

☆

LATER, waiting for the funeral cortege, the Tecumsehites mingled with the crowds, mostly young people, according to Mrs. Hamilton. She said they were not sad but subdued.

Secret Service men were in evidence everywhere as the throngs waited in the cold. The Red Cross and the Salvation Army were out in force.

Mrs. Hamilton said that the police were most tactful, one she spoke with said that he had been on duty 22 hours and had no hope of getting off.

Asking others when they decided to go to the nation's capitol, the Hamiltons found that many like themselves decided on the spur of the moment.

En route home they brought two Eastern Michigan University students with them who had been attending the services too.

Adolf Petrus Gives Reaction from Germany

Adolf Petrus of Germany, an exchange student who made his home here in 1961-62 with the James Bartons, 515 W. Pottawatamie St., wrote them of his impressions of the Kennedy assassination.

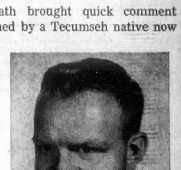
'I almost couldn't believe it when I heard it the night before last. I thought assassinations of presidents were only a part of the United States' long ago history," he said.

Adolf pent on to tell of the interruptions on television every half hour to report on the situation, also of a school dance being canceled due to the death of the president.

"Many of them think Russia was behind it because of the trouble between them and us. I only hope Johnson can carry on. Now the funeral is coming over radio from Arlington at 10:20 p.m. our time here.

Comments on Death Arrive from Africa

President Kennedy's death brought quick comment from Kenya, East Africa, penned by a Tecumseh native now living there.



BARRY PACKARD

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Packard, 511 S. Evans St., share with Herald readers portions of a letter received from their son, Barry, a science master at Kapsabet boarding school for boys in Kenya.

Barry qualified among 50 out of 1,300 applicants for the Teachers for East Africa program, a forerunner of the Peace Corps.

He was awarded a fellowship to study at Columbia University, London University, England and Mackereri College in Kampala, Ugandi.

Mr. Packard has learned to speak Swahili to the natives and is frequently asked to interpret.

Barry commented in his note:

"Imagine the surprise of all of us here when we heard about President Kennedy. We got word over radio and TV just one-half hour after he died.

'Many Africans have expressed their sorrow about it, and cannot understand why it happened when he had done so much for them.

"Many of them think Russia was behind it because of the trouble between them and us. I only hope Johnson can carry on. Now the funeral is coming over radio from Arlington at 10:20 p.m. our time here.

"Saturday afternoon a political rally was held here and I got some pictures of government officials. I wanted to get a picture of Kenyatta (prime minister of Kenya), but he did not come as he was in mourning for President Kennedy.

"Mr. Odinga had a moment of silence in memory and again in Eldaret Sunday. Tomorrow is a memorial service in Nairobi for Mr. Kennedy.

"Saturday Kenyatti appeared on TV and gave an excellent tribute to Mr. Kennedy and the United States for what had been done for Kenya, especially the food sent during the floods."

wounds. I remember that on that day a man came riding up the road on horseback and at each dwelling he would stop and tell the people the news.

At that date there were no telephones through the country, no radio, no television and no electricity and the communication was pretty slow. There were many families on the back roads who did not get the news for days.

☆

WE LIVED two miles east of Tipton and we subscribed to the twice a week Detroit Free Press, The Tecumseh Herald, which as I remember was published twice a week and mother and dad's home paper, The Dansville Express, Dansville, N. Y., this always arrived about a week late.

This particular time in Buffalo marked the annual convention of the Civil War Veterans. President McKinley addressed the Veterans and all of the veterans were given a ride in an automobile and if my memory serves me right they were single cylinder, I am sure of this but the makes I think was an Olds, Pierce Arrow and a Peerless.

This was two or three days before the assassination and marked my first automobile ride, about half the people called them a horseless carriage, and I had this ride sitting on my father's lap. The aeroplane was just a dream at that time.

Some of these memories are a bit hazy — we were standing in the shade about a city block from the Temple of Music and with bands playing and all of the other confusion it took several seconds to comprehend what had occured, but as I remember, the folks were just as concerned as they are today.

Let us hope that a like calamity never happens to our country again.

Gray Ladies Remember Elder Folks

The Gray Ladies are sponsoring a Christmas Party for a ward at the Ypsilanti State Hospital Friday, Dec. 13.

Anyone who would like to donate any new or used items of clothing, household furnishings or almost anything in good condition may do so by calling Mrs. Harry Hoffman.

A ward party may be given for the elderly by hospital personnel for only $25.

"Donations, no matter how small, help to forward this worthwhile cause," said Mrs. Hoffman.

Raisin Used as Primitive Water Road

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of stories telling of the River Raisin's history. The articles were written by Mrs. Reginald Angus for The Brooklyn Exponent.

The Raisin River was a roadway in its most primeval form. Musgrove Evans followed a tributary of the Raisin from Tecumseh to a lake in the Irish Hills which now bears his name.

As early as 1822, a Mr. Wentworth of Connecticut followed the River Raisin. The Detroit Gazette of October 17, 1823, records his impressions:

"The river is navigable spring and summer and fall 70 or 80 miles into the interior, for boats and large perogues in which the produce of the settlers can be sent to Monroe, from whence it may be shipped to any quarter."

The article goes on, explaining that "They explored the River Raisin a very considerable distance beyond the extreme settlement (now the City of Monroe), and at a point where the river forms a beautiful bend making almost a right angle to the north (probably near Blissfield), they selected a tract of 1,000 acres.

The 1822 article concludes with an estimate of the river's advantages, "Its nearness to Lake Erie, the healthiness of the inhabitants, the excellent mill privileges and the fertility of its soil, all unite to make it an object of the first magnitude to the agriculturalist and the man of business."

Many a person went the full length of the Raisin looking for land that might develop into valuable town and city property.

Such was the case of General Joseph W. Brown of Tecumseh who took title to land in Jackson County, along the River Raisin, near Vineyard Lake.

Another hopeful buyer was Charles Blackmar or Charles Blackman of Cambridge Township, Lenawee County, who, in 1829, had a tavern on historic Chicago Pike just west of where it crossed one branch of the River Raisin, near South Lake in Woodstock township.

His son, William Sylvester Blackmar relates in the Pioneer Association records, Vol. 13: "You see, every man was looking for a spot where some of the big cities of the new empire of the white man were to be.

"The great Chicago turnpike to them seemed must forever be the highway of trade and travel, and the Monroe turnpike would probably intercept it at this point, giving two eastern outlets.

"Right where my father stuck his stakes was no inconsiderable stream of water, and the imagination bodied forth a great fall there of an immense power, and great factories, and big mills, and a city." (He missed the present junction by only one mile in his calculations.)

There are sadder memories which can be invoked in almost every community along the Raisin.

In Brooklyn, one such grave is that of the Rev. Eichbaum's son who died as a result of a skating accident.

In Tecumseh, weather beaten stones tell the story of a dual tragedy which happened on Christmas day, 1843, when two sons of General Joseph Brown, Patterson and Mason, were drowned.

Members Will Report on Countries

Members of the Progress Extension Club will be hearing reports of various countries over the globe at future meetings during the roll call.

At the meeting held Nov. 18, members named the country that they have selected for study during the coming year.

Mrs. Ted Ouderkirk was the hostess. Mrs. Kennard Wise and Mrs. Merton Boss presented the lesson on "Living Color."

They told of blending and mixing colors illustrating points with the use of red and yellow light bulbs.

They told of the effects different colors have on personalities.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Boss, members decided to have a mitten tree for the needy at the next meeting, Dec. 17, at the home of Mrs. Robert L. Wood.

The mittens will be given to the Service Club for distribution.

Mrs. Ouderkirk served a dessert salad.

Brakes Lock, Truck Runs into Tree

Brakes of a semi-tractor and trailer locked Sunday at 10:30 a.m. at the intersection of M-50 and Occidental Rd. resulting in the trailer jacknifing and hitting a tree.

The driver, Cleo Kreps, 35, of Niles and a passenger, Paul Merritt LeRoy of South Bend, 38, were taken to Herrick Hospital for treatment and released.

Mr. Kreps had an abrasion on the knee and his passenger had lacerations about the head, on one leg and the index and fore finger of his left hand were badly cut.

The men were driving to Lansing to pick up a load for Bolin Drive-A-Way Co.

Worker Survives Cave-in

A workman for Art Brady contracting received minor injuries Sunday when a sewer trench he was digging at Russell Rd. and Evans St. caved in.

Lester L. Sweet, 45, of 208 S. Adrian St., was rescued by Mr. Brady and his son, Robert.

Mr. Sweet was digging in the six-foot ditch at 2:05 p.m. Sunday when the side suddenly gave away, covering him.

The two Mr. Brady's were watching when the accident occurred and dug Mr. Sweet's head free. They called for help and continued to dig him out.

The fire department resuscitator was called and first aid was administered at the scene before Mr. Sweet was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital.

X-rays showed he suffered bruises, but not serious injuries and was released from the hospital later in the afternoon.

Mr. Brady said they were working Sunday to complete the city sewer project before bad weather sets in.

Two Visitors Attend Session of Green Bees

Two guests were present at the November meeting of the Raisin Green Bees Extension Study Group, Mrs. Robert Reeves and Mrs. Gene Earling.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Mullins. Besides the main item, turkey, several Thanksgiving table centerpiece ideas were given by the members as the roll call.

Mrs. Ormand Socks demonstrated the project lesson, "Living Color" with color wheels.

Instead of having a planned potluck dinner for the December meeting, the group decided to eat out, and then go to the home of Mrs. Socks for games and the $1 gift exchange.

Mrs. Evert Loop and Mrs. Sydney Turner are in charge of the games and Mrs. Robert Beevers will show slides of a recent trip to Mexico.

Members will again furnish a food basket for a needy family, and include in it, besides the wrapped canned goods and staple food items, a food gift certificate.

The group worked on smocked gingham pillow covers and several members worked on hardware-cloth wall plaques.

Mrs. George Downard and Mrs. Stanley Dermyer assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

The raffle gift was awarded to Mrs. Earling. It was brought by Mrs. Robert Beevers. The nextmeeting will be Dec. 16 when members will meet at 6:30 p.m. for dinner at Don's Beef Buffet.

Tuttle Holding Sales Meeting

First national sales meeting in its history is being planned by H. W. Tuttle & Co. of Tecumseh.

Monday and Tuesday are the days scheduled for the meeting, although most of the representatives are expected to arrive on Sunday.

Ten Tuttle sales offices will be represented at the meeting coming from all over the United States.

Meals and a major part of the program will take place at the Tecumseh Country Club.

☆

THE PROGRAM will cover engineering improvements on present lines of products, the introduction of new lines and a tour of the plant in Tecumseh.

During the tour, representatives will view the latest improvement to the Tuttle layout. A 2,500-square feet addition has just been completed on the north side of the building to improve shipping and receiving facilities and to free additional space for production.

Production, sales and employment at H. W. Tuttle & Co. have increased greatly in the past five years. In 1963 alone, employment rose better than 20%.

☆

"WE LOOK forward to a continued increase in sales and employment during 1964," said Mr. Harold Tuttle, president of the company.

"With the improvement in our current lines, the addition of new lines and improved distribution, we are in a position to take full advantage of the national trend to electric heating.

"This is a relatively new field with a tremendous growth potential and 'The Tuttles of Tecumseh' intend to grow right along with or a little ahead of the rest of the industry," he stated.

IN MEMORIAM

(To John F. Kennedy)
By Gloria Calhoun

A kiss . . . a ring . . . the drapes of night are drawn!
Weep not, oh country, for thy fallen son . . . .
Hold back the tears and conceal thy sorrow,
For rays of shining hope announce a new tomorrow . . .

His mission is accomplished, no longer he'll be near,
but we thank you, dear God, for the time he spent here.
He stood by his convictions regardless of his fate;
To follow his example one knows it's not too late . . . .

And as he humbly walks into the silent land,
Wait there for him, oh Lord, and take him by the hand,
Show him the path that leads to Your eternal dawn
and softly and sweetly whisper: WELL DONE,
MY SON, WELL DONE!

TEEN TALK

BY JANICE WHELAN

Annual football banquet was held in the Tecumseh High School cafeteria Nov. 21. Freshman, junior varsity and varsity players were present plus parents, friends, faculty and coaches. The master of ceremonies was Tim O'Neil, and the guest speaker was the coach from Albion College.

☆

A football honors assembly was also held Nov. 15, in honor and recognition of players, who then received their cartificates or letters.

☆

The Varsity Club will be taking charge of the basketball programs again this year. Last year they put out a very elaborate program, including pictures of the players and cheerleaders. Although they lost some money in the process it was a great service to the school and we appreciate their willingness to do it again this year.

☆

The Student Council officers went to a Huron League Student Council meeting at Blissfield High School Nov. 26. Blissfield is in charge of the Huron League this year, but it rotates every year, so that each school in the league has a chance to have it.

☆

The Tecumseh Teen Club received a letter concerning the group of square dancers from Brighton, which was sponsored by the Teen Club. They have asked me to publish this letter, and if any of the readers have any opinion on it, I'm sure the Teen Club would appreciate it.

"From all reports last Saturday night was a ball when 20 teenagers from Brighton visited our Teen Club and put on a demonstration of Modern (Western) Square Dancing. Most of us were surprised to find it was different style of dancing from the old-fashioned country style we all learned back in grade school.

"In modern square dancing we are all active at once and amazingly, we were able to participate and go through the clever maneuvers right along with the experienced dancers from Brighton as their caller, Glenn Eastman, put us through our paces.

"We also found that there are teenage square dance clubs in almost every city in the nation and if we had a club we could go and dance and have the following clubs in our area come and dance with us like they did Saturday night—

"Jills and Jeans, St. Claire Shores

"Teen Wheelers, Livonia

"Dearborn Promenaders, Dearborn

"Kollide-a-scope, Brighton

"Adrian Teens, Adrian

"There are also clubs in Jackson, Ann Arbor, Toledo and Detroit.

"If we had a club we would also be eligible to go to the State Square Dance Convention which is usually held at Cobo Hall in Detroit on a Friday and a Saturday afternoon and evening in November each year and also to the Promenade Jamboree Dance held each spring in Toledo at the Sports Arena.

"We would also be eligible to attend the National Square Dance Convention held each summer (this year in California) the same at the Promenaders, a square dance club from Michigan State University."

☆

Nov. 27, was the day that the first Tecumseh High School newspaper, the Scout, was sold for a nickel a copy. The advisor of the staff is Mrs. Barbara Speerstra. The staff hopes to have 100% support from the student body in order to continue the paper.

☆

Mr. Chatters, the new Physics and Math teacher at the high school, is helping interested students organize a Radio Club. Although the club is in the experimental process, Mr. Chatters said that the members were apparently enthused for they thus far have had meetings every week. He hopes that more students will join.

☆

On Wed., Nov. 20, Tuberculin tests were given to high school students who wished to have them. The Future Nurses provided girls to wash arms, hand out cards, and keep the students in order as they waited to receive the test. When the tests were checked on the following Friday the Future Nurses also provided girls to pass out cards.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

A woman was telling a friend that she ALWAYS bought all her Christmas presents in October. The friend replied: "But how do you know in October who your friends will be in December?"

Now that is a good question.

October is long past . . . Christmas is almost here. What about friend husband? We assume HE still falls in that category. Of course there are always ties, socks and the like . . . but allow us to make a few suggestions.

Sans-A-Belt slacks are a proven man's choice. I.E can always use another pair of slacks. Only trouble is once HE wears these he will be dissatisfied with any other.

All men like Harris Tweeds and we have a selection of fine Harris Tweed sportscoats. Let him slip into one of these and HE will be walking around his estate, all 10,000 square feet, like an English gentleman. We also have English Walking Coats for the cold days ahead.

How about a touch of Western style? HE will feel right at home in one of our shirts or jackets tailored from fine wools in the Western mood.

What man ever had as many jackets as HE would like. At Clinton Woolen we offer in woolightweights, medium and heavyweights . . . Also corduroy and cotton shells with either wool or pile linings in a variety of styles.

If HE skis or just likes the look and feel of Ski Wear we know we have an item to please him. At Clinton Woolen we offer Parkas, Ski Pants, Mitts, Sweaters, Underwear, Head Bands, After Ski Boots. The last item, After Ski Boots, HE will enjoy even if HE's never closer to a ski run than his back yard.

Come to Clinton Woolen for gifts of beauty and warmth especially for HIM.

P.S. While you are here make a note or let us make one on your choices of what your heart desires. Chances are HE will be in and usually appreciates helpful suggestions.

"Gee, this comfy lounge chair is the nicest spot to relax after a hard day at the office!"

ANGEL OF MERCY — Mrs. Richard Jacobs has just picked up the linotype part which held The Herald to a near standstill until delivered. The package was flown from Chicago to Toledo Airport by United Air Lines, where Hazel met it, then rushed to her plane to head for home.

Baptist Pastor, Wife Feted by 300 Friends

Nearly 300 gathered Nov. 24 in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church for the appreciation dinner for the Rev. and Mrs. B. O. Bashore.

Many from the North Rome Church joined with visiting dignitaries for the festive occasion honoring the Bashores for years they have served in the Tecumseh church.

Robert Gillespie, chairman of the Board of Deacons who arranged the program, spoke briefly, and announced that John Surratt would be master of ceremonies.

Mrs. James E. Danforth sang the Lord's Prayer as the table blessing accompanied by Mrs. Paul Brantingham.

A roast beef dinner was prepared and donated by the church women with Mrs. Floyd Barnett, chairlady of the kitchen, assisted by Mrs. Roscoe Hewlett. The Tecumseh High School Madrigal Singers presented several selections, accompanied by Dexter Bailey.

☆

MAYOR HAROLD EASTON, chairman of the Board of Trustees, spoke of the numerous local civic activities and church improvements Mr. Bashore had led.

The Rev. Paul Brantingham represented the Tecumseh Ministerial Association and presented the couple a token of appreciation. He said that the Bashores have been good for the church and the church has been good for the Bashores.

Mr. Surratt then introduced Harold Hough, County Welfare Director of Adrian, who spoke of the untiring efforts of Mr. Bashore in his service on the Welfare Board, the Supervisors and the Lenawee Family Counseling Service.

In behalf of all the church women, Mrs. Eddie Kirkland thanked Mrs. Bashore for her leadership of the women's work in the churches.

The Rev. James Burgess, director of Town and Country Churches of the Michigan Baptist Convention, said that this period of tenure is almost without parallel in the association.

The Bashores have served 20 consecutive years in one church, 14 of which he also served as Yoke Pastor of the North Rome Baptist Church.

☆

H. LEE PRETTYMAN, church treasurer, presented the couple with an appreciation purse contributed by members and friends of the two churches.

The Rev. Bashore in response thanked everyone for the dedicated help the couple have received from the loyal and understanding church constituency through the years. He stated both hoped with God's help to serve many more years. He also thanked the people for permitting him to work in worthy civic projects.

The Rev. Mr. Bashore pointed out that it was through his wife's efforts that their long stay in Tecumseh has been possible.

The Madrigal Singers concluded the program with the song, "Blair, the Baptist" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You".

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Diller of the Family Counseling Service, the Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Taylor of the First Baptist Church, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foreman, superintendents of the Maple Lane Manor and their daughter, Barbara, all of Adrian, Robert Burgess, Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. James Kroske and children, Ypsilanti, and several members of the North Rome Baptist Church were among those attending from out of town.

☆

THE TABLES were decorated with fall floral pieces donated by different members and organizations of the church with Mrs. Harold Kelso in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Thomas Brooks, dining room chairman, with her committee and assisted by Mr. and Mrs. John Westgate and other church members were in charge of setting up the dining room and serving the dinner.

Mrs. Orville Bishop, president of the Women's Society, her officers, and the Board of Deaconesses made dinner arrangements.

The Board of Trustees and the Deacons arranged the program.

An orchid worn by Mrs. Bashore and a carnation worn by Rev. Bashore were given them by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bishop who were unable to be present because of a pre-arranged trip to Mississippi to visit their parents.

A guest book with the names of those in attendance and several pictures of the group were presented the honored couple.

The Bashores extend thanks to all who contributed in any way to make this an unforgettable day for them and to the friends unable to attend who sent letters, cards and gifts.

Indians Edged in High Scoring Opener, 82-80

Little Dundee —— supposedly dropping out of the Huron League because it is too small and can't keep pace with Tecumseh and a couple other bigger schools — appeared Friday night ready to add the basketball crown to its football championship.

The visiting Vikings edged the Indians, 82-80, before a standing-room-only crowd in what was probably the highest scoring opener in Tecumseh's history.

Although disappointed in losing, Coach Vic Lawson must have received some satisfaction, particularly in the sensational performance of Clark Nichols.

Nichols, with 36 points, and 6-4 Gregg Allen with 24, paced the scoring for both teams.

☆

The Indians travel to Flat Rock this Friday night and should even their record at 1-1 for the season. The Rams, twice conquerors of Tecumseh last year, lost practically their entire squad through graduation.

The Dundee-Tecumseh game here gave fans of both teams a good idea of their respective teams. Dundee, 2-0 for the season after an early win over Ida, appears to deserve top rating for the loop's crown, with Tecumseh, only a notch behind, and perhaps not even that.

The visitors capitalized on some ragged play by the Indians early in the game, plus some cold shooting, to jump to a nine-point halftime lead.

Midway in the third period, Dundee increased its lead to 56-40.

Nichols then started gunning, droped eight straight points through the hoop in leading a Tecumseh surge which carried the Indians to within two points at the three-quarter mark.

With all five starters on the Dundee team playing with four personals to start the final period, Tecumseh appeared ready to take command.

With over five minutes remaining, the 5'8" Nichols put Tecumseh ahead, 68-66, for the first — and only — time of the game. Dundee rallied for nine straight points before the Indians came back to nearly tie the game.

With one second left, Nichols made his tenth consecutive foul shot, cutting Dundee's lead to two points. With one foul shot still coming up, the Indians called time.

Lawson's bit of strategy nearly paid off. Nichols purposely missed his 11th foul shot, giving Tecumseh's two big men — Allen and 6-4 Jerry Hebb — a chance to bat the rebound in.

It wouldn't fail, and with it went Tecumseh's opener.

☆

IN JANUARY, the Indians have another chance at Dundee, a veteran team that has a bit more balance now than the Indians, who will certainly improve, as several newcomers gain more experience.

In Nichols and Allen, Tecumseh has a scoring punch equal to any team in the area.

Tecumseh Jayvees weathered a second-quarter rally by the Dundee Vikings to win their season opener, 53-44.

Ron Reutschler paced the Indian cagers with 19 points. Teammate John Goodman tallied 11, and Terry Alcock nine.

Coach Jim Hoffman's team led from the start and at one time held a 12-point margin in the second quarter, just before the visitors made their only threat of the game.

Arranging Exchange of Mayors

Annual drawing for mayor's exchange day will be held next Friday at Lansing with Gov. Rommey selecting cities and villages for exchanging.

The Rev. Blair Bashore gave the invocation at the ceremony, which took place at 1:30 p.m.

Chairman of the Hospital Board Ken Herrick presented the home's key to Mayor Harold Easton.

Both men spoke briefly and the mayor then returned the key to Mr. Herrick to signify the actual opening.

Tours of the home were conducted by employees of the nursing home and members of the Hospital Auxiliary. Refreshments were served by the Auxiliary.

The first resident, Mrs. Allan Seager, moved into the home Tuesday morning.

When completely filled, with a maximum of 25 residents, the home will have a staff of 10.

Tory Five Squeaks by 43-42

BRITTON — State Class D champs, Britton's Tories, barely made it to the victory column Tuesday night in their season opener against Summerfield.

The Tories finally whipped the visitors, 43-42, with Phil Benedict tossing in 17 points. It was the club's 24th straight victory.

Except for the last few moments in the third stanza, Britton led all the way.

Coach Sam Hamilton blamed Britton's performance on first game jitters. The Tories play at Adrian CC Friday night and a much tougher opponent.

Friday, the Tories travel to Adrian Catholic Central.

PRETTY FUR COATS

I just hope there is nothing to the old tales about predicting winter by noting the number of stripes on a caterpillar, how many fogs there were over the mountains or how thick the hair is on furry animals.

My fingers are crossed, because if signs mean anything, we are in for one wing-ding of a winter.

I can't comment on the crawly things or the foggy mountains, but the squirrels are certainly sporting rich and thick fur coats.

There are about three squirrels in the neighborhood — one of them living across the street in Prettyman's big maple trees, but he comes over often enough to be counted as one of the bunch.

All of them are zippered up and tucked into coats thick enough to keep them warm through the most hideously cold weather. They need not worry about what crazy gyrations the thermometer may take.

One of the fellows has so much fur on the top of his head that it is even difficult to see his ears, they hardly stick up at all.

☆

THEIR TAILS are, of course, absolutely gorgeous. Long and flowing, they are bushy flags which seemingly tell us much about their owners' dispositions.

When mad, it is amazing how fast a squirrel can "flop" his tail. At times we have marvelled that they weren't shaken right off.

When the weather is very cold Mr. Squirrel can use his luxurious tail for a blanket. He merely flips it up over his back and presto, a snugly warm cover. It is also a good wind break or, during one of those cold nasty winter rains, a fine umbrella.

The most fun, however, is to watch a hungry squirrel in a snow storm. If he discovers something tasty on the feeder, up and over goes the tail and Mr. S. settles down for a treat.

When the snow piles up a little, a few shakes sends it flying and a clean blanket once again fits over the back and head. A year or so ago we had a terrifically hard snow storm and apparently an extremely hungry squirrel — it made quite a combination.

THE SNOW was coming down in big flakes and was much too thick to be shaken off but, on the other hand, the pile of sunflower seeds was just too good to leave.

It wasn't long before we had a snowman squirrel on the feeder. The snow was piled up on his tail. It was even stuck to the tip which dipped over his forehead — what a sight.

This fall one of our squirrels is wearing an amazingly dark coat. When he comes for his daily lunch of corn we can't get over laughing at his face. He is so dark that his little face looks dirty. The fur on his back is so very dark, the tips of the guard hairs must be almost black. His coat is rich and shiny, a handsome character.

☆

ANOTHER handsome character, all decked out for winter, is Little Red. Somehow his fur coat doesn't seem as heavy as the foxes' but, of course, he is much slicker to start with.

His bottle-brush tail is big and full so I suppose the rest of his fur is sufficiently thick. It is certainly pretty — his back is a dark rich reddish-brown and his front a soft snow white. Just lately his actions have nearly matched his appearance than usual.

Instead of being his old nasty self and chasing the bigger squirrels away, he has paid them no attention at all. If only it would last — these little red squirrels are cute, but sooner or later their true character starts showing and then they are nasty.

So it is that the squirrels are reminding us of things to come. They are all set for winter with their pretty fur coats.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The most valuable asset of any publication is its paid circulation. Paid circulation certifies the worth of a newspaper and assures any advertiser that his message will be welcomed into a specific number of homes.

The worth of paid circulation has been dramatized in the results of newspaper strikes in Cleveland, New York and Chicago.

Where a legitimate newspaper is suspended, free circulation publications, often with huge claimed circulations, make their appearance. Advertisers have always found that the replacement publications are not satisfactory substitutes for established newspapers.

☆

THE REASONS ARE several-fold and simple:

1. Since the free circulation publication is not sought by the reader, often it never reaches the person who would act upon advertising. A large percentage of such publications are quickly deposited in gutters and garbage cans.

2. The free-circulation publication has no accumulated prestige which may be transferred to the advertiser. It has no proven public acceptance to offer the retailer.

3. Free circulation is on a quantity rather than quality basis. The local consumer who may have a real impact in local trade subscribes to the community newspaper, not only to read the advertising, but also because of his interest in the community as a citizen.

4. The average family includes four or five individual consumers who are certainly reached by the legitimate community newspaper. The free circulation shopper is rarely scanned by more than one person.

It is no accident, then, that the great retailers throughout the nation continue to put the bulk of their advertising dollar in newspapers with certified paid circulation.

MAN to MAN

"Do I have any choice about what training I get in the Army?"

—Bill W.

Maybe you've heard of Choice, Not Chance. Those words describe the Army enlistment program designed to help you get the job training you want while serving your country in the Army. Here's the way it works: You choose the training you want from more than 400 jobs the Army offers. You take tests to see if you can qualify for the training you want.

If you pass, your choice of training is guaranteed—in writing. And all this happens before you enlist, with no obligation on your part. It's part of the Army's constant effort to get the right man in the right job. When that happens, the man, the Army, and the Nation all profit.

That's why we say Army enlistment offers you the opportunity to do two very important things at the same time. You benefit yourself, and you serve your country, when you enlist in the U.S. Army.

Construction on Addition Is Started

BRITTON — Construction began last week on the new seven-room elementary addition on the west end of the Britton-Macon School.

The addition is scheduled to be completed on or before August 1, 1964.

The Minion Construction Co. of Ypsilanti is also going to convert the present kindergarten room to a library to be used by elementary and high school students.

The architect, R. S. Gerganoff of Ypsilanti, has made plans to use two elementary rooms for a new science room and to enlarge the school office.

☆

TOTAL COST of construction will be approximately $200,000, including the new science equipment.

All the new equipment for the science room will cost approximately $10,500.

The drains and pipes will all hook into the outer edge of the floor.

This will leave the center of the floor free, insuring that the room could be converted into a regular classroom.

The reasons for the expansion are to eliminate the present overcrowding in the elementary rooms and to improve the science program.

BUILDING INSPECTOR,
CLIFFORD J. CURRAN

How much will it cost you to become the owner of a Lincoln Continental? For a used Continental, probably less than you would expect for so fine a luxury automobile.

You can scarcely tell that it is not brand-new. The classic look has not changed. The car has been restored to prime condition in both appearance and performance.

And the price includes, as standard equipment, virtually every luxury and performance feature you can imagine. Why not make this your year to move up to a LINCOLN CONTINENTAL.

Young Lady from Mexico Spends 8 Weeks in City

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mensing and family, 509 N. Maiden Lane are entertaining Diana Amparo Almaguer of Cuidad Valles, Mexico as a houseguest for the next eight weeks.

She'll attend Tecumseh High School while here.

With 92 other students under the Youth for Understanding program, Miss Almaguer arrive Nov. 26 at the Metropolitan Airport.

The 18th birthday anniversary of the young lady was celebrated at the Mensing residence Friday with the decorated cake holding much interest for her, since she had never before seen decorative lettering on a cake.

Snow was also among the firsts for Miss Almaguer and at the Michigan-Ohio State game Saturday she would have liked to put some in a box to keep.

Ice, when it comes, will be interesting, too, for this young lady, as a native of the warmer climes, has seen little.

☆

SHE HAS had two years of English in school and does well in speaking with some help from the Mensing's daughter, Mary Jo, who spent eight weeks this summer in Mexico City as an exchange student.

Mrs. Mensing said, "She is a delightful person to have in our home and she has such a desire to learn. She keeps her dictionary close at hand all the time and she and Mary Jo look up anything that isn't quite clear. She has improved her speech so much in just the week she has been here."

After a session with Mrs. Barbara Speerstra, Diana decided to take United States history, American Literature, sociology, typing an English course and one study hall.

DIANE ALMAGUER

Mrs. Mensing concluded that [illegible] in other countries are far more ambitious than Americans.

☆

CUIDAD VALLES, a city of 13,000, is located in San Luis Potosi, Mexico.

It has recently doubled in population as the result of a new sugar refinery there which will open this month. This is due to sugar export from Cuba.

Diana's father, Manuel Almaguer, is a broker or wholesale distributor of many products including aluminum, United States rubber products, groceries and Mobil Oil products.

Diana was happy to see the big Mobil sign at Easton's Friendly Service station because it is exactly the same as one used by her father.

Diana was pleased to attend the wedding of Karin Walker and Bradley Bruce Saturday evening. She said it was much quieter than weddings in Mexico, but she thought it very beautiful.

☆

SUNDAY SHE toured the campus of the University of Michigan with Jim Aneff of Adrian, who assists with the Youth For Understanding program.

The past two summers he had been a houseguest in her home in Valles. She was much impressed with the different races of people who are students there on the campus.

Mrs. Mensing remarked that she wished that more people would take advantage of the opportunity that the program presents. She said there is always a need of families to be host parents.

For All We Hold Sacred . . . Attend Church

It's an old family custom. I hang up my stocking for Santa to fill. Then everyone has to be very quiet while Daddy reads the Christmas Story from our big family Bible . . . about the Shepherds . . . how they watched . . . and listened. That's why they knew Jesus had come: because they listened!

Again today, Christmas brings good tidings . . . of peace on earth . . . good will toward men. Church bells ring . . . children sing carols . . . the Story of Bethlehem is told again.

It means Joy to the world: if we listen!

The existing 18-foot highway was widened to 24 feet.

Completion of the project will eliminate a four-mile-long detour.

Long and Short

BY TOM RIORDAN

All right, who can explain what a "gnomon" is?

This vital question arises as the result of a chat with Wilfred Waldron, who is back on the farm after tramping through most of the southwest. (See Dorothy Grigg's "You Told Us" column for details of the trip.)

Wilfred saw a king-size "gnomon" out in Arizona, only he didn't know what it was at the time.

Since you probably don't click on this "gnomon" business — who could? — it should be explained that this is part of a sun dial, the blade which is affixed over the dial at a delicate angle to throw the tell-tale shadow.

Now that this writer has stumbled all over the place, let's retrace and put things in better order.

On his jaunt, Wilfred was greatly impressed with the sun dial he viewed in a resort area with the unique name of Carefree. Being civic-minded, the first thing Wilfred thought to himself was, "Say, wouldn't one of these be wonderful next to the Tecumseh Community Center.

At Carefree, with a dial about 25 feet in diameter, the gnomon stood 20 feet above the ground.

The first thing Wilfred did was pull out his pocket watch and wait for the next hour to hit — it happened to be 4 p.m.— then checked the shadow. It sliced exactly through the No. 4 graduation.

Wilfred wasn't sure if the folks at Carefree called this the World's Largest Sun Dial, but don't you imagine they do? That is, unless they know of one bigger.

Which gets us to Wilfred's thought: How about one for Tecumseh?

The idea fascinates, could probably be done for a reasonable amount and if made 21 feet high, our city could grab top billing in the nation's sun dial competition.

Besides, if a guy had his watch at Sally Pope's or Dick Eggleston's for the rest cure, he'd just have to meander over to the city sun dial to find out the hour.

Humor in advertising is a rare and seldom thing.

When it appears in print, over the radio, or on TV, folks almost always enjoy the spoof — maybe because it is so seldom seen or heard.

Who doesn't get a bang out of the Volkswagen copy, which makes fun of its own product, calling the VW a "beetle?" Or the GM Guardian Maintenance guff with Bob and Ray on radio? Or the Gravy Train television shot with the ducklings, which barge in and push the dog aside?

But these and other humorous ads are the rare birds. What's the catch? When funny material does so well in making folks remember a product and probably buy it, why isn't more used?

Fear and trepidation are probably the biggest factors.

Not everyone has a sense of humor, especially top brass in the manufacturing business. They don't want to cast off the least bit of dignity regarding their product. It's a serious business to them.

Humor, of course, isn't always going to be the ticket. Funny

2 Bands Perform Concert

The Cadet and Senior High School Bands are preparing appropriate selections for an instrumental concert to be held Tuesday, Dec. 17, at 8 p.m. in the high school gym.

Several arrangements of Christmas selections will be played and the program will feature a flute solo by Vicki Hannah with band accompaniment.

An arrangement of "Silent Night" will be highlighted with all of the flutists of both bands playing.

A total of 150 musicians under the direction of Miles Cowdrey and Don Johnson will be involved and a committee of students are preparing the decorations.

According to the directors, though not lengthy, the program should prove interesting to the listener.

There will be no charge.

SANTA, AS HE VISITED WITH LITTLE JULIE ATEN LAST YEAR

Parade for Santa

Santa Claus will make a grand entrance into Tecumseh Saturday morning at 10.

Tecumseh High School's sharp-marching band, paced by its majorettes, will lead ole Santa into town, coming from the city hall, down Chicago Blvd., swinging about at the Woolworth's corner and returning to the Four Corners.

Santa will ride in on one of the city's fire trucks.

The THS Cadet Band will also take part, following the Santa car. There is a possibility that a children's baton twirlling group will be on hand if weather conditions permit.

At the conclusion of the march, the THS band, under the baton of Director Don Johnson, will play a short concert, grouped around the Santa trailer at the Four Corners.

Following the grand entrance of Santa, he'll spend most of Saturday at his trailer, giving free candy treats to all the youngsters and hearing what they want for Christmas.

Applications on the Way

It's all official now — the River Raisin Watershed Association, Inc. has filed applications for Federal aid to reclaim and develop the 700,000-acre river area.

Since Public Act 566 limits the size of a project to 450,000 acres, the Raisin watershed has been broken into five parts.

Requisitions for aid in each case were formally signed last week and given to government officials.

Michigan's Soil Conservation committee chairman George McIntyre accepted for the state and Allan Collins of the USDA Soil Conservation Service, represented the federal government.

The applications, prepared under the direction of Adrian City Manager Cliff Miles, drew praise from the pair.

☆

MR. MCINTYRE added that "You have done a wonderful job of informing the people in the watershed, but don't stop now, you're job is just beginning."

He referred to the bevy of articles which have appeared in the past year throughout the four-county area of the watershed. Most of the stories were made part of the official papers.

The applications are expected to get rapid consideration in both Lansing and Washington.

Following approval, a survey team will study the entire watershed and formulate a plan of work.

This group will also tab total costs, which will probably be several million dollars. The federal government is expected to handle up to 80% of the money needed.

☆

AMONG THE persons signing the applications were the drain commissioners:

► Don Mitchell of Lenawee County

► Don Burton of Monroe County

► John Flook of Washtenaw County

► Wendell Gee of Jackson County.

Soil Conservation District representatives also affixed their names on the requests for federal assistance.

☆

"To assist in promoting and establishing a watershed area along the basin of the River Raisin in and through the counties of Lenawee, Monroe, Jack-

Dear Santa . . .

Please come to our house soon. I want a slinky. I want a pick-up truck. I want a rubber ball and a fire engine. Please give some candy in my stocking and some candy for Mama's wooden shoe. Water Still Sought for Chemical Plant

Riggers are still drilling for water in the Sutton area for Anderson Chemical Division and its proposed $5 million plant to be built in Lenawee County.

Greater attention is now being focused on the Sutton site with an option taken out over the weekend for Jesse Stretch's 97-acre farm.

A rig for drilling a well was set up on the Stretch property Tuesday.

Drillers reportedly have struck water on the Sutton farm, one well producing about 800 gallons per minute. One official said the company is hoping to strike a well capable of 2,000 gallons-per-minute, but would be satisfied with 1,500.

The Stretch farm adjoins the Sutton farm to the west, both properties about three miles south of Tecumseh and about one and one-half mile east of Occidental Rd.

Vic Pallister, secretary of Adrian's Chamber of Commerce, said it was his opinion that it would be several weeks before anything definite is known and reported by the company.

Anderson Chemical Division, subsidiary of Stauffer Chemical Co., has two possible sites for the plant, which will employ about 700.

The preferred site is just east of Adrian in the Wade and Academy Rd. section.

The other site is Sutton. Both are located in Raisin Township.

Boy Carries Pistol, But Doesn't Draw

Rumors that a juvenile pulled a gun on some teenagers at the Community Center Saturday night are false, according to Police Chief Murell Clark.

A juvenile did have his father's gun at the Center and showed it to some youngsters before he was picked up by the local police.

The young boy was taken to the Lenawee County jail and is scheduled to go to the Lansing Boys Vocational School this Thursday.

The father of the boy has been notified that he must appear before the local justice of peace to answer charges for failing to have the pistol registered.

$9,500 Organ To Accompany Student Chorus

"A Musical Christmas Card" was the title students of the Tecumseh High School Chorus selected for their program to be presented Monday, Dec. 16, in the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m.

The group, under the direction of Frances Moran, has rented a console organ worth $9,500 from the Toledo Pipe Organ Co. for use in accompanying the choral selections, which will include both secular and religious numbers.

Dexter Bailey, accompanist, will also play two solos on the Allen organ, which is unique among electronic instruments.

Because of its versatility it is repeatedly chosen for use at large conventions and for permanent installation in the largest churches and other institutions.

"The title of the program was taken from one of the selections to be featured on the program," said Miss Moran.

This is the first such performance the new teacher has presented in this school system. Her home is in Adrian and she taught in the Madison School and two years in Indiana before coming to Tecumseh.

LeRoy Anderson's "Sleigh Ride" is another of the jolly tunes the young people will sing. "The Little Drummer Boy" and "O Holy Night" are also scheduled.

A girl's ensemble and the Madrigal Singers will assist with the program and several duets and solos will highlight the musical treat.

Population 304

Mesick Mayor Coming

Tecumseh has been paired with the town of Mesick for the 1964 Mayor's Exchange.

The drawing was conducted by Governor George Romney last Friday.

Mesick is located approximately 25 miles south of Traverse City at the junction of Highways 37 and 115. The population is listed at 304.

Merrill is the town paired with Britton. Merrill's population is 863 and its located west of Saginaw on Highway 46.

Purpose of the Mayors Exchange, is to make communities — big and little — better acquainted with one another and to build and demonstrate the neighborliness of Michigan towns.

No where else in the world is there anything like Michigan's exchange of mayors.

Decorations for Christmas Trees

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Christmas is a myriad of things — carols, plays, stars, angels, trees, giving, receiving, worship, cookies, Santa Claus, shopping, decorating.

Not the least of these are the decorative balls used on Christmas trees.

Tecumseh's Mrs. F. C. Hanna is an expert in the art of making the most attractive jeweled baubles for her tree.

Pictured on this page are only a few of the 35 which she has made over a eight-year period.

☆

SHE STARTED with small sizes for the top of the tree and stuck sequins and jewels to the styrofoam balls.

More recent ones she has made are perhaps five inches in diameter covered with gorgeous velvets in reds, green, gold, etc., with patterns of braid and jewels outlined with sequins, beads and pins.

Five of the beautiful ornaments she made two years ago contain 1,600 pins by actual count. Materials used in them range from $3 to $5 or more.

When questioned as to where she got the inspiration for the balls, the Tecumseh resident of 42 years, remarked, "I don't know, it just came. I needed something to do with my hands."

GORGEOUS CHRISTMAS ORNAMENTS — Mrs. F. C. Hanna holds one of the art pieces she has made to hang on her Douglas fir Christmas tree. Each pattern, created as she worked, is different and one could spend fascinated hours looking at the pretties.

It's Gala Evening for 250

One of the most gala evenings of the Christmas season was celebrated Saturday night when 250 attended the Hospital Auxiliary's annual Holiday Ball at the Country Club.

Sparkling and festively decorated in a Winter Wonderland theme, with crystal chandeliers, Christmas tree, carolers and Rudolph, the Club was enhanced with beautifully adorned women.

Bright colors, sparkling jewelry and hair ornaments complimented their attire. Several were elegant in full length gowns.

Ken Edwards orchestra played at the dance, held from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. Near the end of the evening, a buffet luncheon featuring turkey salad, cranberry mold and hot rolls was served.

Profits from the benefit dance will go toward the hospital landscaping project sponsored by the Auxiliary.

Candy, Cookies Being Sought

Helen Walker, volunteer worker for the Ypsilanti State Hospital, is soliciting donations of homemade candies, cookies or fruit for patients.

They may be left at her home, 111 Hiawatha St., from Dec. 17 until Dec. 21 when she expects to make a trip to the hospital.

STORES OPEN DAILY

Behind Page One

Mrs. Leslie Calhoun, who both teaches and attends Siena Heights College, has been named to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

Mike Lewis, a University of Michigan journalism student, is making a study of The Herald. Part of the job is questioning local citizens on what they like and don't like about the paper. We're curious about the results and will print them.

PTA'ers at Tecumseh Acres were confronted by a technicality in spending cash earned with their "Fun Night." It can't be used for anything permanent, according to national PTA by-laws, someone reported. Replied a voice in the back, "So what, the by-laws say we can't have fund-raising events." There was laughter and the folks went about the job of using up the cash.

We want to run complete Christmas church schedules for all area houses of worship. Could we get these Thursday and Friday?

An interesting little tidbit about new concrete sidewalk, patio or steps was offered by Jim Fielder. "Don't put salt on it for at least a year!"

Dan VanValkenburg, a student at Malone College, was happily surprised when browsing through his roommate's hometown paper, The Daily Record from Wooster, O., to come upon the UPI story of Tecumseh's part in the University of Michigan Health Study.

LeRoy Heilman of rural Clinton noted that the assassination of Lincoln only rated second page, second column in the April 14, 1865 issue of The Toledo Blade, which he has in his possession. The Heilmans also have three issues of the Herald for the year 1879.

Holloway readers now have a reporter. Mrs. Maria Lopez has been named correspondent for the area. Items of interest may be given to her at her home on Billmyer Hwy. or be phoned to her sister, whose number is 423-7051.

Wow! What changes can be made in 10 years. A decade ago on Mayor Exchange day, the mayors of Britton and Detroit exchanged towns for the day. Bob Wallace of Britton went to the big city and the late Mayor Al Cobo toured the Britton area and tried his skill on the big bass drum of the Britton-Macon band, played by Barbara Craig, now Mrs. Gene Cole of Coller Hwy., Tipton and mother of six children.

Could you wear some other person's coat for two weeks and not know it? A Britton gal, who bowls at the Deerfield Recreation Center, did. She was most amazed when a kegler from Deerfield confronted her with the situation. The only difference in the two garments was braid on the pockets of one coat. No names are given to protect the innocent.

Tecumseh post office will be open Saturday, Dec. 14 and 21 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the purchase of stamps and mailing of packages.

When A&P assistant manager Herb Simpson heard that one of the employees, Mrs. Robert Ries, was going to be featured in a Herald feature story this week, he insisted that the store would be mentioned also. How commercial can you get?

George Ruhl spent all day Wednesday polishing up his Jeep, which he plans to use for service calls. His Cities Service station is located at 1104 W. Chicago Blvd., across from Krogers, George chides us, reminding we forgot the address in his last ad.

Have any Christmas feature story ideas? Call us, 423-2174.

Before it was proofread, Wilson Motor ad boasted a 1953 one-door Ford. Bet that's quite a car!

CARD of THANKS

I wish to thank all my neighbors, friends, and relatives for the cards, gifts, flowers and visits during my stay at Herrick Memorial Hospital. Also to the nurses and nurses' aides for their wonderful care, to the Rev. Cort for his visits and prayers and also Dr. Ocamb.

LONG & SHORT

ads all over the place would soon glut the market. But there still is a long way to go with this type of advertisement.

What prompts this epistle is the death of a Detroiter, a chap named Ralph Binge, who for 20 years teamed with Joe Gentile on an early-morning radio show over CKLW.

Ralph and Joe teased products, and sponsors — and everyone loved it, especially the advertisers, who fell all over themselves trying to get on the show.

Of course, they never knew how their comments [illegible] out, but they realized Joe and Ralph had a tremendous audience and they sold merchandise.

Sometimes their commercials would get out of hand, running on and on, but the listeners probably enjoyed these more than anything else.

In one long-ago sequence, the boys did a Garibaldi Suspender skit. Seems a window washer was working about 20 stories up on some Detroit sky-scraper. His safety belt broke and the poor fellow went hurdling toward the sidewalk.

Luckily he was wearing his Garibaldi Suspenders. They snared on a window ledge and the tough elastic proved his salvation. Just as the poor fellow was about to hit the sidewalk, the suspenders halted his drop, then snapped him back to the ledge and safety.

This must have been more than 20 years ago, but memory gives the idea it was only yesterday.

So it went with most of Ralph and Joe's material. They brought fame and fortune to a clothier named Conn in Detroit. Singing a ditty about "Conn's clothes, they're neat and nifty . . . made for people thrifty."

The pair had Mr. Conn grunting and groaning, working with a crow bar to open "boxes, boxes, boxes" of fine suits [illegible] just arrived.

Mr. Binge did a great deal for radio in Detroit and helped bring many a laugh into the usually staid field of advertising.

Makes Her Own

In the tiny lights on Mrs. Hanna's Douglas fir tree, the ornaments glimmer and sparkle like precious jewels perhaps those worn by the three kings so long ago en route to Bethlehem.

The Hanna residence, 705 W. Pottawatamie, built 22 years ago is magnificent with arrangements on mantle, tables and niche.

☆

"I never know when I'm going to need it. I like a little Christmas in every room," she mused, as she picked up a rich-looking table mat embellished with gold roses and balls highlighted with Christmas green velvet ribbon.

"I guess I've made Christmas decorations my hobby. There are only a few here that I have not made myself."

Twice the glamorous balls have been on display for a hobby show here and once in Adrian, but they do not carry well. The delicate jewels loosen and sometimes become disengaged from the ball.

Mrs. Richard Preston, 316 W. Pottawatamie St., brought this remarkable talent to the attention of The Herald. In summer she lives only two doors from Mrs. Hanna at Wamplers Lake and often drops in for a chat while work on the decorations is in progress.

This is the first time in 42 years that Mrs. Hanna will not be in Tecumseh for Christmas. She plans to spend the holiday winth a niece in Illinois.

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITORS:

My parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Wagner of rural Tecumseh, wrote me that you expressed interest in hearing about the most unusual life and culture of these people out here.

I find it difficult to adequately describe such a totally different culture from what I have ever known or dreamed about in my wildest dreams. Yet, I would like so much to share this with you, so here goes.

Perhaps I can start with this letter in your hand. It is being typed at a place called Pasalagus, located in the Western Highlands of East New Guinea. This is about 13,000 miles from where you are reading this.

This completed letter will soon be given to a native runner, who will carry it over 40 miles of mountain trails to the nearest road. Out here, in the land that time has forgotten, the idea of a local post office is unknown.

After three days, the letter will reach our nearest white neighbors, who will climb into a Jeep (actually, a British Land Rover) and drive another 30 miles over mountain roads to a post office.

Roads out here are few and far between, and are carved out of the mountain sides by pick and shovel. Later, a plane will pick up the letter, and speed it half way around to the world to you.

This perhaps will give you an idea of the remoteness of our location. Another indication is that some of our food supplies are air droppped to us every two weeks by airplane . . . without parachute.

Another indicator might be that my wife, Janet, was the first white woman ever seen by these natives. They bit their fingers (a sign of surprise in this culture) when they saw her.

I think that if we did not earnestly desire to share the good news that through the death of Christ all men have forgiveness with God, we would find it most difficult to stay here. But as it is, we find life out here extremely varied and challenging.

If you so desire, I would be happy to write further about these people, their customs, beliefs, way of life, and the usual problems involved as the 20th Century meets the stone age.

Sincerely,
Rev. M. D. Wagner

Egg Yolks Are Whiter

Eggs just don't look the way they used to — and it's all due to the yolk.

"Egg yolks used to be darker colored," according to Dr. Charles Sheppard, poultry specialist at Michigan State University. "Today, the yolks are lighter and more uniformly colored."

The reason: Commercial laying hens are being housed under confined conditions and fed specialized menus in our "space-age" society. The color of the yolk is almost entirely dependent on what the hen eats.

Squired around by the police chief, the Waldrons were taken to the home where Gordon Cooper and his family lived.

They had such an interesting time that they plan to invite anyone from Tecumseh, Okla., who happens to be in the area to visit the Waldron residence.

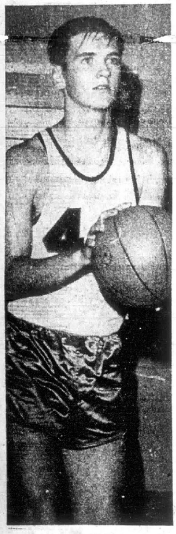
Strong Jets Next on Tap for Indian 5

A strong Tecumseh five, weakened by sickness, was still far superior to Flat Rock last Friday, defeating the Rams on their floor, 77-57, to snap a five-year jinx.

The victory marked the first win ever recorded by an Indian basketball team on the FR floor.

With Clark Nichols and Gregg Allen ill, and playing only part time, Center Jerry Hebb paced the Indians with 10 goals and six fouls for 26 points. It was Hebb's best game since midway in the 1962-'63 season.

All Indians will have to be well this Friday night when Airport invades the local gym with the highest scoring team in the league.



6'4" Jerry Hebb topped all scorers in the Tecumseh-Flat Rock game Friday night with 10 buckets and six free throws for 26 points. The senior center has now tallied 38 points in the Indians' first two games.

☆

THE JETS — along with Dundee, and Tecumseh—are championship caliber. Although not quite as big as the Indians, the Jets have good height, excellent speed and shots—and will be favored to clip Tecumseh.

Both Nichols and Allen were below par in the FR win, with Allen not even starting. Nichols played most of the first half, but less than half of the final two periods.

Fortunately, Coach Vic Lawson's team had strength to spare, indicated early when the Indians pressed and jumped to a 22-4 lead at the end of the first period.

The Rams came back in the second stanza, but faltered again in the third and fourth quarters to allow the Indians an easy win. Tecumseh's lead never dropped below 11 points and usually was bigger.

Aswan High Dam Will Change Face of Egypt

(Editor's note — This is another in the series of articles prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riordan regarding their recent trip to Egypt.)

Egypt's $489 million new High Dam at Aswan reaches its first stage of completion next May. Thus will begin a new era in this ancient civilization along the historic Nile.

No longer will the powerful waterway flood great areas in Lower Egypt each summer. No longer will agricultural leaders worry if there will always be adequate supplies of water for crop irrigation.

Within three years, as the High Dam grows, hydroelectric generating equipment will be put into use, gradually producing power to help expand industry in the nation.

☆

BY 1972 THE dam is scheduled to be finished, meaning:

► Twelve turbines producing 10 billion KWH (kilowatt hours) of electricity annually.

► Formation of the world's second largest man-made reservoir, stretching 350 miles long and up to 20 miles wide, with a surface of 4,500 square miles.

► Two and one-half million acres of desert land brought under cultivation and 750,000 acres now flooded to be reclaimed.

The industrial and agricultural development of Egypt has long been handicapped by its water problems. With scant rain fall, the 400,000-square-mile nation is 96% barren desert. This has meant that about 98% of the people live on 4% of the land.

The great Nile, coursing through Egypt during the flood season at a rate of 30,000 cubic feet a second, rolls into the Mediterranean Sea with only a fraction of its potential being harnessed.

☆

A DAM was built at Aswan in 1899, about three miles north of the High Dam site. This structure was twice enlarged, in 1912 and again in 1934. It now stands 146 feet high and can create an artificial lake along the Nile each spring about 185 miles long.

Hydroelectric generating equipment at this dam produces about two billion KWH of power annually.

But during July, when the Nile reaches its peak flow, this dam isn't nearly big enough to contain the great river.

The iron control gates must be opened, allowing torrents of murky water to pour into Lower Egypt, providing for irrigation, but at the same time creating dangerous flood conditions in many areas.

This problem should be solved by the new High Dam, which will hold back the spring flooding, releasing the desired amounts of water as they are needed.

At the same time, the new hydroelectric power plant will jump the amount of energy to be made available for industrialization.

A vastly improved Egyptian economy should be the result.

☆

EGYPTIAN RESOURCES and engineering know-how were too limited for a project as vast as the High Dam.

In the 50's the government of President Gamal Abdel Nasser turned to the United States for assistance, but the request was vetoed by then Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Russia quickly stepped forward at this point and an agreement quickly reached.

So far, the Soviets have furnished 1,200 engineers and technical people to direct the actual building operations. On the financial side, the USSR already has OKed two loans to Egypt totaling $260 million.

Started in January 1960, the High Dam has a work force numbering 23,000, with three shifts laboring 24 hours a day.

An entire city has sprung up near the site, with the Egyptian government having constructed more than 3,000 rooms in hundreds of structures — ranging from somber barracks to tall apartments complete with air conditioning.

Some developments have swimming pools. These are more necessities than luxuries for people not accustomed to the Aswan, which is one of the world's hottest spots.

Temperatures run in the 112° degree area, but that's not the worst part. There is little shade and the torrid sun, in a cloudless sky, reflects unmercifully off the rocky landscape.

Granite abounds near Aswan. This was the quarry area from which countless pharoahs had hundreds of statues and obelisques cut. Giant tunnels, through which the Nile will be diverted to spin the electric turbines, were dynamited out of solid granite — a superhuman task.

☆

DIMENSIONS of the dam are enormous. Upstream and downstream coffer dams are being built as part of the 364-foot-high main portion, which will be composed of 63% rock and 29% sand.

A north-south cross-section view of the dam would reveal it to be in the form of a pyramid — certainly an appropriate form for Egypt — 1,000 yards at its base and 50 yards at the peak.

Running from east to west, the structure will be three and one-half miles long.

The High Dam site was chosen because both banks are stoney and rise steeply from the river bed. Immediately south, the Nile is deep and the valley widens, affording excellent storage capacity. The river bed there consists of coarse sand and fine medium gravel with a granite foundation.

Once the reservoir behind the new High Dam is filled, all of Nubia in Upper Egypt and the city of Wadi Halfa in Sudan will be completely covered by water.

The United Arab Republic is paying indemnities to Sudan and to move the 50,000 Nubians north of Aswan into two cities built from scratch.

Total tab for this: $64 million.

The big lake will be inundating what has long been called the World's Greatest Open Air Museum, which contains antiquities well over 3,000 years old.

Many of these have been removed and others are scheduled to transfer before spring. Best known of the monuments are the temples at Abu Simbel. UNESCO will direct the transfer of Abu Simbel to higher ground at a cost of $36 million.

☆

IN THE High Dam's initial stage of completion, the Aswan upstream coffer dam will be finished and the build-up of water in the reservoir begins in June and July of 1964.

By 1965, an anticipated four billion cubic meters of water will be contained. This will gradually increase as other phases are finished until, 1967, when eight billion cubic meters will be in the reservoir.

The High Dam's hydroelectric power plant will have 12 turbines and begin producing power in 1967. Full capacity — 10 billion KWH annually — is expected to be realized by 1972.

Engineers have estimated that the Nile is capable of being saddled for hydro power up to 17 billion KWH. This figure can be neared with the High Dam and the present dam, plus a string of nine floating generating plants stationed downstream. There already are three barge power plants. The cluster of nine would result in 4.3 billion more KWH.

☆

TRANSMISSION of the power from the High Dam will be handled through two half-million volt lines to Cairo, plus a dozen 132,000-volt lines to Aswan's existing hydro station. Another six 132,000-volt nets will carry electricity directly to a fertilizer plant at Aswan.

The high-tension relay to Cairo, 450 miles north, will take 800 miles of lines.

As part of the arrangements with Russia, the USSR is furnishing all construction equipment, machinery and spare parts. It also is providing all construction materials that are not locally produced.

Egypt is to buy the permanent power station and electric transmission lines from the Soviets.

☆

In touring the vast High Dam site, the UAR Tourist Administration assigned a young officer of the Tourist Police to accompany us, as well as a public relations representative of the High Dam project.

We received royal treatment, were driven all around the area and deep into the granite mountain to see the massive tunnels blasted through the rock.

SITE FOR ELECTRIC TURBINES — From almost 300 feet above the High Dam site, the giant equipment looks like children's toys. This is the downriver side. The Nile will flow through six tunnels from the left, spin a dozen hydroelectric turbines to produce 10 billion kilowatt hours of juice annually. The famous river will be diverted from its present bed, stopped by the three and one-half mile dam, the water looping through the mountain of granite, then 1,000 yards downstream, back to its present direction. To give an idea of comparisons of the High Dam power output, Detroit Edison and Consumer Power, the two main firms serving Michigan, produce 27 billion KWH annually with 15 major steam plants and 26 small hydro layouts. Another Egyptian picture appears on page 4.

Discipline as Punishment Results in Child Fear

TIPTON — Dr. George C. Seeck, chairman of the philosophy, psychology, and religion department of Adrian College was guest speaker at Tipton PTA recently.

He approached the subject of "discipline" from the psychological view, pointing out that discipline as punishment results in the child being fearful.

This in turn causes internal distress, manifesting itself by inattentiveness, lack of control and unacceptable behavior.

A good disciplinarian, according to Dr. Seeck, recognizes the image, self and personality of the child and aids him in learning self-discipline.

Dr. Seeck also answered a number of questions asked by parents.

The fifth grade room will receive $3 as the result of winning the membership drive conducted by Mrs. Richard VanSickle and Mrs. William Bale.

Mrs. Dean Cook and Mrs. Don Daniels provided coffee after the meeting.

Auction Nets $75

Christmas auction for Mather School, with Mrs. Eddie Kirkland auctioneering for her 14th consecutive year, highlighted the meeting of the First Baptist Women's Society Monday night.

The sale netted $73.

Members voted to purchase the church school Christmas treat. They met early to pack boxes of cookies for shut-ins, servicemen and church friends.

Mrs. James E. Danforth presented the devotions, "Ye Are The Light of the World" stressing that each person should let her light of Christian service shine in the name of Jesus.

Jamie Danforth accompanied by her mother sang, 'One Little Candle."

EACH WOMAN as she laid her love gift on the altar, lit a candle from a large one representing Christ, "The Light of the World," placing it on the altar. Mrs. Danforth played "O Come All Ye Faithful" during this ceremony.

A love gift of $33.30 was received and dedicated.

The meeting concluded with the members singing "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing."

Mrs. Orville Bishop, president, asked Mrs. Blair Bashore to come to the platform where she presented her with a money gift from the Society and told her the women wanted to be certain she got a new hat in May for her brief vacation in Hawaii.

They also gave her a package which contained a colorful green hula skirt made cleverly of one dollar bills. She modeled it briefly.

Mrs. Bashore thanked them and explained she was going to visit a brother and sister-in-law in Honolulu who are in civil service employment there.

☆

DECORATIVE Christmas refreshments were served from a table with a Christmas centerpiece made by Mrs. Kirkland with Mrs. Stanley Cook and Mrs. Vern Manwaring at the silver services.

The hostess chairman was Mrs. Claude Sebring.

At the January meeting, Mrs. Lillian Hoagland will present devotions. Mrs. Buford Johnson, Adrian, will be the guest speaker and Mrs. Garland Gove will be hostess chairlady.

WINTER WOES by Pinson

One day in his car, Joe B. Dew, (Dead wiper blades streaking his view)
Ran into a bus
And caused a great fuss—
Which cost him some bucks (not a few)!

PREVENT THOSE WINTER DRIVING WOES

The Safe Winter Driving League presents the following tip for better visibility this winter from the National Safety Council: "Be sure your windshield wiper blades are in good, live condition to prevent streaking. Arms should provide at least an ounce of pressure for each inch of blade length to sweep off snow, sleet and road-muck. You must see danger to avoid it."

MAN to MAN

"Why should I enlist for 3 years when the draft only tes 2?"

—Bob S.

This is a question that every man facing a military obligation has to decide for himself. All I can do is offer you the reason a lot of men feel enlistment is worth the extra year. By enlisting in the Army, you get to Choose the job training you want. If you can qualify for it, then that training is guaranteed. That way you know you'll get the training you need to get off to a head start on the career of your choice. It's simply a matter of benefiting yourself while you serve your country.

Some of the men who wait to be drafted end up with the training they would have picked anyway. But there's no way to be sure about it without enlisting. Enlistment gives you Choice, Not Chance. And as far as your future is concerned, that's pretty important. So the extra year of training you get when you enlist is well worth the time—to you—and to your country.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

In spite of the fact that we fuss about having to put up the Christmas decorations so early, it is fun driving around the country seeing the different towns and their Holiday finery.

The other day we went to visit friends in a distant city. Driving along in the morning, the towns between here and there looked a little drab and dreary. The trees are bare, buildings that needed paint showed up very clearly in the sunshine. But coming home after dark was a different story.

Honestly, coming down the highway was like riding on a magic carpet. The night was clear and still . . . traffic at a minimum.

Every community seems to be competing with the neighboring one, fanciful decorations, hundreds of sparkling lights, Christmas trees, little and big glowed and glittered in the moonlight. Wires and bulbs that have no meaning in the daytime, spell out greetings at night, give passing strangers a friendly welcome and make us wish it could last all year!

Yes, Christmas is special and especially at Clinton Woolen.

For that certain someone who has almost everything we have suggestions. A luxurious mohair sweater either printed or decorated with yarn . . . or perhaps one of our new white wools . . . distinctively styled and quite reasonable in price.

If she does casual entertaining we recommend either silk or velveteen slacks with a coordinated top. For the one who likes her things on the fitted side, we offer Cortina double knit pants and tops. The pants can be either worn as stretch or slack. The tops coordinate beautifully . . . of course the highest of quality and style.

Another casual suit is always needed in her wardrobe. A knit of course is always welcome . . . an attractive two piece with coordinated blouse in a beautiful blue looped wool . . . or a smart two piece in the new style fabric leader, upholstery, available in three colors.

Then of course there are suits in suede, Special Price on these, and wool in several styles.

Make it a special Christmas by coming to Clinton Woolen.

We are open this Friday evening and each evening next week.

Christmas Stamps Are Now on Sale

"People sending Christmas cards today at the 5c first-class rate pay the same to mail Christmas greetings as Americans did well over a century ago," Postmaster Jack C. Metcalf noted.

"Research shows that in 1847 the Post Office Department issued its first stamps, including a nickle stamp for the single prepaid letter rate."

"And, of course, in those days a nickle could buy a meal where it usually can't even buy a cup of coffee today," Mr. Metcalf pointed out.

"Since 1932," the postal executive observed, "while living costs for the American family have skyrocketed considerably more than 100% — the costs of mailing a first-class letter has only increased by two cents or two-thirds."

☆

THE POSTMASTER'S comments were made in connection with a recommendation to Tecumseh residents to use the first-class 5c Christmas stamp on their Christmas cards.

The stamp portrays the National Christmas Tree on the "Eastern Ellipse" in the Nation's Capital. The stamp is available at the local post office.

The 5c rate permits forwarding or return of the letter where necessary allows the use of a handwritten message on the card — adding a personal touch — and also provides speedier handling and faster delivery, particularly for cards going out-of-town.

"In recent years, people have been buying better and more expensive greeting cards — and it seems a shame, when only 4c third-class postage is paid and the addressee has moved that we normally can not even forward the card," Mr. Metcalf commented.

☆

"REPORTS FROM the greeting card industry indicate it is not uncommon for an average family to send more than 100 cards during the holiday season."

"To avoid trouble and waiting in line, I suggest that two full sheets of the Christmas stamp—100 to the sheet—be picked up when at the post office, and then there is no last-minute panic about getting stamps to put on the cards to send to those who have been overlooked or added to the list."

Christmas stamps, of course, are useable for postage at any time.

Danger 'Thin Ice'

Winter's ice on lakes and streams is a long-awaited treat for many youngsters but it can also be a threat to their lives early in the season, the State Police point out.

In some areas early winter ice may look thick and safe enough to walk and slide on but actually may be too thin to hold up under a youngster's weight.

Because of this danger, parents are urged to caution their children against venturing on lakes and streams without first determining if the ice is thick enough.

Ice on top of deep bodies of water should be several inches thick, preferably about four, to assure safety.

Even where lakes and streams are judged safe and are used for skating and sliding, there should be provision for rescue in event of a breakthrough which may be caused by surface pressure cracks or where ice may be made thin by water currents underneath.

Long branches, poles, ropes or a ladder should be available to reach a person who has broken through.

Caution in crossing ice is urged as well for hunters, fishermen or other outdoor fans who travel over frozen lakes or streams during their outings.

At least 12 persons drowned during 1962 when they fell through ice in Michigan. The toll the year before was 13.

$3 Gift Buys Bushel of Soybeans

Bob Lapham, who has served Church World Service in Jordan for the past five years, told 100 CROP workers at a county-wide dinner Friday evening, "Soybeans are used as a major source of portein in feeding 13,000 kids daily."

He showed colored slides of refugee families, work projects and many general scenes of the rocky countryside of Jordan.

"We can also use Soybeans as wages for men employed on roads, cisterns, and other village projects.

"It is good to give people work, instead of handouts because in that way they can keep their self-respect."

Contributions to this year's "Soybeans For Jordan" campaign can be assured that their gifts will be appreciated by the people of Jordan.

A $3 contribution will buy slightly more than one bushel of soybeans. The county goal is 1,500 bushels to make up a carload.

Gifts may be sent to Willis Moore, Courthouse, Adrian, marked "For CROP."

Public Health Nurse Has Action - Packed Days

(Editor's note — Mrs. Robert Murray, a registered nurse, served this summer with the County Health Department. Her experiences prompted Mrs. Murray to prepare this article.)

"LENAWEE CHILDREN GET POLIO SHOTS"
"DIABETIC TEST KITS AVAILABLE AT HEALTH DEPARTMENT"
"FLUORIDE TREATMENTS ARRANGED FOR COUNTY SCHOOLS"
"HEALTH CHECKS FOR NEW SCHOOL CHILDREN URGED"
"335 IN TECUMSEH GET GLAUCOMA TEST"
"FREE CHEST X-RAYS TO BE GIVEN NEXT MONTH"
"HOME NURSING UNIT ADDED TO LENAWEE HEALTH DEPARTMENT"

By VIRGINIA MURRAY

Behind these headlines from Lenawee County papers are a small group of dedicated people serving area residents in the name of the Lenawee County Health Department, headed by Dr. Eleanor Skufis and assisted by Mrs. Doris Whitney, Director of Nurses.

Many area residents have expressed an interest in the Lenawee County Health Department as a community service organization, and how it can help them as individuals.

Books have been written on the subject, books which are used by the Health Department staff itself. They help workers make the best use of the complex network of medical facilities and allied community agencies, charitable and service clubs, and the vast resources of local, state and federal health units to bring better health to the people of Lenawee County.

One of the newest services offered to the people of Lenawee County and Tecumseh is Home Nursing Care.

This program, underwritten temporarily with funds from Federal and state governments, provides nursing care in the home under a physician's orders, to the aged, the chronically ill and the convalescent.

Referrals for Home Care come from the family, a friend, social agencies, hospital, doctor or rehabilitation institutes.

A nurse will visit the patient as often as once a day to perform such services as bed baths, dressing changes, exercises, administration of drugs or injections, education on diets, or just to check on the progress of the patient.

☆

CONSULTATION services are available from the Michigan Department of Health, such as those of Rick Schmidt, a physiotherapist who instructs nurses on how to care for a patient who needs physical exercises or massage. He outlines a plan of therapy with the approval of the family doctor.

The nurses in the Home Care Plan are assisted by one well-trained aid who works under the constant and direct supervision of the registered nurses on the staff.

This aid renders invaluable services to the families in their care, performing housekeeping duties and simple nursing procedures for patients requiring daily or long-term care, particularly the chronically ill and aged.

Many area residents who could benefit from the care of a visiting nurse are unfamiliar with the services offered, or do not realize that they are already paying for part of these services through taxes and voluntary contributions.

A charge is quoted, according to the patient's ability to pay for the home nursing care, but no patient is ever turned away for lack of ability to pay.

Tecumseh residents are most familiar with the blue-clad figure of Mrs. Mildred Bauer, R.N., assigned to Franklin, Macon, Raisin, Ridgeway and Tecumseh Townships. For further insight into the work of the Public Health Nurses, it might be of interest to describe a typical day's schedule.

DIARY FOR A DAY

8 a.m. — Check into the Health Department Office, opposite the Lenawee County Court House in Adrian. Chart previous day's cases, study case-work load to see which patients required care on this particular day. Call Crippled Children's Commission to make appointment for financial help for medical and surgical care for a school child who limps, due to a childhood injury.

Yesterday, Mrs. Bauer checked a second grader, who, at the time of her visit, was out riding his bicycle. The year before, he had attended school on crutches, unable to walk or play with other children because a birth defect had left one Achilles tendon shorter than the other.

The child's teacher reported this to the Health Department, who in turn arranged for the family to see their family physician and who in turn referred the child to a plastic surgeon. After surgery, and a year of physio-therapy, one could not tell this child from his classmates, running and playing in the school yard.

☆

9 A.M — Check with a Tecumseh mother on child's hearing test. (Many a Lenawee County Child hears today as a result of modern health techniques. All school children's hearing is routinely checked by Health Department audio-technician, and if found deficient, the child is scheduled for further tests by a specialist in ear problems. Further hearing damage can be prevented by a tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy or reconstruction of a diseased ear drum.

If the child is handicapped by deafness, arrangements are made for him to be placed in a special room for deaf children.

☆

10 A.M. — Check rural Onsted family for TB contact. (Often the Department outdoes Scotland Yard in tracking down possible carriers of tuberculosis germs. If several people in a neighborhood contract Tuberculosis, it is felt that one particular person might be infecting the others.

In one case, a baby sitter used by several members of a bridge club was found to be the contact for many children with positive tuberculin tests.

After a person ill with tuberculosis is admitted to a sanatorium, his progress is followed very closely by Doctor Skufis and other members of the Staff, who take a real personal interest in each person contacted by the Health Department.

Members of the nursing staff visit the patient in the hospital, and when he or she is discharged from the hospital, make frequent visits to the home, to check on the patient's diet, to bring medicine, to urge the patient to return for frequent X-rays and check-ups.

☆

10:30 A.M. — To Britton, stop at Doctor's office to pick up insulin to deliver to a patient who is too ill to pick up medicine himself.

☆

11 A.M. — To Clinton to check on the progress of an elderly woman who has had a stroke and is being cared for completely by her family, who need instructions in the exercises that are helping the patient learn to walk again.

The physio-therapist calls on this patient when he is in the area, [illegible] the patient and her family are determined to see her up and walking again.

11:30 A.M. — Check Jo see if school child in Clinton has had eye examination. (The boy had been failing in school and routine eye examination by the Health Department Vision Technician shows he is unable to see the blackboard.

(Many children move rapidly upward in their classes when simple testing procedures show that the child cannot see the blackboard. When the family cannot provide glasses, funds are often provided by one of the Service Clubs in the area.)

☆

1 P.M. — Raisin Township — A dysentary outbreak has been reported to the Health Department. The cesspool is running over into the well. This must be reported immediately to the Sanitary Engineer at the Health Department.

(This is an underprivileged home. The mother is a widow with eight children. The youngest is a mentally retarded boy who is waiting admission to the Coldwater Hospital for retarded children.

(Another boy has had polio and walks with a brace. The nurse makes an appointment for the child to be picked up by the Lenawee County Conveyor, who will drive the child to the University Hospital for re-evaluation and to have a larger brace fitted.

(The cost of the braces and the medical care are paid for by the Michigan Crippled Children's Commission. The nurse discovers that one of the other children has the measles, so she instructs the mother in simple isolation techniques and warns against the serious complications which can occur with this simple childhood disease.

All communicable diseases must be reported to the Health Department. This mother represents a great challenge to all community service organizations.

(The Nurse will encourage the boy to go to a special camp for crippled children sponsored by the Michigan Easter Seal Fund, instruct the mother on the best ways to use the surplus food provided by the Welfare Department and somehow find a way to have the children's acute dental problems looked after, with the help of a volunteer agency which raises money for such charitable purposes, or through the Welfare Department.

(The mother badly needs the moral support of the Nurse, who helps her with the problems that arise in a father-less home.)

☆

2:30 P.M. Check to see if discharged hospital cardiac patient is having an difficulty with his low-salt diet. This is a Mexican family and a Michigan Department of Health nutrition consultant has already visited the patient to help adapt his national food preferences to the diet recommended by the doctor.

3:00 P.M. Return to Tecumseh to visit an elderly patient to be certain he understands his doctor's instructions and can carry these out at his own home. Often, elderly patients are fearful, feeling forgotten and isolated from the rest of the community because they are sick and house-bound.

The visit from the Public Health Nurse is often the only ray of light in the dark world of the tired and despairing. The nurse may return each day to see that the patient is taking her medicine, the medicine that will prevent progression of her chronic disease and her re-hospitalization.

☆

4 P.M. Stop at physician's office to deliver immunization vaccines he has ordered from the Michigan Department of Health Laboratory.

☆

4:15 P.M.—Stop at Herrick Hospital to check the date of discharge of the mother of a premature baby. She has requested a visit from the nurse to instruct her on the diet and care of a newborn premature baby.

A busy day? Each day is a busy day in the life of a good Health Department. Hand in hand with the other members of the medical team, community and charitable agencies, State and County Health Departments, a constant watch is kept on the Health and Welfare of the people of Lenawee County.

So quiet and efficient is the machinery of this organization that often we are unaware of the constant and often heroic dedication of its members.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

WHILE WE BIRD WATCHED

It is just not right that such things should happen the day before a holiday. With so much getting-ready-for Thanksgiving to be done, how were we supposed to watch birds — but, on the other hand, when the birds were there, how were we going not going to watch them?

Bird-watching is something like eating peanuts — after the first one the rest come easy — in fact, who can stop at just one?

This year, the day before Thanksgiving was, if you remember, a pleasant one — warm temperatures and bright sunshine. Things were going well, I was sitting up about ready to start reading "Red Mountain", a book about Colorado, when something outside caught my eye.

A brightly-colored bird was sitting at the top of the creek-bank — wow! A fairly large bird, yellow and black with a big patch of white on his back.

Well, I never did get the book started. Who can read when Evening Grosbeaks are around?

☆

BY THE TIME Ida deciphered my stammering and realized I wanted her to look out the window, Mr. Evening Grosbeak had been joined by two friends, another male and a much lighter, but duller female.

The trio worked back and forth in the yard, apparently finding enough scratch feed and weed-seeds for a tasty lunch.

They were very leisurely in their eating and what a thrill for us. These are extremely handsome birds and imagine having them spend so much time just outside my window.

Lunch in the side yard was just finished and the birds had gone to the back yard looking for another course when Marilyn came in.

She must have wondered what was happening because as soon as she reached the front door — zoom over to the big window. We wanted her to see the grosbeaks and yes, they were still there.

She and Ida were admiring them and suddenly, Mr. Bright, our ever-so-brilliant cardinal, joined the group. As if that weren't enough color, two bluejays came by to see what was going on. Such excitement, and can you feature a much more colorful back yard?

After awhile, when things started to calm down a bit out in back, it was my turn again. I counted seven mourning doves in my west-facing window picture.

Mourning doves are quite pretty, they are so soft and round, but certainly they are not the most active birds we know. They can sit for the longest time, just doing nothing and that is exactly what they were doing this particular morning.

One was on the feeder, two were on the ground directly beneath the corn tree and the rest were either in the trees or resting on the fence.

☆

WHILE THE doves were playing statue, a blue-jay flashed in view. Swooping down to a near perfect landing on one of the stones in the middle of our very shallow creek, he gingerly tested the water several times.

Apparently deciding it was just right for bathing, he jumped in with both feet. Such ducking and splashing. Water was flying all over — it looked more like midsummer playing than late fall bathing.

When finally the jay flew away, his feathers were dripping water — they looked absolutely water-logged.

But birds just don't come one at a time, all morning there was a constant coming and going. Four pert and cocky titmice enjoyed a pre-holiday feast of sunflower seeds.

A downy woodpecker wondered when fresh suet was coming out for him. A brown creeper was inspecting Dr. Marsh's big elm tree. Ida saw the yellow-bellied sapsucker fly by and I enjoyed the flicker.

So it is that after the first sighting we were lost, Thanksgiving preparations were sidelined for a time while we bird-watched.

In addition, special programs are planned in the Zoo's indoor theater from 3 to 4 p.m. each Sunday. They feature church choirs and folk dances, all drawn to the international Christmas theme.

Hope To Control Dutch Elm Disease

EAST LANSING — The selection of resistant varieties offers the ultimate hope for control of the deadly Dutch elm disease, according to a University of Wisconsin researcher.

More than 380 introductions of seed from various members of the elm family from many parts of the world are now being tested to find a good resistant variety, said Eugene B. Smalley of the U.W Department of Plant Pathology.

Plants are inoculated with the fungus [illegible] disease during the fourth year of growth, and the resistant individuals selected for further evaluation are to hardiness, form and disease resistance, he told a Michigan State University conference Dec. 6.

☆

ANOTHER METHOD being studied for possible aid in the practical control of the disease is the use of TCPA, a chemical which showed up well in early tests, Smalley noted.

TCPA is a plant growth regulator, which converts the normally susceptible host to one which is resistant, the speaker said.

Injected into nursery seedlings, the chemical gave high levels of protection in separate trials over several years without apparent toxity to the trees, he continued.

The chemical has no fungicidal activity and is not toxic to animals, he added.

A third approach, Smalley said, is the use of the soil fumigant Vapam, which creates an underground barrier against the movement of the fungus through the living root connections of the tree.

Sp 4/c Allen Bower has received his separation papers at Fort Hood, Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bower, 4346 Ridge Hwy., Britton. A graduate of Romulus High School, he received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. During the Cuban crisis he was stationed at Fort Stewart, Ga. The airman was in the First Armored Division in communications.

2-Bedroom Home Offers Neat Storage

Outdoor clothing can become a storage nuisance, especially if you live on a farm or do a lot of outdoor work around home.

With this in mind, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has designed a two-bedroom house featuring storage space near the front entrance and close to the rear door in the workroom.

Double windows in the family dining area and a window over the sink give natural lighting to the kitchen.

A hallway between the living room and the bathroom allows circulation from bedrooms and kitchen without disturbing guests in the living area.

Besides the family dining area, the living room has space to accommodate larger groups for company meals.

The house has masonry wall construction and can be built in stages over a period of time. Its simple rectangular shape can cut construction costs.

Working drawings for this house can be obtained by asking for Plan No. 7155 at the Lenawee County Extension Service Office, Adrian Court House. The plan costs $1.

better highways create jobs Michigan's growing system of safe, new freeways is contributing importantly to the dynamic drive to attract new industry into the state.

Businessmen searching for new plant locations or opportunity for commercial development know that modern transportation facilities are an essential requirement. Now, more than ever before, Michigan's economic growth is dependent upon improved highways.

Any curtailment of the highway improvement program risks a slowdown in economic expansion. Your support of a good roads program will help Michigan grow and provide needed new jobs!

Industry wants dependable, all-weather highways to move materials and products. Concrete pavements are first choice to provide the load-carrying capacity required. Durable and smooth-riding, concrete roads give longer service with minimum maintenance. And this means tax economy to both industry and pleasure drivers.

When you see a new concrete highway, you know Michigan is moving forward—and new industry and more jobs are soon to follow!

Here's why you'll tell other people you like it.

Some people think it's a bit frivolous to like a car just because it looks so nice. So what you'll have to do is bone up a little on all the other things that make a Pontiac a Pontiac.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out.

Be careful, though. One ride in this car and everybody's going to think you're made of money. You can solve that problem by telling what you paid. Or you might just say, "You'd sure think this car cost a lot, wouldn't you?"

Or you could take everybody's mind off it entirely by giving your Pontiac some throttle. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. And you get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams. (Happy choosing!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for more vital things, why change? Improve, refine, sharpen—yes. Change—no. And you can tell that to your friends.

Really, though, you can buy a Pontiac solely because you like its looks. We don't think you'll find many people who'll ask you for more practical reasons.

What they'll be asking for is a ride—and the name of the man you bought your '64 Pontiac from.

'Cold-Start' French Fries Are Faster

EAST LANSING — If, in these days of low-fat diets, your family is still insisting on French fried potatoes, you might try the "cold-start" method of preparing them.

It's not lower in fat, Michigan State University home economists are quick to point out. But it is a quicker and safer method of cooking.

Instead of putting the potato strips into hot grease, you lay them in a single layer in a large, cold skillet — just enough cooking oil to cover the strips. Turn on the heat to medium high or set an electric skillet to 350-375 degrees.

Stir occasionally to keep potatoes separated. Cook 15 to 20 minutes, depending upon the brownness desired. Drain the potatoes on paper towels before serving.

☆

THE METHOD works for frozen French fries, too, and they take only 10 minutes of cooking time.

Dr. Portia Morris, foods and nutrition specialist with the MSU Cooperative Extension Service, points out that research on this method is limited to potatoes.

So far, there is no published research indicating that it can be used successfully with other foods.

She notes that the "cold-start" method cuts down on the dangerous bubbling and splashing of deep frying. From start to finish, it takes less time to prepare French fries the "cold-start" way than by the ordinary deep fat fry method.

Mrs. Morris also says that the method can be economical. You need only enough fat to cover the potatoes. You don't need to "float" them as you do with the deep fry method.

NEWS of BRITTON

Maconettes Hold Secret Sisters Gift Exchange

BRITTON — Ten members of the Maconettes Extension Club Study Group met recently at the home of Mrs. Douglas Hintz for their annual Christmas party.

Secret sisters for the past year were revealed by a gift exchange, and names for the coming year were drawn.

Movies showing points of interest in Northern Michigan were shown by Mrs. Wesley Gilmore.

Games were played after which Mrs. Hintz served a dessert lunch.

Next meeting is to be held Jan. 7 at the home of Mrs. Donald Schroeder on Britton Hwy.

Potluck Opens Family Night

BRITTON — Business meeting of the Women's Fellowship was opened by Mrs. Lawrence Hoagland last Wednesday with a silent prayer in memory of the late president, John F. Kennedy.

The annual Christmas Family Night was set for Thursday, Dec. 19, starting with a potluck supper at 6 p.m.

Members are to bring table service and dishes to pass.

☆

BOXES FOR shut-ins will be packed that evening and everyone is reminded to bring goodies for the Christmas boxes.

The date for the annual church supper was set for Thursday, Feb. 6.

Mrs. Gustav Hannevik will have charge of "World Day of Prayer" Feb. 14.

Money was voted to be given to the Cancer and March of Dimes funds.

Mrs. Gerald Benedict distributed 32 names from a women's ward from the Ypsilanti State Hospital, for Christmas boxes which may be left at Gripton's Hardware or taken to the Congregational Christian Church Dec. 19.

Mrs. Joseph Hall and Mrs. William Raeburn were in charge of the program, which followed a potluck luncheon at noon.

Mrs. Hall opened the program with the reading, "Holiday Setting" and then led the group in singing "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear" and "O Little Town Of Bethlehem".

The Rev. Gustav Hannevik sang a solo and he and Mrs. Hannevik sang a duet.

Mrs. Willard Exelby gave two readings, "No Greater Blessing" and "These Are Needed."

The group then sang "O Come All Ye Faithful", and Mrs. Bert Moore gave a prayer.

☆

MRS. GERALD BENEDICT read two poems, "A Picture From Childhood" and "Difference" and Mrs. Hall gave a reading, "Why Can't It Be."

Members then joined in singing "Silent Night", to close the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ries Report On Trip To Germany

Women Plow with Oxen

BRITTON — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ries, who returned to their home at 8347 Dibble Road Sunday, Dec. 1 via jet after spending two weeks in Europe, have some interesting observations on life in Germany.

They visited their son and daughter-in-law, SP4 and Mrs. Kenneth Le Roy Plank and grandchildren, Kenneth and Daphne, in Stuttgart where Leroy is stationed with the Army.

He has been there for a little over one year and the family joined him shortly after his arrival. They expect to be there until March of 1965.

☆

MRS. RIES says the way of life in Germany is much different than ours. The women do much of the work, even plowing in the field with oxen or horse, spreading manure on fields by hand. The men tend the sheep in the fields.

Other things Mrs. Ries noted:

► Coffee and milk are scarce in Germany.

► The cooking is done on two-burner hot plates.

► They have stone floors and sinks in the kitchen, must heat all of their water on the hot plates.

► Houses are heated by small coal stoves in each room.

► Coal resembles charcoal briquets.

► Most people sleep under feather ticks with no sheets.

► Few homes have bathrooms or television, but almost one has a small garden plot.

☆

LEROY WAS on leave while his parents were there and they toured parts of southern Europe seeing many places of interest including Dachau, a concentration camp and Garmish Military Resort.

They saw deer lying in the snow on the mountain sides in Austria. While in Austria they ate on wooden plates and food was served on sticks.

Berchtesgarden, Hitler's old retreat, and his eagles nest, 5,000 feet from the floor of the valley, is a fabulous military resort now.

At Cheimsee they took a boat to Herron Island where they had a three-hour tour of King Ludwig of Bavaria's castle, which he built for art and culture.

It took 20 women seven years to embroider the drapes for just two rooms.

☆

THE RIESES just returned to the apartment on Friday night, Nov. 24, when they heard the terrible news of President Kennedy's death over the radio. So stunned and shocked, they couldn't believe it.

Mr. and Mrs. Fran Clauss, landlords of Sylvia's and LeRoys, came upstairs, waving their hands and with tears running down their faces, were trying to tell them of the President's death.

Flags all over Germany were at half mast and the stores were closed on Monday, the day of the President's funeral.

☆

"I WAS GLAD I had brought flat shoes along on the trip as we walked for miles, visiting ruins of Hoen-Neuffen and King Wilemas Castle," she said. "It took our men three months to get the Germans out of there in World War II.

"In Trieberg, Germany we climbed a mountain path to see the largest water falls in Germany, and we also visited a Coo-coo Clock factory in the Black Forest and toured several museums."

They stayed in the Red Ox International Hotel on the Rhine River in Bassel, Switzerland.

A group of people, who were watching President Kennedy's funeral on a television in a store window, turned to Leroy and said, "You Military?"

The man then told him how sorry they were, and there was fear and wonder on their faces and tears in their eyes.

AS THEY were getting into the car after visiting a church in Sackingen, a large old gentleman in a long coat, high boots and a big hat came up to the car and told them how sorry he was about the death of the president and that he had been the hope of peace in the world.

They later found out that he was burgmeister, the mayor.

"At Segmaringen we visited a castle and museum, the Hollensollen. The Danube River runs through the town and it looks green instead of blue to me," said Mrs. Ries.

They saw Lichtenstien Castle in Swabian Albs, a real moat around it 2,419 feet above the floor of the valley.

In Tuebingen, an old town, they visited the university and the Romantic Dabelschluchт — a beautiful gorge.

They had dinner in the needle, a TV tower in Stuttgart.

☆

"WE WERE pleased to find that LeRoy and Sylvia are now speaking German fluently and four-year-old Kenneth is keeping up with them and 14-month-old Daphne is learning fast," Mrs. Ries explained.

She concluded, "We had a wonderful visit with our son and his family and the only thing that put a damper on the whole wonderful trip was the assassination of our president."

Tories Nip Adrian CC

BRITTON — With 25 straight victories behind them, genial Coach Sam Hamilton and his Britton Tories face the first 1963 moment of truth this weekend.

On tap are two games in two nights. Both opponents are top rate.

Friday, the Tories entertain Ida and then Saturday, Dundee will invade the Britton gym. Junior varsity tipoffs are 6:30 p.m. both nights.

Either — or both — could knock off the Britton five, which has had close calls in its first two games this season.

In posting a 56-45 victory over Adrian Catholic Central, the Tories notched victory No. 25.

As expected, Phil Benedict was the big factor, as he flipped in 26 points, while picking off 24 rebounds. Phil also foiled a number of CC shots.

Hickey	1	0	2
Totals	17	11	45

Score by quarters:

Britton	21	12	12	10—56
Adrian CC	8	7	10	20—45

But let it be pointed out that Benedict is not a one-man show. This was proved when veteran Pepper Griewahn fouled out in the third quarter with the Tories holding a 23-point bulge.

Suddenly Adrian got rolling and began to close the gap.

Another Britton lad who looked good was Verl Sanch, who hooped 12 points.

For Adrian, a Tecumseh resident was the big gun, Dave Dziachan, a graduate of Tecumseh St. Elizabeth, who commutes to CC, pumped in 22 tallies for the Irish.

For now, Coach Hamilton's main problem is building up his bench strength. The success of last year's squad was due greatly to the fact that he could rotate his quintet on the floor without losing scoring punch or defensive skill.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: I am drawing social security wife's benefits and have a chance to work in a department store during the holidays. Do I need a social security number? I have never worked before and probably never will again.

ANSWER: Yes, you must have an account number. Any employer who hires you is required by law to report your earnings together with your name and social security number to the Director of Internal Revenue and to deduct the social security tax from your pay.

QUESTION: I own and operate a retail candy store and want my 17-year-old son to help in the store during the 1963 holiday season. Must he get a social security card for this employment?

ANSWER: No, the work performed by a minor child for his parent is not covered by social security.

QUESTION: My wife got her social security account number before we were married. Does she need to have the name changed on her account number card before taking a part-time job for the rest of this year?

ANSWER: Yes, it is important that her name and number be correct on the card, because the employer will copy this information for his records.

PREVENTATIVE VETERINARIAN SERVICE is a growing trend in the Midwest. Planning a program of disease prevention in your livestock operation can be one of the most profitable steps you've taken. This is especially true if disease has been seriously affecting your profits and you have an intensive livestock program. Once disease strikes it is often difficult to stop. Most arrangements have the veterinarian serve as a regular consultant on a prearranged fee basis. Emergency [illegible] and drugs are usually [illegible] extra.

WHEAT STANDS may appear somewhat thinner in some areas due to drouth at seeding time. But thin stands do not necessarily indicate poor yields next summer. Indiana tests show that wheat yields this past season were nearly as high when two pecks per acre were seeded as when higher rates were used. Where stands are especially thin, be sure to apply adequate nitrogen early next spring to stimulate stooling.

PULLETS LAY BETTER and improve long-time performance if housed together in pens where all pullets are similar in age, size and development. Pay particular attention to housing them apart from older hens. Penn State University reports that new pullets housed with older birds may be retarded by the "boss hen" of older hens. Both nest fighting and fighting at the perches are problems. Pullets also may become contaminated with lice and diseases from older hens.

BULK MILK TANKS should be checked periodically, especially those five or six years old. Any tank that does not cool the milk down to 50 degrees F. in two hours should be examined immediately. Prompt cooling is extra important when milk is picked up every other day. A periodic check by a qualified serviceman can prevent costly repairs.

As you remember, the Junior Class held its annual magazine sale in the fall. Finally most of the prizes have arrived and the winners announced.

There were five teams, and each team had a captain, who were Nancy Swaney, Linda Easton Dennis McClure, Russ Blanden and Mary Jo Mensing.

Manager was Paul Spear, assistant manager was Gregg Allen and publicity manager was Dick Duffin. There were about 40 members to a team.

The total quota for the sales was set at $6,000 and the class exceeded their quota by $700. An individual quota was set at $30.

Jim Lawson was high salesman. Team high-salesmen were Diane Ries, Dennis McClure, Kathy Brown and Don Baird, who all sold over $100 worth of magazines.

Each team, which reached its goal, was eligible for a prize. The name of a student was placed in the drawing once for selling $30 worth and once more for each additional $5. The name drawn had the choice of the following:

1 — 17 jeweled boy or girl's wristwatch
2 — Luggage
3 — Table top radio
4 — 8-transistor radio
5 — Electric hair and nail dryer

High salesmen from each team had the choice of any of the above prizes while the second and third high salesmen chose between a travel alarm clock, a Pak-away blanket or a Shaeffer pen and pencil set. The high salesmen's names were not included in the drawing.

The class was promised by the company that if it reached the goal, the company would give them $20 for a class party and a special treat for the senior trip next year. Each student who sold three Look subscriptions received a sleeper dog or a stuffed toy frog.

This past week was brimming with initiations. The Varsity Club's began on Wednesday, the initiates wearing rolled up jeans, insulated boots without socks and old sweat shirts.

Their faces were painted like Indians and they wore Indian headdresses. Whenever they saw a Varsity Club member in the halls they said, "How, Brother."

During the noon hours they cleared the cafeteria tables and provided entertainment by doing cheers, singing, dancing and reciting poetry.

On Thursday they dressed as slaves with a ball and chain around their ankle. After the seventh and eighth hours the Slave Auction was held.

The initiates were auctioned off to be of service to their buyers for three hours. If the initiates didn't adhere to all of the initiation rules an extra hour was added on to this time. On Friday they wore suits.

Tuesday was the initiation day for prospective GAA members. They wore ear-rings, backwards sweaters, unmatching knee-sox and a sign saying that they were a GAA initiate.

The French Club is planning to go Christmas caroling Dec. 20. All French students are invited to participate even though they are not members of the club. The carols will all be sung in French.

NEW CHEVELLE! BY CHEVROLET

The kind of go—6 or V8—you'd expect from one of Chevy's great highway performers. Come on down and drive it.

The kind of comfort you'd expect in a large interior. Come on down and sit in it.

The kind of fresh styling—inside and out—that makes it the year's smartest surprise. Come down and stare at it.

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do a lot more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines for it—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*!

And if that combination of modest weight and potent power makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a car with lots of room for legs, hips, shoulders, hats and luggage. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.

With its Full Coil suspension and snug insulation, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions you from bumps.

And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too. Just listen to the solid thunk of a door closing or look at the smooth metalwork. You'll see what we mean.

Sound good so far? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!

Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Local automobile dealers invested $161,000,000 in newspaper advertising last year.

Classified advertising consumed $87,000,000; a total of $54,000,000 went for display advertising. These figures have been released by J. H. Lander, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

The average dealer, according to Mr. Lander, spent approximately $7,000 on advertising during the year. Used car advertising amounted to $3,000 per dealer. New car advertising came to $2,900 per dealer. Other expenditures were for service and institutional advertising.

☆

FOR THE LOCAL automobile dealer, three noteworthy points may be found in Mr. Lander's figures:

1. Highly successful dealers do not depend upon seasonal advertising to make final sales.

2. The "average" advertising budget per dealer is hiked by the more successful dealers who spend far more than the typical on local advertising.

3. Automobile dealers still regard the local newspaper as the most effective retail advertising investment.

In spite of booming automobile sales, some auto dealers in small cities find that their business is actually declining.

Where this is happening, the dealer could ask if he is actually making the sales effort of his competitor in the metropolitan center. Is he even "average" in using the most effective mass tool available to any local retailer — the community newspaper?

ARRIVE FOR DEDICATION — Guests at the dedication of the new school bus garage were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Herrick, who arrived on the buses. The Tecumseh High School band played for the ceremony and Aden Mead, president of the school board, unveiled a plaque which will be placed on the wall of the new facility.

Problem: How to Spend Money

A check for $803.70 was presented by chairman of the event, Mrs. Tom Mitchell, to PTA President John Robinson, at last week's meeting.

From this will come $144 for shrubs and plants, which were ordered last spring by the officers from Tecumseh Greenhouses, for the front of the school.

These include seven evergreens, eight dozen tulips, two dozen daffodils and myrtle ground cover.

Mr. Robinson explained that the officers had gone ahead on this beautification project in order that the items might be planted in time. He said Girl Scouts of Mrs. Avery Lee's Troop 29 had weeded the area and planted the tulips and daffodils.

MEMBERS voted $20 for each of the school's 14 classes to be used for field trips. This totals $280 and leaves a balance of $379.

A variety of items was discussed and several persons assigned to dig up costs. One will be additional playground equipment, another on blackout drapes for the gym, so that movies may be shown to the entire school, and curtains for the kindergarten room.

Kustom Kraft Draperies already has submitted bids of $315 for blackout curtains and $164.90 for the kindergarten work.

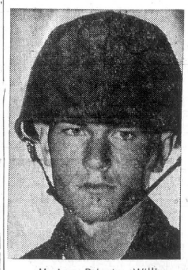
A report was made that there are 221 paid-up members, with dues totaling $110.50.

In parent attendance, mothers and dads of youngsters in Mrs. Wallace Whiting's class were represented in greatest numbers, giving the room a $2 prize. Frances Baker's room was second.

Prior to the business session, the group viewed color slides of Egypt and Europe presented by Tom Riordan, co-publisher of The Herald.

A free baby-sitting room in the library attracted nine youngsters and members decided to continue the practice.

Next meeting is Feb. 13.



Marine Private William O. Bishop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bishop, 113 Maple St., completed four weeks of individual combat training Oct. 18 at Camp Pendleton, Calif. While with an infantry regiment all new Marines are trained in tactical and combat skills needed for battle. Emphasis was placed on the small unit tactics — the four-man fire team and the 13-man squad.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

It's pleasing to see reports which show that calendar 1963 will probably be another record year for the Michigan tourist industry.

Much of the credit for Michigan's record tourist year in 1962 and our apparent new record in 1963 goes to the coordinated and cooperative efforts of local, regional and statewide tourist organizations.

In 1962, Michigan recorded a $30 million increase in vacation traveler spending over the previous year, with some $680 million spread among restaurants, motels, gas stations, resorts, hotels and attractions which cater directly to the needs and desires of tourists.

This is all well and good — but what of the future? We are moving forward, but can we maintain our momentum? And if we are to maintain it, how?

☆

MICHIGAN'S economy essentially is three-pronged: industry, agriculture and tourism provide our major sources of income. All three of these areas must remain strong if Michigan is to continue to move forward.

Our natural attractions will not be enough in the era of intense competition for the tourist dollar, which we are now entering.

Take just one example. South Dakota, which we used to think of as one of the driest states in the Union in the middle of the Dust Bowl, now has a lake which is 100 miles long and full of fish.

This means that South Dakota today can talk about its miles of shoreline and its fishing in its tourist advertising and promotional literature.

Likewise, Texas and Oklahoma are full of man-made lakes, around which flourishing marinas and resorts are springing up.

☆

THE KEY question which Michigan must answer is this: What do we have that no other state can match?

Let's face it: Michigan has no geyser basins. It has no Grand Canyon, no snow-capped mountain ranges. In the past, the beauty of our countryside, our lakes and streams and beaches, were enough to appeal to tourists. But in the years ahead, will they be enough?

The two greatest tourist attractions in Michigan today, in all probability, are Greenfield Village and the Mackinac Bridge.

Neither one was here before civilization came to Michigan. Both are man-made attractions — one an outstanding example of private investment and development, and the other an example of publicly-financed development in which all of us take pride.

☆

WE SHOULD not minimize the continuing importance of Michigan's natural beauties, nor should we underestimate the importance of the excellent work which Michigan has done in conserving, managing and promoting her resources.

But I believe that in the future we must abandon our tendancy to rest upon the bounties of our natural resources.

We must not permit our rich endowment of natural beauty and our state's diversity, to lull us into the complacent hope that these, by themselves will bring an ever-increasing flow of tourists across our borders.

What we need, more than anything else, are creative thoughts, bold ideas and the excitement they generate. We must embellish the natural wonders of our state with man-made wonders if we are to realize the full potential of our tourist resources.

Long and Short

BY TOM RIORDAN

It's fun to drop in at gatherings of City Council. A fellow never knows what might pop up during the evening.

Then the action began.

George reminded his fellow city fathers that dog owners were supposed to have, not one, but two licenses for their pets. From the city for $1 comes one and from the county for $2 the other.

What does the town do in return for collecting the buck?

This was the question George tossed onto the table and it was as if he had flipped a juicy bone into the midst of a flock of hungry canines.

Everyone went for the tidbit.

There was a lot of good-natured chatter, but some serious comments, too.

Mr. McCombs allowed as how the conscientious folks, who fence-in or tie their pets, sometimes find themselves in trouble when the pup starts barking at strays who wander into the neighborhood.

It turned out that this very thing had happened at George's home, when his pooch kicked up a rumpus at the urging of a pack of hounds on the loose.

Someone called the cops and when they arrived all they found was the McCombs' dog, neatly tied up and nary another canine in sight.

Cal Zorn, the man of many talents, confirmed that the police will pick up strays, when called.

But, who is to hold them until the squad car arrives?

"You can't expect a tiny housewife to go out and tackle a big mutt," someone popped up, "then hold him until the police arrive."

A councilman in the corner, Bob Bonner, chimed in with a grin in his voice, "You're supposed to offer them a nice piece of steak and lure them into the garage, then lock the door."

"Maybe Tecumseh should have its own dog warden," suggested His Honor, Mayor Harold Easton.

The city is now served by the Lenawee County warden, who comes over when the police beckon.

Clerk Naomi Sallows injected that 400 city licenses were sold last year, giving a gross income of $400. Apparently this is not enough to keep a warden happy.

"Don't dogs have to be tied up?" someone asked.

The current dog ordinance was quoted. Major requirement is that the beast be "within reasonable control of the owner," whatever that means.

About this time, Councilman Ray Puffer confided that he knew one fellow who owned eight dogs and "probably none of them are licensed." All apparently roam at will.

Then, as it sometimes does, a major answer evolved from the discussion.

"Spend $3 for a B-B gun," advised a learned city father. "Those stray dogs never forget."

Next problem.

$5 Million Industry Hanging in Balance

Fate of a $5 million industry hangs in the balance as two rigs burrow deep beneath frozen farm land in search of water.

Working 14 hours a day, employees of American Drilling Co. of Farmington are probing for a well that can produce 2,000 gallons per minute.

They have sunk the steel bits five times in property along Sutton Rd., four miles due south of Tecumseh.

At wells No. 1 and 2, the potential was insufficient. Well No. 3 has some hopes.

Well No. 4, now down 160 feet, hit gravel Tuesday morning and this could hold the key.

☆

C. E. FULMER of Farmington, one of the drillers, explained that No. 4 might be a possibility. By Thursday it will be known.

Well No. 5, about 500 yards to the west, is 130 feet deep and still in clay. Its fate should come by the end of this week.

The first four tries were made on land owned by Robert Macham and the fifth on the Jesse Stretch farm, next door to the west.

Both Nos. 4 and 5 are holding "pretty close to formation," explains Mr. Fulmer. For about 50 to 60 feet there is yellow sand, then about 100 of clay, followed by gravel.

As the riggers drill, they are dropping six-inch casing pipes, each about 20-feet long.

The chemical plant wants to drop a 14" to 16" well in order to pump the desired result when a big water-bearing formation is found.

WITH AN employment of 700, the Stauffer Chemical Company's Anderson Division layout is almost certain to be built in Lenawee County.

Based on its $5 million valuation, this would mean $60,000 in additional tax revenue for the school district serving the area in which the structure goes up.

All present sites are within the Tecumseh District.

Stauffer initially considered a location close to Adrian, but the lack of water scotched this locale. Three wells were drilled, with none being satisfactory.

HOPES FOR BIG HIT — Water well driller Herman Creech of Kalamazoo, gets ready to drop the drill bar into No. 4 test well shaft on the Sutton Place property. The 26-foot-long, solid steel drill is driven into the earth by percussion. The fate of No. 4 should be known Thursday.

THEY TRIED — Getting music from a freezing instrument is almost impossible, but the youngsters in the Tecumseh High School band tried their darndest Saturday morning for the Santa Claus parade. Temperature reading on the United Savings Bank showed four degrees as the steamy breaths of the players hung in midair.

Cold Blast Delays Work on City Job

Extremely cold weather Saturday briefly held up work on the south interceptor sewer along Russell Rd., but the job is still expected to be completed this week.

The Brady Sand and Gravel crew was expected to work Saturday, but instead spent the morning getting lighter weight oil into their equipment, explained Arthur Brady.

The line runs from Maumee St. to Union St.

City Manager Cal Zorn told Council Monday evening that an unexpected cost of $285 will fall to the city for replacement of 400-feet of existing eight-inch pipe, which couldn't be salvaged.

Choirs To Sing Hymns in German at Yule Program

Mrs. William MacBeth is directing the church school program Sunday, Dec. 22, at the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

She issues a cordial invitation for parents and friends to attend the 8 p.m. entertainment.

A feature of the services this year will be the singing of "O Holy Night" and "Silent Night" in German.

The Adult Choir and the Luther League Choir have combined to perform these selections for the candlelight service Christmas eve at 11:30 p.m. under the direction of Mrs. Stephen Mieck.

Another first in the new church will be the baptism of Thomas Kay Colson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Colson. This will take place Sunday, Dec. 29.

The Rev. Laszlo Gero, pastor of the church, has planned a New Year's day service, which will begin at 10:30 a.m.

25% Stock Dividend Proposed

A 25% stock dividend for shareholders of the United Savings Bank was recommended by directors at their December meeting.

The proposal must be approved by the State Banking Department, then at the annual stockholders meeting Jan. 21.

Board members also proposed that the 75c-per-share quarterly dividend be extended to the new stock.

The United Savings Bank currently has assets of $22½ million, reflecting a continuing growth.

Capital and surplus now stand at $1½ million, reports President J. W. Meadows.

The third grade children gave an acrostic on Christmas followed by a recitation by Peggy Loughney and Trudy Johnston.

Mary Tooman gave a recitation with the Nursery and Kindergarten children singing "Jesus Loves Me."

☆

A group recitation was given by Chuck Holmes, Bruce Smith and Paul Cubberly.

During the offertory an instrumental trumpet trio was played by Brad Hatch, Dennis McClure and Jerry Hale.

The Primary Department sang the number "Come Softly, Tread Gently."

A Christian Family scene presented Robert Wood, Robert, Jr., Barbara and Beverly Wood.

David Lord and Darrell Beal presented a reading with Warren Peck singing a solo "At the Cross".

Lighting and sound was produced by Carl Hale and Ed Beal.

The ushers were from the Senior MYF, Sharon Cubberly, Cora Murphy, Susan Bottorff and Elena Leathers.

Christmas Stories Are Available

Many delightful presentations of the Christmas story, the ageless story for every age, are available at the Tecumseh Public Library.

Mrs. Jule Fosbender and her staff invite Tecumseh area patrons to take advantage of the books and materials on all aspects of Christmas.

A delightful display of handmade Christmas ceramics made by Mrs. George Wright, 802 Outer Dr., is also there.

$5,000 Given Industrial Arts, $2,500 for Books

Two gifts were accepted by the Tecumseh Board of Education Monday evening.

A check for $5,000 went to the industrial arts department and one for $2,500 was given to the public library for the purchase of new books.

West End Business Area May Get New Classification

Changes in the wording of a proposed "west-end business" district zoning ordinance, has delayed the mechanics of putting it into law.

When Council got to the point of holding a second reading Monday, members discovered that certain wording would have to be changed.

They decided to refer the matter back to City Attorney Jim Beardsley and have it put in order as soon as possible.

The ordinance has to do with the conformity regulations of the Master Plan, regarding W. Chicago Blvd., from Wegner's Market to the city limits. It now is "Business A."

The area would be switched to "Highway Business," meaning all present businesses would conform, something they now do not.

City Planning Commission chairman Joe Rice told Council that at some future date the entry-exits for various commercial locations in that area might be altered to decrease the accident potential.

One idea he advanced was an island arrangement running in front of several places, with entry on one end to serve all businesses and an exit on the opposite.

Furnace Motor Is Burned Up in Saturday Fire

The fire department was called to the home of Mrs. John Hartley, 610 N. Union St., Saturday, when a furnace blower motor burned up. Smoke and motor damage have not been estimated.

At 12:35 p.m. Sunday, a space heater became flooded at the home of L. Reed, 307 N. Pearl St. No damage resulted.

At 10:50 p.m. the same day, an automobile belonging to Elwyn Moore caught fire on Carson Hwy., near Robbins Rd. Damage was unknown.

Yule Program

A Christmas program was presented at Missionary Baptist Church Sunday evening with Mrs. Shelva Yeary in charge.

Dump View Soon To Be Screened

Long-awaited action to screen the view of the city dump from Herrick Memorial Hospital will be taken next spring.

Councilmen talked about the problem Monday and decided that it's time to tackle the job.

As a start, City Manager Cal Zorn is closing the dump's entry road, which is north of the water tower, and will develop the one about 25 yards south of it.

In cooperation with the Hospital Auxiliary landscaping committee, Council will work out a screening of some sort along the fence line at the southern end of the hospital property.

With the opening of Herrick Nursing Home and the erection of a doctors' clinic west of it, more attention has been focused on the unsightly view provided by the dump.

Mr. Zorn told Council that the dump proper is moving south as it gradually fills.

Boardmen Talk 'Til 1, But Don't Settle Much

A lengthy school board session Monday night produced little action, but lots of talk.

After officials approved razing two old houses on school property and acknowledged a letter from the State Highway Department about traffic on M-50 in front of the Ridgeway School, they went into an executive session.

The closed meeting, ending at 1 a.m. Tuesday morning, probably dealt with millage, crowded conditions at the high school and teachers' salaries.

Four teachers from the Tecumseh Education Association attended the early portion of the meeting and voiced interest in salary increases for the teachers next year.

The state told the board that traffic conditions at Ridgeway did not warrant changing speed limits there.

Norwegian Christmas Carol

Tecumseh Friends Church Pastor Paul Brantingham will bring his annual Christmas message Sunday at 10 and the adult choir will sing the anthem, "A Norwegian Christmas Carol."

Sunday evening at 7:30 the Senior Friends Youth Fellowship will be in charge of the service.

Members will be giving a Christmas program entitled, "The Fear Nots of Christmas" by Ellen McKay Trimmer.

Mrs. Robert Baker and Mrs. Paul Brantingham are directing. The art work is by Mrs. Chester Hensen.

☆

THREE LARGE staffs will be displayed to visualize "The First Christmas Carol." The reader will be Joyce Brugger and there will be special vocal and instrumental numbers by Carol: McClure, Linda Sinkey, Judy Weimer, Chucke Randolph, Larry Meades, Steve Van Valkenburg, John Hayden and Richard Meade.

Keeper of the Notes is Larry Baker. Included in the program is an allegory "The Visit of the Fears," a pantomime, an acrostic, several recitations and a speech choir.

Wednesday, Dec. 24 will be Christmas Eve and school will be dismissed.

The program Margie Chase is in charge of the Beginner Department, which will feature a rhythm band, recitations and songs.

Mrs. Robert MacDonald is in charge of the Junior Department which will give the stories of two carols and sing them: "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Silent Night."

Behind Page One

78 degrees in Englewood, Aunt Lena says.

There must be someone capable of nursing a herd of dairy cattle and a furnace at the Ira and Van Valkenburg residence while the family go to Florida to be with Ivah Munger for the holidays.

Allan Seager and his eldest, Mary, visited recently with a fellow who spun an interesting tale about the Spanish Civil War. "Ah, now there's a fine yarn," thought Mr. Seager, and he promptly put it into story form, to appear next spring in Atlantic Monthly. But what he didn't realize, daughter Mary was thinking, "Ah, now there's a fine yarn." Mary did her version, which will come out in the Harvard Quarterly.

"Who shoveled off our sidewalk?" asked Mrs. Raymond Seitz at Uncle Bill's following Thursday's heavy snowfall, first of the season. Will the Good Samaritan please step forward?

Wouldn't it be a beautiful "live" Christmas card for the community if the churches would keep their lights on behind the stained glass windows during the holiday season? This excellent suggestion came from Mrs. Ray C. Puffer, Jr., 513 E. Logan St. With so many houses of worship on the main streets, it would be a lovely sight.

Have you heard that beautiful music coming from the various churches this past week. Gregg King and Dexter Bailey have been rehearsing with the organs to make sure that they are familiar with each one. These personable young men are available for programs either before or after the holidays.

The joy of Christmas is with the children. One local family blessed with several, has a tradition of two trees — large one for the family and small one for the kids. Mother, taking a long look at the little tree, said, "That tree would look better lifted a few inches off the floor."

"Can't," said Father, "I nailed it down!"

Talk about a Christmas rush! Last week the Jayeees had 320 Christmas trees to sell, ran a 30-inch ad in The Herald. When Sunday evening rolled around, the service club members lined up their nine remaining trees and went home to count their money.

Mrs. Walt Wonderly and Mrs. Dyke Helms proved classified ads can be real tigers. Norma and Claire decided to earn extra stocking-stuffing money by making Christmas cookies.

They put two classified ads in The Herald and received orders for 150 dozen cookies. As of today, the ambitious cookie cookers are all cooked out!

Current grade school joke. What would happen if Judy Garland married Howdy Doody? She'd be Judy Doody! Ho! Ho! Ho?

Santa Claus is waiting by the telephone for area children to call him. He can be reached by dialing 423-7471 Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Monday from 6:30 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Topics of Tipton

The children at Tipton School are planning a short assembly program Friday morning, Dec. 20, at 9:30 a.m., to celebrate the Christmas season.

It will consist of a pantomime with each grade contributing a Christmas Carol. It will be followed by a singspiration.

In the afternoon parties for the individual grades will be enjoyed in each of their rooms.

The Maples Farm Bureau group met for their annual Christmas dinner Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ernst.

Twelve members were present and after the dinner Lester Munger, chairman, conducted the business meeting. Grover Swarts led the discussion on "Should Majority Vote Rule."

The group played a Christmas game, then exchanged gifts ending the evening.

The Grandmothers' Club held their Christmas party Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Herman Tidley after a dinner at the Country Kitchen.

Gifts were exchanged and secret Grandmothers names were revealed for the past year and new names were drawn for the coming year.

Prizes at Euchre were won by Mrs. Richard Vollmer and Mrs. Grover Swarts.

Mrs. Raymond Platt is a medical patient in Herrick Hospital in Tecumseh, entering Saturday.

Methodists To Carol Saturday

Seventh and eighth grade members of the Methodist Church will meet at 6 p.m. at the church Saturday to go caroling.

They will return to the church for recreation, fellowship and food.

At Sunday's 10 a.m. service, the pastor, the Rev. D. C. Porteous will preach on the theme "God Sent Forth His Son."

The Senior MYF will meet at the church at 6:15 p.m. on Sunday and go caroling at 6:30 p.m., returning for refreshments.

A Christmas Eve Candlelight Service will be held in the Church Sanctuary at 10 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Life-Size Manger Goes Up Saturday

Gloria Dei Lutheran Church will once again have its life-size Nativity scene at the corner of Brown and Evans Sts.

Members of the congregation annually assemble the manger scene. It goes up Saturday and it will remain in place four days.

Full-size mannikins represent the Holy Family and the Three Wise Men, while live animals are also on hand. A wooden fence allows the mule and sheep to roam about the area.

Motorists Drive Over Man's Yard

Edsel Thornton, 300 Blanchard St., wants assistance from the city in solving a personal problem.

Lack of a storm sewer in his neighborhood has resulted in constant flooding in front of his house.

When cold weather hit, the water turned to ice, on a level with the curb.

As a result, motorists have been taking a short cut when rounding the corner by Mr. Thornton's property, running over his new lawn.

City Manager Cal Zorn said he would have ice pushed off the road with the city grader, gravel placed on it and a barrier set near the curb so that motorists could not drive onto Mr. Thornton's property.

Mr. "T" will put on a skit at 7 p.m.

Santa Claus will be present, with goodies for the good little kiddies, according to Mr. Bovee.

Funds for the party are made available from the Tecumseh Community Fund. The Jaycees and JC Auxiliary supply the working personnel.

Hayden Fuel, Brady Win Sewer Bids

Bids for materials and construction of the Maumee St. sewer project were accepted by Council Monday evening.

Hayden Fuel and Supply was awarded the sale of materials on a $408.47 bid.

This bested R. S. Moore & Son's $452.20 and Comfort Brick and Tile's $476.

Brady Sand and Gravel was given the construction segment for $550.

Selders Co. was also asked to bid, but didn't.

In addition to these prices, the city will furnish catch basins and manhole covers, explains City Manager Cal Zorn.

The 400-foot Maumee St. line will run from Patterson St. south to Mohawk St.

1,000 Expected for Assembly

Daniel Kierczak, minister of the Tecumseh congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses along with Frank Hinkle, met with David Bowman, circuit supervisor and some 50 other ministers to make final arrangements for the semi-annual convention scheduled for Tecumseh High School, Jan. 17-19.

Mr. Kierczak stated that the purpose of the meeting was to make sure all of the 20 departments conducting the affairs of the convention are in good working order to ensure smooth operation.

Since the Tecumseh group will host the assembly, there will be a great deal of activity locally. About 1,000 delegates from 25 surrounding communities are expected to attend.

☆

IN ORDER to assist visiting delegates, Mr. Hinkle will head the information department. Along with a volunteer staff, he will direct delegates to local facilities and different areas of activity.

"The purpose of the assembly," stated Mr. Szalma, "is to help each minister to increase his ability to aid his students in learning God's will."

The climax of the assembly will be Sunday, Jan. 19, at 3 p.m. when J. W. Filson of Brooklyn, N. Y. will address the assembly on the subject "The Bible Triumphs In A Scientific World."

Mr. Kierczak will act as chairman. He stated, "All sessions are open to the public."

Ridgeway Reports

BY MRS. WILLIAM WRIGHT

The First Methodist Church of Ridgeway combined with Britton will hold a Christmas Eve Service at the Church in Britton with the Rev. R. Allison Mitchinson officiating. The service will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The United Workers class will meet Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Sturtevant to pack Christmas boxes for the shut-ins.

Patricia Linn is in Arlington, Va., with her sister, Mrs. Maynard (Jinny) Grob, whose husband is in Okinawa.

The Methodist Church will hold their Christmas program with an all-congregation participation, Sunday, Dec. 22, at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Edward Bailey will have charge of the program. At the closing of the program a white birthday cake for Jesus will be lighted with 12 candles, representing the 12 months of the year. As the candles are lit those who had a birthday in that month will present a white gift offering which will go to the children's home in Detroit. At the closing of the service a coffee hour will be held and the cake will be served.

Mrs. Francis Packard of Tecumseh visited the morning kindergarten and delighted the children and their first grade friends with a flannelgraph story of the first Christmas last Friday.

City Making Official Bid for Property

City Manager Cal Zorn was authorized by Council Monday to submit an "offer to purchase" form to the Government Services Agency for property on S. Pearl St.

Now being used by the city as an off-street parking lot, behind Easton's and next to Ed's Auto Service, the property was once considered as a new post office site.

When this plan was changed and the Adams Park area selected, the Pearl St. property became surplus.

Tecumseh's offer will be for $22,900.

Mr. Zorn says that it will take about two months before the city will get action on its offer.

TEEN TALK

By JANICE WHELAN

Student Council has asked the various clubs to donate about $2 each for the purchase of a new flag outside the building.

They have decided on a company and if the flag is suitable, three more flags will be ordered, so that when one wears out there will be another on hand.

The Council hopes to sponsor another exchange student next year if members can find a home for one.

If any family is interested in having a foreign exchange student live with them during the 1964-65 school year, please contact this writer, Don Baird, or Anders Eden.

Wayne Jackson donated a tree for the study hall in the high school and the Council decorated it Saturday.

√

The National Honors Society met Dec. 10, for a different type of meeting. The guest speaker was Santa Claus, who spoke about his work at the North Pole and led the group in singing Jingle Bells.

The Society then divided into three groups. Each group selected a person to be their Christmas Tree and then they decorated him.

The three trees were, George Moricz, John Oberlin and Bob Glenn.

After the trees were decorated Santa judged them and the winning group received chocolate Santas.

The winning tree was Bob Glenn. After that, President John Oberlin selected Susan Bottorf, Virginia McCarly, Tom Eliot, Jeff Osburn, Dave Dustin and Jim Cook to participate in a "keep talking" game.

When they had finished, the members unanimously voted that Tom Eliot was the best talker. Refreshments were then served.

Marilyn Mumaw, after winning the District Make It Yourself In Wool Contest, traveled to East Lansing Dec. 14, to participate in the State contest.

Marilyn entered in the junior contest a light blue wool coat and navy blue wool dress. Her accessories were white gloves, navy blue hat and navy blue heels.

This lovely ensemble won Marilyn a trip to New Mexico to take part in the National Make It Yourself in Wool Contest. Over all contestants in the State contest including both juniors and seniors, Marilyn placed first.

The winner of the National Contest gets a Caribbean Cruise, and to other placers in the contest there will go scholarships.

PLANT PROTEIN SUPPLEMENTS will usually give better results in feeding rations than animal protein or combination supplements. Only when other feeds are short of vitamin A and minerals will a combination supplement give better performance. In Iowa tests, sows fed a 50% solvent soybean meal weaned pigs that gained 6 pounds at [illegible] weeks. Sows fed [illegible] MEAT-MEAL weaned pigs that gained 5.3 pounds at two weeks. Unless relative prices dictate otherwise, better stick with plant proteins.

SOYBEAN GROWERS in areas where phytosiithors rot presents a problem will want to consider new resistant varieties that will be available for 1964. They are Hawkeye 63, Harosoy 63, Lindarin 63, and Clark 63. They yield about the same as their parent varieties and are equally adapted. Seed supplies are likely to fall short of demand. Order early and insist that the seed be certified.

OUTSIDE MACHINERY STORAGE, where inside storage is not available, involves applying a number of practices for adequate protection. First, line up machines in rows at right angles to prevailing winter wind. Keep machinery off the ground with jacks or blocks, especially those with rubber wheels. Protect exposed metal parts with rust preventive. And finally, remove belts and canvas and oil all link chains.

TWELVE-INCH CUBIC BALES may be the coming thing. Research at the University of Minnesota shows that they are well adapted to artificial drying and mechanical handling. Drying cost ranged from 4.00 to $6.30 per ton. Time for drying varied from 18 to 33 hours.

Indians Romp, 78-64

A big second half paved the way for Tecumseh's second victory of the season Friday night and knocked Airport from the undefeated ranks.

The Indians soundly whipped the Jets, 78-64, with 12 of the 14-point winning margin coming in the final two quarters when Tecumseh outshot the visitors 39-27.

The game was the last league tilt until Dec. 27, when the Indians tangle with Blissfield in the ABHT tournament at Blissfield.

Jerry Hebb and Clark Nichols led their teammates to a somewhat surprising win over Airport. Hebb hit a career high with 30 points and played real well on the boards.

Nichols bagged 10 goals for 20 points, 14 coming in the first half, and 10 in the first period when the Indians and the Jets swapped the lead four different times.

After losing the lead midway in the second stanza, Hebb connected for four straight goals, mostly jumpers from 10 to 12 feet out, to give the Indians a two-point half time advantage.

Turning point, and major factor in the game, was Airport's decision to press. The press not only cost the Jets a couple of buckets but led to some fouls, particularly by their center, Bob Nolan.

Nolan had 17 points at the half, 16 in the second quarter. He was held out of most of the second half, due to fouls, and failed to score another point.

Outstanding in the Tecumseh drive, although not showing on the scoreboard, was guard Jim Lawson's play in setting up Hebb time after time for the center's jump shots. Lawson combined with Jim Tilton to dribble through and around to break up the Airport press.

With less than two minutes in the third quarter, Tecumseh scored eight straight points to give the Indians a 10-point lead at the end of the period.

The Indians gradually widened the gap in the fourth stanza and just before the end held a 16-point lead.

Three Airport players hit the double figure column, but the Jets top scorer was held to just three points. Bob Dicks, Airport leader, found the Indian defense, usually Lawson, a bit tough to score against.

Gray Mfg. Buys Virginia Metal

Virginia Metal Products Corp., with sales of approximately $10,000,000 a year and net earnings to exceed $500,000 in 1963, was purchased by Gray Manufacturing Co. of Tecumseh, announces James Ashman, board chairman.

Gray Manufacturing paid $2,200,000 in cash to America Corporation to purchase its subsidiary, Virginia Metal Products, manufacturer and national distributor of a number of metal products, including partitions and doors.

Mr. Ashman said operation of the Virginia Metal Products plant at Orange, Va., with 500 employees, will be continued under the present management.

Gray manufacturing acquired Faraday Electric Co. on April 1 this year.

It moved its production of Audograph dictation instruments and other products in July from Hartford, Conn., to the Faraday plant at Tecumseh, consolidating its operations with those of Faraday.

At the same time Gray Manufacturing sold its former plant at Hartford.

36-Hour Patrol for Roads

Making extra effort to help curb Michigan's mounting traffic toll, the State Police will operate special 36-hour road patrols during the Christmas and New Year holiday periods, Commissioner Joseph A. Childs reports.

Twenty-two persons died in accidents during the Christmas holiday period last year while another 20 were victims over New Year's.

For the five years of 1958 to 1962 deaths averaged one every three hours and 12 minutes for the Christmas period and one every four hours and 30 minutes for New Year's.

Assisting the State Police will be 106 National Guard members who will serve either as second men on traffic patrol or on point control.

The patrols will provide maximum coverage from 3 to 9 p.m. each day of the holiday periods when traffic is expected to be heaviest. Emphasis will be on state trunklines and primary county roads having high accident experience and heavy traffic volume.

—Just Asking

Every man who enlists in the Army can be sure of getting two pretty important things. You'll get Army training which includes advanced technical knowledge and valuable leadership experience—both of which can mean a lot in your later career.

The other thing the Army gives you is the chance to serve your country. The technical training that builds your future protects America's future too. And the same goes for the leadership training. The Army will teach you to depend on yourself, because America depends on you.

There are a lot of different ways to do something for your country. That's one reason the Army offers you the privilege of choosing your own job training before you enlist. Of course you have to qualify to make sure you have the aptitude required for the training you pick. And when you qualify, you get a guarantee that you'll get the training you want.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Quite frankly this is not the kind of Christmas article I had intended to write. I had thought of doing a light little piece about happy memories of past holidays.

Somehow, though, the mood is not right, the events of Nov. 22 are still too close, too sharp.

At this time of year there is always so much to do, so much shopping, wrapping, card writing, etc., but still, all of us manage a few quiet minutes now and then to meditate about the true meaning of Christmas.

This year I think it behooves us all to take more than "just a few quiet moments now and then" — we should do some serious concentrating on the spirit of the season.

Today, in certain aspects, it makes little difference whether John F. Kennedy was a Republican or Democrat. He was our President, he is now dead, cut down by an assassin's bullet.

In our society it was an impossible thing, or at least most of us thought it was impossible.

☆

WEDNESDAY, we celebrate Christmas, the birth of Christ. His teachings were love, peace on earth, good will toward all men. In the many years since those wondrous events in Bethlehem we have not progressed very far. We have not learned well, in fact we have hardly begun to learn at all.

Greed, intolerance, immorality and hate are not Christian characteristics. Yet, they are all quite prevalent in today's world. The results of such an un-Christ-like thing as hate were made painfully evident in Dallas.

Call it the workings of a twisted mind, a warped personality or political fanaticism, but it all simmers down to unchecked hatred.

Now that the first shock of the assassination is wearing off, undignified sentimentalism and unwarranted criticism is beginning to appear. President Kennedy provoked strong emotions, people either liked or disliked him, there was no middle ground.

☆

THE FACT that he is dead does not change what his policies were, they are neither more right nor more wrong now than they ever were. But this is beside the point, personalities should not count.

For all of us the lesson of the President's death should be that we must re-kindle the true spirit of Christmas.

Hatred, intolerance and all other injustices must be abolished. Christ came to teach us to love our fellow-man. When are we going to start learning?

So there it is. Now, just one more thing before closing—Merry, Merry Christmas to you all!

Wants To Earn Money for Trip

Gregg King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. King, Jr., 411 S. Adrian St., has been accepted for the Michigan Chorale and will travel with the group to South America this summer.

A senior at Tecumseh High School, Gregg has sung in the high school chorus and Madrigal Singers since his freshman year.

He had a role in the popular production of the Tecumseh Players, "Girl Crazy" and will be heard in "The Pajama Game" chorus. He also sang for several summer weddings.

☆

AN AVID sports fan, Gregg enjoys hockey, skiing, both on water and snow, golf, football and many others.

He has been singing in the Presbyterian Church choir for two years and has had three years' study of the piano.

A college prep student, he is planning to attend a junior college after graduation from high school.

His past financial efforts have included a paper route for three years and caddying at the Tecumseh Country Club for six years.

☆

TO HELP finance his trip with the Chorale, Gregg would like to sing for local groups in the city and Lenawee County.

He has prepared holiday selections under the direction of Frances Moran, high school chorus director, and has music ready for any time of the coming year.

His accompanist is Dexter Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bailey, 209 N. Maumee St.

The Chorale's trip will begin June 25 and they will be away about seven weeks.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

I had a most interesting experience Saturday. It was my honor and pleasure to serve as a judge at state finals of the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest.

This contest is held throughout the United States with the various state winners going to the national contest, this year at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

It is quite amazing to see what these young girls do in the way of sewing and tailoring. Frankly, I wish I could buy ready-to-wear that was made with the care and skill these gals do. The fact they all did such an expert job, made the judging very difficult. In choosing the winners every detail had to be compared and gone over many times before a decision was made.

We were very pleased that a girl from our district was chosen the State Winner and will go to Albuquerque. I believe many of you know her, Marilyn Munaw of Tecumseh. All of us at Clinton Woolen wish her the best of luck at the Nationals.

Christmas shopping all done? We are enjoying a very good season but still have a store full of beautiful items. Clinton Woolen will be open Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Monday nights, our regular hours Sunday and Tuesday.

The cold spell we are having, as this is written, has perked up the interest in ski togs. We can think of nothing that would please a young person more than a garment or accessory for skiing.

Two new sweaters have arrived for the men . . . . an Italian heavy wool ski sweater . . . a Mohair and Wool cardigan in natural and also a soft green. The latter a real good buy at $15.95.

For the teen age girl there are V-neck mohairs, wool V-necks and cardigans with patches in the $7.95 and $8.95 range. Luscious pastel skirts in junior sizes with matching and contrasting sweaters for the gal that wants to be fashion right.

Shucks, come on over to Clinton Woolen and let us show you all the beautiful things . . . . it is much better than talking about them.

Virgin Birth of Savior Is Topic

The virgin birth of Christ Jesus will be explained in this Sunday's Bible Lesson at all Christian Science churches.

Readings from the Bible will include the angel's message to Mary: "The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God" (Luke 1:35).

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

It's doubtful if there is any subject with more universal agreement among Americans today than the importance of quality education.

We may have been slow to recognize just how important it is, but we as a people are determined now that we will develop the finest educational system within our power.

As a people, we are coming to demand more and more of education. We know that education may be the means of our very survival.

And we know without doubt that the demands of the near future will be even greater. Whether we call it the Space Age or the Atomic Age of the Science Age, or some other kind of age, what we are entering today is the age of the educated and trained intellect.

More than anything else, we are going to need all the brainpower and all the intellect and talent that we as a nation can produce.

☆

OF COURSE, there are some citizens who show nothing but apathy toward the quality of education and the improvement of the schools.

But there is another side of the coin — the intense interest which many people display and the energy they devote to improving schools.

This concern represents the best hope for the future of public education in Michigan. While our system of public schools is far above the national average in terms of financial support, I believe that we must work fervently to broaden this base of public concern — to make more and more citizens actively interested in the quality of education which their children are receiving.

I want to make it clear that the defeat of fiscal reform will not alter my commitment to improve the financial support of Michigan's school system, and the key to this improvement is a revision of the formula by which state aid is alloted to local school districts.

☆

I KNOW that people involved directly in school affairs, as well as the general public, are losing patience with our hop-skip-and-jump formula for returning a portion of the sales tax to the schools.

So far, we in Michigan have been unable to agree on a set of principles which define state financial obligation to schools in relation to local obligation.

What we have is a formula which everyone admits is inequitable. We have districts which easily support a quality educational program plus many expensive frills, and we have districts which struggle along in a perpetual state of financial crisis.

As the inevitable pressure for more dollars increases, the state spends too many dollars in the rich districts, and too few dollars in the struggling districts.

To correct this imbalance, I have asked for a complete study of the problem from a recognized expert in the field — Charles Drake, former Wayne County superintendent of schools.

☆

FROM HIS study, I will prepare recommendations for the regular session of the Legislature opening next month, so that the inequities of the formula can be corrected next year.

I believe there are many people in Michigan who do not realize the extent of state aid to the schools.

During the fiscal year 1961-62, total public school operating expenses in Michigan were $651,289,175.

Of that figure, $347,788,419, of 53.4 per cent, came from local tax sources, $290,474,972, or 44.6 per cent, was in the form of state aid. The balance came from other sources, mostly from the federal school lunch program.

Tom Rudd Attending Conference

DECATUR, Ind. — Thomas P. Rudd of the J. J. Walper and Son in Britton, it attending a dealer training conference here for Master Mix dealers of Central Soya's McMillen Feed Division.

Feed dealers from several states are attending the conference, which offers dealers and their representatives a review of successful feeding and management programs for poultry and dairy producers. Improved customer services are also being discussed.

At the conference, emphasis is placed upon practices which will enable dealers to better serve dairy and poultry producers in the efficient production of milk and eggs.

Among the speakers at the four-day conference are specialists in feed research and nutrition.

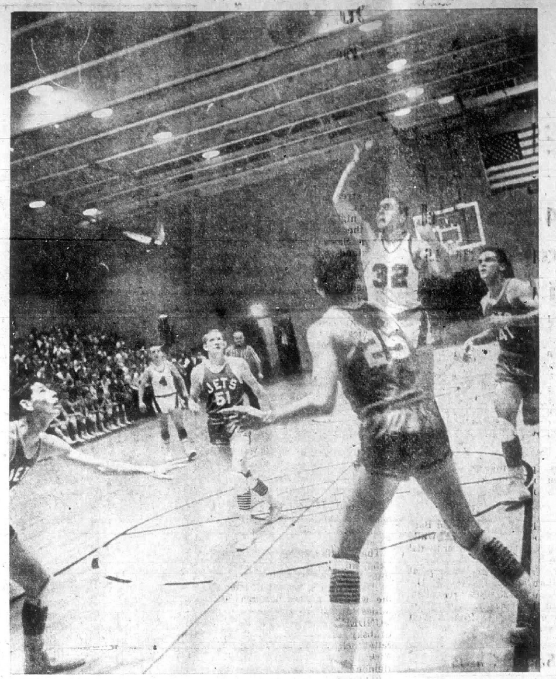
Named Manager of Copeland Corp.

Walter L. Beck, formerly of Tecumseh now of Sydney, O, has been appointed as manager of manufacturing engineering at Copeland Refrigeration Corp.

Mr. Beck resigned his position in mechanical engineering at the Tecumseh Products in May of 1963 and joined the Copeland firm.

He is a graduate of Toledo University and is active in the American Society of Tooling Engineers.

Mr. Beck and his wife are the parents of two daughters Mrs. Thomas Kampmueller, 506 Orchard Lane and Mrs. Alroy Vandepool of Saline and one son, Airman 3/c Randall Beck now in Tampa, Fla.



LET'S FLY — Jim Lawson cuts loose against Airport from out-court and just missed a two-pointer. Lawson, son of Coach and Athletic Director Vic Lawson, turned in probably the finest game played by a Tecumseh guard this season. Along with teammate Jim Tilton, (No. 4 in the background), Lawson was largely responsible for breaking the Airport press and holding the Jets' top scorer, Bob Dicks, to just three points.

LAMB'S REXALL

LOCAL BUSINESS

"Advertising is clearly the most efficient and economical way of selling . . ."

This is the opinion of a man who should know — Luther H. Hodges, United States Secretary of Commerce. Before he entered public service Mr. Hodges attained fame and fortune as a salesman.

He estimates that advertising works four times more efficiently than personal salesmen doing the same job. In other words, in salaries alone, advertising represents a savings of $36,000,000,000 annually to the United States economy.

But to Mr. Hodges advertising has a more important role.

"Without advertising, our national per capita income would fall. The market demand for goods and services would shrink; production would fall off, and many jobs would disappear.

"Almost all of our current problems are rooted in inadequate market demand. When consumer spending for goods and services, and business spending for plant, equipment, and inventories tend to lag, our whole economy falls below its potential.

"Volume sales permit manufacturers to make profits on small margins per unit. If we were deprived of modern mass marketing, of which advertising is an essential ingredient, the prices of products would rise," Mr. Hodges commented.

He expects average family income to rise to $10,000 by 1970, but he does not look for automatic prosperity. "If our economy is to grow as the times demand, advertising must grow with it. . ." thus concludes the old-time retailer and distinguished public servant.

The convention opened with a vesper service Sunday afternoon, followed by a young peoples' talent program in the evening.

The general sessions opened Monday morning in the Civic Opera House.

Other speakers throughout the convention were Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota; Gerald R. Ford, Congressman from Michigan; Claude W. Gifford, associate editor of the Farm Journal; Dr. Maz Brunk, professor of Marketing at Cornell University and Dr. Edward R. Annis, president of American Medical Association.

Please Phone Britton GL 1-2311

Mrs. Herman Miller and daughter, Susan, returned to their home in Greensburg, Pa., last Thursday after spending a week with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Leonard and family of Adrian.

54-Year-Old Skater Earns 'Silver Bar'

BRITTON — The roller skating rink was conquered again by Art Van Wormer, 54-year-old custodian of the Britton-Macon Area School.

Art passed a test given for the "Silver Bar Dance" on roller skates.

This is the fourth set of dances in the series and puts him over the halfway point on the way to the top in the regular dance class.

He reports that he is up in the clouds over the accomplishment, which took nearly a year of practice.

Now he intends to try for a "Speed Bar", a "Free Style Bar" and "Optional Dance Bar," while trying to perfect the silver medal dance.

Mr. Van Wormer performs at the Skateland in Perrysburg, O.

A total of 125 tests were taken, all but three passing, with a panel of eight judges from Detroit officiating.

Dundee Snaps Streak

BRITTON — As it eventually happens to every unbeaten basketball team, defeat came to the Britton Tories Saturday evening.

Dundee sped past the defending Michigan Class D champions, 83-47, snapping a 26-game winning streak that ran over two seasons.

The night before, Britton trimmed the Ida Bluestreaks, 63-41. Coach Sam Hamilton's forces now stand at three wins and one loss for the season.

Looking at the game philosophically, the loss actually may be of more benefit to the team than if it had notched No. 27.

Certainly the extreme pressure of preserving a long streak is gone.

Tory fans will probably learn if this thinking is correct when their crew takes on Whiteford at the local hardwood Friday evening.

In the Ida game, Phil Benedict had 16 points, Varl Sanch 14, Pepper Griewahn 13 and Ron Mastie 11.

Against Dundee, Phil bagged 15 and Pepper 14.

The Vikings' hot shooting hand, hitting almost every other time they fired, sunk the Tories. In Dundee's big second quarter, the winners poured through 30 tallies to eight by Britton.

Meetings will be held at the Tecumseh Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 2750 E. Monroe Road, at 4 p.m. Sunday.

David F. Bowman, accompanied by his wife, Grace, have been assigned to visit the Tecumseh congregation and 15 other congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses nearby during the coming weeks.

Beginning this past Tuesday, a series of meetings will be held at the Kingdom Hall and in private homes in the community during which Bowman will encourage the congregation in its home visitation activity.

New Electric Heater Line Introduced by Tuttle Co.

At its national sales meeting Tuesday morning, H. W. Tuttle & Co. introduced a new line of custom electric heaters.

Designated the CU 4000 Series, the new electric heater line is custom designed, custom built and will be available in all sizes up through six feet square.

The heaters will be developed to meet individual specifications and requirements, but built using standard components in modular increments to hold costs at a minimum and make the line extremely competitive.

[illegible]tion will be such that each heater, although custom, will carry the Underwriters' Laboratories Label.

☆

HAROLD "TUT" TUTTLE, president of the company, told sales representatives, that the new line has wide application in public, industrial and commercial buildings, as well as high rise apartment buildings.

"The CU 4000 Series heaters," said Mr. Tuttle, "gives our representatives a complete line of electric heaters and greatly improves our competitive position.

We anticipate that a considerable increase in sales, production and employment will result."

According to Mr. Tuttle, the new heaters will be offered in sizes that will vary from six inches square through six feet square with ratings from 2KW through 150KW.

As a comparison, 20KW of electric heat is sufficient in most areas in the United States to completely heat a medium-sized five-room house.

Size, circuitry and many other factors will be specified by the customer.

☆

IN ADDITION, the new series will have a wide range of accessories such as thermostats, transformers, switches and relays. These items will be produced by other manufacturers and marketed through the Tuttle organization.

Monday, Tuttle representatives were informed of improvements and additions to the CU 1200 and CU 2000 Series Packaged Duct Heaters and were given a tour of the plant in the afternoon, followed by a question and answer period.

The Tecumseh Country Club was the scene of the activities.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Let's Combine Jobs

About two years ago, Tecumseh lost its full-time Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Late last summer, the city's recreation director left for a position in Toledo.

These are actually unrelated incidents, but help point up a possible idea for the future, one which may be just what the doctor ordered, to coin a phrase.

Could the two positions be combined?

Could the Chamber of Commerce pay a portion of a new man (or woman's) salary, with the city picking up the balance?

Many duties of a Chamber secretary and a recreation leader go hand in glove. Often when a fellow promotes leisure activities in the city, he finds himself promoting the city, too.

With two groups combining on the salary, the total amount could be bigger, thus attracting high calibre candidates.

Being a 7,000-population city puts us in a class where we can't quite afford highly-experienced full-time people in either job — but we should have the finest. This seems the best way to get the job done.

Future Looks Bright

Tecumseh's industrial condition appears never to have been so stable — and the future looks bright.

How much payroll is produced in the community? The Herald is beginning work on a comprehensive study of this and expects to have a run-down for the first issue of the New Year.

It should prove interesting reading. We'd also like to trace, as far as possible, how much of this cash goes into local retail business places.

From one segment of the economy — new car sales — we find that dealer inventories are expected to build up in the next couple of weeks, indicating a buyer's market come January.

Automobile selling is always aggressive and the anticipated promotion should stimulate commerce in general.

In any event, 1964 in Tecumsehland should be a vibrant year.

Let Kids Play

We hate to second guess a coach, but it's a shame the way things turned out in Britton last Saturday.

Not that Britton lost, but the way the defeat was administered. Dundee led at the half-time intermission, 48-22. Instead of working all his boys into the contest, the Viking mentor held with his first seven — and kept building the score.

With three minutes to play, he finally emptied his bench.

It's our opinion that a coach has a responsibility to all the youngsters on his squad. Go all the way to win, yes, but when the victory is insured, give the other kids on the squad a chance.

Such a pattern is not an act of mercy to the other team. It is letting as many as possible play and also building game experience for the younger kids, who'll be back again next season.

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITORS:

I noticed in The Herald that on Mayor Exchange Day in 1964, the mayor of Mesick will trade places with the mayor of Tecumseh for the day.

This is coincidental in a way. It was with students of Mesick High School that Boysville's senior class took its student trip to Washington, D. C., last spring.

We were able to become acquainted with these students and their teacher-chaperones. All impressed us as being wonderful people.

Would it be possible to arrange for Mesick's mayor to visit the campus at Boysville for a short time when he "takes over" Tecumseh for the day? We would be most happy to have him.

Sincerely,
Brother Philip, C.S.C.
Director.

TO THE EDITORS:

Many years ago my mother's brothers, Levi and Pryor Foster founded a school near Addison known as "The Woodstock Manual Labor Institute."

It flourished before the Civil War. After the War colored people were admitted to the Public Schools in Michigan and the school closed up.

I am hoping that someone will read this letter who has some knowledge about this quaint little school and write to me.

Sincerely,
Laurence C. Jones,
Founder and President

Merry Christmas and sincere wishes for a happy New Year. I enjoy your paper very much, and look forward to receiving it in the coming year. Thank you.

Tuttle Warehouse Doubled in Size

Space in the H. W. Tuttle Co. warehouse on S. Maumee St., has been doubled.

The cement-block structure offered 2,500 square feet when it was erected a year ago. As of this week, it will have 5,000 square feet.

Both jobs were handled by Bill Mackey of Tecumseh.

Kim Dabe Home

Airman Kim Dabe is home for two weeks from Greenville Air Force Base, Miss. After his leave he will report to Gunter Air Force Base, Ala.

HERE COMES SANTA — Despite a frigid, four-degree Saturday morning, parents and off-spring were out in force to welcome Santa to Tecumseh. He arrived on a fire truck, led by the 80-piece Tecumseh High School Marching band. The musicians and their directors, Don Johnson and Miles Cowdrey, are to be complimented for the effort they made in the biting cold weather. Instruments were so chilled that the youngsters had great difficulty in getting out even a few notes, but they tried. The drum section did yeoman duty, providing most of the music. Following the march, Santa greeted the little ones at his trailer, set up at the Four Corners.

Long & Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Well, Santa, in only a few more hours you'll be hooking up Dasher, Dancer and the rest of the team.

But before taking off, could you fill a few last-minute requests?

Please, Santa, would you bring:

Hugh Walter — Something to promote.

Tom Fagan — A crushed maple-nut dessert to enjoy on the last day of the 1964 football season.

Mrs. Jesse Sluyter — Another batch of funny stories to match the ones she told in '63.

Jack Hanna — A trick play to offer Bump Elliott for next fall's Ohio State tussle.

Mrs. Alton Snyder — A Tenderay steak, as a change of pace from all those Super-Rights.

William Tecumseh Cook — An Indian chief headdress to match his middle name.

Dr. Richard E. Dustin — A radar rig for his deer hunting bow and arrow.

John Underwood — A two-week sojourn to Palm Springs.

Winky Walker — An attache's valise, fit for a future nuclear sub skipper, to keep his many navy school books.

Dr. Robert Bowers — A sure-shot mallet-head putter.

Walt Nichols — A flight of Tecumseh pigeons, to land at high noon on the marquee of his deluxe Avon Lake, O., theatre some busy spring day.

Clara Waldron — A magic machine that prepares finished manuscripts, such as histories of favorite cities, simply by being spoken into.

Mrs. Vic Lawson — Game-day nerve pills. Having a husband as coach has always been bad enough, now Louise also has a son playing.

Pat Meadows and John Surratt — Fireworks adapters, to attach to their outdoor thermometers, that would blast off when temperature hits zero and 100.

To all Herald readers — A wonderful Christmas.

'. . . on earth, peace, good will toward men.'

In honor of Christ's birthday anniversary, a variety of special worship services have been planned by area churches for Christmas eve and Christmas day.

Candlelight communions are scheduled for both the Presbyterian and First Baptist churches at 11 p.m. Tuesday.

The choir of the First Baptist Church will present a cantata, "When Love Was Born" followed by the communion and baptismal services.

The Methodist Church candlelight service Christmas eve will be held at 10 p.m.

The Blessing of the Manger will be held at St. Peter's Episcopal church at 4 p.m., Dec. 24, followed by the children's sharing of the Christ Child's cake.

A carol service and Festival of Eucharist will be held at 11 p.m. that evening at St. Peter's.

The choirs of the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church have combined to sing two unique selections this year for the candlelight service Christmas eve at 11:30 p.m.

Being presented are "O Holy Night" and "Silent Night" in German, under the direction of Mrs. Stephen Hleck.

The Elizabeth Church will hold mass at midnight Christmas eve and at 9 a.m. Christmas morning.

Confessions on Dec. 24 will be from 11:30 a.m. to noon Dec. 24 and from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m.

The Tecumseh Friends Church school program will be held Dec. 23 at 7:30 p.m. with the Senior Youth Fellowship in charge.

The Senior Choir of the Macon Methodist Church will present a cantata at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 24. A worship service will be held Christmas morning at 9 a.m.

Grace Evangelical Church will hold a Christmas eve service at 7 p.m. and a worship service Christmas Day at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Frank Hawthorne of St. Peter's Episcopal Church has prepared a service for 10:30 a.m. Christmas Day.

Santa Claus

By GENE HEAVENER
1101 Russell Rd.
Age 11

At night if you hear somebody yell ho, ho, ho.
You will know it's Santa,
Bringing you some arrows and a bow.

He has red cheeks,
And a jolly red nose.
In his green bag,
Will be a fire engine and it's hose.

In his sleigh is Little Winky,
And his twin cousin,
Little Dinky.

I see him through my window,
With all of his deer.
He is talking to his helpers,
Something I cannot hear.

He is now on my roof,
Getting out of his sleigh.
Grabbing his bag,
And he's on his way.

Down the chimney he comes.
With his bag of toys,
All of those things,
For the little girls and boys.

He spots the tree
Decorated with blue and white.
And other kinds of colors,
Dark and bright.

He is surrounding the tree,
With dolls and a truck.
And there's one cute toy,
A little toy duck.

He's pulling his bag,
Up the chimney he goes.
He's climbing in his sleigh,
Which goes through all snow.

He's flying away,
With all of his deer.
He's now yelling to everybody,
Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Swedish Youths Open Yule Gifts on December 24

Members of the Progress Extension Club were enthralled last week as they listened to Anders Eden relate customs and celebration of Christmas in his native Sweden.

"We really visited Sweden," said one pleased member of the group, "Anders is so sweet."

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Merton Boss when the Youth For Understanding exchange student spoke. Anders is spending this year in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert King and family.

Anders told of the selection of a young lady to reign over the Christmas holiday in flowing robes and a lighted crown.

☆

IN THE city of Stockholm, the queen is selected in somewhat the same manner as Miss America is chosen here. She must be an accomplished singer.

Dec. 24 is the big day in Sweden — or rather evening. The little people open their gifts early and the older children are allowed to stay up late to open their gifts and eat a bountiful meal.

The house is always filled with friends and relatives Christmas eve. Christmas day is spent quietly and reverently said Anders.

He continued, saying that Jan. 6 is also an important day for the little folk, when they strip the Christmas tree of its decorations.

He said, "They look forward to it more than they do a birthday party."

Mrs. Roland Boyers made arrangements for Anders to be the guest speaker.

☆

A SHORT business meeting was held followed by the roll call when members related Christmas customs and menus of the land which they have chosen to study this year.

Two trees were used to complete the decor for the meeting. One, a mitten tree, is to be used as a remembrance for tots less fortunate and the other held secret pal gifts.

A Christmas dessert was served by the hostess.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Kennard Wise when a continuation lesson on color will be presented along with a time management lesson.

Tip Says Bank Was in Danger

Tecumseh police and bank officials were alerted last Thursday that the United Savings Bank had been the possible target for a robbery.

Police Chief Murell Clark says information sent to his office, reported that either the local bank or the Jipson-Carter State Bank in Blissfield would be robbed Thursday.

Local police kept a close tab on the bank here until closing time at 11 a.m.

Icy Roads Contribute to Mishap

Snow and ice, coupled with poor driving judgment, have sent the late December accident rate soaring in Tecumseh, Police Chief Murell Clark reports.

With a normal average of about 20 minor accidents per month, the police have investigated 23 accidents, mostly all fender-benders, since the middle of the month.

The first 14 days of the month, local motorists were involved in only eight accidents.

Chief Clark says if the drivers would slow down and realize the streets are slippery, there would be far fewer mishaps.

Off for Mason

EXCEPTIONAL DOOR DECOR — Many houses in Tecumseh wear sparkling decorations these days, but few top those at the Harold Sisson home, 311 E. Pottawatamie St., which were fashioned by Mrs. Sisson. The interior of the house is also ablaze with Christmas items, all of which she made. Mrs. Sisson, who uses her own jig saw to fashion the pieces, is anxious to have folks drop by and see them. Photos are by Jim Wilbar, new Herald apprentice cameraman.

Safe Robbers Give Up When Torch Fails

Burglaries have been the rule rather than the exception in Tecumseh during the past three weeks.

Saturday night or early Sunday morning, Johnny and Bill's Cities Service was broken into and an attempt made to crack the station's safe.

The burglars apparently gave up after they failed to get an acetylene torch to operate. No money or other damages were reported.

Entry was made by pushing out a piece of tin used to cover a hole near a door handle.

Late Sunday night or early Monday morning, an attempt to enter Country Market on Russell Rd. was made with little reward.

A window on the east side of the building was broken, and owner Bob Meadows believes possibly a few bars of candy were all that was taken.

Earlier this month, the market's front door was smashed in, but only known loss was a few packs of cigarettes.

☆

Police report that $28 in cash was taken from Tressler's apartment and some small change from Hoekstra's.

Christmas Thought

This was the Christmas thought expressed to employees of an industry in Tecumseh by management.

"If you would like to increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbors' faults.

"Forget all the slander you ever heard.

"Forget the temptations.

"Forget the fault finding, and give a little thought to the causes which provoked it.

"Forget the peculiarities of your friends, and only remember the good points which make you feel fond of them.

"Forget all personal quarrels or histories you may have heard by accident, and which, if repeated, would seem a thousand times worse than they are.

"Blot out as far as possible all the disagreeables of life; they will come, but will only grow larger when you remember them, and the constant thought of the acts of meanness, or, worse still, malice, will only tend to make you more familiar with them.

"Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday, start out with a clean sheet today, and write upon it for sweet memory's sake only those things which are lovely or lovable."

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robison of 307 S. Evans St. will observe their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, Dec. 29, with an open house in their honor from 2 to 5 p.m. at the First Methodist Church. The former Azella Bennett and Ernest Robison were married Dec. 31, 1913, in Detroit. They are the parents of a daughter, Mrs. Leo Stoll. They have one grandson, Jeffrey Stoll. The Robisons farmed until 1929 when they moved into Tecumseh and Mr. Robison went to work for H. Brewer Co. for three years. He also worked for the Tecumseh Products for five years and in 1933, went to work for the Ford Motor Co., where he retired in 1958 after 25 years with the company. Neighbors and friends are cordially invited to attend, but are asked to omit gifts.

What does it mean when a rainbow is seen at 8 a.m. in zero degree temperature? Several called The Herald Friday to report the phenomenon.

No, Dr. Robert Murray hasn't joined A & P. A chap by the same name, who is mentioned in a news item this week, might cause the confusion.

A Christmas card for the Leo Hoffman family, 504 E. Logan St., had our fair city listed as "tecumach", lower case "T" included.

Julie Parrish has a guest lead opposite Jeffery Hunter in a coming television episode of "Temple Houston." We're not sure what channel it's to be on. Can anyone help?

On Friday, Pfc. Gary Greene stepped into a KLM jet at Frankfurt, Germany and Saturday morning well before dawn, was at Metro Airport, home for a 20-day Christmas leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Greene, 301 W. Bidwell St. Gary's next post will be at Oberammergau, deep in German Bavaria, one of the most beautiful places in the world.

Incidentally, The Herald has a special one-year subscription rate for all area men in service — just $1, to cover handling. If your lad in uniform isn't on the list, drop in and we'll be glad to add him. The hometown newspaper is like a letter.

Next week's Herald will come out the day after New Year's. Following this early edition, it means a little free time for employees. Say, when does that next flight leave for Miami Beach?

Bring in 1964 with good sense.

Coming! Employment figures and 1963 payrolls for industries and large employers of Tecumseh.

A local pilot spotted 27 deer from his plane last week

The spirit of Christmas prevails. Several Rotarians were about the city Sunday evening caroling and delivering baskets. Later they were served refreshments at the Walter residence by Mrs. Walter. Participating in the festivity were Cliff Knudson, Bob Karle, Hugh Walter, Speck Simmons, Bob Moore, Chuck Butler, Art Eaton, Bob French, Dr. M. Officials Invited

Tecumseh city officials have been invited to attend the annual second district regional meeting of the Michigan Municipal League in Ypsilanti on Jan. 30.

HONORED AT STATE UNITED FUND MEETING — Kenneth Conway (center), campaign chairman of the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation, Inc., was awarded the Golden "U" award of the Michigan United Fund at the Campaign Achievement Celebration. Mr. Conway is shown receiving the award from Kathleen McLaughlin, Miss Michigan of 1963, while Frederick R. Elliott of Flint, Michigan United Fund president, looks on. The Campaign Achievement Celebration was sponsored by the Pontiac Motor Division as a tribute to United Fund volunteers throughout Michigan.

Fund Chairman Honored

Over 600 Michigan United Fund volunteers, including Tecumseh's Ken Conway, representing united funds throughout Michigan, attended the Campaign Achievement Celebration of the Michigan United Fund at Kellogg Center in East Lansing.

The volunteers honored the campaign chairman of each local united fund throughout Michigan for the tremendous voluntary effort which saw local united funds raise the highest goals ever raised for united funds.

More than $34,000,000 was raised in 166 local unfited funds in Michigan.

Tecumseh produced $76,297.42. The day was proclaimed Michigan United Fund Volunteer's Day by Governor Romney, who said in his proclamation,

"The heart of this program is the Michigan volunteer who supports the Michigan United Fund program, not only with money, but with his time, effort and energy to assure Michigan communities a balanced program of services to meet human needs."

☆

THE CAMPAIGN chairmen were introduced and awarded Golden U award pins by Kathleen McLaughlin of Ishpeming, Miss Michigan of 1963.

The volunteers heard Frederick R. Elliott of Flint, president of the Michigan United Fund, tell them that "the generous support of our voluntary agencies by businesses, leaders of business and labor, employers and employees alike, should inspire people throughout the nation."

Principal speaker at the meeting was Dr. Harvey C. Hahn, noted community leader from Dayton, O., who complimented the Michigan effort and pointed out that:

"Because of the effort of the volunteers, Michigan residents have available to them a network of voluntary health and welfare agencies which offer the skills and services needed to meet the problems of health and welfare."

The group was entertained by the Four Saints, nationally-known musical comedy team, who have appeared in many leading night clubs, radio and television, and the concert stage throughout the United States and Canada.

Drilling Continues

By Monday, riggers had reached a pocket of gravel at the 160-foot mark.

A gravel formation 10 to 12 feet thick is needed to fulfill the 2,000-gallon-per-minute rate established by the $5 million chemical plant hoping to settle in Lenawee County.

The fourth well on the Robert Macham farm produced about four-feet of gravel, before going back to sand and clay. This well went down 240 feet.

C. E. Fulmer of Farmington feels that the fate of the Stretch well will be known by the end of this week.

POLICE BLOTTER

Tilman C. Smith, Monroe, speeding, $10.

Linda Lee Underwood, Clinton, speeding, $15.

Larry J. Ruhl, 302 W. Kilbuck, violation of basic speed law, $7.

William Work, 711 S. Adrian, drunk and disorderly, $50.

Donald Dennis Elected Council President

Lenawee and Monroe Counties Wolverine Council of Boy Scouts held their annual election at Petersburg High School last week.

Mr. Dennis, a Products employee for 7 years, has been in scouting for 12 years.

Members of his board are Albert Davis of Monroe, Arthur Lesow of Monroe, Dr. Bernard Cadmus of Adrian, Alvin Knight of Adrian and Gustav Henry of Monroe.

National Council representatives are Alda Rolph of Monroe, Mr. Dennis, Mr. Knight and Mr. Frazier Tubbs of Adrian.

Three Elected to Fair Board

Virgil Bortel of Macon Township, Glenn Forsyth of Raisin Township and Noble Gregg of Tecumseh Township were among 12 persons elected to serve on the board of directors of the Lenawee County Fair for three-year terms.

Douglas Palmer, Ridgeway Township, was elected to fill the vacancy created by the death of William Judkins.

Warrant Issued for Car Theft

A warrant for theft of a car was issued to Harris Sevey, Jr., 18, of Route 1, Tipton, by Clinton State Police, Thursday.

Sevey left the scene of a personal injury accident Dec. 10 at 1 p.m. on Monagan Rd., south of US-12.

Henry Tripp, 60, a neighbor, was a passenger in the car and suffered cuts and bruises.

He was admitted to Herrick Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Mary Daniels of Tipton and Jackson, owner of the car, signed the warrant.

Because we realize how much our success is due to you, we are most sincerely appreciative.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

GOOD-BYE '63, HELLO '64 (Part 1)

Before shutting the door on 1963, perhaps it would be fun to do a little remembering. What kind of a year was it? Well, with the aid of our bird calendar we can at least check back on what kind of bird busines[illegible] was.

On this calendar [illegible] briefly note the weather. We had a cold winter, didn't we? — all those below zero readings -b-r-r-r.

I am not going to date those North Pole spells of weather. Why bring up unpleasant memories?

Nrdifrd, I don't want to run a chance of Old Man Winter misconstruing a mere mention for a dare to do a repeat.

Happier things to recall are the Mid-March poppings-up of tulips and crocus and circled in red is the 24th, crocus out!

☆

WEATHER-WISE the summer was rather peculiar. It was either sweltering hot or shiveringly cold. October was hot and dry. For example, Sunday, Oct. 6, saw the thermometer soar to 93 degrees.

Never have we seen the creek so low but at least, there was always a little water, even a trace of current. Finally the rains did come and no one needs to be brought up to date weather-wise.

But getting to the birds, we find that the first notation, on Jan. 2, is quite a surprise. What was a red-wing black bird doing around here then, why wasn't he in the sunny southland with the rest of the family?

Another out-of-season visitor was a male cow-bird. The stormy days seem to bring bunches of birds — 14 mourning doves, five blue jays, four squirrels and best of all, was the Sunday we had six cardinals, all females — some hen party.

February saw tow-hees, yellow-bellied sap-suckers, cedar waxwings and big invasions of cardinals, juncos, tree sparrows and song sparrows. It was also the month Mother Squirrel started lugging nesting material into the hole in a tree across the creek. The creek high-flood on Feb. 25.

☆

THE FIRST part of March was, bird-wise, much like the Valentine month. By the middle, however, it still looked like winter but there were hints of spring — the birds were beginning to sound like spring and wow, March 13 found 12 robins in Dorothy's back yard. A woodcock was the new bird of the month.

April was busy. Kingfisher, red-winged black bird, brown thrasher, baltimore oriole, pheasants, meadow lark, a questionable wren, white crowned sparrows, gold finches, purple finches, mallard ducks and finally, a blue heron.

May was busy, busy, busy.

We were amused and confused by wave after wave of tiny warblers. Black throated blues, yellow, red starts and so many others we could not even begin to name.

Chipping, white throated and white-crowned sparrows, plus olive-backed thrushes, rose breasted grosbeaks were more numerous than ever before.

☆

THIS WAS also a month of young ones. On May 6 we had our first really good look at the two baby squirrels — they were just starting to explore the tree world right outside their nest.

The cardinal nest had two eggs, the first naked baby appearing on May 23.

So it is that the first part of 1963 was quite a busy time — next week we will take a look at the remaining seven months.

GOD AND MAN

The Christmas stars burns overhead
It's gleaming, golden rays are shed
From stern majestic height.

Yet even humble doors may part
To let that clear light in,
For Christ has taught the childlike heart
That God and Man are kin.

Party for 'Baldy'

The Tecumseh Fire Department honored Cecil "Baldy" Alderdyce and his brother, Leo, Dec. 7, with a surprise dinner at the American Legion Post Home served by the Auxiliary.

David Faling, chairman, assisted by Gale Hooton, Harold Easton, and Dick Beasley made arrangements for the event attended by 80 firemen and their wives and other special guests including the city council members and their wives, City Manager Cal Zorn and Mrs. Zorn, Police Chief Murell Clark and Mrs. Clark and fire chiefs from the surrounding areas and their wives.

Willis Barton, representative of the American Fire Apparatus Corp. of Battle Creek, was present. The two most recently purchased fire trucks have been from this company.

Mr. Faling served as master of ceremonies honoring Baldy who is retiring after 27 years of service. He joined the volunteer force in May of 1937 and was made fire chief in July of 1949, a position he has held since that time. He was presented a wrist watch.

Leo Alderdyce joined the force in April, 1941, and retired Dec. 1, 1963. He was given a fly rod and reel.

Cal Zorn gave a brief resume of the history of the Fire Department and of Baldy's work on it.

Baldy responded and told about some of the equipment used when he first started work with the force.

He resigned as of Dec. 1 because he is moving to his new home outside of the city limits. He will continue to work as a volunteer fireman.

Indians Face Big Blissfield '5' in ABHT Tournament Friday

Basketball fans will have one of their biggest attractions of the season this weekend at Blissfield with the Royals hosting the Adrian - Blissfield - Hudson - Tecumseh tournament.

Hudson is included in the annual tourney for the first time and will meet Adrian in the cage opener Friday night at 7 o'clock.

Blissfield and Tecumseh meet in the second game, scheduled at 8:30. Friday's [illegible] Saturday evening in the first game with the winners paired for the championship tilt at 8:30.

Based on competition and comparative scores, Adrian should have little trouble with Hudson. The Indians could run into difficulty against Blissfield, but should win to make it Tecumseh-Adrian in the title game.

Coach Vic Lawson's team has lost only to Dundee, and dropped that one by just two points, 82-80, in the season's opener. The Indians won't have an opportunity to square their series with Dundee until they meet the Vikings Jan. 24 at Dundee.

☆

IN THE ROYALS, Tecumseh will pump up against the tallest team it will undoubtedly meet all year. Blissfield boasts three varsity cagers of the giant type — Bill McDowell at 6'8", Ken Gubbe at 6'6" and Fred Walters at 6'5". Gubbe is a senior while McDowell and Walters are both juniors.

Whether a two-week lay-off affects the Indians remains to be seen, but if Tecumseh comes through Friday night, many fans will see what some consider a game between the top two teams in the area.

The Maples upended the Indians on Adrian's floor last year, but some still thought the Indians to have the better team. This same Adrian team went to the finals at East Lansing in the Class A tournament, losing the state title to Ferndale.

Adrian misses only one starter from last year's great team, but has had some trouble this season.

The Maples lost to Jackson and Toledo Whitmer in their first two games then defeated Hillsdale and Battle Creek Lakeview in their last two starts.

☆

IF THE Indians meet Adrian, it should be a close one. Tecumseh has an edge in height, but lacks Adrian's experience.

Clark Nichols, Jerry Hebb and Gregg Allen also give the local team scoring balance with Nichols and Hebb both averaging over 22 points a games.

The Indians are averaging just under 80 points per game in recording two victories against one loss.

If the shooters stay hot, a Tecumseh championship in the ABHT tournament wouldn't be too surprising.

The Tecumseh Jayvees continued undefeated last week with a 58-50 victory over Blissfield.

Coach Jim Hoffman's team jumped off to a 14-7 lead in the first quarter and was never headed. At one time in the first half, the Indians led by 13 points, biggest margin of the game.

Terry Alcock was top Tecumseh scorer with 16 points. John Goodman had 12, and Doug Hall 10.

Scientific

The scientific nature of Christianity will be explored in next Sunday's Bible Lesson at all Christian Science churches.

Scriptural readings will include this verse from Isaiah (51:4): "Hearken unto me, my people; and give ear unto me, O my nation: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the people."

Income Tax Time Coming for Farmers

Farmers, another year has passed and it is just about income tax filing time again.

To determine when your income tax return is due, answer the following two questions:

1 — Is at least two-thirds of your gross income from farming activities?

2 — Does your taxable year begin on January 1?

☆

IF THE answer to both of these questions is YES, you have two choices as to when your return is to be filed:

1 — File your return and pay the tax by February 15; or

2 — File an estimate of the tax due and pay it by Jan. 15.

In this case you may file the tax return anytime through April 15.

So, if you file the estimate and pay the tax by Jan. 15, you have an additional three months to file your income tax return. Otherwise, both the tax return and the tax are due Feb. 15.

Read about farmers' special filing dates in the "Farmers' Tax Guide" which may be obtained free of charge from your County Agricultural Agent or the local Internal Revenue Service Office.

Tory Five Comes Back with Blast

BRITTON—A band of Britton-Macon basketball players will enjoy Christmas much better now.

In their first outing since being rocked by Dundee and their last court appearance before the Yule, the Tories thundered by Whiteford, 68-38.

It was Britton's fourth straight River Raisin League victory.

Phil Benedict was hot, netting 31 points. Varl Sanch had 15, both Ron Mastie and Bill Korican contributed six tallies.

The Tories, who came to win, rushed off to a 41-9 lead at intermission as hapless Whiteford got but three of 33 shots to go in.

Next Britton action will be Jan. 7 at Deerfield.

My Neighbors

"Are we allowed to have the businessman's lunch?"

Homemakers Hold Party

Diane Meyers was the hostess Dec. 12 for the Christmas party of the Holloway Homemakers 4-H Club.

Games were played and Santa Claus visited the group.

After a gift exchange, refreshments were served by Miss Meyers and her mother.

The Jan. 9 meeting will be held at the home of Marilyn Mumaw at 7 p.m.

Farmers Should Check Corn

"It will pay farmers to take a second look at corn picked and placed in storage this year," according to Stuart Hildebrand, crops specialist at Michigan State University.

Warm October and November weather favored development of molds and rots in stored corn which may result in lowered quality and feeding value. Yet this potential damage can be arrested by locating the trouble now before corn is fed or sold.

An accumulation of husks generally signifies impeded air movement which reduces drying and increases the possibility of mold and rot development. Moisture condensation on the underside of roofs or water leaking into bins will also spell trouble.

MR. HILDERAND says there are several alternatives once damage is found:

1) Corn can be removed from storage and dried artificially.

2) Additional ventilators can be installed in bins.

3) Ears can be aerated with natural air on days when humidity is low.

4) Farmers may move corn being held for later sale to market before further damage occurs.

The crops specialist also cautions farmers to check for possible rodent damage and take the necessary steps for elimination.

"This may be like closing the barn door after the horse is stolen, but it is still better than having additional losses of grain," adds Mr. Hildebrand.

TO THE EDITORS:

Most of us understand the inadequacy of the cafeteria in the high school. It has an overload of students from both the junior high and high school.

It is also our understanding that the reason the junior high students were put at the end of the cafeteria at all times is because the high school students did not like the system of including us in the middle of the line.

If there is an overload, the people running the cafeteria should not mind the decrease in student attendance.

We do not like waiting for 20 minutes every school day in the cafeteria line.

All we ask, however, is that the situation at the cafeteria will be thoroughly investigated.

If a reasonable system can be set up that will help without changing time schedules, we think it is one that will include junior high students in the rotation or allowing them to be first in line at least once a week.

Elephant Skeleton Assembled

An elephant skeleton given to the Michigan State University by Jens Touborg, 704 W. Pottawatamie St., has been assembled for the campus museum under the direction of David C. Roberts, Chagrin Falls, O.

The Tecumseh sportsman shot the animal in Kenya, Africa in 1962 and sent it complete, bones and hide, to MSU about one year ago.

The skeleton required nuts, bolts, wires, steel rods, tubes, $1,000, three men and several weeks of labor to complete.

MSU officials estimated that construction of the completed carcass would cost about $25,000. Thus far only the skeleton has been assembled.

☆

MR. ROBERTS, a Harvard trained palentologist, has put together a couple of fossil relatives of the MSU elephant for the Cleveland Science Museum.

He was assisted by two students, Daniel Womochel of Lansing and Carleton J. Phillips of Birmingham.

Workers from the MSU machine and welding shops were assigned to help. One coed volunteered and spent a whole day sorting bones, one of the biggest preliminary jobs.

She Makes Floating Candles

Mrs. Paul Maves, 9103 N. Union St., is one of those who enjoys "making something from nothing."

This time her talents turned to a project which swelled the treasury of the Altar Guild of her church, the Grace English Lutheran.

Early in the holiday season she came up with an idea for using the stubs from the candles used on the altar in the past several years.

Thus far she has made between two and three hundred floating candles selling them at 20c each. Proceeds have been nearly $40.

First Mrs. Maves used a patty shell mold, then son, Don, suggested that she ought to have other shapes. He helped her fashion several molds from old cookie cutters using aluminum foil to close in the end.

By experimenting, Mrs. Maves found that old lipstick stubs and crayons make the best coloring substance for the beeswax.

After the molded wax has set but is not completely cool, glitter in various colors is sprinkled on, adding glamour to the candles.

Six floating in a low bowl enhanced with green and pine cones backed with tall tapers made a beautiful centerpiece for the table at one end of the lovely living room of the Maves new home.

Made from red, green, lavender, orange and other colors, the pretty candles lighted will last about two hours.

Mrs. Maves and her family came to Tecumseh in 1942 from Clinton. Previous homes had been in Lansing, Detroit and Canada.

During the war they operated a bakery and restaurant where Hodges Drug Store is now located.

☆

IN 1947 they established the Paul's Trailer Sales Business which they operate now with two of their three sons, Don and Doug.

The oldest son, Kenneth, lives in Wisconsin with his wife and three children. Don has two boys and Doug has a girl and two boys.

The Maves are not lacking for grandchildren to love.

They started traveling with a trailer home in 1954, going with a caravan to Mexico. They enjoyed the trip so much that since then they have covered most of the United States, taken two Caribbean voyages and made two trips to European countries including one six weeks tour in 1962 which took in the Holy Land.

These trips have fostered Mrs. Maves' hobby of photography, which she dearly loves.

She remarked, "I don't know how to take pictures, but I've had good luck." Mrs. Maves is frequently invited to show her movies to civic groups.

Next to pictures she enjoys gardening and, of course, this past year has found her painting the new home built on the same site as the previous one.

They had started building last October, getting the house roughed in before winter so that Mr. Maves and his sons had plenty to do during the cold months.

The Maves' home is unique in that no space is wasted. Familiar with trailer homes in which every available bit of room is used for something, the couple have used the same technique in their new house.

Candles alone have not been the only thing that Mrs. Maves found to fill her leisure hours this fall.

She has also made about 80 styrofoam decorated balls for her tall aluminum Christmas tree.

"I made them from everything I could get hold of," she said. "No two are alike. Some have gold braid and some gum drops, some I just used the pretty particles that dropped to the floor from other decorating."

This is truly one of Tecumseh's busiest gals.

CANDLE MAKER — Christmas calls for special decorations and Mrs. Paul Maves has found she can come up with some delightful extras. With stubs from candles used at her church, she has been fashioning a variety of holiday models. In addition she also enjoys doing tree decorations out of styrofoam.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Some merchants free-load on the advertising of more progressive retailers.

The shop which operates in the shadow of an alert advertiser is sure to get some overflow trade from the business which draws the consumer to a particular section of town.

Collectively, all of the business places in a trade center benefit from the efforts of retailers who advertise regularly.

The overall effort of merchants who use advertising maintains and builds a trade center.

Rural people who adopt a particular town as a shopping place base their choice on what they read in the community newspaper.

Suburban shopping centers are created by aggressive advertising. They flourish because most stores consistently print item advertising which is competitive with advertising published in metropolitan centers.

Of course, in country areas and in suburban centers, some merchants do not contribute to the investment which brings consumers to their stores. They may exist for years because of the advertising of their neighbors.

Probably, they could do better if they attempted to sell directly, rather than leaving their fate to casual wanderers in the shopping center.

However, the merchant who says he does not use advertising is mistaken.

When he does nothing to stimulate business in his town, he is simply surviving on the advertising of other merchants. He uses advertising which others pay for.

GREETINGS FOR CHRISTMAS

"Let us go even unto Bethlehem." So spoke the shepherds, one to another as they went to seek and find the Holy Child of whom the angels sang. This Christmas, let us return in heart and spirit to Bethlehem and the sacred manger. Let the miracle of His birth and the joy of His message ever be our blessing and inspiration.

As the radiance of that Holy Night shines across the years and the world rejoices, our thoughts turn to His words, urging all to brotherhood, and we feel it is especially fitting at this Christmastide to express anew our cordial greetings and good wishes to our many valued friends. May your Christmas be a wonderful one.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Watershed 'Clutch' Session

Two sessions, regarding the River Raisin Watershed project, are on tap for next month.

On Jan. 2 the Watershed Association will huddle with various sponsoring groups to prepare for the Jan. 10 public hearing. Both are "clutch" sessions, important to folks who want to see the reclamation effort carried to conclusion.

The months of toil and preparation on the project are fast rumbling towards a climax.

Completion of the Raisin program, as outlined in the application for Federal participation now in Washington, would vastly change the face of this section of Michigan.

Greater water supplies, higher water tables and vast conservation and recreation possibilities loom in the future.

Mental Spanking Needed

Christmas is what you make it. So if you are one who thinks it is commercialized, for you it is.

For others, it is the happiest, lovin'est, gayest, warmest time of the entire year.

Filled with memories of family togetherness, we laugh at nonsense, but are conscience of a deep abiding gratitude for the greatest gift of all, God's gift of His own Son, Christ Jesus.

Could it be that almost everyone at some time in his life needs to give himself a mental spanking because he has allowed a worldly attitude to creep into his heart and smother the Christmas Spirit?

Attitude can make or break the joyousness of the holiday created by God on that first holy night so long ago in Bethlehem.

WHERE IS IT? Gregg Allen and Jerry Hebb scramble for a loose ball in the Airport tilt, which Tecumseh won. Next action for the Indian hoopsters will be the ABHT Tournament in Blissfield Dec. 27 and 28. In Friday's opener, Adrian faces Hudson at 7:30 p.m. and Tecumseh meets Blissfield at 9. The second night, losers play loser and winner meets winner.

Public Hearing on Watershed

A public hearing on the River Raisin Watershed project is scheduled for Friday, Jan. 10, at 1:30 p.m. in the Tecumseh Community Center.

Members of the Watershed Association committee are anxious to get attitudes of citizens towards the project.

This session must be held before Federal government approval is given under Public Law 566.

The first portion of the program will deal with the river proper and touch four counties, covering an area of 420,000 acres.

When this is completed, four more smaller reclamation programs, dealing with tributaries to the Raisin, will be tackled.

☆

"A SUCCESSFUL hearing is dependent upon representation from all areas of the Watershed," explains Tecumseh Mayor Harold Easton, chairman of the association, "therefore, it is imperative that all sponsoring organizations plan to support and explain their sponsorship."

A pre-hearing has been scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 2, for the Jan. 10 gathering.

Information will be collected Jan. 2 on the degree of flooding, excess drainage, pollution and erosion in various parts of the watershed.

The Michigan Soil Conservation Committee has already accepted the Raisin application.

(P. S. We're ringing the bells for a Happy New Year, too!)
